"THE GOOD OLD TIMES."

Are a Myth a Figment of the Imagination.

History is said to repeat itself. Like many general statements this undoubtedly contains an element of truth; but also, like some generalizations, it must not be taken too literally or applied universally. On the other hand, there are persons, not a few in number, who seem to think that history does not repeat, that we have fallen upon degenerate days, and that the golden age of our forefathers has given way to the bronze or iron age of the present generation; things are not as they used to be; would that we could go back to the days of our ancestors or even of our own youth! Fortunately such pessimists are the small minority; at no period in the whole history of the world has life been so well worth living as at the present moment. "The good old times" are a myth, a figment of the imagination, the memory of the brighter hues and forgetfulness of the shadows of the long-gone past.

These thoughts are suggested by a recent examination of the early reports of the school committee of Winchester; in reading them I was repeatedly impressed with certain striking comparisons between school conditions in the first ten years of the town's history and in the last ten years, with which I am somewhat familiar. The resemblances and differences of those first ten years, 1850 to 1859, inclusive, and of these last ten years, may be worth summarizing under two or three heads; and first, finance.

The school committee of the present decade is thought by some to have inaugurated an era of unusual liberality in school expenditures. It is true that 1912 shows an increase of 58 per cent over the appropriation in 1903; but 1859 was marked by an increase of 133 per cent over 1850; from which it will be noticed that the modern speed is very much slower than was the ancient pace.

In reviewing the history of the first ten years, in the report for 1859, the committee says: "There has been a constant and steady increase in the amount of the annual appropriations. No backward step has been taken. And it is a fact worthy of mention, in this connection, that no objection has ever been made to the sum named in town meeting as being too high. Not so much as a wish has been expressed by any citizen of the town that a less sum should be appropriated."

It has not been quite so easy sailing of late. Three times the appropriations committee recommended a smaller amount than was asked for; but in spite of vigorous efforts to carry through the reduction, the town on each occasion nobly rallied to the support of the schools and overwhelmingly voted the sum requested by the school committee. It is worth adding that during a portion of the eighteen-fifties Winchester ranked second among all the towns and cities of the Commonwealth in the amount of money spent per pupil, being surpassed by Brookline only; today we stand fiftieth; Brookline, fourth.

Another comparison is at least interesting. Taking, in the first ten years, three years at random, and excluding payments for debt and interest and for state and county taxes, and in 1911 excluding the same items and also the Metropolitan taxes, thus leaving in both instances the appropriations for strictly current town needs, the schools received from 45 to 60 per cent of these appropriations in the early days, as against only 33 per cent in 1911.

TEACHERS' CLUB PLAYS.

Two plays were presented in the Assembly Hall of the High School last Friday evening by the members of the Winchester Teachers' Club before a gathering of the members and invited guests. "Six Cups of Chocolate" was the first offering and the parts were taken by Miss Agnes Regan, Miss Catheryn Mawn, Miss Mary Barr, Miss Helen Doherty, Miss Mary Hurley and Miss Mary A. Lyons. The second play was entitled "How the Vote Was Won," and the characters were taken by Edward E. Thompson, Miss Grace Moore, Miss Helen Lyman, Miss Anna D. Marden, Miss Edith P. Rockwood, Miss Laura M. Sanborn, Miss Flora Jepson, Miss Mercy Davis, Miss M. Frances Harriman and Clifford A. Watson. The committee in charge of the affair was Miss Mary Barr, chairman; Miss Mary A. Lyons, Miss Ethel Woodbury, Miss Cora M. Kenty and Elbert C. Wixom.

THE NEW TOWN COUNSEL.

Mr. Charles F. Dutch the new Town Counsel, has assumed the duties of his office. He is considered one of the brightest young lawyers in town, and will ably look after the town's legal business.

Mr. Dutch is a graduate of the Winchester High School in the class of 1897. He attended Harvard University, from which he was graduated in 1901, and continued his studies in the Law School of the University, graduating in the class of 1905. While in the Law School he was for two years one of the editors of the Harvard Law Review. Since graduation he has devoted his time to the general practice of law and has also lectured at the Harvard Law School on admiralty and on advanced equity jurisdiction. He is married and lives at 205 Mystic Valley Parkway.

GRADE CROSSING.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Dear Sir:—Will you kindly allow a subscriber space in your valuable paper for a few word on the grade crossing question before the same is brought up for general discussion at the next Town Meeting?

The much vexed question of the grade crossing elimination at our Center is in a broad sense an engineering problem and should be, to a large extent, considered from such a standpoint in seeking a solution of the same, bearing in mind that good engineering takes into consideration the questions of both aesthetics and economics. Viewing the question from such a standpoint and considering the important conditions involved, it seems to me that there are only two rational solutions to this problem, the railroad to cross above the streets, or the streets to pass over the railroad at the present center. It is obvious that in either case the present grades of the railroad and streets must be modified to best suit the conditions involved. Each of these proposed methods has its advantages and disadvatages and will have its supporters and opponents, but I feel convinced that if by a process of elimination the many schemes already outlined could be reduced to the two above mentioned, there would be much more likelihood of the problem meeting with a prompt and satisfactory solution.

Some of the numerous schemes already proposed in connection with this question, while having more or less merit, fail to commend themselves to my mind, in that they practically abandon the Centre as such, although the name might possibly cling.

It seems incredible that a proposition for fencing off the two main thoroughfares of the town and making them practically dead-end streets at the Center, should be seriously considered. Such a proposition, while maintaining the Center as far as the present configuration of land is considered, actually, to a great extent, abandons it by diverting direct traffic to round-about routes.

The suggestion of a bridge near the present railroad station would in time undoubtedly necessitate an additional bridge farther north, which would have to be constructed wholly at the expense of the town.

The problem confronting us involves expensive, permanent construction and its solution should be undertaken with these facts in mind. It would be a serious misfortune for the town to decide upon construction that in the near future might prove to be a grave mistake.

Mention has been made at times of the grade crossing abolition in the City of Malden as an example of solving the problem by elevating the railroad. It is an example, but such a bad one that it is a wonder any community would countenance such construction. On the other hand, however, we have the Belmont crossing a credit both to the town and the railroad company; a work undertaken under most unfavorable conditions, yet satisfactorily accomplished.

This is not a question of landscape gardening or temporary construction subject to change later if not satisfactory, but the serious question of eliminating the present grade crossing by a method, which, while fulfilling the requirements of the town, at the same time obviates the necessity of virtually destroying the Center.

While not wedded to either of the two methods mentioned, the elevation of the railroad commends itself strongly to me for many reasons, and yet many object to this proposition, claiming that it will cut the Center in two. The reverse is true, however, in that uninterrupted cross town traffic would be permitted at all times and under all conditions. This method would reduce to a minimum the changes in the present surface layout at the Center. Certainly the Center is at present practically cut in two inasmuch as uninterrupted cross-town traffic is not possible at all times and under all conditions, due to the great frequency of trains. If, as some of the schemes propose, the railroad is fenced or walled in, then is the Center actually and physically cut in two, as cross-town traffic is thereby made impossible, except for pedestrians, by subway under the tracks.

This is not a new proposition as I understand a similiar one was advocated sometime ago by a competent committee, who spent time and money in their investigations necessary for a report, which report I regret to say did not receive fair consideration.

In the face of these facts I would urge the town to endeavor by all reasonable means possible to solve this problem without destroying the Center as such. Let our deliberations and decision on this vital question be guided by facts, not fancies.

LADIES' DARWINIAN TOURNAMENT.

The bowling in the ladies' Darwinian tournament at the Calumet Club is keen, and several of the contestants have already bettered their preliminary totals since last week. One week more will be allowed to qualify in, owing to the interest shown by the ladies. The first elimination roll-off will be of the five highest three string totals with handicap, the date to be announced later.

Among the scores rolled this week were the following:

	1	2	3	Tot	Hcp	Tot
Mrs. W. J. Breen	71	77	73	221	63	284
Mrs. W. J. Brown	68	78	97	243	33	276

Following is the list as posted:

Mrs. W. J. Breen	284
Mrs. J. C. Kerrison	282
Mrs. P. C. Simonds	282
Mrs. W. J. Brown	276
Mrs. J. A. Caldwell	266
Mrs. W. F. Flanders	266
Mrs. J. H. Gerlach	257

CARD OF THANKS.

I desire to express my thanks to friends and neighbors for their sympathy and kindness during the illness and death of my wife; also for the beautiful floral offerings sent in her memory.

MR. JERRY BREEN.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

Considerable Important Business Passed Upon Monday Evening.

April 1, 1912.

The Board met at 7.30 p. m., all present.

W. J. Stevenson, 29 Hemingway street, appeared and called attention to the condition of said street and the matter was referred to the Committee on Highways.

Timothy Callahan, 12 Elm street, appeared in regard to the condition of said street and the matter was referred to the Committee on Highways.

George R. Nugent appeared asking for permission to dispose of the gravel on the street in front of his house on Fairview place, which was granted.

Mr. Nugent also spoke in favor of the reappointment of John A. McLean as special police. Referred to the Committee on Police.

George B. Hayward and three others, residents of Crescent road, appeared in behalf of a petition which they presented signed by twelve property owners on said street asking for granolithic sidewalks continuously on both sides on Crescent Road from its exit on Winthrop street to its exit on Mason street, under the usual town practice. Referred to the Committee on Highways.

Frank E. Barnard, 41 Oxford street, presented a petition signed by 20 citizens asking that the Bay State Railway Co. be requested to run their cars on fifteen minute time between Winchester and Arlington, claiming that this authority rested in the Board through the original grant to the road, and said that it was his understanding that the town of Arlington would be glad to join in the request. Referred to Committee on Corporations.

Mr Barnard also presented a petition signed by Ethel F. Barnard, 41 Oxford street, Charles E. Morey, 37 Oxford street, Chas. H. Forsaith, 33 Oxford street, Ella M. Hazeltine, 21 Oxford street, and Alfred J. Wallace, corner of Calumet road and Oxford street, that a granolithic sidewalk be laid along said street, under the customary town practice. Referred to Committee on Highways.

A letter was received from Alfred S. Hall, 31 Milk street, April 1, in regard to condition of Summit avenue, recommending that it be macadamized and sidewalk repaired. Referred to Committee on Highways.

Charles F. A. Currier, Chairman School Committee, for that Committee, submitted

1. The desirability of providing a better sidewalk along the easterly end of the High School grounds on Wahington street.
2. The need of continuing the sidewalk on School street, from Church street to the driveway of the Prince School grounds.
3. To procure from the Selectmen an estimate of the cost of a tar concrete walk 4 feet wide along the driveway from School street, to the Prince School building, the cost of which the School Committee would pay.

Referred to Committee on Highways.

Mr. Pike presented the request of Richard P. Glendon, 17 Lake street, that the Board give its attention to that street near the town stables; also request of Herbert A. Wadleigh, 9 Hillside avenue, for a sidewalk in front of his residence.

The records of the previous meeting of the Board were read and approved.

Maurice Dinnen, under suspension of the rules was nominated and elected sealer of weights and measures, for the year ending April, 1913, at a compensation of $200. per annum. All fees of the office to be turned into the town treasury.

The report of the Chief of Police for the month of March was received and filed; also his report of detective street lights for the month.

The matter of compensation due the town from the Boston & Maine R. R., for one-half the salary of the policeman stationed at the crossing for the protection of the school children was referred to the committee on accounts.

Mr. Daly for the committee on corporations submitted a letter from General Bancroft, President of the Boston Elevated Railway Co., agreeing to an appointment on the matter of through service from Winchester to the Harvard Square Terminal of the Cambridge subway.

On suggestion of Mr. Jewett, the clerk was instructed to write George W. Blanchard & Co., requesting them to connect a conductor with the gutter on their office building on Walnut street, so that the water from the building will not run onto the sidewalk.

A petition of Thos. E. Jansen, 3 Wolcott road, that the town lay a granolithic sidewalk on the south side of that street in front of Number 1 and 3, and that the street be macadamized, was referred to committee on Highways.

Petition of Dr. Henry L. Houghton, 10 Pine street for a sidewalk on the Pine street side of his property, the material to be used to be left to the judgment of the Board, was referred to committee on highways.

Petition of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. for permission to attach wires to existing poles of the Edison Co., on Wedgemere avenue and Foxcroft road, and asking for the passage of an order, to enable them to furnish service to subscribers who are now supplied by wires over private property which the company is obliged to remove on account of new building being erected. Referred to town engineer.

A petition for permits to carry loaded pistols, from American Express Company, for its employees J. L. Lutes, J. E. Sullivan and A. W. McKenzie, was referred to Committee on Police.

A petition was received from Mr. Geo. H. Root, for the committee in charge of arrangements for the annual Pop Concert on the evening of Easter Monday, April 8, 1912, for the free use of the Town Hall, representing that the proceeds of the entertainment are to be used exclusively for charitable purposes; that the committee have already supplied the operating, etherizing and sterilizing rooms of the Winchester Hospital from the proceeds of former entertainments given by them, and citing as precedent the granting of the free use of the hall to the Visiting Nurses' Association. Referred to Committtee on Town Hall.

In response to a communication from Mr. Frederick N. Kerr, one of the committee of three to investigate the wages of the laboring men of our town, appointed at the annual town meeting, asking to be informed just what the Board's position is in the matter, and that they give him any information for or against the subject matter, that he might be better able to reach an intelligent judgment, the clerk was instructed to reply that the Board did not feel they should express any opinion at this time.

Communications were received from Jas. J. Fitzgerald, 6 Oak street, requesting permission to lay granolithic sidewalks on Lawrence street, abutting the land of Walter S. Wadsworth and on Hancock street and Highland avenue, abutting the land of F. J. Carr, with the understanding that the town will give the usual allowances. Referred to committee on highways.

Under suspension of the rules, Maurice Dinnen was nominated and elected coal weigher.

A letter from Jas. Hinds, Town Engineer was received transmitting the request of P. E. Fitzgerald, owner of a double house on Chapin street which leads northerly from Swanton street, for a street light for the convenience of the people of Chapin street and Chapin court, and stating that he had investigated the matter and believed the request to be reasonable. On motion of Mr. Daly it was voted to grant the request and the Clerk was instructed to order the light installed under the direction of the Town Engineer.

An estimate on the expense of re-constructing Hemingway street was received from the town engineer based on grading the street in two ways. One plan calling for an expenditure of $1225, and the other for about $1100. Referred to the committee on Highways.

The town engineer reported with sketch of locations for proposed new street lights on Main street and at and near Symmes corner to serve as an illustration of the benefit of substituting incandescent lights for certain arc lights in the scheme for improving the general lighting of the Town, and it was voted to adopt the recommendations of the Town Engineer and the clerk was instructed to notify the Edison Electric Illuminating Co. to make the necessary changes in the lights as specified on the plan.

On motion of Mr. Daly it was voted to drop Mr. Gates' name from the list of measurer's of wood and bark.

Warrants were drawn for $810.17 and $8439 91.

Meeting adjourned at 11 p. m.

Frank R. Miller,
Clerk of the Board.

AN ENTERTAINMENT AND DANCE.

On April 18th, at 8 o'clock in the Town Hall, the Winchester Equal Suffrage League will present "How the Vote was Won," this will be followed by dancing from 9.30 to 12. The music will be furnished by the orchestra that plays for the Winchester Assemblies.

The small Town Hall will be turned into a cafe and refreshments will be served to all during the evening. It is hoped that this will appeal especially to those who do not dance. There will be a special car to Arlington at 12 o'clock.

Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. William Buckley, Mrs. Oren C. Sanborn, Mrs. George H. Root, Mrs. John Emery, Miss Frances Elder, or orders may be left at either Knights' or Abare's drug stores. Tickets, $1.50, $1.00, .50, all seats reserved "How the Vote was Won" is a clever little English comedy and the cast is as follows:

Horace Cole, Mr. Pizet
Ethel (his wife), Miss Frances Elder
Winifred (her sister) Mrs. Everett Farmer
Agatha Cole (Horace's sister), Mrs. Edgar M. Young Molly (his neice) Miss Daphne Dunbar
Madame Christine, (his distant relation) Mrs. Wm. Buckley
Maudie Spark (his first cousin) Mrs. F. H. Merrill
Miss Lizzie Wilkins (his aunt) Mrs. Walters of Brookline
Lily (his maid of all work) Mrs. Stanley McCormick

The league is very fortunate to have in the cast Mrs. Stanley McCormick of Boston who has previously played the part of Lily and of Mr Pizet who is now playing at the Toy Theatre.

REAL ESTATE NEWS.

One of the most important sales of real estate in this town in recent years has just been completed by which Mr. Geo. B. Whitehorne of this town takes title to about half a million sq. ft. of land, being a part of the land of the Wedgemere Syndicate situated northwest of Foxcroft road and having frontages on Yale, Salisbury and Wildwood streets, also Wedgemere avenue.

Plans are being prepared showing this tract subdivided into about thirty-five lots; each having a frontage of 80 feet or more, with an area of eleven to fifteen thousand sq ft. each. As soon as the street levels are located the building and grading of the streets will be commenced. It is understood that these lots will shortly be offered for sale at popular prices but subject to suitable restrictions. To those of us who have lived in Winchester five or ten years and have witnessed the growth of Everett avenue, Sheffield road, Sheffield West, Cabot and Oxford streets as well as Wedgemere avenue and Foxcroft road, no great flight of fancy is needed to picture five years ahead when this entire tract of land will be covered with artistic and luxurious homes so common to the residential sections of this town.

Although Mr. Whitehorne is not an old resident of this town, he has been unusually successful in the construcuon and selling of about fifteen of our modern residences, and in this connection has gained an enviable reputation for integrity and business acumen. We understand that already there is considerable inquiry regarding these lots.

The grantor of this property is Arthur H. Brooks of Boston, and the brokers were Edward T. Harrington Co. of Winchester and Boston.

The Junior reception of the High School will be held on the evening of April 19th.

SACRED CANTATA.

BASE BALL.

One of the first baseball games of the season was played Wednesday afternoon between the Symmes corner Athletic Club and the Junior Athletic Club, at the grounds of the latter. The score was 9 to 4 in favor of the visitors. Brown, the young pitcher of the losers was very effective during the early innings, but weakened and gave place to Boudreau. Fogg was the star of the J. A. C. team, and did well both on the bases and with the stick. For the Symmes Corner aggregation, Peabody played a wonderful game. He started at the bat, and also as pitcher. In the latter position he drew himself out of several holes by his speed and control. On two different occasions with men on second and third and none out, he struck out the three succeeding batsmen. Preston also pitched well. The Symmes corner team clinched the game in the eighth when they scored three runs. Olmsted reached first on an error, Higgins walked, and Peabody doubled to left scoring the runners. On a wild throw by Boudreau in trying to catch Peabody napping off second, the latter scored by fast base-running.

The line-up:

Junior Athletic Club, Fenno, ss; H. Bugbee, c; Tenney, 2b; Boudreau, lf, p; Fogg, 1b; Wood, 3b, Brown, p, lf; Cummings, rf; Farnsworth, cf.

Score:—Symmes Corner A. C. 9, Junior A. C. 4. Two-base hits, Peabody 2. Runs made by Peabody 3, Symmes 2, Lawson, Higgins, Olmsted, Preston, Tenney, Boudreau, Fogg, Farnsworth. Struck out, by Peabody 15, by Boudreau 7, by Brown 5, by Preston 5. Umpires, Furbish and Blaisdell.

Scores by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
S. C. A. C.	0	0	2	1	1	0	2	3	0
J. A. C.	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	2	0

AN ARTISTIC RECITAL.

We wish to call special attention to the fact that in order not to interfere with an important social event, and to enable wedding guests to attend the recital by Miss Temple and Mme. Charbonnel,—as many wish to do,—the hour has been set, April 23, at 8.30.

Mme. Charbonnel is one of the leading concert pianists of this section of the country and has made tours with the Kneisel Quartette, Mme. Sembrich, Alwyn Schroeder, Emilio De Gogorza and many other famous artists.

Extracts from other sources will give a good deal of the treat that is in store for the many lovers of piano music. "Mme. Charbonnel's piano playing was something of a revelation. A virtuoso in technical equipment, this pianist is distinguished by a clarity of style, a delicacy and beauty of finish, and a most sensitive appreciation of tone values, that places her high in the ranks of this well filled department of musical art. (The Press, Portland, Me.

"Mme. Charbonnel is a pianist of rare ability and gave evidence of a fine musicianship. Her technique was brilliant and her interpretations most satisfying."—(The Herald, Dayton, O.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

At the last meeting of the Art Committee held at Miss Vinton's March 29th, one of the most enjoyable and instructive afternoons was spent and the large audience, which completely taxed the capacity of the commodious home of the Secretary of the Art Committee, was admitted into the secrets of Art from the Artists standpoint by Miss Drew of Cambridge. Her subject was "Picture Study" pointing out how to analyze a picture by the four standard rules, repetition, balance, harmony and rhythm going into the technique of art, showing conclusively her perfect familarity with the subject and at the same time so clearly demonstrating the technical points, that those of her audience who had not made a study of it had no difficulty in following the lecture.

The color scheme of decoration, even so far as the refreshments, were carefully carried out in pink and white by the Art Committee.

Mrs. Drisco and Mrs. Breen served and were assisted by Miss Downs, Miss Emmans, Miss Hall and Miss Bunting.

ORCHESTRAL CONCERT.

Owing to increased demand for the low priced seats at the Orchestral Association concert the management has made a change in the arrangement of the seats for the last concert this season which takes place at the Town Hall, Tuesday, April 16th. The seats in the rear of the hall are unreserved and will be sold at the door at 25c The reserved 50c seats formerly in the rear hall have been moved up even with the subscribers chairs on each side of the main hall and it is expected that this advantageous change will result in an increased attendance.

The musical program which will be given in full in next week's STAR is brilliant and will be played with an excellence surpassing any of the Orchestra's previous performances. The feature of the evening will be the playing of Mr. Joshua Phippen on the pianoforte. Mr. Phippen will play Weber's Concert Piece and one movement—the last—of his own Concerto for piano and orchestra and it will be an unusual musical treat to listen to this excellent master of the piano in two such interesting numbers.

HOSPITAL DONATIONS.

The following donations have been received:

Mr. Frederick Learned of Lebanon street gave two rubber door mats.

Mr. Edmund Sanderson, through the Edison Company gave a $50.00 rebate on the electrical work.

Dr. Cutter gave a portable house, or room to be used for the nurses and the other for a laboratory.

A second hand sewing machine in good condition or a new one will be very acceptable.

Several gangs of young men animated with a desire to start something in the Middlesex Fells, last Sunday afternoon, kept the Metropolitan Park Police busy for several hours, together with the woods fire fighting force being called upon to extinguish five brush and grass fires started by these gangs. A fire near the Cascade in the Melrose section about 3 o'clock burned over two acres, while another one near the sheepfold in the Stoneham section at 3 30 o'clock burned over about three. About 4 30 the fire fighters and officers found a fire near Chandler road, just above the Medford-Stoneham line, and another was put out near Main street on the land of the Metropolitan Water Board, close to Spot Pond. The fine weather attracted several thousand people to the Fells.

But the money cost is only a single consideration, and not the most important. What, in the second place, were the results? Today a common complaint is to the effect that the elementary schools are attempting to do so much that they do nothing well; that children graduating from the grammar schools—here and everywhere else- cannot read decently, write legibly, or spell correctly; and that they know little geography and less arithmetic. "Give us back," it is urged, "the good old days, when the schools did little, but did that little well."

Truly the course of study was a simple one in that favored epoch. In the lower years the child was taught reading, writing and spelling; in the middle years, mental arithmetic and easy geography were added; in the three years preceding the High school these subjects were continued, the geography a little more advanced, together with the introduction of grammar and written arithmetic. During the years, therefore, corresponding to the modern nine grades, the pupil was kept on a limited menu of reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, grammar and geography, and practically nothing else. If he could not digest and assimilate that small variety of food, chewed through so many years, it would seem to be largely his own fault. But did he? The reports give numerous concrete illustrations in answer to this question; to reproduce them would require too much space, so it must suffice to state the conclusions.

In several reports attention is sharply called to the weakness of pupils in the "elementary branches" mentioned above; in one report, in summing up, the committee insists that more thorough training should be given in these subjects, for "it is astonishing to find how little scholars really know after having been for years in the public schools." However, "the evil in question is not confined to Winchester. It is widespread. It extends all over New England." In order to remedy the situation to some extent, the committee speaks of "the attention which is given in our High School to the elementary branches. There is need enough of this, we must confess; for it is a fact, painful as it is evident, that the great evil of our public school system is the neglect of those elementary studies which are properly the basis of all others." Hence, in the High School the study of reading, writing, and spelling was continued, and there were weekly reviews in geography, grammar, and arithmetic. Verily the ancient order did not seem to turn out a much more perfect product than does the modern process.

Finally, though our predecessors spent money generously with apparently unsatisfactory returns, it is claimed that they certainly did one thing better than we do—that they taught their offspring to "mind;" that children obeyed their parents; that the fathers and mothers, not the boys and girls, ran the house; whereas the twentieth century imp of darkness has the reputation of being a hoodlum from bedlam, with no respect for law or order, for parents or elders. Doubtless the 1912 Young American has his faults, but his prototype of the middle of the nineteenth century was not entirely free from shortcomings.

One year, at the Wyman, "the interests of the school made it necessary to remove one or two boys for disorderly conduct." At the Gifford the pupils acted so badly that a man had to be employed in order to straighten them out. The school had a "bad reputation for insubordination, and, we are sorry to add, bids fair to retain it." One woman teacher "was compelled to conquer a peace. She did this, but at the sacrifice of her health." In another school "the boys have an unenviable reputation for insubordination." The children, in the opinion of the committee, were not solely to blame; poor discipline in the schools was due chiefly to laxity of discipline in the homes. "In amost every example of juvenile delinquency the parents have been recreant to their trust."

Some of the ways in which parents were thus recreant were "by sustaining the exparte complaints" of their children; "by condemning the rules and discipline of the school; by disparaging the labors of the teacher; by neglecting home education and control." And one instance is cited where a teacher suffered "a bitter, cruel persecution" which "was unprovoked and unjust."

The schools are not perfect in 1912; they were not prefect fifty years ago, they will not be perfect fifty years hence; they will first be perfect when we reach the millennium—when all mankind will be perfect—when boys and girls, teachers and school authorities, fathers and mothers, are perfect, and not before.

Above all, let us not prate about "the good old times;" let us rather be thankful that we did not live in them.

Charles F. A. Currier.

ATTACKED BY A MUSKRAT!

Mr. J. Stearns Wyman of Wilson street had an experience with a muskrat last week Thursday night that he will not forget for some time. Carrying two bundles in his arms he was turning into Wilson street at the corner of Highland avenue when he saw by the flare of the electric light on the corner an object slowy crawling along the gutter, less than fifteen feet distant. The object aroused his curiosity and as he advanced toward it, it made a bolt toward him. So sudden and unexpected was the movement that Mr. Wyman was nonplussed for a second and then retreated at the same time throwing one of his bundles at the unknown animal. He tried to find stones to throw at it, but was not very successful, and then he made efforts to frighten the thing away so that he might regain his bundle, but every time he advanced the creature made a spring forwards. Finally Mr. Wyman went to his house, procured a lantern and a polo stick and returned to the scene. The creature was there and prepared to do battle, but the polo stick soon knocked the fight out of it.

On examination it proved to be a large muskrat weighing about five pounds. It is supposed it had come down from the fells in search of food and its half starved condition was the reason for its being so savage.

WILLIAM A. NOWELL SURPRISED.

William A. Nowell was pleasantly surprised last Saturday night when 25 of his friends assembled at his home on Main street, and presented him with a handsome gold watch and chain. The presentation was made by John Richardson. Mr. Nowell responded with a few words of appreciation.

During the evening vocal and instrumental selections were rendered by the following young people: Mary Rogers, Bessie Roberts, Margaret Mullen, John Hanlon Matthew Loftus, Dana Hunt and John Kerrigan. Refreshments were served.

Among those present were Misses Helen and Bessie Roberts, Braintree, Frances McRae, Margaret Mullen, Mary Rogers, Katherine Lush, Mary Russell, Constance O'Reilly, Nellie Smith, and John Hanlon, Matthew Loftus, George Hunnewell, Benjamin Pierce, John Richardson, Patrick Duren, Henry Blackham, William Murray, Frederick Stevenson, Daniel O'Loughlin, and Robert Vinal.

When Mr. Edison said that women will not be men's equals for three thousand years, maybe he meant that it would take men three thousand years to rise to woman's level. — [Somerville Journal.

The effort to simplify the method of conveyance of real estate between husband and wife has finally succeeded. The law permitting direct transfers without the "third person" does away with another "legal fiction" and is common sense.

"Keep the tax rate down" is a cry that should be heeded, but not to the extent of refusing needed municipal improvements, that will work for the welfare, growth and prosperity of the town in the immediate future, says the Stoneham Independent. A high tax rate is a serious menace, but if Stoneham is "to come into its own," it must not pursue a niggardly policy. A low tax rate alone will not bring new residents here.

Clerk Miller of the Board of Selectmen is to be commended for the able manner in which the proceedings of the Board are prepared. Never before have the readers of the STAR been served with such detailed information as Mr. Miller is now sending out to the public, which is much appreciated. And, too, the Selectmen are to be commended for taking the public into their confidence. Furthermore, these reports give the citizens an idea of the amount of business that comes before the Board weekly for consideration. And lastly, the public spirited members exercise their best judgment and give freely of their time without compensation, their only satisfaction being that the welfare of the town has been promoted and looked after.

Such innovations as the new motor apparatus are all in the interest of efficiency and economy, and are not the rash adoption of novelties. Commissioner Waldo of the New York Fire Department is putting it on a motor basis, and thus keeping it in the foretront of progress and efficiency. These innovations are of great importance, and are meeting with the enthusiastic approval of firemen of all ranks. The elimination of the horses makes the quarters more comfortable and sanitary, the increased speed in reaching a fire makes the work in extinguishing it lighter, while the addition of new mechanical apparatus to be studied and its use mastered tends to raise the engineering and practical standards which no less than the old-time heroism are demanded of the modern firemen. And finally the taxpayer is interested in that fact that the new motor apparatus greatly cuts down the cost of maintenance and gives increased fire protection to the community. Winchester has made a good start and in a few years, the entire fire department will be equipped with motor apparatus.

The ladies of the Highlands are planning to start an endless chain in favor of some one of the Second Congregational Church expenses.

Miss Rhoda Chapin of Maple road leaves today to spend the Easter vacation with relatives in New York.

SPRING BOWLING TOURNAMENT.

Team H won three points from team I in the spring bowling tournament at the Calumet Club last week in a low score game. The strings were all close, team H gaining advantage enough to win by a few pins. On the same evening team E won two points from team D in a well rolled match. Some good individual scores were made, Russell getting a single of 114 and a total of 274, Ayer 112 and 281, Kelley 101 and 286 and Barrett 282.

Team A rolled in rare form on Monday night, making a fine single and total for record in the tournament. Its single was 528 and its total 1466. High strings were the rule rather than the exception. Woods topped the list with 127 and a total of 331, Gendron followed with 122 and 321, and others were numerous. Team A won three points in the match, its opponent being team H. On the same evening team G won three points from team B, the latter aggregation being somewhat out of form. The totals were a tie, team G winning the roll-off. The scores:

EQUAL SUFFRAGE.

Again the Massachusetts Legislature has turned down the petition of the women citizens of the State. For a half century the women have appealed for the badge of citizenship -the ballot, and, at last, are reaping a substantial reward of perserverance. Of late years the difference between the "yes" and "no" vote has been gradually decreasing and this year the difference is most hopeful yet." The vote in the Senate in 1911 stood 31 against 6 in favor—in 1912, 17 against 14 in favor. In the House in 1911, 161 against to 69 in favor—in 1912, 106 against to 86 in favor. A gain of 72 votes in favor in one year is a fine showing. The time has come when ambitious politcians must reckon with women's influence. Everywhere men are realizing that they do not like the classing of their mothers, wives, sisters and women friends with criminals, miners and idiots! More and more, are thoughtful men becoming annoyed and indignant at the unjust discrimination against women and are turning their active influence in favor of a change. More and more are women rousing to their need of representation, as they broaden their lives and give ever increasing attention to the word's betterment, and realize their limtations under existing laws. The "no" voters are not now too numerous to be spotted men and a campaign of education is sure to be made in their districts, and with the awakening among their constituents will come a decided question of their re-election. They will have to look to their laurels. The women of England have brought defeat after defeat to candidates of the Liberal Party who opposed their enfranchisement. The women of Massachusetts are not asleep. They have no doubt that justice will eventually be done them, but they are impatient of delay, and impatience breeds active, enthusiastic, influential workers. We need men of large and enlightened views—men of progress, in our Legislative Halls. Women's influence is a strong force towards the securing of such men, and such men will evenually replace the prejudiced and conservative. Representative government if it survives must be representative of all its adult citizens, not of a half.

MAZDA LAMPS

(The trade name given to the improved Tungsten Lamp by the manufacturers)

First—New Low Prices

REDUCTION IN PRICE

Customers entitled to free renewals of carbon incandescent lamps can beginning today, April 1, obtain Mazda lamps at the following excess prices:

	Old Price	New Price
15 watt		$ .35
25 watt	$ .45	.35
40 watt	.45	.35
60 watt	.55	.45
100 watt	.65	.50
150 watt	.90	.75
250 watt	1.15	1.00

Second—New Small Lamp

The company now offers for the first time a 15-watt lamp. Just the lamp for economy service. One cent's worth of electricity will light this lamp for 6 hours and 40 minutes.

Third—Increased Use

Our customers increased their use of MAZDA lamps from 45,000 in 1908 to 160,000 in 1911. During the past three months they have been using them at the rate of over 200,000 per year.

During these four years the excess prices of these lamps have been reduced over 50 per cent.

YOU HAVE TO WORK.

"Remember, my son, you have to work," says Bob Burdette. "Whether you handle pick or wheelbarrow or a set of books, digging ditches or editing a newspaper, ringing an auction bell or writing funny things, you must work. Don't be afraid of killing yourself by overworking on the sunnyside of 30. Men die sometimes, but it is because they quit at 9 p. m., but don't go home until 2 a m. It's the intervals that kill, my son. The work gives you appetite for your meals; it lends solidity to your slumber; it gives you a perfect appreciation of a holiday. There are young men who do not work, but the country is not proud of them. It does not even know their names; it only speaks of them as old So-and-So's boys. Nobody likes them; the great busy world doesn't know they are here. So find out what you want to be and do. Take off your coat and make dust in the world. The bussier you are, the less harm you are apt to get into, the sweeter will be your holidays, and the better satisfied the whole world will be with you."

DON'T TRY

To fit yourself with glasses. It's dangerous. You have but one pair of eyes. Treat them right. Give them a chance to serve you well by securing the best glasses, scientifically fitted.

Easter Clothing For Men

THE function of dress in the eyes of the ancient fathers was not only to cover and protect them, but to classify and characterize them.

Our clothing is character-giving; it individualizes the wearer because it is correctly designed, the fabrics are smart and exclusive, and the styles are perfect for New England men and young men who demand the best. One of the smartest models is the straight front sack, a splendid suit for general wear.

Prices $20 and $25

The up-to-date overcoat is a fancy button-through model, a refined garment for young men and men of pronounced taste.

Prices $15 and $20

TREMONT THEATRE.

The most noteworthy musical event of the entire season is the engagement at the Tremont Theatre of Marguerita Sylva and her excellent company in Franz Lehar's newest light opera "Gypsy Love." It is no exaggeration to say that "Gypsy Love" has been the musical sensation of the past year, while Mme. Sylva, already recognized as a beautiful and fascinating diva of exceptional attainments in both Europe and America, has literally achieved a triumph in the leading role.

Mr. Woods has mounted the production lavishly, has engaged an augmented orchestra, and has surrounded Mme. Sylva with a strong company and a large and beautiful chorus. The leading tenor role of the gypsy will be sung by Arthur Albro, a new Austrian singer. Others in the cast are George Bickel, the well known comedian; Frances Demarest, Dorothy Webb, Carl Haydn, Robert J. Pitkin and Charles Morrison.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

After an interval of five years, "Romeo and Juliet" is to be given next week at the Castle Square. It will be given in response to an emphatic demand, and it will offer the best of opportunities both to actors and producers. "Romeo and Juliet" will have an elaborate scenic production, and in beauty of stage settings and costumes it will appeal to the eye and the mind of the audience. As for the acting, Mr. Craig will be seen in the role of Romeo, and Mary Young will bring her personal beauty and artistic skill to the charming character of Juliet. Among the others, Mercutio stands out prominently, and he will be acted by George Hassell, while Donald Meek will appear in the leading comedy role of Peter. The other characters will be carefully allotted among the other members of Mr. Craig's company. The run of "Romeo and Juliet" at the Castle Square will be for only one week.

MOTOR FIRE APPARATUS.

That the fire departments of many of the towns and cities in this vicinity will soon be equipped with motor apparatus is evident from the town meeting votes that have been taken since last fall.

Winchester fell into line this week, appropriating $6000 for an auto truck. Winchester decided upon the combination truck of the double chemical tank variety. Stoneham also voted $5900 for a motor truck last Tuesday night.

The order for Wakefield's triple combination wagon has been placed and Woburn's new motor apparatus was put into commission recently. Melrose bought a motor wagon about a year ago and now practically every large city and town north of Boston has at least one piece of this modern fire fighting equipment.—[Wakefield Item.

PARISH OF THE EPIPHANY.

The Easter Offering will be devoted to the establishment of a sinking fund to pay off the mortgage on the church.

Dr. Underhill of Nashua, N. H., died suddenly of heart trouble, Wednesday. He was a large property owner in this town, and also the uncle of Mrs. John Park.

MIXED BOWLING TOURNAMENT

Team 10 lost its first match in the mixed bowling tournament at the Calumet Club last Friday night to team 6. The winners made easy work of taking the three points, as team 10 was decidedly out of form. For team 6 Mr. Wiggin and Mr. Davy rolled good strings, the latter especially, he rolling singles of 106 and 114, with a total of 220. On the same evening team 11 made its first win in the tournament, taking all three points from team 5. Mr. George Goddu was high for the gentlemen with a total of 184 and Mrs. Gerlach rolled the best ladies score with a single of 88 and a total of 165.

HARPER BLAISDELL ON SKIN DISEASES.

Reprint of cases from the skin department of the Massachusetts General Hospital, by J. Harper Blaisdell, M. D.

We have received from the publishers a reprint of cases from the skin department of the Mas achusetts General Hospital, service of John T. Bowen, M. D., written by J. Harper Blaisdell, M. D., formerly of this town but now of Lynn and Boston. These cases are reprinted from the "Boston Medical and Surgical Journal" for February 1, 1912, and are entitled: "Papulo-Necrotic Tuberculides" [Follicbis] and "Generalized Unpigmented Nevi."

The many friends of Dr. J. Harper Blaisdell will be pleased to learn that he has been appointed a graduate assistant in the Skin Department of the Massachusetts General Hospital. Dr. Blaisdell began his service April 1.

RUMMAGE SALE.

The Bethany Society, connected with the Second Congregational Church will hold a Rummage Sale all day on Thursday, the 11th inst., in the house of E. W. Comfort, 437 Washington street. Articles of every description solicited. This sale is in aid of the church. Any one sending can leave the articles at 437 Washington street. It is hoped that the many Winchester friends will remember us by sending cast off clothing, furniture, etc.

The committee in charge is composed of Mrs. Smalley, chairman, Mrs. Comfort, Mrs. Marion, Mrs. Folman, Mrs. Rice. Contributions are asked from all who desire to assist in making this sale a success. Articles can be sent to the house at any time.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

By vote of the Club the annual meeting of the Fortnightly has been changed from Monday April 8th to Monday, April 15th.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Middlesex County total tax is ten thousand dollars less than last year, about one and one half per cent. Small favors thankfully received.

The House favored the initiative and referendum bill Monday by a vote of nearly two to one, but the claim that any considerable number of the voters desire to be legislators is all rot; why even in our town meetings not five per cent of the twenty five per cent of the total number of registered voters who attend are posted, not even Friar Tuck, and in Massachusetts where we have annual elections and annual sessions of the legislature which last for half of the year the initiative, referendum and recall would be an absurdity.

The Selectmen are to be congratulated upon the work of its clerk and the town also. It is a help that this unpaid Board is entitled to and should have had long ago. So far as I know, ours is the only Board of Selectmen that serves without pay, and has for ten years.

I have heard it intimated that the Selectmen are considering an light street lighting. Well, if they are they will not have to ask for any [illegible] appropriation, as the balance in the account is ample to cover it, but I had supposed all countrymen were in bed by half-past nine at the latest. Perhaps it is meant as an aid to the police and firemen and bridge whisters.

The Editorial in last week's STAR calling upon the citizens to "bury their cherished ideas" on grade crossing abolition methods "for the common good" makes me laugh. Will the Editor bury his two bridge plan? We have got to arrive at a conclusion by a process of elimination, and as we can practically all agree to eliminate the one bridge at the station plan, let's start in again now and bury that absurdity first and then tackle the other methods. Why should we consider expense on this matter, when we don't on anything else? Is it because we only pay a part of this cost?

Closely estimating for this year on all three, our population has increased ten per cent. the valuation twenty per cent. and the appropriations by taxation for town expenditures thirty three per cent, in the four years from nineteen hundred and nine to nineteen hundred and twelve, both included. This shows pretty conclusively we have been extravagant and with what is facing us we must be more careful if we desire to keep out of the twenty dollar tax rate class.

The north reservoir is now full and the south within two feet of it, which must be gratifying to our Water and Sewer Board. I wonder if the agitation had anything to do with it? This is a good time to cut off those who use great quantities for manufacturing purposes, and also to move the price for hose use from three dollars, where it has always been, up to, at least, five dollars and restrict the use also. Our prices are certainly low enough, too.

John H. Carter.

NEW TAX BILL FAVORED.

The Legislative committee on taxation voted last week to report the following amendment to the constitution to provide a uniform rate of taxation on personality:

"Full power and authority are hereby given and granted to the General Court to impose and levy proportional and reasonable assessment, rates and taxes upon all the inhabitants of and persons resident and real estate lying within the commonwealth; and to impose and levy taxes upon personal property which shall be proportional throughout the commonwealth upon personal property of the same class; and the General Court may classify personal property in a reasonable manner; and may classify machinery as personal property; and may tax the interest of both mortgagor and mortgagee in mortgaged real estate as real estate, either separately or to the owner, and in taxing personal property the General Court may grant reasonable exemptions and abatements."

Senate Chairman Barnes and House Chairman Crane both reserved their rights to dissent.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

Regular meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held with Mrs. Enman 130 Highland avenue, Friday, April 12, 3 p. m. Work will be provided for the F. E. Willard Settlement, ladies please bring thimbles.

We are pleased to note that the Lord Mayor of London, Sir T. B. Crosby, is a staunch temperance man. Quite recently he opened his official residence, the Mansion House, for a temperance meeting at which he presided. There were present many representatives of city interests, including the stock, coal, corn, and wool exchanges, Lloyd's railway, banking, insurance and commercial houses. Sir Thomas Barlow one of the physicians to the late King Edward, was among the speakers. He warned young men of the danger of moderate drinking saying that it had a worse effect upon the body than an occasional debauch, for a man who drinks occasionally gives his body a chance to recuperate between these periodical sprees. But the steady moderate drinker keeps his body more or less poisoned all the time.

The Lord Mayor in his address said among other things: "I know of no malady that is answerable to alcohol for its cure." As he has been a London physician for over fifty years he should know.

When may we expect our prominent physicians, and business men of America to speak out so strongly in warning against alcohol.

ANNUAL MEETING OF CALUMET CLUB.

The annual meeting of the Calumet Club will be held at the club house this Saturday evening. The election of officers for the coming year will be held. The following officers have been presented by the nominating committee:

President—George B. Davis.
Vice-President—Edwin B. Smalley.
Secretary—Edgar M. Young.
Treasurer—Willard T. Carlton.
Directors—Maurice C. Tompkins,
Fred C. Alexander,
Walter J. Brown.

In addition to the election matters of interest to the club members will come up for action.

NO CAUSE TO DOUBT.

A Statement of Facts Backed by a Strong Guarantee.

We guarantee immediate and positive relief to all sufferers from constipation. In every case where our remedy fails to do this we will return the money paid us for it. That's a frank statement of facts, and we want you to substantiate them at our risk.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhœa, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Rexall Orderlies are unsurpassable and ideal for the use of children, old folks and delicate persons. We cannot too highly recommend them to all sufferers from any form of constipation and its attendant evils. That's why we back our faith in them with our promise of money back if they do not give entire satisfaction. Three sizes: 12 tablets 10 cents, 36 tablets 25 cents and 80 tablets 50 cents. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies only at our store—The Rexall Store. Frank N. Abare, Cor. Main and Mt. Vernon Sts., Winchester.

AUTO WARNING SIGNALS.

The Massachusetts House of Representatives has been considering this week the Bill introduced by the Automobile Legal Association, known as House Bill 1481, relative to the proper use of warning signals. This Bill has been delayed in Committee for some weeks, but the sentiment in its favor among the Representatives seems to indicate that it will receive the favorable consideration of the House. This Bill is for the purpose of forcing every motorist to equip his automobile with some kind of adequate warning signal which shall make an abrupt sound, such as almost all types of warning signals can make; of preventing unnecessary noise; of restricting the use of automobile horns to warnings of positive danger, and forbidding the use of such horns for any other purpose. The present Massachusetts law, as interpreted by the Courts, practically forbids the use of adequate warning signals and cites, and permits the unrestricted and continuous blowing of horns in the country districts. Should the Bill referred to become a law it will remedy both of these evils. During the past few weeks the Bill has gained in popularity, and now has the support of the Massachusetts State Grange, the Massachusetts State Automobile Association, a large majority of the newspapers of the state, the selectmen of over 100 towns, and the non-motoring public in general.

WATER BECOMING ABUNDANT.

A reasonable amount of rain will cause the water in both reservoirs to pass over the spillways. The past five have been known as dry years and as a result the reservoirs have been slowly dropping until last fall the quantity of water was the lowest ever recorded since the reservoirs were built. Had the present year been like its predecessors, there might have been annoying results especially to large users of water whose supplies would have been cut off. There has not been a great deal of snow this winter but the amount of rain has been above the normal. Ten inches more will see the water going through the spillway at the North reservoirs and two feet will see a like condition at the South reservoir. The ground is full of water and this will help to keep up the supply in the reservoir.

The water this summer, is expected to show a freedom or at least diminution of the disagreeable taste of last year, because of the removal of dead leaves from the shores and the many small brooks which act as feeders to the ponds.

WHAT SEEK YE?

Dr. Doremus Scudder Editor-in-Chief of "The Friend" the oldest Newspaper West of the Rockies, published monthly in Honolulu, H. T., the author of the following beautiful poem, has many friends in the East. He was the beloved pastor of the First Congregational Church in Woburn; resigning to take up his work in Hawaii in 1901.

WHAT SEEK YE?

O Jesus, I would seek Thee
Not for the place of power,
Nor e'en to sit at Thy right hand
In Thy triumphant hour;
But in quiet upper room,
When gathered with Thine own,
I would recline at Thy dear side
And joy in Thee alone.

I would be pure, O Master,
As Thou are pure in heart;
A character like unto Thine,
Perfect in every part,
Is the longing of my soul;
Yet this is not the first
Nor chiefest thought that moves my will;
'Tis for Thy love I thirst.

I crave, O Lord, Thy comrades
To be mine own friends true;
Within the innermost circle
I would be numbered too:
But not e'en their blest friendship
Is the dearest wish of life,
The prize I most desire is Thou,
Thou, goal of all my strife.

The work Thou givest stirreth
My will to utmost aim,
Setteth the deep enthusiasms
Within my soul aflame
Perforce to read the ideal
Thou cherishest for me;
I love the toil, welcome the stress,
Because 'tis all for Thee.

Pastor of Central Church, Honolulu.

ASSESSORS' NOTICE

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 41, of Part 1 of Chapter 490 of the Acts of 1909, all persons, firms and corporations, domestic or foreign, subject to taxation in the Town of Winchester are hereby notified and required to bring in to the Assessors of said Town of Winchester, on or before the

in case of residents, true lists of all their polls and personal estates (not exempt by law from taxation,) of which they were possessed on the first day of April in the current year, and in case of non-residents and foreign corporations, true lists of all their personal estates, in said Town of Winchester (not exempt from taxation) which lists must be verified by oath as required by Section 43 of said Part 1.

Under the provisions of Section 42 of said Part 1, as amended by Chapter 515, Acts of 1909, the above-mentioned lists must be in form prescribed by the Tax Commissioner of the Commonwealth. These blank forms may be had at the Assessor's office, or will be mailed to any address upon application.

Section 45 of Part 1 of Chapter 490, Acts of 1909. A mortgagor or mortgagee of real estate may bring into the Assessors of the city or town in which it lies, within the time prescribed by the notice under section forty-one, a statement under oath of the amount secured thereon or on each separate parcel thereof, with the name and residence of every holder of an interest therein as mortgagor or mortgagee. If such property is situated in two or more places, or if a recorded mortgage includes two or more estates or parts of an estate as security for one sum, such statement shall include an estimate of the interest of the mortgagee in each estate or part of an estate. The Assessors shall, from such statement or otherwise, ascertain the proportionate interests of the mortgagor or mortgagee, respectively, in said estates, and shall assess the same accordingly. If, in any year, such statement is not brought in, the tax for that year on such real estate shall not be invalid merely for the reason that the interest of the mortgagee therein has not been assessed to him.

In accordance with Section 41 aforesaid, all persons and corporations are hereby required to bring into the Assessors, on or before the 20th day of May next, true lists of all real and personal estate held by such persons and corporations, respectively, for literary, temperance, benevolent, charitable, or scientific purposes on the first day of April, in the current year, together with statements of the amounts of all receipts and expenditures for said purposes during the year next preceding said first day of April; such lists and statements to be in accordance with blanks furnished by the Tax Commissioner.

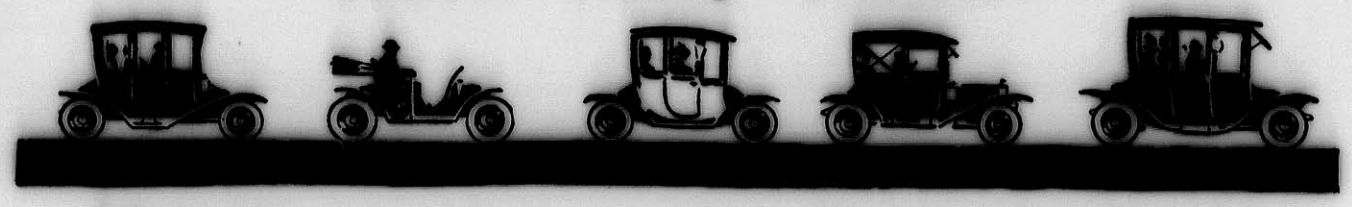
Here They Come!



ELECTRIC Automobiles for 1912 are here. The fashionable models are brilliant, graceful and substantial. Handsomer, speedier, roomier than ever before, with increased mileage due to the latest improvements in batteries and the highest skill in automobile construction and engineering.

The leading makers of the United States are represented in Boston with body designs that represent the last word in period coach work, beautifully, artistically and substantially expressed.

Fashion this year will decree the Electric as supreme.
Can be driven by a child. A Drawing Room on Wheels.

There are graceful French bodies of the time of the Louis. There are Colonial bodies, faithfully carrying out the architectural lines of the forefathers, as well as the modern coach builders' ideas.

The Latest Gentlemen's Electric Roadsters

The fastest Electrics are the Gentlemen's Roadsters made by all companies. Do away with complicated machinery—the power has been made for you in advance and stored in the batteries. All Electrics for either pleasure or business are—

Clutch-less, Engine-less, Radiator-less
Crank-less, Pump-less, Pipe-less
Magneto-less, Valve-less, Cam-less
Gasoline-less, Carbureter-less, Spark Plug-less
Ignition-less, Change Gear-less, Muffler-less Vibration-less, Odor-less, Chauffeur-less

ACTUAL STARVATION.

Facts About Indigestion and Its Relief That Should Interest You.

Although indigestion and Dyspepsia are so prevalent, most people do not thoroughly understand their cause and cure. There is no reason why most people should not eat anything they desire—if they will only chew it carefully and thoroughly. Many actually starve themselves into sickness through fear of eating every good-looking, good-smelling, and good-tasting food, because it does not agree with them.

The best thing to do is to fit yourself to digest any good food.

We believe we can relieve Dyspepsia. We are so confident of this fact that we guarantee and promise to supply the medicine free of all cost to every one who will use it, who is not perfectly satisfied with the results which it produces. We exact no promises, and put no one under any obligation whatever. Surely, nothing could be fairer. We are located right here and our reputation should be sufficient assurance of the genuineness of our offer.

We want every one troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia in any form to come to our store and buy a box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. Take them home and give them a reasonable trial, according to directions. Then, if not satisfied, come to us and get your money back. They are very pleasant to take; they aid to soothe the irritable stomach, to strengthen and invigorate the digestive organs, and to promote a healthy and natural bowel action, thus leading to perfect and healthy digestion and assimilation.

A 25c. package of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets furnishes 15 days' treatment. In ordinary cases, this is sufficient to produce a cure. In more chronic cases, a longer treatment, of course, is necessary, and depends upon the severity of the trouble. For such cases, we have two larger sizes which sell for 50c. and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store Frank N. Abare, Cor. Main and Mt Vernon Sts., Winchester.

The members of the Winchester High School girls basket ball team held a progressive luncheon last Saturday afternoon, visiting the homes of the different members of the team, at each of which one course was served. It was a very enjoyable event.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

The real novelty of the season is promised for B. F. Keith's Theatre next week, when an all-women vaudeville show will be the attraction. Of the sixty odd artistes on the program, everyone will be of the fair sex. Aside from the unusual nature of this attraction, the week will be notable for the return to Boston after several years' absence, of Caroline E. Nichols and her famous Fadettes and Willa Holt Wakefield. Willa Holt Wakefield will present a brand-new pianologue, singing all new songs, including "I've got a pain in my sawdust," a cute little doll song; a "Common Little Girl;" and "The Story of a Pair of Sausages." Another spectacular feature will be the Kautmann Troupe, eight handsome young lady cyclists who perform the most intricate military formations mounted on a wheel. Rowena Stewart and Gladys Alexandria have an original comedy entitled "Broadway Love," Hilda Hawthorne, the lady ventriloquist, will be on hand with her famous "Johnnie;" Max Witt's Melody Lane Girls have a novel specialty; Catherine Hayes and Sabel Johnston will be seen in "A Dream of Baby Days;" Annie Kent has a new dancing oddity; and the Four Onetti Sisters are wonderful German gymnasts.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

Miss Billie Burke is coming to the Hollis St. Theatre, Boston, to begin her annual two weeks' engagement on Easter Monday (April 8.) Miss Burke was the Easter attraction at the Hollis last year too and it is a custom that ought to be encouraged for Miss Burke, more than any other actress on the American stage, represents springtime and youth and all that sort of thing. Charles Frohman is presenting her this season in "The Runaway" and the critics have agreed that this is the best of all Billie Burke's comedies."

She is supported by a particularly strong company, too, this year. Her leading man is C. Aubrey Smith, an accomplished and graceful actor from London who was seen with Miss Marie Doro in "The Morals of Marcus" a few years ago. In "The Runaway" Mr. Smith plays the artist. The booby who drives the little country girl from home is played by Edwin Nicander and other prominent in the cast are Morton Selten, William Raymond, George Howell, Jane Evans, Josephine Morse and Alice Gale—all well-known players.

During Miss Burke's engagement at the Hollis there will be the usual matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. Miss Burke will give an extra matinee also on Patriots Day, Friday, April 19.

ANNUAL ELECTION.

New Officers and Important Business Transacted at Calumet Club.

The annual election of officers was held at the Calumet Club last Saturday night, a big attendance of members being present. Aside from the election several important votes were passed. The club is to have a new reading room, a Junior membership and its regular membership increased.

President George B. Davis, who has successfully served the club during the past year, was again returned, and the officers elected were as follows:

President, George B. Davis,
Vice-President, Edward B. Smalley,
Secretary, Edgar M. Young,
Treasurer, Willard T. Carlton,
Directors, Maurice C. Tompkins, Fred C. Alexander, Walter J. Brown.

The regular resident membership of the club was increased from 250 to 275, this being the third increase within a few years. The club has had a waiting list for several months past, and with the extension a number of gentlemen who have been waiting for admission will enter at once. It is anticipated that the additional twenty-five will be elected before the opening of the summer.

An important vote passed was that providing for a Junior membership. A number of years ago a Junior membership was created at the club, but it was discontinued. At present there are a number of the younger men who are desirous of entering the club but have been debarred owing to the age limit. The new membership provides that male residents of Winchester between the age of 18 and 21 years, whose parents or guardian is a member of the club, may become a Junior member upon application in the regular way. For this membership the initiation fee shall be $5 and the dues $2.50 a quarter. The Junior members shall have the privileges of the club except on Saturday evenings and such other times as may be designated by the directors.

The proposed amendment to article 9 of the by-laws, regarding the introduction of non-residents to the club was passed. This ammendment reads as follows: "No male citizen of Winchester not a member shall be admitted to the club house oftener than once in three months' nor shall he be admitted during any entertainment except by permission of the President or Chairman of the House Committee."

Another important action was the vote to discontinue the side entrance to the hall and convert the space into a reading room for the members. By this plan the stairs and piazza at the north side of the house will be taken away and a room finished in their place, entrance to which will be from the reception room of the club directly under the present inside staircase. This will provide a large well lighted room for reading on the first floor and will relieve the present reception room from serving as both an entrance and reading room. It is proposed to raise the money necessary to finish this room by popular subscription, and a collection taken up among the members present Saturday evening resulted in a substantial part of the sum necessary being subscribed.

A WORD ABOUT DOROTHY TEMPLE.

We hope that all music lovers will attend the concert to be given by Miss Temple and Mme. Charbonnel on the 23rd, as it is unlikely that these artists will appear in Winchester again for more than a year and a half.

Last week's STAR contained press notices giving the highest praise to Mme. Charbonnel's artistry and it will be greatly to the advantage of piano students to hear her.

Miss Temple after years of preparation in this country went to Rome, where at the advice of Sgambati, she studied interpretation with the "Illuserissimo Maestro," Aristide Franceschetti.

Sgambati on first hearing her predicted a great future for her. He has since sent her his photograph with the inscription, To the Signorina Dorothy Temple, the delicious interpreter, from her admirer,

G. Sgambati.

Franceschetti was enthusiastic over her, and in this art of interpretation Miss Temple has taken a high place.

At the end of her season in Rome she received the diploma which gave her the title of "Distinguished active academician of the Royal Philharmonic Academy of Rome,"—The highest honor that can be given any artist in Rome.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

The Selectmen's Meeting April 22, 1912, will be held at the Town Hall at 6 p. m., instead of at 7.30 p. m. as usual. There will be no meeting of the Board on Tuesday evening, April 23rd.

It will be a convenience to the clerk if those having matters to present to the Board by letter or petition would see that the documents are mailed to, or left at, the Selectmen's Office by or before Saturday of each week. The present custom seems to be to delay delivery of such papers until Monday evening, which leaves scant time for their arrangement and preparation for the consideration of the Board.

Yours very truly,
Frank R. Miller,
Clerk of the Board.

April 10, 1912.

A GOOD OPPORTUNITY.

The extensive purchase of land by Mr. Whitehorne on the west side of the town, as announced in last week's STAR, has given added impetus to the development of vacant land in that part of the town, and it will be only a few years hence when building lots will be scarce. The tract has been laid out into streets, lots staked out which are now on the market, Edward T. Harrington Co. being the selling agents. The lots for the next ninety days will be sold at very low prices, thus affording a good opportunity for investment or to build a home in this beautiful and popular part of Winchester. A plan of this entire tract of land can be found on page two of this issue of the STAR.

FINAL CONCERT.

Mr. Joshua Phippen who will appear as soloist at the final concert of the Orchestral Association, next Tuesday evening, is the organist and musical director of Dr. Hale's Church, the South Congregational, of Boston, and though a native of Salem has resided in Winchester for about twenty years. As a young man he appeared frequently as pianist in recitals in Boston and Salem and for years past as pianist and organist in concerts of the Cecilia Society and the Apollo Club of Boston and of Salem Oratorio Society. He has also had experience as an Orchestral Conductor of which the Winchester Orchestral Association has materially benefitted; during the illness of the regular conductor, Mr. Hadley, last winter Mr. Phippen took charge of rehearsals and conducted the concert with great satisfaction to everybody.

Mr. Phippen has composed music in many forms most of which remain in manuscript. His Concerto in C minor for piano and orchestra was awarded the prize in a national competition held by the National Conservatory of Music, New York, the judges being Dvorak the composer and the famous pianist Joseffy. One of the numbers he will play at the concert next Tuesday will be the third and final movement of this Concerto.

Mr. Phippen follows the profession of teacher of pianoforte in both Salem and Boston and nowdays seldom plays in public. He is a member of the Music Committee of the Winchester Orchestral Association and has consented to play at this concert on account of his great interest in the organization. The complete program of the concert is as follows:

Haydn Symphony in D major, No 4 "The Clock"
I Adagio—Presto
II Andante
III Menuetto
IV Vivace

Weber Konzertstück in F minor, Op. 79, for pianoforte and orchestra
I Larghetto
II Allegro Passionato
III Tempo di Marcia
IV Assai Presto

Intermission

German Three dances from Henry VIII Music
I Morris Dance
II Shepherd's Dance
III Torch Dance

Phippen Third and final movement, Allegro Giojoso, from Concerto in C minor for pianoforte and orchestra

Goldmark Overture, "Sakuntala" Op. 13

Soloist Mr. Joshua Phippen.

REAL ESTATE NEWS.

Edward T. Harrington Co. report the sale for Geo. C. Ogden of Ridgefield road of a plaster house and over 9000 square feet of land formerly owned by Dr. Benjamin Lewis and later resold to Mr. Ogden. This property is located on the corner of Ridgefield and Edgehill roads. The house contains 10 rooms and bath. The purchaser, Mr George T. Van Antwerp of Riverbank Court, Cambridge, Mass., is now occupying the property.

Agreements have been signed, through the office of Edward T. Harrington Co., for the sale of the Charles M. Burt residence, No. 5 Sheffield road, containing 12 rooms and 2 baths and having 10,450 square feet of land to John F. Cloutman of Farmington, N. H., who has purchased for a home.

The same brokers have leased for Emma P. Buckley, trustee, of Winchester, the house No. 5 Cottage avenue, to Sara L. Underwood also of Winchester.

"HOW THE VOTE WAS WON"

Don't fail to see the play that is going to be given by the Winchester Equal Suffrage League at the Town Hall, April 18, at 8 o'clock. It is a very clever little English comedy, and a laugh from beginning to end. There will be dancing from 9.30 to 12 o'clock, and the music will be furnished by the orchestra that plays for the Winchester Assemblies.

There will be a special car run to Arlington at 12 o'clock.

The small Town Hall will be turned into a Cafe, and refreshments will be served to all during the evening. It is hoped that this will appeal especially to those who do not dance. A very original evening is promised. Get your tickets early—they can be obtained from Mrs. John Emery, Mrs. George Root, Mrs. William Buckley, Tel. 74, Mrs. Oren C. Sanborn, Miss Frances Elder.

All seats reserved, prices $1.50, $1.00 and 50 cents.

As there has been some misunderstanding about the cafe the League would like to say that there will be no charge for refreshments.

MISS LUCINDA HEALD.

Miss Lucinda Heald, a resident of Winchester for the past fourteen years, died at the home of her nephew, Mr. Charles F. Gage of Madison avenue, Sunday at the advanced age of 87 years. She leaves no immediate relatives. In this town she was identified with the Womans' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. and the Western Missionary Society of the First Congregational Church. She was one of the original members of the Kirk street Church, Lowell, and retained her membership there at the time of her death.

The funeral services were held from the residence on Madison avenue Tuesday at one o'clock, Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon of the First Congregational Church officiating. The remains were taken to Lowell for interment in the Lowell Cemetery, prayers being held at the grave by Rev. Mr. Grieg of Kirk street Church, Lowell.

Mr. William F. Plummer of Westley street, who had been a bonded sealer at the Boston Custom House for the past ten years, has been promoted to the office of customs police, and was sworn into office Wednesday. He has been a faithful official and his promotion was on merit, and the way is now open to him for further advancement, which will come through a faithful performance of duty. The many friends of this genial gentleman are freely congratulating him on his advancement.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

Satisfactory Progress on Through Arlington Cars to Harvard Square.

April 8, 1912.

Board met at 7.30 p. m., all being present.

G. B. Whitehorne appeared complaining of an apparently excessive charge for sidewalk assessment. The matter was referred to the Town Engineer for information.

Mr. Whitehorne also presented a letter stating that it was his intention to open up Salisbury street, Wedgemere avenue, and Yale streets, through the property recently purchased by him and asking for the proper street levels in order that he might establish correct grade. He also presented a plan of the property. The matter was referred to the Town Engineer to give the necessary grades.

The records of the previous meeting of the Selectmen were read and approved.

The compensation of the Custodian of the Town Hall was fixed at $75 per month.

Arrangements for the Town Primaries April 30th, were assigned to Messrs. Daly and Pike.

Phillip J. Blank presented a request for an estimate of cost for putting in granolithic sidewalks at 2 to 10 Myrtle street. Referred to Committee on Highways.

Voted: Not to comply with the request of the Pop Concert Committee to grant the free use of the Town Hall on the evening of April 8th.

Applications for junk licenses from Sam Wyner, M. Tiger, Nathan Robinovitz, Chas. Feinberg, were granted subject to the payment of the fee of $10 each.

Applications for Auctioneer's license received from E. Hawes Kelley and Edward F. Maguire, 68 Swanton street; were granted, subject to the payment of a fee of $20 each.

Letters from B. S. Briggs, asking that the banking on the Lagrange street side of his lot be fixed up; and from Sewall E. Newman, representing Mrs. Lucy R. Woodrough, asking that the sidewalk on the westerly side of Hillside avenue, abutting her property have a coating of crushed stone; from Carl A. Siedhof, 18 Lloyd street directing attention to the petition of citizens on that street in 1911 for granolithic sidewalks and asking whether Lloyd street would be included in the number of streets to be sprinkled under the town appropriation; from E. H. Stone, Cambridge street, calling attention to condition of the banking in front of his residence and that of Mrs. Pond, running from High street to driveway; from F. A. Hartwell of Woburn, directing attention to poor condition of Pond street near residence of Dennis Lawton; from Francis E. Smith, 1 Wolcott terrace, asking that the proposed concrete or asphalt walk on the west side of Wolcott road be extended to the corner of Wolcott terrace and stating that he would be willing to pay his share of the expense of building the walk to the top of the hill; from J. J. Fitzgerald, asking for permission to lay granolithic sidewalks in front of No. 10 and No. 22 Lloyd street, were referred to the Committee on Highways.

Communication from Samuel J. Elder, calling attention to the disfigurement of the street and danger to the travelling public caused by the electric wires and poles on Cambridge street opposite his and Mr. Downs' residence and suggesting that the Electric Companies be required to put their wires under ground at the time the improvements and alterations in Cambridge street are being carried on. Referred to Town Engineer.

A communication was received from the Democratic Town Committee, James H. Roach, chairman, recommending as ballot clerks for the Primary to be held April 30th, 1912:—Howard Cosgrove, Bernard Mathews, James H. O'Connor, Charles F. McCarthy, John F. Holland, Robert H. Sullivan.

The application of Charles Young, 11-13 Mt. Vernon street for renewal of common victualer's license, referred to Committee on Police.

Application from Daniel Lydon, 9 Lloyd street, for appointment as police officer was referred to Committee on Police.

Maurice Dinneen, Sealer of Weights and Measures, was authorized to make purchase of certain supplies required for his office and his request for permission to remove the equipment of the office of Sealer of Weights and Measures to the Plumbing Inspector's room, and that the Tree Warden be given another room was referred to the Committee on Town Hall.

Request from Jonas A. Laraway for correct lines of Walnut and Thompson streets, was referred to the Town Engineer.

On motion of Mr. Daly, the following order was passed: Ordered: That the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company of Massachusetts be and it is hereby granted permission to erect and maintain wires and fixtures, together with such sustaining or protecting fixtures as it may deem necessary, upon poles of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston heretofore located in the public way or ways hereinafter referred to and shown upon plan marked No. 9 The New England Telephone & Telegraph Company of Mass. ANNUAL MEETING OF VISITING NURSE ASS'N.

The annual meeting of the Visiting Nurse Association was held in the small Town Hall, Tuesday afternoon, there being a large attendance of ladies. The reports of the different officers showed the Association to be in an excellent financial condition, with a large increase in membership during the year, it now being 291. Mrs. Joshua Coit, who has been the president since the formation of the association retires with the regrets of the members. She has made an excellent presiding officer and to her untiring interest and hard work is due in great measure the success of the organization. She had been president for thirteen years.

After the election of officers, Miss Alice L. Higgins, general secretary of Associated Charities, Boston, and an expert on the study of cooperation between medical and charitable work in the community, gave a talk on "The Responsibility of Winchester for its Social Service." She was listened to with close attention and many points of interest were brought out showing in detail the work that is being done through social service.

The reports of the officers in detail will be printed in full in next week's STAR.

The following officers were elected:

President, Mrs Ellen E. Metcalf.

Vice-Presidents, Miss Katherine F. Pond, Miss Alice Shattuck.

Secretary, Mrs. Edwin C. Gilman.

Treasurer, Miss Alice Mason.

Finance Committee, Directors for three years, Mrs. Joshua Phippen, Mrs. Ralph Putnam, Mrs. F. A. Bradford.

Supply Committee, Mrs. C. J. Allen, Mrs. S. H. Taylor.

Nursing Committee, Miss Alice Symmes, Miss Jessie Marsh, Mrs. E. O. Punchard.

Social Service—For one year, Mrs F. F. Carpenter, Miss A N Jewett, Mrs. James W. Russell, jr., Miss Viola Sullivan, Miss Mary Richards.

Hospital Committees—For two years, Chairman, Miss Katherine F. Pond.

Finance Committee, Mrs. Oren C. Sanborn, Mrs. F. F. French, Mrs. G. H. Root.

House Committee, Mrs. F. M. White, Mrs. M. A. Cummings, Mrs. Preston Pond, Mrs. D. N. Skillings, Mrs. Edward Smith, Mrs. John Challis, Mrs. W. B. French, Mrs. Harry Sanborn.

Nursing Committee, Mrs. H. L. Houghton, Mrs. C. E. Ordway, Mrs. G. N. P. Mead, Mrs. H. E. Maynard, Mrs. F. S. Snyder Miss N. B. Harrington.

GAME TO-MORROW.

The Winchester Highlands Athletic Club opens its 1912 campaign tomorrow at its home grounds with the M. M. M.'s of Medford. It is understood that the team is a fast one, and a good game is anticipated. The Highland team this year presents a formidable line-up, several star players having been added to last years' list. The club is fortunate in having two reliable twirlers in Obregon and Murphy. The former is a new man, but has been showing exceptional ability in the practice games. Murphy will play shortstop when not pitching. McEwen will take the brunt of the backstopping, with Cooper as substitute. Park is reliable, and will take good care of the initial sack. On second will be a new man, Cooper, who has shown ability in the practice games. Flinn, who is well known to Winchester as a member of last year's High School Team, will be at third. In the outfield, G. Robinson and Bellville of last year's team, and Claflin, Bennett, and Dearborn are contestants.

Tomorrow's game will be called at three-thirty, weather permitting, and it is hoped that a large number will be present to root for a win. To reach the grounds take a Stoneham car, and get off at Clematis street.

The line-up and batting order for the game will be: Park 1b, Murphy ss, Flinn 3b, Robinson lf, Cooper 2b, Bellville rf, Claflin ct, McEwen c, Obregon p.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

The annual meeting will be held Monday, April 15th.

The Household Economics Committee together with the Mother's Association have arranged for a lecture on "Fly Extermination" to be given in the High School Assembly Hall on Wednesday, April 17, 3 p. m. The lecture will be given by Mr. Harold F. Pierce of Clark College and will be illustrated with lantern slides.

Only within the last few year have the people generally begun to realize that the fly is an important factor in the national death rate. The various campaigns of 1911 did much toward reducing this disease carrier in numbers, but the summer of 1912 will, no doubt, see a much greater reduction, if the plans of the numerous organizations all over the state are carried out.

Everyone interested in this subject is cordially invited to be present.

TALCOTT—RHODES.

Announcements were received this week of the marriage of Mr. Arthur Jewell Talcott to Miss Jessie Rhodes. The ceremony took place on Saturday, April sixth. The bride has been a well known teacher for the past three years at the Wadleigh School, having in charge the 8th grade. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving O. Rhodes of Mendon.

The couple are at present on a wedding trip to Washington, D. C. They will reside at Woonsocket, R. I.

W. D. ERSKINE SOLD BUSINESS.

W. D. Erskine, familiarly known as "Dave," has sold his furniture moving business to his brother, H. J. Erskine, and moved to Hollis, N. H. Mr. H. J. Erskine will carry on the business in connection with his regular work of furniture and piano moving, general teaming, etc. His packing of furniture and china gives universal satisfaction and his reputation for careful handling is generally known. He also will store furniture. Office with E. C. Sanderson at 557 Main street.

TOWN MUST DECIDE.

Report of the Committee on Disposal of Ashes.

The committee appointed by the moderator under a vote passed at the annual town meeting "to investigate the advisability and cost of the collection and disposal of ashes and refuse by the town and to recommend the best methods of doing the same" begs to submit the following report:

Your committee first studied the present methods of disposing of ashes and refuse in Winchester and then compared the conditions elsewhere. We found that ashes and refuse have never been collected at town expense in Winchester. Previous to 1907 the disposal of ashes and loose papers was entirely unregulated, the householder or his employee removing them to nearest vacant lot whose owner did not object. Usually the papers were not burned and no attempt was made to keep the dumps levelled. As the town increased in population the unsightly and untidy appearance of the many dumps and their surroundings became worse.

After considerable agitation a by-law was passed upon the recommendation of the Board of Health at the special town meeting, July 1, 1907, under which the collection and disposal of ashes and refuse has since been carried on. The essential feature of this by-law is that the town licenses the use of its streets for the purposes of moving ashes and refuse to such persons as are approved by the Board of Health, and forbids their use for such purposes to all unlicensed persons. The license fee is normal, but the Board of Health is given powers to make such regulations as it sees fit. There is at present no restriction in the licenses as to the price that the licensees shall charge householders for collection, the only conditions enforced being that the licensees shall cover the loads of ashes in transit, to secure cleanliness, and shall dump them in approved places. There are several dumps, the principal one being near North Main street where the town pays a man to oversee the dumping of the ashes and to burn the paper, since the licensee is not required to separate paper and ashes. In general, the regulations enforced have been effective and the relations between the Board of Health and the licensees satisfactory, with the result that in the five years the by-law has been in effect Winchester has changed from an exceedingly untidy town to one comparing well in cleanliness with any in the state.

Considerable complaint, however, has been made as to the prices charged by the licensees to their customers for collection. This rate was formerly 10c a barrel or ash can but was recently raised by an association of teamsters and gardeners, which includes in its membership many of the licensees, to 12 1-2c a can, irrespective of quantity. We believe that this recent raise in price is in part responsible for any agitation for collection of ashes at the town expense.

We compared these conditions prevailing in Winchester with those in the surrounding cities and towns and in all other towns near Boston where the population is nearly equal to Winchester's. Out of the fourteen cities and towns thus investigated the ashes and refuse are collected at municipal expense in eight and at the expense of the householder in six. The eight cities and towns which pay for collection of ashes, with their population in 1910 and their expenditure for collection in 1911, are:

Arlington	11,187	$4268.00
Belmont	5,542	$1015.00 no paper collected
Medford	23,150	$6360.00
Milton	7,924	$3000.00 including garbage collection
Saugus	8,047	$900.00 including garbage collection
Stoneham	7,090	$1300.00 collected in partial area
Swampscott	6,204	$1975.00
Watertown	12,875	$2750.00 including garbage collection

The six cities and towns, with their population, in which the town does not collect the ashes, are:

Dedham	9284
Norwood	8014
Reading	5818
Wakefield	11,404
Wellesley	5413
Woburn	15,308

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

Mrs. Howard left Winchester yesterday with her son, to join her husband, who has recently been appointed Supt. of the great "Letchworth Park" in Portage, N. Y. The Park contains 1000 acres, and was given the State by the late Dr. Letchworth (see Feb. number of Reviews of Reviews) who not only donated the Park, but endowed it with the whole of his immense fortune. Mr. Howard's rise has been rapid but well merited. He has been employed the past year by the U. S. Forestry Department in the White Mts. and this winter in the south. Mr. and Mrs. Howard are both members of the Methodist Church in Winchester and their many friends in town are pleased with their good fortune, but regret their departure. A handsome bungalow in the Park is being fitted up as a place of residence for them. The students of Forestry will spend their summers in study and observation at this park, where trees from all over the world will be planted and cultivated.

The New England Methodist conference is in Springfield, Mass. Rev. C. W. Blackett, D. D., is in attendance. Mr. Blackett has received a unanimous invitation from the quarterly conference of the local church to return to Winchester as pastor of the church.

A COURSE OF ADDRESSES.

Rev. F. W. Hodgdon begins Sunday afternoon at 4.30 in the First Congregational Church a course of post-Easter addresses on "Real Riches." In these days when wealth and the desire for it absorb so much energy and attention it is well to decide what real riches are. His subject Sunday will be "Real Riches and Thieves that are Thieves." He will be assisted in the service by the large chorus choir and by Mrs. Jennie Trecartin Fox, soprano soloist, who will sing a group of songs. These services are popular and inspirational and open to all.

COMING EVENTS.

April 15, Monday. School opens after Easter vacation.

April 15, Monday. Peoples League in Assembly hall, High School.

Tuesday, April 16. Spring Concert, Winchester Orchestral Association.

April 17, Wednesday, 3.30 p. m. Equal Suffrage League. Tea at Mrs. Oren Sanborn's. Mrs. Stanley McCormack, Speaker.

April 19, Friday. Junior Reception.

April 19, Friday. Base ball game on Manchester Field in the afternoon.

April 23, Tuesday evening. Joint recital. Miss Dorothy Temple, Soprano; Mme. Avis Bliven Charbonnel, pianist. Town Hall.

April 25, Thursday. Reception to Mothers' Association by Winchester Teachers' Association in Assembly Hall.

May 3, Friday, at 3.30 p. m. Winchester Equal Suffrage League Tea Hostess, Mrs. Alfred S. Higgins, 68 Church street.

BRILLIANT EVENT.

Pop Concert Held Amid Georgeous Setting.

The annual pop concert was held in the Town Hall on Monday night, being attended by the largest and most brilliant gathering in the history of this widely popular social event. More than 100 tables were placed in the hall, which was augmented by throwing both the large and small halls into one. The tables accommodated four, six and eight persons, and light refreshments were served during the evening by a corps of young ladies gowned uniformly in white.

The decorations were superb, being the most elaborate of the marvellous decorations on previous years. The general effect represented an Italian garden, with flowers and greenery everywhere. Latticed panels were placed along the balconies and side walls which were twined with roses. Streamers of roses and green descended from the large central chandalier high up in the ceiling to the side walls, and niches held small marble statuettes. The service was from beneath the south balcony and in no way interferred with the decorative scheme, giving freedom for the tables from the stage to the extreme rear of the hall.

The concert program was given by the Salem Cadet Band with vocal solos by Dr. J. Churchill Hindes. The affair was in charge of an able committee consisting of Mrs. Oren C. Sanborn, Mrs. Frank A. Cutting, Mrs. George H. Root, Miss M. Alice Mason, and Mr. and Mrs. Percy W. Withered.

The proceeds of the concert are for charitable purposes and this year will be donated to the new Winchester Hospital.

The young women who assisted were Miss Eleanor Briggs, Miss Barbara Blank, Miss Pauline Blank, Miss Esther Somes, Miss Carlene Gleason, Miss Emma Farnsworth, Miss Annette Symmes, Miss Nancy Brigham, Miss Dorothea Chase, Miss Marjorie Root, Miss Olive Randlett, Miss Hazel Smart, Miss Celina Cox, Miss Margaret Cummings, Miss Rachel Metcalf, Miss Ruth Roberts, Miss Josephine Woods, Miss Rachel Emery, Miss Pauline Sweetser, Miss Katherine Lawrence, Miss Mary Whitten, Miss Florence Amsden, Miss Eleanor Soutter, Miss Helen Lewis, Miss Ruth Lewis, Miss Almena Cogswell, Miss Ruth Burt, Miss Susie Guernsey, Miss Anna Tindall, Miss Marjorie Braddock, Miss Madeline Little, Miss Sadie Felber, Miss Doris Goddu, Miss Lucy Stearns, Miss Gretchen Avery, Miss Alice Cutting, Miss Carol Nickerson, Miss June Root, Miss Ruth Lawrence, Miss Dorothy Furbish, Miss Ruth Cummings, Miss Mary Cummings. The box office and doors were in charge of Herbert Metcalf, Dexter Tutein, Chester Tutein and Harold Farnsworth.

McLEAN—GOODSPEED.

William Scofield McLean, and Leona May Goodspeed, were united in marriage at seven-thirty, o'clock on the evening of April ninth, at the home of the bride, 27 Rush street, Somerville, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. McLean are off for a short trip, and on their return will reside at No. 6 Winthrop street. It is announced that they will be at home to their friends after July first.

The couple are both well known in Winchester, and their many friends will welcome them to Winchester.

Mr. McLean has been an active member of the Winchester Boat Club for several years, and has served as chairman of the social committee.

Mr. McLean is the manager of the M. T. Bird Co. Stationers and engravers at No. 5 West street, Boston. They are both active members of the Baptist Church in Somerville.

MUSICAL SERVICE.

A most impressive service, entirely musical in its character was held at the Congregational Church on Sunday afternoon. The large chorus choir, which had been thoroughly drilled by its able leader, Mrs. Margaret Lovejoy-Weber was assisted by a quartette composed of Mrs. Jennie Trecartin Fox, soprano, Mrs. Ada Belle Child, contralto, Mr. Raymond Allen Simonds tenor, and Mr. Herbert Wellington Smith, baritone. The first part of the program was devoted to Dudley Buck's "Story of the Cross," after which most suitable selections were rendered telling the story of the resurrection. Mrs. Irene Osborne Grant, organist, did much to make the service the success that it was and the large audience showed its appreciation by a silence and reverent attention.

and no further argument should be necessary to compel you to purchase one or more of the above lots.

At the end of five years how do you think money so invested would compare with a like amount left on interest in a bank?

We maintain that there is no location in this town where a larger increase in values in the near future is more certain.

For a period of ninetv days from this date, we are commissioned by the owner to offer these lots at extremely low prices and reasonable terms. Prices to include grading of streets. At the end of said ninety days prices will be advanced to that asked for adjoining property. THE SEASON ON MANCHESTER FIELD.

The local Park Commissioners are completing arrangements for the opening of the playground on Manchester Field for this summer. Mr. Grover C. Maclaurin a graduate of Harvard College and who has had considerable experience as a physical director at Wyoming, will have charge of the playground. The commissioners have not yet decided who the woman will be to take charge of the girls and young children. It will be pleasing to lovers of base ball, and the numerous base ball cranks, to know that Mr. George D. LeDuc will manage the ball games for the coming summer. He had charge last season, and all know the excellent way he handled the games and the pleasure he afforded to the thousands who witnessed the games, and the victories won.

MR. JAKEMAN IN ACCIDENT.

Mr. Benjamin F. Jakeman and his son Brooks, were thrown from their auto when it turned turtle on the Parkway Monday morning, and both escaped with no more serious injuries than a bad shaking up and a few bruises.

Leaving their home at 271 Washington street, shortly after 6 o'clock, they were on their way to Boston, taking the Parkway to Medford. Just below Wedgemere, where the roadway was covered with ice, the auto skidded and turned turtle. Mr. Jakeman and his son were thrown clear of the machine. Picking themselves up they found the machine bottom up, and the engine still running. The only damage being a broken wheel and steering gear.

Leaving the machine they proceeded to Boston by train.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten-fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Newsy Paragraphs.

Attention of readers of the STAR is called to the notice from the Assessors on page six.

A bazaar and home party will be held by the members of St. Mary's parish the latter part of June. Preparations are now under way and a meeting for the parishioners was called for Wednesday evening to forward the plans. During the next few months the societies of the church will hold various entertainments, to swell the proceeds of the party.

For those who want the best—without question—we have placed in stock Cranes linen lawn, and can supply this fine writing paper in quire or ream lots. This is in Dresden white only. Colors furnished to order. Wilson the Stationer.

The STAR is found in many places outside Winchester, and former residents are rarely without it. A renewal of a New Jersey subscriber received last week reads "we still think of it as our 'home' paper, and as such it is a welcome weekly guest." Copies of the STAR are received by subscribers in China, Italy, Austria, England, California, Virginia, Georgia, New Hampshire, Maine and many other states in the Union, and these subscribers invariably express their pleasure at its arrival.

An attempt was made by two men last Friday morning, shortly after midnight, to enter the home of N. W. Davis, No. 9 Lagrange street, while the occupants were asleep. By the merest accident their presence was discovered by a neighbor, who watched their movements for nearly a half hour, when from the raising of a window to give an alarm they disappeared towards Church street. They were observed to have a flash-light, which at one time was so reflected as to make their features visible and to show that both wore caps. Beyond this a description of the men was made impossible on account of the darkness.

Chief McIntosh started a crusade against reckless and negligent automobilists in town last Saturday and Sunday and as a result of the vigilence of the officers 39 offenders will be brought into court. The offences are mostly of a technical nature.

In coming from Newton Corner to Arlington in a car of the Elevated road last Sunday evening, during the rain storm, water came down one side of the car in rivulets and ran onto the plush seats. Passengers on that side of the car hastily took seats on the other side, but those getting onto the car later sat down on the wet cushions arising hastily when they felt the water soaking through their clothes. The conductor who was perfectly aware of the condition the seats were in did not take the trouble to notify them, preferring to let the dresses of the ladies be ruined.

Newsy Paragraphs.

The pin boys at the Calumet Club struck last week, causing considerable commotion at that place. The boys did not have any particular grievance, striking on general complaints and asking for more pay and less work. As planned the strike would have stopped one of the tournament matches, the boys arrainging to stop work at nine o'clock Thursday, about the time the middle of the second string had been reached. Fortunately their plans were discovered and a new set of boys engaged. The strikers succeeded in winning over two of these, and when others were engaged to fill in Friday night the strikers visited the club and attempted to stop the bowling by throwing sticks at the boys through the windows. The police were notified and the trouble appears to have been stopped for the present.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB ELECTION.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Winchester Boat Club was held at the club house on Tuesday evening. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Charles A. Gleason
Vice-Pres.—James H. Gerlach
Secretary—T. Price Wilson
Treasurer—G. Dwight Cabot
Fleet Captain—Frank H. Gerlach
Directors — Vincent Farnsworth, Schuyler F. Herron, Preston E. Corey, Dexter P. Blaikie, Hermann D. Murphy, Fred M. Bates, Charles S. Tenney and George B. Smith.

The club is considering the advisability of enlarging its house by adding to the dance hall and canoe room. At present the canoe berths are practically all in use and considerable difficulty is experienced in finding accommodations. Several new members were elected. The non-resident membership of the club is now full.

The club will open for the season on Saturday, April 27th, and will be open for the day on April 19th.

G. E. K. DANCE.

The Eta Zeta Chapter of Gamma Eta Kappa held a most enjoyable dance in Waterfield Hall, Tuesday evening. The hall was tastefully decorated with flags, Japanese lanterns and palms. The matrons for the occasion were Mrs. Apsey, Mrs. Memcke, Mrs. Myer and Mrs. Tutein. The floor director was Kenneth Hilton and the committee in charge was William Apsey, Kenneth Hilton, Howard Meincke, Harold Myer, Raymond Strawbridge and Dexter Tutein. Besides the committee the following attended: the Misses Amsden, Avery, Benet, Brooks, Emery, Felber, Fiske, Furbish, Goddu, Gutterson, Kirk, Locke, Memcke, Niedinghaus, Roberts, Smart, Smith, Tindall, Trott, and Messrs. Bugbee, Hamilton, A. Harris, H. Harris, Kramer, Lane, Millmore, Park, Rogers, Rohrman, Rowe, Souter, C. Tutein, Tuck and Young.

WINCHESTER HOSPITAL.

The portable house was given by friends of Dr. Cutter. It has a sitting room which is to be used for a place for the friends of patients while waiting during operations, it is also to be used as a consulting room for the doctors and a sitting room for the nurses during the evening when off duty—the piazza is for the use of convalescent patients to recline and get the sunshine. The small room back to be used for a laboratory for the care of hospital. If at the end of two years a new hospital is built the portable building reverts to Dr. Cutter to use as he sees fit.

"How the Vote was Won" given by the Winchester Equal Suffrage League, Town Hall, April 18, at 8 o'clock. Dancing and Cafe afterwards.

The Mysic Valley Garage Co. have received a new Oakland "40" touring car, which will be used for demonstrations. The new product of this well known firm is a beauty in every respect.

BASE BALL.

The opening game of the West Side Triangular League was played on April 4th, between the Wedgemere Athletic Club and the Midgets, and was won by the former, 6 to 2. The game was fast and well played. Bird, for the losers pitched a fine game and deserved to win. Only four hits were gathered off his delivery, while he struck out ten. Blaisdell also played a star game. For the winners, Chapin easily excelled, not only batting and running bases in fine style but also caught a good game. Russell also deserves credit for batting, while Cobb starred in the field.

The game was clinched by the Wedgemere's in the 7th inning. Two bases on balls, two hits, and five stolen bases netting three runs.

Score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
W. A. C.	3	0	1	1	0	0	0	0	—	6
M.	1	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	— 2

Struck out, by Caldwell 3, by Bird 10. Base on balls off Caldwell 3, off Bird 6. Hit by pitched ball, McLaughlin by Caldwell. Left on bases, Wedgemere A. C. 6, Midgets 8. Stolen bases, Young 2, Cobb, Chapin 5, Russell 2, Caldwell, Osgood 3, Blaisdell 2, Bird 3, Eldredge 3, McLaughlin 2. Umpire, Heath. Attendance 50.

The second game in the series of the Triangular League was held at the Junior Athletic Club, and won by them 5 to 4. Their opponents, the Midgets played a good game, but lost in the last inning by errors. The feature of the game was a long three-bagger by Bird, which tied the score. However, two errors and a stolen base enabled the Junior A. C. to score and win. O. Clark and Bird were the only Midgets to hit safely, while Tenney and Russell excelled for the home team. A catch of a line drive by Boudreau, and a hard fly by Murphy featured the fielding.

Score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
J. A. C.	3	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	— 5
M.	1	0	0	0	1	0	1	0	1	— 4

Three base hit, Bird. Stolen bases, Fenno, P. Bugbee 2, Tenney, H. Bugbee, Farnsworth, Murphy, O. Clark. Struck out by Boudreau 13, by Clark 7. Bases on balls off Boudreau 9, off Clark 3. Double play, Boudreau to H. Bugbee to Tenney. Left on bases, Junior A. C. 5, Midgets 9. Wild pitch, Boudreau. Hit by pitcher, by Clark, Cobb, by Boudreau, Getty. Attendance 35. Umpire, Burwell.

The third game of the Triangular League took place last Monday morning and resulted in a victory for the Wedgemere Athletic Club of 10 to 1 over the Junior Athletic Club.

Two base hit, Chapin. Stolen bases, Young 2, Chapin 4, Russell, Osgood 2, Symmes 2, Higgins 2, Boudreau, Plummer. Sacrifice hits, Cobb, R. Clark. Struck out, by Caldwell 3, by Boudreau 5, by Bird 1. Bases on balls, off Caldwell 4, off Boudreau 2, off Bird 3. Double play, Tenney to P. Bugbee. Passed balls, H. Bugbee 2. First base on errors, Wedgemere A. C. 4, Junior A. C. 4. Features, two bagger by Chapin, fielding of Cobb and Tenney. Umpire, Furbish.

At the Unitarian Church Sunday morning Mr. Metcalf will preach on Mrs. Humphrey Wards latest book "The case of Phillip Maynell." It is about 25 years ago now that Mrs. Ward published "Robert Elsmere" which gave the first effect of modern knowledge upon a clergyman of the English church. Her recent novel is her interpretation of the effect of Modernism as she conceives it today. The general public is cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. W. H. Herrick returned Monday from a visit to her daughter at Pittsburg, Pa.

PROBATE COURT.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Abbie T. Wilder, late of Winchester, in said County, deceased.

WHEREAS, certain instruments purporting to be the last will and testament—and one codicil—of said deceased have been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Alfred S. Hall, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex on the thirtieth day of April, A. D. 1912, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Winchester STAR, a newspaper published in Winchester, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, CHARLES J. McINTIRE, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this eleventh day of April, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twelve.

W. E. ROGERS, Register.

SHOE REPAIRING

By the Goodyear Welt System

We have installed a new Goodyear Welt Repairing Machine, and can now sole your shoes so they will look like new. With this machine the new soles are put on just as when the shoe is originally made—sewed, smoothed, cut and finished—and except for such wear as may be on the uppers, cannot be told from new.

This is the first machine of its kind ever placed in Winchester, and does work far ahead of any old fashioned hand method. You are invited to call and see it.

FOLEY WANTS TO ENTER RACE

Peter W. Foley the "grand old man" of the Marathon game, despite the fact that he will be 54 years old by the time Patriots' Day rolls around, has been attacked by his annual Spring hobby—a desire to test his speed and stamina against the best amateur long-distance runners in America.

Foley has forwarded his entry for the B. A. A. Marathon race to the athletic committee of that organization, notwithstanding the action taken by the committee last year, when he was barred because of his age.

The veteran runner, who is a member of the B. A. A., until last year competed for several years with regularity. Last year he was voted a silver medal in recognition of his endeavors.

TOWN MUST DECIDE.

In general it will be noticed that all the cities and towns as large as Winchester, (with the exception of Dedham, Wakefield and Woburn), as well as several which are smaller, undertake the collection of ashes. In no case except Woburn, so far as learned, has any town which formerly undertook the collection of ashes gone back to the system of private disposal, whereas in some towns, notably Norwood, the matter of town collections now being considered. It is only fair to add, however, that the method of regulating ash disposal in force in Winchester is absolutely unique, so far as we can learn, and has never been employed by any other community whether now collecting its ashes or not.

Where a city or town pays for ash disposal the methods pursued are either collection by the town's own teams, this method being employed in Arlington, Belmont, Medford and Stoneham, or collection by a private contractor, who is the lowest bidder, this method being employed in Milton, Saugus, Swampscott and Watertown. The cost of collection by the town per capital, not considering increases in population since 1910, varies from 11c in Saugus to 38c in Arlington. These large differences in cost are accounted for either by local conditions, such as a longer haul to the dumps or a less thickly populated territory, or by the fact that collection by private contractors seems to be more economical, particularly if the contractor collects the garbage, from the sale of which he can realize a considerable return, as well as the ashes. We would, however, strongly advise against any plan involving the collection of garbage by private contractors in Winchester as our present mode of town collection of garbage has proven healthful and economical. The average cost of town collection per capita approximates 25c which your committee believes is a fair estimate of the figures at which Winchester can do this work by either method, particularly in view of the compact population and comparatively short hauls to the dumps. On this basis, Winchester with its population of 9309 in 1910, (perhaps now 9700,) could collect the ashes and refuse for $2500.00 and certainly for not over $3000.00 per annum, which would increase the tax-rate not to exceed 21c. The ashes would be collected, for the sum estimated, by the town from the curb as is done in all other places. The committee cannot recommend that the town agents or employees be allowed to go into the cellar or upon the premises of the householder to collect the ashes, since too much opportunity for friction and complaint would be opened up if persons not under the control or employment of a householder, as is now the case, were allowed to go upon private property. If the town sees fit to undertake collection, your committee would advise that at the outset, at least, it let out the contract for the work to the lowest bidder for a limited period, thus avoiding any initial expense for equipment until it has had sufficient opportunity to compare the results obtained with the conditions now existing and to adopt a permanent policy. The town at the present time has no available horses nor suitable wagons for this work.

Although your committee feels that, in view of the rapidly increasing population in Winchester, meaning longer hauls to the dumps and fewer places to dump, the town must within a comparatively few years at the most take upon itself the collection of ashes and refuse, nevertheless we have decided to set fairly before the town the conditions existing in other communities as compared with the conditions here without making any specific recommendations and to leave the town to take such action as it deems most appropriate. To this end we will briefly summarize the advantages of town collection and the objections against it.

By town collection, instead of having ten or a dozen small wagons owned and operated by as many different persons, each covering practically the same territory, and at irregular intervals, as is now the case, one or two large wagons could do the same work at stated and regular periods each week, or as required, upon established routes under one supervising head, such as the superintendent of streets. All agents or employees of the town would thereby be responsible to one person, no work would be duplicated, the necessary trips to the dump would be materially lessened, and ashes could be moved from the curb to the dump at least with much greater economy and efficiency. Unquestionably this mode of ash disposal is based upon the correct economic theory.

On the other hand, when each householder as at present, sees as to the disposal of his own ashes, the full cost thereof is met by the man benefited and in exact proportion to the benefit he receives, while if the town does the work the cost is met by the taxpayer in proportion to the size of his tax. Although in general, the larger the tax a person pays, the more ashes he has to remove, this does not necessarily follow.

Furthermore, the householder under a plan of town collection would be obliged to roll his barrels of ashes from his cellar to the curb in the morning and to return them when empty on his arrival home at night, or if he employed some one else to do this for him, the total cost of getting his ashes from cellar to curb at his own expense and then from curb to dump in the form of taxes, might well approximate the expense of the present method to him. The objection most commonly urged to collection by the town, however, is the aesthetic one, namely,—the curbs of every street under the town plan would be lined at regular intervals with rows of ash cans,—a feature which would tend to unsightliness in any case and on a windy day might constitute a positive nuisance.

With our statement of present conditions, and with an estimate of the probable cost of collection by the town and a brief summary of the arguments for and against such a plan, we feel that we have placed the question of the best method to dispose of ashes and refuse fairly before the citizens of Winchester. Our investigations, however, have revealed certain other facts about which we feel they should be informed. Whereas in Winchester the general price for moving ashes is 12 1-2c a barrel, in Dedham the citizens pay from 25c to 50c for a full single horse load; in Norwood, nothing generally, the collectors taking away ashes free to get filling, but from the schools, 90c a large two-horse load, in Reading, 10c a can; in Wakefield, from 8c to 10c a can; in Wellesley, 10c [illegible] or a dollar a dozen; and in Woburn, 10c a can or three for 25c. In other words, we are paying in Winchester by the least calculation a price 25 per cent larger than that prevailing in any other town investigated, for doing this work, and so far as we can learn in the other places these prices include the cleaning up of the cellar after taking out the ashes and the care of the dumps which is now done at the town's expense in Winchester. We had a conference with the licensees in Winchester and submitted to them these figures with the suggestion that they reduce their price, at least where they took out a large quantity of ashes at one time, but the suggestion was not adopted.

If the citizens feel that the price they are now paying is unreasonable they seem to have the remedy in their own hands for under the present by-law the Board of Health doubtless has the power to fix a maximum price for taking out ashes as one of the conditions under which the licenses will be granted, the same as is done in the case of hackney carriages by the Selectmen, and if the town so requests the Board of Health such a condition would unquestionably be enforced.

JOHN WHITTAKER BRINGS SUIT.

John Whittaker of Winchester place, was the plaintiff in a suit to recover damages from the Bay State Street Railway company, heard by Judge Maguire in the Municipal building last Saturday morning. Whittaker alleges to have sustained severe injuries while driving through Church street, on the night of September 17, 1911. The street railway company was engaged in repairing their tracks on the street at the time and it was due to the obstruction thus caused, Whittaker, claims, that he ran against an automobile.

He brings suit for obstructing the highway, and damages are estimated by him to be about $1,000.

The entire morning was taken up in hearing evidence and arguments by counsel, after which Judge Maguire took the case under advisement.

Willard F. Carlton of Winchester appeared for the plaintiff.

WINCHESTER PUBLIC LIBRARY

April 2—20, 1912.

Exhibition of etchings by William Unger loaned by the Library Art Club. No. 2, Dutch and Flemish Schools.

William Unger was born in Gottingen, Germany, September 20, 1837. He studied etching under J. Taeter, in Munich, and made Venice his home, where he took first rank in his work.

"But when an artist undertakes to interpret the work of many who differed in mental faculty and in technical training, both from himself and from each other, he must either enter heartily into their ways of thought or else grossly misrepresent them. He then requires that rare gift of a good critic which enables him to enjoy opposite kinds of work, and to admire them with such perfect sympathy that for the time being each may appear right and sufficing in its own order. Unger has this in perfection."

PARK THEATRE.

Hattie Williams, Boston's favorite musical comedy star, returns to the scene of her former triumphs—the Park Theatre—on Tuesday evening, April 16th with an all-star cast in a new farce with music entitled "The Girl From Montmarte" which is now in the seventh month of a sensationally successful run in Berlin. Miss Williams—a Boston girl—has scored many big hits in musical comedy productions, the most famous of which are the "Little Cherub," "The Girl From Kays" and "The Rollicking Girl" but in "The Girl From Montmarte" which will have its first American presentation at Atlantic City on Monday, April 8th and comes direct from there to Boston, she is said to have an even greater vehicle for the display of her talents as comedienne, singer and dancer.

In the big company are such well known artists as Herbert Corthell, Lennox Pawle, the English comedian, William Pruette of "I Want What I Want When I Want It" fame; Arthur Stanford, William Dantorth, Arthur Lipson, Emma Janvier, Edna Hunter, Maude Allan and 75 others. During the limited engagement of Miss Williams at the Park Theatre there will be matinees on Wednesdays and Saturdays and a special performance on Friday afternoon, April 19th (Patriots Day).

MOTION DENIED IN GODDU SUIT.

Judge Hale in the United States District Court has denied the motion to dismiss and overrule a plea on abatement, filed by the United Shoe Machinery Company and officers, to the suit brought against them by Charles A. Strout, trustee of the Goddu Sons Metal Fastening Company, to recover $2,000,000, under the Sherman Antitrust act, for injury to the business of the plaintiff company. It is alleged that the business of the plaintiff company was destroyed by combination and conspiracy of the defendants.

The ground of the motion to dismiss the suit was that it appeared on the face of the record that the court had no jurisdiction, because the plaintiff was a citizen of Maine and the defendant company was a citizen of New Jersey.

The Sherman law provides that suit may be brought against a defendant where he lives or is found and the court says that all the defendants are found in this State. The plea in abatement was that the plaintiff was without capacity to sue in this jurisdiction.

HUMANE DAY.

The American Humane Education Society has arranged through its State Organizer, A. Judson Leach, for the due observance of Humane Day among the public, private and parochial schools throughout the Commonwealth, Tuesday, April 16th, 1912. It is estimated that nearly two hundred thousand pupils with twelve thousand teachers, will join in observing the same with suitable exercises.

The object of this movement, as stated by Mr. Leach in his appeal to teachers, is to awaken interest in the topic of man's duty to God's dumb and defenseless creatures. The society has sent gratuitously a carefully prepared manual of thirty-two pages containing interesting contributions from the Hon. John D. Long, Commissioner Snedden, Dr. Rowley, Prof. W. T. Sedgwick, President Gassod, Judge Robert F. Raymond, Prof. Weysse, Hon. Herbert Parker, Dr. George W. Field, and many others. This is the seventh anniversary of the day.

ASSESSORS' NOTICE

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 41, of Part 1 of Chapter 490 of the Acts of 1909, all persons, firms and corporations, domestic or foreign, subject to taxation in the Town of Winchester are hereby notified and required to bring in to the Assessors of said Town of Winchester, on or before the

in case of residents, true lists of all their polls and personal estates (not exempt by law from taxation,) of which they were possessed on the first day of April in the current year, and in case of non-residents and foreign corporations, true lists of all their personal estates, in said Town of Winchester (not exempt from taxation) which lists must be verified by oath as required by Section 43 of said Part 1.

Under the provisions of Section 42 of said Part 1, as amended by Chapter 515, Acts of 1909, the above-mentioned lists must be in form prescribed by the Tax Commissioner of the Commonwealth. These blank forms may be had at the Assessor's office, or will be mailed to any address upon application.

Section 45 of Part 1 of Chapter 490, Acts of 1909. A mortgagor or mortgagee of real estate may bring into the Assessors of the city or town in which it lies, within the time prescribed by the notice under section forty-one, a statement under oath of the amount secured thereon or on each separate parcel thereof, with the name and residence of every holder of an interest therein as mortgagor or mortgagee. If such property is situated in two or more places, or if a recorded mortgage includes two or more estates or parts of an estate as security for one sum, such statement shall include an estimate of the interest of the mortgagee in each estate or part of an estate. The Assessors shall, from such statement or otherwise, ascertain the proportionate interests of the mortgagor or mortgagee, respectively, in said estates, and shall assess the same accordingly. If, in any year, such statement is not brought in, the tax for that year on such real estate shall not be invalid merely for the reason that the interest of the mortgagee therein has not been assessed to him.

In accordance with Section 41 aforesaid, all persons and corporations are hereby required to bring into the Assessors, on or before the 20th day of May next, true lists of all real and personal estate held by such persons and corporations, respectively, for literary, temperance, benevolent, charitable, or scientific purposes on the first day of April, in the current year, together with statements of the amounts of all receipts and expenditures for said purposes during the year next preceding said first day of April; such lists and statements to be in accordance with blanks furnished by the Tax Commissioner.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

A. Downs, stating that at no time would it be cheaper to the Town to widen Arlington street the full width on this side than now, and inasmuch as he had already intimated to the town that he would make no charge for any taking of his land under this or the Cambridge street layout, it seemed only fair that Arlington street be laid out and built at least as far as his driveway. Also calling attention to the present condition of the road. Referred to the Town Engineer.

Report from F. A. Bicknell, Commissioner of State Aid and Pension Commissioner of Massachusetts, was read stating that the return of State Aid for February 1912, $84 had been received and allowed. Also asking to be notified which of the Selectmen with his postoffice address, the town desires the state to correspond with on this subject for the ensuing year. Referred to Committee on State Aid.

Michael S. Nelson, 78 Cross street, appeared before the Board complaining that the brook running through his land overflowed causing damage; that he had called attention of previous Boards to the subject; that he was put to an annual outlay for repairs, etc., through the relocation of the culvert. The matter was discussed by the Selectmen at considerable length and referred to the Committee on Highways for further attention.

A communication was received from Standard Oil Co. of New York, W. D. McMillan, Manager New England Department, confirming contract for one tank car Standard Asphalt Road Oil No. 6, for immediate shipment; also for treatment of the town streets with Standard Asphalt Road Oil, 30 to 40 per cent. asphalt, applied by their pressure spraying machines, streets to be prepared for such application by the town at once. The Company also to have its Oil Heater Wagon ready at their East Boston yard on demand, to apply the road oil when the car arrives.

A joint session with the Fire Engineers was held on the subject of the Auto Chemical apparatus and on motion of Mr. Pond it was voted that the combined boards be relieved of further discussion in the matter and that Mr. DeCourcey for the Fire Engineers and Mr. Jewett for the Selectmen be delegated to look into the matter carefully and report at the earliest possible moment with recommendations.

On suggestion of Mr. Jewett the clerk was instructed to ask the Town Counsel to inform the Board what are the Town's rights in regard to the water flowing over the sidewalk at the northern entrance to Rangeley.

Also to notify Mrs. Sarah H. Rice, to Oxford street, owner of the property 582-590 Main street to take such steps as may be necessary to discontinue the flowage of surface water over the sidewalks in front of said property.

Under suspension of rules William R. McIntosh was nominated and elected Keeper of the Lockup.

On motion of Mr. Belcher, Messrs. Jewett and Superintendent of Streets, Spates, were authorized to purchased a steam roller according to the specifications from the Buffalo-Pitts Co.

Mr. Daly reported for the Committee on Corporations, that they had in conjunction with Mr. Pond, chairman of the Board, called April 5th upon the President of the Boston Elevated Railroad Co., relating to the matter of having the cars on the Arlington line of the Bay State Railway Co. enter the new terminal at Harvard Square; that they were courteously received and a general discussion followed concluding with an assurance by Mr. Bancroft that inasmuch as he personally favored our request he would take up the matter with Mr. Sullivan of the Bay State Railway Co. At the conclusion of the interview members of the Board feeling that they would like to have the matter come before the officials of the latter road, called at that Company's Office and were received by Mr. Goff, Vice President and General Manager of the Company, who assured them that although the carrying into effect of our request would entail much expense, nevertheless the subject would receive the attention of the officials.

Warrants were drawn for $932.12 and $1612.54.

Adjourned at 11 p. m.

Clerk of the Board.

ARE MICROBES IN YOUR SCALP?

It Has Been Proved That Microbes Cause Baldness.

Professor Unna of Hamburg, Germany, and Dr. Sabourand, the leading French dermatologist, discovered that a microbe causes baldness. Their theory has time and again been amply verified through research experiments carried on under the observation of eminent scientists. This microbe lodges in the Sebum, which is the natural hair oil, and when permitted to flourish it destroys the hair follicles and in time the pores entirely close, and the scalp gradually takes on a shiny appearance. When this happens there is no hope of the growth of hair being revived.

We have a remedy which will, we honestly believe, remove dandruff, exterminate the microbe, promote good circulation in the scalp and around the hair roots, tighten and revitalize the hair roots, and overcome baldness, so long as there is any life left in the hair roots.

We back up this statement with our own personal guarantee that this remedy called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will be supplied free of all cost to the user if it fails to do as we state.

It will frequently help to restore gray and faded hair to its original color, providing loss of color has been caused by disease; yet it is in no sense a dye. Rexall "93" Hair Tonic accomplishes these results by aiding in making every hair root, follicle, and pigment gland strong and active, and by stimulating a natural flow of coloring pigment throughout the hair cells.

We exact no obligations or promises—we simply ask you to give Rexall "93" Hair Tonic a thorough trial and if not satisfied tell us and we will refund the money you paid us for it. Two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain it only at our store—The Rexall Store. Frank N. Abare, Cor. Main and Mt Vernon Sts., Winchester.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

What is unquestionably one of the strongest all-star bills ever seen in Boston is proposed for B. F. Keith's Theatre next week, headed by Edward Abeles & Co; Eddie Leonard; and Lydia Barry. As the star of "Brewster's Millions," Edward Abeles has made thousands in all parts of the country laugh. The comedy is entitled "He Tried To be Nice," and deals with the mishaps that befall a young husband who attempts to be nice to his wife. Eddie Leonard, who last season headed his own big minstrel company, will appear in a new act, assisted by Mabel Russell Lydia Barry, the singing comedienne, and daughter of Little Billy Barry, comes direct from a long engagement in New York City, where she played one of the longest runs on record.

Other big features will be Walsh, Lynch and Co. in a rural comedy sketch entitled "Huskins' Run," Klass and Bernie, two novelty entertainers; Aitken-Whitman Trio, three wonderful contortionists; Strength Brothers, the muscular marvels, and others.

BOSTON THEATRE.

In "The Old Town," George Ade's musical comedy, is a farcically-inclined story which might as well be played without music as with the tuneful illustrative score furnished by Gustav Luders, providing of course, that David Montgomery and Fred Stone continued to play the two leading characters. They laid the foundation of their empire of fun in "The Wizard of Oz," strengthened and solidified it in the three seasons of "The Red Mill," and now come in "The Old Town" with a preassured cordiality of welcome that belongs to the few of America's favorite entertainers. The pony ballet introduce several novel dancing specialities and a big number in which they all play characteristic Scottish music upon the Highland bagpipes.

Montgomery has an extraordinary singing and dancing number with ensemble called "The Modern Japanese" which is esteemed one of the hits of the performance in New York.

KELLEY—TOLAND.

Frederick Kelley of Winchester and Miss Susan Toland of Arlington, formerly of Woburn, were united in marriage last Sunday evening at the parochial residence of St. Agnes Church, Arlington, by Rev. George A. Quigley.

The couple were attended by Henry Kelley, a brother of the groom, and Miss Margaret A. Toland, a sister of the bride. The bride was prettily gowned in white satin trimmed with duchess lace and the bridesmaid was handsomely attired in pink messaline and carried sweet peas.

A reception was held at the bride's home after the ceremony and the couple received the congratulations of their many friends.

GRADE CROSSINGS.

Tortuous Curves—Straight Lines. Stagnation—Development.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The citizens have before them a report of another committee relative to the abolition of the Grade Crossing. As a result we are asked to adopt a plan which gives us a series of tortuous twists and graceful curves laid out in such a way that the main thoroughfare assumes a shape somewhat of a cross between the letter S and a horseshoe. It is not known, of course, whether or not the committee thought its resemblance to a horseshoe might bring luck to the town, but it is obvious that some luck would be needed by Winchester after any such scheme as this were put through, as the disadvantages of the same are practically fatal to its development. We have in the centre a great many blocks and scattered buildings laid out for the usual businesses which are needed in a suburban town. I know of no way of showing what the gross amount of business done by our local merchants is, but know that it must run up into several hundreds of thousands of dollars a year. At one blow, this plan will reduce this centre to a by path,—to suddenly put an end to the activity at this business centre, which has been the result of twenty-five years or more of gradual nursing by citizens.

I recently mentioned to one of the strongest advocates of this single bridge plan that in order to go from Knight's Drug Store over to Abare 's Drug Store, a distance of about one hundred or so feet, with a push-cart or a baby-cart, or something which would be awkward in getting through the foot subway, one would have to go a distance of somewhere around 1800 paces by this ortuous series of streets and bridges. The reply was that there would not be any Knight's Drug Store or any Abares' Drug Store! It is obvious that this would be the result, and I hope business men in the centre will become aware of it in sufficient time to take action as a body and realize for once that their interests are greatly jeopardized.

I know that those actively engaged in business in the town have not been prominently placed on any of these committees. Some years ago, a larger committee composed of fifteen, advocated the raising of the tracks. This was voted down because the citizens were horrified to think that Winchester would have to adopt any plan which would make her less beautiful, but many have now come to the conclusion that after all it is best to either put the tracks up or down. It is worthy of note, that starting from New York City and going south through New Jersey, going west into Pennsylvania, going north up the Hudson and going east towards Stamford or up towards Springfield, in almost every town or city the tracks have been raised and in the other cases lowered. The same is true starting south from Boston, excepting along the Boston & Albany routes through Newton. The same is true of Belmont. People argue that Winchester is placed differently; that it has sloping hills on either side of the tracks. To a certain extent this is no doubt true, but it cannot be that Winchester is unique in her position; that she is the only town out of many hundreds which must needs adopt overhead bridges. Indeed, Belmont had a situation which was extremely like our own, and they tackled the proposition in a business like manner, satisfactory to the great majority, both from the standpoint of aesthetic qualities, preserving the established paths of travel and the established businesses, and from the standpoint of the noise and dust from trains. We all know that smoke from an engine on an elevated structure dissipates into the air very promptly, and we all know that there is no time when a train makes more noise than it does when rushing under a bridge. Picture smoke hitting the bottom of a bridge, slowly recoiling therefrom, and oozing up on either side in a disgusting, black mess, which dissipates very slowly! With retaining walls and a roadbed filled in solid with dirt, there is no more noise from trains on an elevated structure than on a level, and far less smoke. All during this Grade Crossing question the matter of expense has been made a great deal of. I am informed that Winchester has the smallest bond issue compared to its assessed valuation of any town in the Commonwealth, save one. Does Winchester, in view of these facts and in view of its bright future, need to consider a reasonable expense to the extent of making herself ridiculous? We can put a single bridge as suggested across the track near the station at a comparatively small expense; or we can raise the tracks or lower the tracks at a larger expense. The one is obviously a makeshift; the other is something which will adequately preserve lines of established travel, foster flourishing businesses, and give excellent opportunity for further connecting avenues between the East and West sides. If this were a town which was poverty stricken and heavily bonded on the decline rather than on the ascendent, it might be well to buy the cheapest, and pray for the future. The opposite is true;—she can demand and pay for the best, and has already voted $90,000 for the purchase of the Whitney property for a park, not one fiftieth part as important as the proper solution of the Grade Crossing problem.

It seems to me that we are led by the same penny wise and pound foolish doctrine which New Englanders are famous for. Business men say, or rather admit, that for the past decade business has been creeping away from New England. We see our Chamber of Commerce and other associations and organizations rushing about New England in parlor cars and beseeching the farmers to help New England and help Boston, and still those same men will not invest a cent in large industries until they have so salted it with conservatism as to have squeezed out all the juice. We are a good deal like a man who has a glass of milk in his hand on which the cream has risen, cream which he has earned and which he is about ready to take. He first appoints a few commissions to look into his mental and physicial condition, and after considering the matter duly and unduly, he looks around to take his cream,—and finds that the wise man from the West or the South has come along and taken it from him. He drinks the skim milk and is apparently satisfied to continue the process.

In New York, five or six years ago, they wanted an additional subway, to cost $50,000,000, and everybody agreed that such a subway would give tremendous impetus to the city. The bond issue was as large as the law allowed, namely, ten per cent. of the assessed valuation of the real estate, but the assessors promptly increased the valuation by $70,000,000 upon which a bond issue of $7,000,000 was legalized, and the subway built. Within four years from the completion of the subway the city was actually worth that much more; in other words,—they looked into the future and did a big job at the right time, and they won out. I would like to ask how many years or how many decades, perhaps, it would take New England people to do that; in other words,—it would seem that if this town has come to the conclusion that raising or lowering the tracks is really for the best interests, that a reasonable amount of expense therefor should not stop its putting the best plan through.

If this town has been the laughing stock of the Commonwealth on account of its backing and filling in this grade crossing matter, what will be its position if it puts through any such proposition as this single bridge?

There is a little book published each year for distribution throughout New England, mostly for the benefit of summer travellers, in which there is a brief description to each town. Our town is somewhat thusly pictured:—

Winchester—A beautiful town lying on the north side of Boston about eight miles distant; population 10,000. This town is mostly residential, having only such businesses as are reasonably necessary for suburban towns, and which are in a flourishing condition. It lies very prettily situated between hills on the East and hills on the West. It has many ponds and streams, fine residences, schools, churches, clubs and other institutions. It has lately taken a large tract for a park to be laid out within a short time. This town has a very bright future.

Let us hope that we will not read in the same publication eight years hence:—

Winchester—The remains of this town lie on the North side of Boston about eight miles distant; population, 10,000. Persons getting off at Winchester please make inquiries of the conductor and get off on the desired side, as the avenues of approach from the East to the West are rather few and far between. This town was killed on April 22, 1912, and death was due to four causes:—

(1)—The usual and to that extent natural attitude of the steam railroad and the electric car railroad towards any town in grade crossing matters;

(2)—Politics; inability of its citizens to get together as one;

(3)—The penny wise and pound foolish attitude of its citizens in adopting the cheapest proposition placed before them relative to grade crossings, an action all the more unaccountable when this town was in such a flourishing condition, had such a bright future, and when these same citizens had voted $90,000 worth of bonds for a park.

(4)—Too many commissions, sub commissions, commissioners,—too much aesthetic; too little business.

Business Man.

REPLY TO ASH COMMITTEE REPORT.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

In the last issue of the STAR appears a lengthy statement from the committee appointed to investigate the conditions under which ashes are now removed in this town.

In this article there seems to be a suggestion that a certain body of honest toilers are responsible for the price now charged by them in this work and that it is exorbitant.

In April, 1911, the then Board of Health, seeking to improve conditions existing, made certain restrictions regarding the removal of ashes. The persons engaged in this work saw that it would be necessary to raise their price in order to comply with the orders of the Board and they so informed them. At this time the Board of Health agreed with the parties employed in the work, and one member of the Board stated that he would be willing to pay the advanced rate, which was small.

It would seem therefore, that the present price charged is in perfect accord with the views of the Board of 1911; but that one member of that Board, now on the Ash Committee has suddenly changed his mind.

These men are not seeking to form a trust, but simply to earn a fair week's pay in accordance with the restrictions under which they labor, and further that the cleanliness of their work will compare very favorably with the same work in other surrounding towns where it is done by individuals, and not by the town.

The entertainment consisted of a musical program in charge of Mrs. G. L. R. French with Miss Helen G Edlefson and Miss Mabel Wingate as soloist. The program was greatly enjoyed.

GRADE CROSSING.

Analysis of Report of Committee of Five on Abolition of Grade Crossing.

By Rufus F. Herrick and Everett N. Curtis.

Action upon this report and the plan it recommends will be taken at our adjourned town meeting the 22nd, inst. This report has been in the hands of our citizens for some days. A very careful reading of it is indeed necessary in order to dig out the facts from the inferential phraseology used.

Analysis of this report and of the plan recommended by this committee of one overhead bridge at the station, will doubtless clear the situation very materially and will prove to our citizens that by the logical effect of elimination the issue is not this plan of one overhead bridge at the station, or nothing, but on the contrary is really this one overhead bridge at the station or the plan of abolition of the crossing at the centre by the elevation of the railroad tracks. Our articles this past winter published in the STAR prove this to be a fact. We quoted from the official hearings held before the Special Grade Crossing Commission in substantiation of our arguments and we were also familiar with the recent views of the parties interested in this question.

There is no greater obstacle to the progress and development of our beautiful town than the daily menace of this crossing.

We are soon to meet and decide by vote of the town on a matter involving permanent construction and large expense. It can be done but once. Hence the imperative necessity for final action by us along wise and comprehensive lines. Hence the need for careful sober second thought by our citizens, before deciding as to their action on the above report and plan and what their alternate choice as to a plan might be.

In this report the committee state on page 16 that the street will be 80 feet in width but nowhere do they state what the width of bridge will be. Are we to have a 60 foot width in this overhead bridge at the railroad station? If so how much more cogent and forceful appears the strong argument of our former town counsel Mr. Joslin against such a one bridge plan, which he made before the special Grade Crossing Commission at the official hearings, in behalf of our town. Mr. Joslin declared in effect it would be like the narrow part of an hour glass and severely restrict travel and transportation. Our town has always voted adversely in a nearly unanimous manner against any one bridge plan at the station.

Again if the cheapest plan is the only one which this committee really seriously desires to recommend to the town, it must be evident to all of us that some things can be too cheap to be good!

Are we to take it in earnest that a town of about 5000 population, as Belmont, can have their crossing abolished at an expense of about $230,000 by elevation of the railroad tracks, while our town of about 10,000 population and a valuation of approximately $14,000,000 must rest content with no greater sum to be expended by the parties in interest and simply get a cheap, noisy steel bridge at that?

This report states that if the crossing be abolished by the plan of elevating the tracks "the noise created would by reason of the freer lateral distribution be apparently increased."

What can be said of such a worded phase.

The fact of the matter is that traffic over this one overhead bridge at the station will add just so much more additional noise to that which the railroad trains make at present. Can it be said that the five ton motor trucks, heavy automobiles and heavy modern electric cars make no noise when running over a steel structure some 18 feet to 24 feet, over all, in the air? As to the matter of height of a bridge it is well known that but 14 feet clearance is required by law when the railroad runs over the highway, but nearly 19 feet is required by the recent new law where the highway runs over the railroad. Citizens should bear this in mind in imagining how such a huge unwieldy and unsightly structure will look at our station as this one bridge plan provides, from Church to South Main streets.

What are 10 feet to walk up steps to the tracks, when the tracks are elevated, from the station, to the long tortuous and 18 foot climb as is proposed by this committee in their plan of the one bridge at the station?

How about the clumsy and awkward means of access to and from Manchester Field in case our town adopts this long embankment and one bridge at the station. Why, it will practically close Manchester Field from the direct and present easy access from all points!

In order to get the much vaunted advantages of this committee's plan, we are to give up largely for the benefit of the railroad the most valuable portion of the Whitney land recently purchased at an expense of about $90,000 by our town. Why should we give up this land? Cannot this matter also be insistently considered and settled from the standpoint of Winchester's advantages and interests?

It is evident that the proposed Waterways Improvement project which decided our town to purchase the Whitney property is a very valuable asset in attracting substantial citizens to come here to live and to build or purchase homes and thus add very materially to the valuation of property in our town.

But the inference from this report that one bridge at the station will lead to the full fruition of the report of Mr. Kellaway in such future improvements is somewhat indefinite to say the least. We can read into Mr. Kellaways report no such construction nor intention. His work had no connection with abolishing the grade crossing.

The issue is not one bridge at the station or nothing. From this committee's report, a necessary elimination makes the issue one bridge over the railroad at the station, or elevating the tracks at the present crossing by the Stone Arch Bridge Plan, the latter being estimated by the Committee of Fifteen at $285,000.

The town has always by a large majority voted against any one bridge at the station as a plan to abolish the grade crossing, as not being anywhere near an equivalent to the existing facilities for traffic at the centre. In the judgment of the town then, a second bridge would be required, the total expense of which the town would have to bear.

Any plan of one bridge at the station or two bridges means permanently closing the centre. When this is done unsightly heavy fences or concrete walls will be built to enclose the 65 feet right of way of the railroad clear across our square, to prevent accidents.

The curved arches of a bridge at centre over which the railroad tracks could run, if elevated, seem beautiful by comparison. Great emphasis has been placed by the committee upon the supposed danger from automobiles should the plan of elevating the tracks be adopted and the crossing abolished at the centre; no allusion, however, being made to the comprehensive statute passed several years ago by the legislature carefully defining the degree of care to be used by the drivers of motor vehicles; in view of which it is safe to say that if the law is observed, the dangers set forth by the committee are exaggerated if not largely imaginary. If such law is not obeyed, the remedy is plain, and experience has shown that where the law is rigidly enforced and salutory examples made of offenders, the dangers arising from fast driving of automobiles can as a practical matter be fully met and prevented, particularly if supplemented by comprehensive town ordinances.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

Called to order at 7 45 p. m., all present.

Records of previous meeting were read and approved. Committee on Highways reported favorbly on petition of S. E. Newman for repairs to sidewalk on Hillside avenue abutting property of Lucy R. Woodrough, and has directed the Superintendent of Streets to make the repairs.

Recommended postponing action on account of insufficient appropriation, on the petitions of

Chas. F. A. Currier, Chairman School Committee, for a better sidewalk along the easterly end of the High School grounds on Washington street, and for continuing the sidewalk on School street from Church street to the driveway of the Prince school grounds.

Carl A. Stedhof, for granolithic sidewalk on the east side of Lloyd street.

Jas. J. Fitzgerald for granolithic sidewalks on Lawrence street abutting the land of Walter S. Wadsworth; on Hancock street and Highland avenue abutting the land of F. J. Carr; on Lloyd street abutting the properties of Martha J. Hall and Sherared Clay.

Dr. H. L. Houghton, for sidewalk on Pine street side of his property.

George B. Hayward, for granolithic sidewalk upon that sidewalk forming part of Mason street adjoining his premises.

George B. Hayward and others for repairs and granolithic sidewalk on both sides of Crescent road.

Henry C. Ordway and others for repairs to sidewalk on north side of Myrtle street between the Boulevard and Ash street.

On motion of Mr. Pike the vote whereby a junk license was granted to Maurice Tigar, April 8th, was reconsidered.

On motion of Mr. Pike it was voted that a junk dealer's license be not granted to Maurice Tigar.

A letter from Mrs. Susan A. Richardson, 15 Linden street, directing attention to condition of fence separating the town property from the F. S. Richardson estate property. Was referred to Committee on Highways.

On motion of Mr. Daly, John T. Cosgrove was nominated Registrar of Voters to May 1, 1915.

Mr. Daniel Kelley appeared and asked that a granolithic sidewalk be laid in front of his property on Dix street and called attention to the fact that in laying out his lot, he had, by making a curve on the corner, given to the town a portion of his land for the sidewalk and suggesting that this might be considered in adjusting the cost of the granolithic walk. Referred to Committee on Highways.

Mr. Daly called attention to the fact that many towns and cities are now requiring that in the development of new land a curve of 10 feet radius at the four corners of intersecting streets be provided by the owners.

Applications for victualer's licenses were received from George D. LeDuc, Mrs. Clara A. Mullen, R. A. Ferretti, and referred to the Chief of Police.

The following tellers and ballot clerks were appointed to serve for the period ending April 1, 1913.

Ballot Clerks—Curtis W. Nash, Howard S. Cosgrove.

Tellers—Democratic, Daniel E. Hurley, Benj. F. Mathews, Edward M. O'Connor, Robert H. Sullivan. Republican, Fred A. Parshley, Geo. Everett Pratt, William Adrience, William A Kneeland.

Mr. Daly presented the call for the primary to be held April 30, 1912, the polls to be opened from 4 to 9 p. m. and the same was re-referred to Mr. Daly for printing.

Letter received from Massachusetts Civil Service Commission, authorizing provisional appointment of any persons at discretion of Committee on Police, the employment of persons so appointed to continue until a suitable eligible list is established by examination; the provisional appointee forthwith file an application with the Commission, that he may be notified when an examination is to be held; and calling attention to Civil Service Rule 31.

Letter recieved from Annie S. Lord, by her attorneys, Corcoran, Walsh & Cunningham, 43 Tremont street, Boston, notifying the town that on Wednesday, March 27, 1912, about 8 p. m., while travelling on Thompson street, she had received personal injuries by reason of tripping over a water shutoff in the sidewalk opposite Number 10 on that street, and claiming that the shutoff projected two to four inches above the level of the sidewalk and constituted a defect in said way; making claim for damages against the town for the personal injuries claimed to have been received by reason of said accident. Referred to Town Counsel.

Applications for druggists' licenses of the sixth class were received from John F. O'Connor, 546 Main street, and Frank N. Abare, 559 Main street, each accompanied by fee of $2, and certificates of reigstrations in pharmacy, and were referred to Committee on Police.

Letter was recieved from Henry E. Woods, Commissioner of Public Records, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, approving the present manner of safeguarding the town records and recommending that provision be made for giving the Park Commission a safe wherein its records can be protected against fire as required by law. Referred to Committee on Town Hall.

A petition was presented for an incandescent street light on Wolcott terrace from T. Price Wilson, Frank J. and Harriet B. Wills and George E. Wolcott. Referred to the Town Engineer.

A petition from Edgar M. Young, 30 Wedgemere avenue, that the sidewalk at the corner of Wedgemere avenue and Foxcroft road be levelled and surfaced with broken stone, the loam space levelled and the edges marked, was referred to Committee on Highways.

Application for renewal of victualer's license by Charles Young, 11-13 Mt. Vernon street, was returned by Chief of Police with his approval and granted.

At the suggestion of Mr. Jewett of the Committee on Highways the Clerk was instructed to request the Arlington Gas Light Co., the Street Railways and any other public service corporations likely to open the streets this season, to notify the Board what they are likely to ask for this year, in order to avoid opening the streets after new work has been completed.

On motion of Mr. Daly it was voted that the Committee on Highways obtain prices for the laying of granolithic sidewalks and recommend to the Board what allowance should be made to abuttors.

On motion of Mr. Belcher it was voted that the town Engineer be and he is hereby instructed to fix locations for trees on Foxcroft road on petition of Chester B Kelley of 19 Yale street, for which permission was granted March 26th.

On the petition of Timothy Callahan, 12 Elm street, April 1st, the Committee on Highways reported that Mr. Callahan be notified that an examination of Elm street by the Committee showed no reason for making any repairs at present, but that if petitioner had any evidence to the contrary, the board would be glad to hear him in the matter.

Committee on Highways reported on the letter from B. S. Briggs of Lagrange street, that it was the intention of the town to do some work on Lagrange street this year and when that is underway the Board will advise further concerning disposition of the banking referred to.

A petition was received from Geo. W. Dearborn and ten others, tax-payers and abuttors on Herrick street, that said street be repaired with crushed stone, the lines of the sidewalk straightened, gutters re-laid and that the direction of the upper end of said street be changed and extended so that the lines will conform to the town survey and said street connected in straight line with Highland avenue; also that this extension be macadamized and the sidewalks built, with gutters, all to connect with Highland avenue, and asking for a hearing. Referred to the Committee on Highways.

On motion of Mr. Pike it was voted that the Board assign the period between 8 and 8.30 p. m. at each meeting for the reception of parties who wish to present matters to the Board in person.

Under suspension of the rules, John A. McLean, 26 Clematis street, was nominated and elected a special police officer to serve until April 1, 1913.

Mr. Jewett for the Highway Committee submitted an estimate of street and sidewalk work to be done by the Town, calling for $36,716 and another estimate showing that $43,000 would be required to carry out absolutely necessary street and sidewalk work and that called for by citizens whose requests should be approved; and it was decided that the Board should ask for an additional appropriation of $10,000 at the adjourned Town Meeting.

Mr. Jewett reported for the Committee on Highways that bids had been recieved for Portland Cement from Berry & Ferguson, and George W. Blanchard Co., by which it appeared that the best interests of the town would be protected by purchasing of George W. Blanchard & Co. Report accepted.

Adjourned at 11.10 p. m.

Frank R. Miller,
Clerk of the Board.

PAST YEAR'S WORK.

Reports of Visiting Nurse Association Officers.

Following are the reports of the officers of the Visiting Nurse Association presented at the annual meeting held last week:

Secretary's Report.

It is no longer necessary to explain the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association; it has been in evidence for thirteen years and the methods adopted in 1899 still find favor; still, does it seek to give "the best home-nursing possible," and now demands are constantly developing opportunities to accomplish this purpose.

The nurses' visits, besides helping the sick, have brought into their homes a knowledge of hygiene and right living, and have set for them a higher standard of health.

The year has been a busy one and prosperous—3699 visits have been made, representing 740 individuals, one third of these have been visited free of charge, the others have been paid, according to their means, from five to fifty cents per visit.

Many new members and subscribers have been added to the years' income. The usual contributions from individuals and organizations have been received and are gratefully acknowledged—also a receipted bill from the Winchester Laundry, carriage rides from Kelley & Hawes, and gas for the June Breakfast from the Arlington Gas Light Company. The Social Service Department which was comparatively new a year ago, has proved a great blessing—not only, by its clinics, its Mother's conferences, sewing classes and Christmas parties—these are the visible results; but of greater value is the help which leads to a moral uplift of makes possible, a change from demoralizing conditions.

Throughout the year, the Hospital question has been uppermost At a special meeting of the Board of Directors, April twenty-fifth, it was voted to hire a house for two years; to equip it for a Hospital, and prove, by experiment, whether or not a Hospital was wanted in Winchester and if it could be made a success.

A committee was appointed to take charge of the arrangements, and obtain contributions. Besides the $4000.00, already given for this purpose, pledges were made for the support of the Hospital for two years.

During the summer, several houses were considered; and, on the first of December, the house on the corner of Washington and Lincoln street, was leased for two years and plans made to adapt it to use as a Hospital, under the direction of Mr. Robert Coit.

For three months, the Committee devoted itself to this object; great interest was shown by the community; most of the room furnishings were provided by gifts and promises of three free beds were made.

On March eighth, a service of prayer led by the Rev. J. W. Suter and shared by six clergymen of the town dedicated the Hospital to its work; and, on March eleventh, it was ready for patients, with a full corps of nurses and assistants.

During the month, it has had 26 patients and 19 operations and, there are nine patients in the Hospital at present.

It is not possible to express the regret of members of the visiting Nurse Association for the resignation of its president. The first and only President of the association, is identified with it.

She has given of herself unsparingly, and with enthusiasm, wisdom and discretion has guided its councils to happy results. Whatever has been accomplished, during thirteen years, will always be associated with the President, Mrs. Joshua Coit.

Anna J. Gilman, Secretary.

Report of the Finance Committee.

The report of the Finance committee is a most satisfactory one. The townspeople have responded more generously in subscriptions and the membership is larger than any previous year.

There are 292 members of which 49 are new names and 275 individual subscribers. The association is indebted to individual subscribers for $318.57 and to the Fletcher Fund for $360.

Mr. Wm. A. Bates bequeathed $500 to the association which showed how the work is being recognized.

A new member showed her faith by a subscription of $20.

The June Breakfast which was necessarily omitted last year was held with renewed interest this year. The net receipts from the Breakfast were $747.76, there being 1782 tickets sold.

The outlook for the coming year is very promising as 40 new members have already paid their dues.

We trust the development of the Association into broader fields will prove an incentive for even more liberal contributions in the future.

Respectfully submitted,
Anna J. Lombard,
Chairman of Finance Committees.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

It takes some patience to analyze the report of the last grade crossing committee, for it reads more like a report for the railroad than for the town. The information given is certainly very superficial and the conclusions in keeping. The impression given is that the decision of the special commission is final, but the law says: Section 43 of Chapter 463 Acts of 1906:

"A final decree shall not be entered by the superior court upon any report of commissioners setting fourth a plan for the abolition, discontinuance or alteration of a grade crossing, adopting or confirming such plan or authorizing any expense to be charged against the commonwealth, until the board of railroad commissioners, after a hearing, shall have certified in writing that in their opinion the adoption of such plan and the expenditure to be incurred thereunder are consistent with the public interests."

The committee dismisses the right of the public using the ancient County Highway through our center with the words, "we will not greatly concern ourselves about it." But rest assured the County Commissioners and the cities and towns north and south of us will and they have a right to. It considers the business in the center of little account although I doubt if the committee has any idea of the number of firms in business there or the amount of business, and while it thinks one plan is as good as another for the business of the centre, nobody outside of this committee thinks so. If the committee had wanted a basis for limit of cost it would seem as if it might have accepted the sum the other parties in interest, the railroad, street railway and commonwealth have agreed to pay, which is two hundred and seventy thousand dollars, and not have distressed itself so much about what the special commission said in favor of a much smaller amount. Practically nobody believes or will believe in any single bridge plan either north or south of the present crossing, and as far as cost is concerned, as we are looking ahead for fifty years, I consider such a plan would not only be the cheapest but far and away the most expensive we could adopt, based upon net results and effects. No near suburb of a great city at least can afford or should for a moment seriously think of giving up direct ways through its business center and substituting therefor circuitous ways. If we cannot go forward let us at least not go backward. Neither the railroad, street railway or Commonwealth believes this one bridge plan is a good one for the town and have so expressed themselves and the coming town meeting will overwhelmingly vote so

Mr. Rowe's adopted motion will somewhat enlarge the authority of the Ap. Com. but I believe it should be given further authority, namely, to report to the town anything in its affairs which seem to call for publicity. To give a sample of what I mean let me cite a specific case,—the Asa Fletcher Fund Income Account has for many years a considerable cash balance gradually increasing each year and last year reaching in excess of four thousand dollars and yet not a cent of interest has ever been credited to the account. What kind of business management is that? Deficits in another matter that should have attention. I have known accounts to have deficits of ten times the amount of the balance reported at the end of our financial year. This is not peculiar to our town. Watertown found accumulated deficits of sixty thousand dollars a few years ago and there are plenty of others. Publicity is what is needed, even if the Moderator, who has also been a member of the Ap. Com. for the past two years, thinks only cantankerous stockholders of the municipal corporation want more information than offered in the printed reports of the powers that be.

Would it not be wise to have the town counsel decide which are the private streets before the Selectmen decide not to place public street lamps upon them? Although the law is very complicated, it seems as if streets may become public ways without being laid out and accepted by the town.

It is pretty evident the Republican party cannot win with either Taft or Roosevelt, and that LaFollette is its most available man, as both wings should be able to unite on him. The big interests want neither LaFollette or Wilson, and would prefer Roosevelt to either. He has always been a strong protectionist and party man, although like Ben Butler the party he has always been truest to is himself. He is consumed with egotism but is honest and headstrong and while sane is anything but safe.

Is there any other business under article four? Yes just a little, we have a couple of fool votes to consider and knock out, passed at the first session, before we got our feet under us and settle down to business. The committees could do nothing, if appointed.

John H. Carter.

AUTOMOBILISTS FINED.

In court last Friday another batch of automobilists were up for trial on various infringments of the law. All were fined $10 each.

One of the defendeants, Richard D. Bell of Somerville, appealed. The others tried were William J. McCausland of Quincy, Frank W. Dorr of Newton who pleaded nolo, and Charles Rogers of Lynn. John Fowler of Somerville was fined $15 for passing intersecting streets in Winchester without sounding a signal. The extra $5 was attached in this case because the officer testified that Fowler was traveling at a rate of about 25 miles an hour.

Five more were in court Saturday morning and fined $10 each for failure to sound signals when approaching intersecting streets. The defendants were Leander L. Farrand, John T. Sweeney, and Samuel P. Seymour of Boston, Jacob Haswell of Lynn, and George E. Snow of Plymouth.

At a conference of the Boston Milk Producers Co. held in Boston, Tuesday, it was shown that the farmer who creates the milk gets but 2 1-2 cents per quart for this month, while the vender gets eight cents in the retail trade. This average of 5 1-2 cents per quart above the purchase price paid to the farmers covers a fraction less than 1-2 cent for railroad transportation. The average for a six-months' contract offered the farmer is but a small margin over three cents per quart. Notwithstanding the raise in price of feed and labor, the price offered by the contract or for April is nearly seven cents per can less than the winter price.—Athol Chronicle.

Street car manufacturers are making rapid progress in designing vehicles to overcome objections to the standard type. Philadelphia has the "near side car," and now New York has a car which goes one better. The New York vehicle has no steps, the frame being "underslung" on the axles so that the floor is only 10 inches above the rails. The doors are in the center, and the car cannot start until they are closed nor can the doors be opened while the car is in motion.

ATTENDED BY MANY WINCHESTER GUESTS.

The Junior Charity Club musical comedy, "The Knickerbocker Girl," was given in Jordan Hall, Boston last Friday evening before a fashionable audience of eight hundred persons. Many Winchester residents attended the performance and the cast included three ladies from this town. Mrs. Edgar M. Young, president of the club, was cast for one of the principal roles, and her song "Sunday morning" was a feature. Included among the "Casino Girls" in the chorus were Miss Carlene Gleason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Gleason, and Miss Emma Farnsworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Farnsworth. The club numbers many Winchester residents among its members, Miss Florence Bunting of Stratford road, being treasurer.

Among the Winchester people who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Remick, Mr. and Mrs Charles C. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Tenney and son Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Farnsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Gleason, Mrs. Oren C. Sanborn, Mrs. F. E. Cottle, Miss Kimball, Rev. and Mrs. Joel Metcalf, Mr. and Mrs. H. Z. TEACHERS FEDERATION.

Accepting applications of the Salem and Wakefield teachers' clubs for admission the presidents of the associations composing the Massachusetts State Teachers' Federation met at Riverbank Court, Saturday afternoon. The Salem teachers number about 150, the Wakefield teachers, 60. These accessions, following closely on the decision of the Boston Teacher's Club to join the Federation, bring the total membership of the Federation close to 5,000. Chairman H. H. Harris of Lowell of the propaganda committee reported that several other clubs were likely to apply for membership this spring.

President Ernst Makechnie of West Somerville presided. Among the speakers were Miss Anna C. Murdock of the Boston teachers who described the teachers' dramatic entertainment to be given at Ford Hall, May 11; Supt. Frank J. Peasley, Lynn; A. R. Dotman, New Bedford; George I. Bowden, Somerville; Adelaide S. Merott, Medford; Bella F. Batchelder, Lowell; Harriett R. Pierce, Worcester; and W. I. Hamilton, New Bedford.

A special investigation of the teacher's pension question was urged on the Federation. Steps were also taken toward issuing a Federation bulletin as a means of solidifying professional sentiment throughout the state.

THE GRADE CROSSING TO BE ELIMINATED AT LAST.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Next Monday morning, at 11.30 sharp, in the High School Building, the grade crossing question is to be settled for good and for all. The junior boys, with Miss Weeks as moderator, will decide by debate whether the Town Plan proposing to depress the tracks of the B. & M. R. R., or the Stone Arch Bridge Plan, that of raising the B. & M. tracks beginning at the Wedgemere Station, descending to the North is the most advisable.

Mr. Benjamin R. Hodges of Myrtle terrace will open the discussion for the Stone Arch Bridge Plan while Mr. Warren Goddu of Goddu avenue will head the list of debaters in favor of the Town Plan. A committee of five unbiased persons, is to judge the question.

Richard A. Noyes,

SANBORN—MEYER.

Miss Florence Alice Meyer daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Meyer, and James Oren Sanborn were married Saturday at the Meyer residence on Sheffield road, by Rev. Joel Metcalf of the Unitarian Church.

The maid of honor was Miss Helen E. Sanborn, a sister of the groom, and the best man was Harold F. Meyer, a brother of the bride.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oren C. Sanborn and at the time of the announcement of the engagement of the couple, who are very prominent socially in Winchester, it was planned to make the wedding one of the social events of the season.

Mr. Sanborn's health failed, however, and on the advice of his physicians, Mr. Sanborn petitioned the Woburn court to marry without the five days notice as required by law, as it is imperative that he go South for the restoration of his health. Judge Johnson granted the permission and the license was issued by the town clerk of Winchester and the ceremony solemnized Saturday.

A dinner was given at the home of the bride following the ceremony and the couple left immediately for New York and thence they will go to Bermuda.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanborn will be at home after November first at No 3. Sheffield road.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

Again the Easter time of joy has come and the ladies of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union have taken pleasure in sending to the Flower Mission department of their work, in Boston, a crate of eggs to be distributed in the homes where the demon of drink has entered, and made it impossible for mothers and children to obtain even the necessities of life.

The Loyal Temperance, Legion Convention will be held in the Congregational Church Watertown, Saturday, April 27 at 10 30 a. m. It is hoped that a good number of the Winchester Legion will be present. Car fare ten cents each way. Basket lunch. Take car for Arlington at ten minutes past nine.

Ladies' of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union enjoyed a very pleasant meeting at the home of Mrs. Enman, 130 Highland avenue last Friday afternoon. Much work was accomplished for the Frances Willard Settlement Home. At the close of the business session light refreshments were served by the hostess and a social hour enjoyed. Regular meeting of the Loyal Temperance Legion will be held in the Methodist Church Vestry Friday, April 26, at 3 30 p. m. Members please come promptly and remember the candy sale at the close of the meeting.

PRESENTED WITH SILVER SERVICE.

Mrs Joshua Coit, the retiring president of the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association, received a very pleasant surprise when she reached her home 1st Friday afternoon following the annual meeting of the Association, for there she found a handsome solid silver tea service of four pieces.

The gift was made by the hundred odd ladies who had served with her on the board of directors, during her thirteen years in the presidency.

The gift was made informally, being simply left at her home to greet her upon her return.

It has recently been said, by one of the great American nurses to a graduating class of the Boston Training School, that "Nurses are called to the defense of their country in as true and real a sense as was any soldier who ever bore arms and the obligation is one they may not evade. It may be that a nurse's very best service to the state today will not in the least resemble those of the Good Samaritan. She is now called to share in the warfare against tuberculosis—the crusade against social diseases—the campaign for the prevention of infant mortality,—for the keynote of far reaching service is prevention.

The district nurse is becoming a factor and a monitor of extraordinary power in the community in which she works. The combination of nursing functions with sociological situations combine to strengthen her usefulness, and make her the most important figure in the modern movement for the protection of the public health. Are we its community doing our part in the campaign against disease, vice and ignorance?

In the service of prevention done by our Social Service Nurse, Miss Billings, we have The Mothers' Conference, with the aim of preventing infant mortality—a weekly attendance of twenty (20) mothers and babies, a record for a year of one (1) death, two (2) acute cases, referred to the Floating Hospital, returning cured. This conference meets weekly, with a physican in attendance, and two (2) members of the Winton Club as social assistants. As most of the mothers come a long distance, carrying or wheeling their babies, a cup of cocoa is given them before their return home.

In connection with this conference is an evening sewing class for the mothers, conducted by Mrs. Wills, meeting in the evening. Here there is an opportunity to bring garments to be made over, cut and fitted, as well as to learn to mend, knit and crochet. The class has a membership of 22 women, with an average attendance of 12. 124 articles of clothing have been finished.

Inspired by their mother's example, their little girls wanted to form a sewing class. Meeting in our office, with eight girls from 8 to 12 years in charge of Miss Waldmeyer, it soon outgrew our quarters. The class now meets in one of the larger upper rooms in the Prince school, with an attendance of 25 children. "To teach how to keep clean houses, clean bodies, clean clothes, to have wholesome food, and why—under conditions which are discouraging and almost hopeless—has been our effort."

One talk upon the feeding of children from 1 to 8 years was given by Dr Houghton, followed by a demonstration in cooking some of the things advised. Through the kindness of the Fortnightly and the Superintendent of Schools, Mr. Herron, The Domestic Science Teacher gave the instruction to the mothers in the room in the High School for that purpose.

During the summer two mothers and babies enjoyed a week each at The Mother's Rest and 30 mothers and babies a day at Revere Beach, arranged for by Mrs. Mead, and through a gift of money to provide outings for the patients, two parties of children, with the helpers, spent a day each at Revere and Nantasket. Individual patients enjoyed drives and automobile rides during the summer through the kindness of friends of the Association. Several cases of much needed dentistry for the mothers have been successfully completed,—the women making some payment in each case to show their gratitude and appreciation of the work given by our dentists.

Toward the prevention of Tuberculosis we have been able to do our part. The class has met weekly in the office, with Dr. Brown in charge. In the homes the patients have had good supervision, and the cases referred to us from out-of-town sources have been visited and supervised promptly. We still have one case at North Reading Sanitorium, where, with St. Mary's Benevolent Society, we help the family with the payment of the weekly board of the patient.

The adjustment of many trying social conditions has been made by prompt intelligent co operation with our town authorities. The Children's Aid, Children's Friendly Society, and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. The history of many of these cases it is not possible to give publicly, but it is a satistaction to know, some terrible wrongs have been righted—we hope permanently.

That there is a place in town, known to our people, where they can go for sympathy, advise and help, which is in a sense theirs, and that they use it, has been proven by this year's work. This gathering together of the needs and resources of our community, the mutual exchange to help—one set of workers with another—demonstrates one branch of District Nursing.

We have been able to continue and enlarge the work of Social Service in connection with our nursing, through the renewal of Mr. Harrington's gift of $500 for that purpose.

Report of the Supply Committee.

During the past year the Supply Committee has had full scope for its activities and has responded heartily to every demand. Besides the work done by members of the committee there have been many and generous gifts of work. The Western Missionary Society of the Congregational Church made 40 lbs. of lint and 100 yds of gauze into packages and gave both work and materials for 9 infants' nightgowns and nine slips. The Mission Union of the same church made 95 sponges, pulled threads for 250yds bandages and did other work for the Visiting Nurses, and gave both work and materials for garments to be used at the Hospital, St. Mary's Sewing Circle of the Catholic Church has provided work and materials for many and much needed garments.

The Womans' Guild of the Parish of the Epiphany gave us 6 excellent sheets, and made 25 weighing blankets for the babies' clinic, 425 pads and 168 sponges. During the year we have distributed more than 450 children's garments and accessories such as crib, blankets, mattresses, carriages etc:—forty of the garments were made by the Sunbonnet Sisters, the little girls who furnished the nursery in the Hospital. In addition to these there have been given away more than 200 garments for grown people, and many other things have been loaned or given, such as a tent with flooring, a wheel chair, cot mattress, and nursing supplies. The Ladies' Friendly Society of the Unitarian Church hemed a quantity of toweling.

Mr Henry Nickerson gave us 91 yds of bandage gauze. This made about 1100 yds of bandages, some of which Mrs. Frank White has cut and all of which she has rolled. When one understands that each bandage is cut by a drawn thread and what that means to draw a thread for a thousand yards, one appreciates better what it means to keep bandages alone, supplied. Until this year Mrs. White has drawn all the threads as well.

We have purchased 1400 yds of gauze, 1 bale cotton waste and 32 lbs clinic cotton.

We have sold 121 yds gauze, 21 rolls lint and 31 doz pads. There cannot yet be a regular report of the supplies which have been so generously given to the Hospital, but it is hoped that before long there may be a full list of them printed. At the time of the opening of the Hospital many of the donations were mentioned in the STAR—there have been many since then, showing the interest and generosity of our whole town in regard to this our latest effort for usefulness, in a way that must move and touch us all.

A. Underwood, Chairman.

MR. ELDER ON RECALL OF JUDGES.

Samuel J. Elder, speaking before the members of the Nies Club of the Stanton avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Dorchester, said that the questions of the day—the Recall of Judges, the Recall of decisions and tariff revision—were momentous and fraught with more danger than any issue that has interested this country since the Civil War.

Commenting on the tarift, Mr. Elder said that "the experience of the country shows that you cannot revise the tariff radically and have it stay revised.

Changes must be made steadily, slowly and scientifically. For the first time practically in the history of tariff legislation, however, we have got started toward taking the tarift out of politics. It has been a football for generations. We have, under the present administration, made this amount of progress toward scientific information, about items belonging to it, towards revision of a single line of industry at a time and towards a gradual, instead of suicidal revision.

Parlor grade crossing meetings have been plentiful this week among the adherents of the Town and Arch Bridge plans.

The raising by popular subscription of over $100,000 for a new hospital for Melrose, speaks well for the public spirit of the people of that city.

"My hat is in the ring" and "We've slammed them through the ropes." This is the man who is trying to smash the Republican party. John L. Sullivan, the pugilist, is more circumspect.

Woburn appears to be in a fair way of getting its long-sought boulevard. It will connect with the Mystic Valley boulevard and pass through the west side of Winchester and thence to Woburn.

If the locomotive engineers in the eastern section of the United States receive the increased wages which they are demanding, there would be many men who would prefer to be an engineer than an official of a railroad.

A number of cities and towns in this section are more than anxious to have the proposed Canadian Grand Trunk Railroad pass through their territory and appear willing to offer all sorts of inducements. What they expect to gain by having the road pass through their particular city or town is beyond conjecture. It certainly will not beautify.

Governor Foss's scheme for a greater Boston will be violently opposed by those cities and towns which have the best of reason for opposing it. Towns that desire to be merged in a large combination are those which cannot take care of themselves. For example, Hyde Park expects to obtain from Boston what she did not furnish for herself.—[Charlestown Enterprise.] Editor Flannagan knows what happened to Charlestown.

The town can well afford to continue the system of collecting ashes and refuse as now carried on. The collection costs the town practically nothing, and a change to having it done by the town would cost at least $2500 a year, and the service would be no better than it is at present. It is worth more than ten cents a barrel to carry the ashes from the cellar to the sidewalk, and this is what the man of the house would have to do if the town collected the ashes and refuse.

The Boston Real Estate Exchange bill now before the Legislature on the Metropolitan scheme contemplates the administration by Boston of the roads, parks, water, sewerage, police, fire, special technical, industrial and vocational schools, public hospitals and charitable institutions other than city institutions. This bill is modest, to say the least, and leaves little else to the cities and towns but their names. A referendum vote is proposed in the bill, the majority vote of the cities and towns in the entire Metropolitan district to be binding on all.

The report of the special Committee on abolition of the grade crossing has now been in the hands of the citizens for a week, and, no doubt has been given careful consideration. Action on this whole question will come up for consideration at the adjourned town meeting next Monday evening, and it is very important that the town's position be made final at this time. Four methods have been suggested. The Committee's plan, (which is practically the same as the Vinal,) the Guild plan, Redfern two bridge plan and the Stone Arch bridge plan. To our mind the latter is the most objectionable of all suggested. It builds a dirt embankment from one end of the town to the other, and it forever prevents any additional streets being built across the tracks. It is nearly a mile from the centre crossing to Wedgemere, and for some years there has been talk of extending Central street to Mystic avenue, thus giving residents of the west side a much needed crossover. As the years pass, and the town grows larger, crossovers will be needed to meet the demands of increased accommodation. An arch bridge which calls for the raising of the tracks of the steam road, would prevent any such extensions from one end of the town to the other. Another objectionable feature is depressing the street at the crossing seven feet—now the lowest point in town and which ought to be raised that number of feet and not depressed. Aside from these objections is the dirt and smoke, and the deafening noise from the overhead trains. An arch bridge will do more to make and keep the two sides of the town perpetually apart than any other scheme suggested. It is also but fair when considering this report to remember that the committee is composed of able men, who have gone carefully over the entire situation, studied it carefully, and have, as a result, recommended what they consider to be the best method for abolishing the crossing.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

The annual meeting of the club was held in the Town Hall last Monday. About two hundred and fifty members were present. The reports of the chairmen of the various committees, of secretaries and treasurer were read and accepted. Following the election of officers for the year refreshments were served under the direction of the social committee. The tables under the south balcony looked very pretty with pink roses and pink candles as decoration. Mrs. Wills, Mrs. Cole, Mrs. Wellington, and Mrs. Carpenter poured.

The following is the annual Report of the Recording Secretary:

The year 1911-12 was opened by the Fortnightly with an amendment to its by-laws increasing its membership from 400 to 450. The Fortnightly closes the year today with a membership of 450 and a waiting list of 56. One death has occurred in the club during the year, that of Mrs. Harriet E. Dykes. The average attendance has been about 260.

The large membership of our club has enabled us to afford the services of some of the best lecturers, musicians, and readers of the day. We have been addressed during the past twelve months by Professor Chas. Zueblin on "William Morris," by Professor Bliss Perry on "Literary Fashions," and by Samuel McChord Crothers, D. D. on "The Obviousness of Dickens." We have been instructed in art and travel through stereopticon lectures, first by Mr. L. Earl Rowe in his portrayal of "Treasures of the Boston Art Museum;" later by Minna Eliot Tenney in her presentation of "Greece, the Land of Myth and Romance." We have been given an afternoon's "Education in Parenthood" by Dr. Evangeline W. Young. We have enjoyed a concert by the Eaton-Hadley Trio, a group of musicians whose ability we had tested last year, and who fully justified our confidence in giving them the responsibility for our Guest Day entertainment. Nor were we less fortunate in securing for Gentlemen's Night another well-known artist, Mrs. Elizabeth Pooler-Rice. Her graceful dramatic reading of "Cousin Kate" contrasted pleasantly with Mr. Leland Powers' realistic interpretation of "David Copperfield" earlier in the season. A still different type of play was "The Piper," read recently by Mrs. Chrystobal Kidder under the auspices of the Literature Committee.

The most popular entertainments of the year have been those afforded by our own home talent. Last May "The Register" and "The Village School," as presented by the Dramatic Committee, brought out the club members in numbers equalled only by the audience which attended "When Women Vote" and "The Motor Car," the productions of this year's committee. The only other home day was that in charge of the Choral Class, which, under the leadership of Mr. J. Albert Baumgartner, provided a concert quite reaching the high standard of last year's performance.

This excellent program has afforded ample opportunity to the members of The Fortnightly for instruction and entertainment. At the same time there have been provided unusual opportunities for social intercourse. Four teas have been held at the conclusion of regular meetings, one of which was observed as Guest Day and attended by 79 out-of-town guests. Gentlemen's Night, too, was a special occasion when 525 people enjoyed the hospitality dispensed under the direction of the Social Committee. Nor has this energetic committee been satisfied with its regular work for the club. On its own responsibility it has arranged a Waist Party to raise money for new coffee urns and a table-cloth.

The hospitality of the Fortnightly has been extended once this year to the state federation. In March a Home Economics conference was held in Metcalf Hall at which there were present about 300 club women, largely from out of town.

In addition to the conference, our Household Economics Committee has provided for club members a most interesting course of free lectures, occurring once each month throughout the winter.

Another monthly series of lectures has been offered by the Art Committee on the subject of "Pottery," which has been further illuminated by an excursion to the Paul Revere Pottery of Boston. The Art Committee has also done the club good service in keeping it informed of the exhibition and lectures at the Boston Art Museum as well as by its practical assistance in decorating the Town Hall for Guest Day and Gentlemen's Night.

The Literature Committee has conducted a very successful class in current literature, meeting twice a month in the High School library.

The Choral Class, already mentioned, has been the main interest of the Music Committee, although it has had the supervision of the music of the year's program.

Four classes in all we have had for club members. This does not mean, however, that self-improvement has been the only aim of The Fortnightly. There has also been an evening class in dressmaking for working girls, conducted once each week by the Education Committee. The same committee has arranged a series of four cooking lessons for young mothers. Sixteen young women have attended these lessons and have enjoyed the instruction of the High School cooking-teacher and the facilities of the school laboratory.

The vacation school, under the direction of the Philanthropy Committee, has had an average attendance of 125 pupils a day. The increase in numbers was not large, but the marked improvement in the system and management of the school was the well-earned reward of long experience by past and present workers. To the Philanthropy Committee belongs also the credit for the disposition of the Fortnightly Scholarship, which has given a Winchester girl a course at the Winter Hill Business College.

The Playground Committee provided a director and an assistant for the Chapin School playground throughout the summer, and worked in co-operation with the Park Board in its management of Manchester Field. It is estimated that the two playgrounds were used by as many as 400 children, a fact which testifies both to the ability of the directors and to the popularity of their standards of courtesy and fair play. Much of the success of the work should be attributed to the personal supervision of a vigilant committee.

The Civics Committees has been helpful to the club in keeping the members informed of the recommendations of the Drama League, and the Legislative Committee has kept closely in touch with the work of the state committee of that department.

The Press Committee has served the club with faithfulness and efficiency in its regular and accurate reports to the STAR and the Transcript.

Perhaps our least conspicuous and most appreciated committee is the Courtesies Committee. Only those who have suffered illness or bereavement can testify to the value of its unobtrusive service.

Apart from its committee organization, the Fortnightly has done some philanthropic work as a whole. It has voted $125 for the furnishing of a room in the new Winchester Hospital. It has been instrumental in the forming of a People's League through a conference of twenty-five Fortnightly ladies with twenty-five Winchester gentlemen who were interested in the project. It has contributed $147.55 to the general federation endowment fund.

To the state federation we have given the services of several of our members. Mrs. Wellington has been the state treasurer; Miss Folts, the chairman of the Playground Committee; and Mrs. Herron a member of the Home Economics Committee. The federation meetings, at New Bedford, Haverhill, and Boston, have been well attended and fully reported.

Not only have we given to the federation; we have also received from it. Last October, at the celebration of our Thirtieth Anniversary, Mrs. Henry C. Mulligan, the federation president, came to Winchester and made a brief address to our club. She left with us the ideal of the club woman as an intelligent, high-minded, altruistic worker, in her home and in her town. It is an ideal which may not have been fully attained by the members of the Fortnightly in the past year, but which they have gladly held before them.

Helen A. Hall, Recording Secretary.

The officers elected were as follows:

President, Mrs. N. M. Nichols; First Vice President, Miss Maude Folts; Second Vice-President, Mrs. Vincent Farnsworth; Treasurer, Mrs. Mary P. Symmes; Recording Secretary, Miss Helen A. Hall; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Mary H. French.

Chairmen of Committees—Household Economics and Pure Food, Mrs. E. C. Wixom; Civics and Forestry, Mrs. C. L. Mitchell; Education, Mrs. R. D. A. Thompson; Literature Mrs. M. D. Kneeland; Music, Mrs. J. L. Tufts; Legislative, Mrs. S. E. Randlet; Art, Miss Cora A. Quimby; Philanthropy, Mrs. W. D. Eldredge; Dramatic, Mrs. C. S. Whitten; Member of Finance for three years, Mrs. N. A. Knapp; Member of Finance for two years, Mrs. B. T. Morgan.

Membership Committee—For three years Mrs. F. N. Kerr, Mrs. G. S. Rice.

Next Monday, April 22, is the date of the first meeting of the Fortnightly for the new year. The meeting will be an open one. This means that any one desiring to attend may do so without a guest ticket on payment of twenty-five cents. There will be an illustrated lecture on "Luther Burbank and His wonderful Plant Creations" by Herbert W. Gleason.

GRADE CROSSING.

So far as concerns difficulty of observation where arches over the highway are employed because of obstructions to the vision, it is only necessary to point out that there is no reason why the piers could not have curved faces and the spans made thereby more open to the view. Curved surfaces on the wing-walls of the abutments of this arched bridge also give an open view.

Then again, were additional passage ways provided for pedestrians, one through each end of the abutments of this arched bridge as has been suggested, the problem of danger as to people not in vehicles would be entirely eliminated. Obviously therefore with reasonable precaution, arches at the center can be made as safe as would be possible with any plan, although it must be observed no plan of any kind can be made automatically proof against possible danger.

The necessity for definite action at the town meeting the 22nd inst. and voting for some other plan than one bridge at the station arises from the fact that unless the town takes definite decisive action against it, there is strong presumption warranting conviction that the Special Grade Crossing Commission will decree the early abolition of the crossing by one overhead bridge at the station, even if the town does vote against it, but adopts no plan. In such a case our remedy is very doubtful. We must therefore unite in some definite alternate plan and press it to adoption, giving up our individual plans for the good of our beautiful town. The plan whereby the tracks are elevated and the crossing abolished at the center provides an adequate, final and desirable plan. We must remember it is six years since the commission has received any affirmative vote of the town; hence the urgent necessity of a present vote of the town to emphatically advise the commission of what we intend to have.

In examining the plan of the committee, anyone must be impressed with the close resemblance of the general lay out to that at the Wedgemere Station. The station is seen located in about the same position, the western approach thereto is nearly identical, and on the east an approach for passengers similar to the unsightly foot bridge leading to Wedgemere station (left out on the Kellaway plan) is presented. It should also be borne in mind that the bridge here shown is eighteen feet or more in the clear over the tracks, making the same somewhat higher than the other bridge, and consequently more of an obstruction.

One would think from the report of the Committee of Five that it was a question of the party in interest paying the most money having the greatest say; but obviously the entire matter is one of the rights of the public and is not effected even if the railroad were compelled by law to bear the sum total of the expense. It is not so much a question of "co-ordinating the more or less conflicting elements into a mean," and to thereby follow the line of least resistance, as it is of insisting upon a solution which will be for the best interests of the people. The paramount and controling interest to be considered is that of the public, and such interest cannot be said to be "closely seconded" by the money interest of the railroad, since a public menace or nuisance cannot be extenuated or excused because of the large amount of money invested, or of the cost necessary to abate such conditions. No railroad has ever yet been given the right by the legislature unduly to endanger the lives of the citizens of Massachusetts, or to violate those rights which are necessary to the reasonable enjoyment and preservation of private property; and if the railroad, even through no fault of its own, attempts to exercise such right, it may be held accountable to the people and compelled to pay the cost defined by law in adjusting the conditions to conform to the public welfare. If the security and convenience of the citizens of Winchester demand the abolition of the grade crossing at the center, the fact that the railroad would be obliged by law to pay 65 per cent of the cost of such abolition cannot, therefore, for one moment stand in the way of paramount civic necessity.

Considerable capital is made by the Committee of Five of the small bridge shown on the Kellaway Plan north of the present crossing, for the Waterways Improvement in Winchester. Mr. Kellaway made no suggestions and did no work whatever in connection with the abolition of our grade crossing. To say that Winchester is committed by his above plan to a bridge over the tracks at this point is consequently erroneous as it was merely a suggestion by Mr. Kellaway to connect such future park systems contemplated in Winchester.

If a boulevard bridge is desired at some future time at this point, it is equally as feasible to have such a bridge run under the tracks, and the plan of abolishing the grade crossing by elevation of the tracks is therefore wholly consistent with the Waterways Improvement Plan in Winchester. In this connection the idea of an expensive new street, over Whitney's pond, needed to supplement the plan of the Committee of Five in their proposal whereby the grade crossing is to be abolished, differs in some very fundamental details from the Waterways Improvement Plan. This is so because Mr. Kellaway's plan naturally confined itself to purposes of a boulevard or road for park, and pleasure driving purposes,—he making no suggestions and having done no work in his plan in connection with our grade crossing problem. By the automatic process of necessary elimination, the committee finally arrives at the consideration of the Stone Arch Bridge Plan, which it admits has "undoubtedly a great deal of merit," but refuses to recommend, because in the committees opinion, it is inferior to its own. The only objection seriously urged by the committee against elevation of the tracks is that of danger from motor vehicles. The feasibility of draining the depression under the tracks is granted; the objection of an embankment is stated to be over-estimated; it is stated there would be more noise; but against this may be cited the experience of Belmont where leading citizens state any difference in noise is not observable; the matter of the extension of Mystic avenue is indefinitely set forth, since it is perfectly feasible for a foot passage to be provided directly through the embankment with the tracks raised and this is probably all that would be required.

As we said in our last article in the STAR March 1, 1912, we favor the town voting to have the hearings re-opened as soon as possible before the special Grade Crossing Commission, for the purpose of presenting fully and completely for their consideration some definite plan for the elimination of the grade crossing at the centre by the elevation of the railroad tracks in the near future.

LATEST GRADE CROSSING SCHEME.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

On page eleven of the latest grade crossing report, just distributed, the committee plainly indicates a most unaccountable want of consideration and sympathy for the local business interests of the town, which for many years have clustered about the ancient Town Square. The report says the business center cannot be moved in any event, no matter how much it is damaged, which certainly is a very poor reason for making it more unimportant than the committee claims it to be at present. It also says that the consequential damage to business stands, stores, offices, halls, etc., "is more imaginary than real" if one half the square is given up to the railroad and the other half cut up into two narrow strips on the east and west sides. The committee further reports that "our business center will probably continue to be of a comparative unimportant character for years to come." In fact, present local business in Winchester and local business "for years to come" is not worth much consideration, according to the committee, in considering 1912 grade crossing plans.

All this seems cold blooded and very unsympathetic toward Winchester's local business interests. Not a single local business man was put on the committee, which certainly seems wrong when local interests are the most interested in the abolition of the crossing. The committee does not seem to have proper information in regard to the importance of local business interests, or it would not belittle the subject as it unconsciously does. If it had consulted the town assessors it might have received information of the rapid increase in value of property abutting upon and situated near the Town Square during the past ten years. It is to be doubted very much if the assessors would agree with the committee, under oath, that Winchester "as a suburb of a large commercial city" has a business center of small comparative value which will not increase in value in proportion as the town valuation as a whole increases. If the committee's plan is adopted, there will probably be a good chance for the committee to obtain legal evidence that their present opinions are largely "imaginary" as regards the value of business property and interests abutting the Town Square.

The older citizens of the town and the local business interests probably value the little village square just as it is, so far as its size is concerned, much higher as a town asset than do the committee of five, who certainly think little of it. It seems unnatural to those long identified with the town to change the tides of travel which have flowed in old Colonial channels for hundreds of years and which have been improved at great cost, into a new crooked, up and down hill channel, very inconvenient for travel to a greater part of Winchester citizens. If there is any way possible to go over or go under the railroad at the center in place of wiping the center off the town map, the committee's plan, even if it is just what the railroad favors, should be voted down for this reason alone if for no other, that it completely spoils the town center and will injure the town much more than even the present unsatisfactory state of affairs.

It is for the voters of the town to decide the matter now. The town has had all the plans it wants and all the committee work of patriotic citizens necessary to assist those who cannot think for themselves regarding the best way to obviate the grade crossing.

All should vote on the subject expressive of the will and desire of Winchester, and not of the railroad company, even if Winchester's desire is defeated in the end.

NEW PASTOR FOR METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Rev. L. William Adams of Lynn has been appointed pastor of the Winchester Methodist Episcopal church to succeed Rev. Charles W. Blackett. Mr. Blackett has been appointed to the Stanton Ave. church of Dorchester.

Rev. Mr. Adams was born in Williamstown, Vt., the son of Luther Adams and a cousin of Elisha Adams of the Concord Biblical School of N. H. He fitted for college at Cushing academy, Ashburnham. Rev. John H. Mansfield of this town was his pastor for a year during his course there. In 1884 he entered the School of Theology of Boston University, and graduated after three years. In 1886 he married Miss Emily Josephine Stetson of Roxbury and the same year joined the N. E. Conference.

He has served the following churches: Wilmington, Swampscott, Danvers, Maplewood-Malden, Webster Square-Worcester, Marlboro, South Framingham, Beverly and Oakwood Avenue-Lynn. Mr. Adams' pastorates have been marked by spiritual, social and material success, never more so than his last appointment. He will preach for the first time in Winchester this coming Sunday.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE.

Miss May Gay, a member of the Mass. Woman Suffrage Association read a most instructive and comprehensive paper before the Study Group of the Equal Suffrage League, Friday, April 5, at the home of Miss Murdock on Church street Miss Gay is a college graduate and brought a well trained mind to the contemplation of her subject. There ate always guests at these meetings who are glad to hear and understand the arguments and the members themselves always find something new set forth by older workers to strengthen their faith in the cause which they have espoused. The speaker is chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Mass. Woman Suffrage Association and had interesting experiences to relate. She had been doing very strenuous and continuous hard work in interviewing legislators and getting their points of view and was naturally disappointed when several who had declared their intention to vote for the suffrage measure, at the hearing last week, failed to keep their promises.

Though the result showed a gain of seventy-two votes over last year, the requisite majority was not secured, but she feels sure it would have been were it not for the back sliders. Legislators from the country voted more largely in favor than those from the cities—the liquor interests are all against us in the latter and the western part of the state was practically solid for suffrage. It is found that the same people vote against us in the latter and the western part of the state was practically solid for suffrage. It is found that the same people vote against us each year,—what influenced the change in the votes promised has not yet transpired—but this incident does not tend to give confidence in the stability of such men on any question and one naturally inquires whether they are the best men to hold so responsible a position.

Miss Gay touched on many of the arguments that have been set forth before in these columns, dealing with them in her own way. She reminded her hearers, many of whom were ignorant of the fact, that in thirty-three states the law, made by men, still gives the father full control over the children. Indeed, in enlightened Massachusetts, where women are not allowed to vote, the law giving mother and father equal guardianship over the children was secured only a very few years ago, and that after a struggle by the women of fifty-five years, while in Colorado, where women do vote, it took only one year to put such a law on the statute book. The conditions of working people revealed by investigations chiefly carried on by women, were discussed. The unhygienic conditions in our factories - the danger in the use of the "Kissing Shuttle," which can only be threaded by the mouth, and so perilously spreads tuberculosis and other diseases the unsanitary conditions of the drinking water, furnished in many mills in unclean pails, with only one cup for all to use—and intexule factories, where the water is frequently covered with a blanket of lint with which the air is filled—the menace to the whole community that inheres in ready-made clothing because of the diseased condition of the workers and the homes in which the work is so often done and where supervision is almost impossible,—these and many other dangerous to which workers are subjected call for immediate change. Men and women are alike subjected to such conditions, but men have not yet remedied them and relief in many cases can only come through law. Women who often have more leisure for investigation than men, realize the dangers and feel that they are needed to help in the same way as men by their votes. The point of view of women is frequently different from that of men, therefore their influence would not be in exactly the same direction as mens' and the expression of their opinion should be called for and respected—the ballot is the expression of opinion. When women begin to work for better conditions, they find just what they found in the fifty-five years of struggle above referred to, that the ballot alone can change laws. References were also made to the English situation and we were remined that we are not in a position to judge of the action of the "Militant suffragists," because politics are so different in England, from what they are here. She said Lord Hobhouse, a member of the Cabinet, told the women that if they wanted to get their cause along, they must do something to attract attention, and reminded them that when men wanted an extension of suffrage, at one time, they burned Nottingham Castle! Is it any wonder that earnest suffering women paid heed to the suggestion? People who are willing to go to prison and to torture and even to death for a cause should command our admiration, even if we cannot understand their methods. We have not their point of view. Much interest was shown in the paper and the following discussion, and four new members joined the League.

BOSTON THEATRE.

One of the pleasing announcements of the spring season is the re-entry to the legitimate stage of Andew Mack, the sweet-voiced tenor, who will again be seen in his famous romantic character of Tom Moore. Andrew Mack is too well known both for his portrayal of these dashing Irish romantic roles and his sweet, silvery singing voice to need further introduction to theatre-goers, but a few words regarding a play woven around the incidents in the life of the celebrated Tom Moore are always of interest to the admirers of his poems and works. In fact, there are few, if any, of the Irish celebrities today who hold the warm place in the hearts of the public the world over as that occupied by the memory of Tom Moore.

Theodore Burt Sayre, has put the character of Tom Moore in stage story form for Mr. Mack has but an absorbing lifelike tale of the incidents in the career of Tom Moore that have become historical facts

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

When Frances Starr makes her initial appearance here in her new play, "The Case of Becky," at the Hollis Street Theatre next Monday, April 22, she will be welcomed by probably the largest and most discriminating audience of the year. The magic of David Belasco's name, coupled with his record of past performances in this city, already assures this. Mr. Belasco is at least thorough in preparing a new drama for the stage; he declines to give verdict until he is ready to accept it.

Miss Starr's first appearance at the Hollis has aroused, therefore, unusual expectation. Her excellent work here in former plays deserves this compliment.

The names of supporting actors assure an uncommonly fine cast. They are Charles Dalton, Albert Bruning, Hugh Dillman, Mary Lawton, Harry C. Browne and John P. Brawn.

THE THREATENED STRIKE OF ENGINEERS.

A "fireside campaign" has been undertaken by the Committee of Railroad Managers, who are in controversy with the locomotive engineers on the subject of wages. Pamphlets containing the demands of the men and the answer of the railroads are being sent broadcast throughout the territory affected.

The railroads' pamphlet is addressed to all railroad employes, railroad shareholders, bondholders, and the public. "Please take this home, read carefully, and let your families read it," is the request made by the roads. "What the Men Ask, What the Railroads Reply, What the Public Thinks," is the homely title of this unique booklet, which indicates the length to which the railroads are going to see that the public and all railroad employees are fully informed of this wage controversy, which the roads say threatens bankruptcy for a number of the lines.

While the engineers are circulating a strike ballot among the employees of the different lines, the managements of the railroads are putting in the hands of the employees in train service this pamphlet, which, in addition to the demands of the men and the roads' reply, contains editorials reprinted from a number of the country's leading newspapers. It is being sent to the bondholders, shareholders, members of Boards of Trade, Chambers of Commerce, and other commercial bodies in the territory in which the railroads affected by the engineers' demands operate.

Never before in a concerted wage movement has the side of capital come before the bar of the public opinion to plead its case along the unusual lines adopted by the railroads. It was learned yesterday that 100,000 copies of the "fireside" booklet had already been mailed, and it is expected that more than a million copies will be circulated before the week is over.

Exhibition of etchings by William Unger loaned by the Library Art Club. No. 2, Dutch and Flemish Schools.

William Unger was born in Gottingen, Germany, September 20, 1837. He studied etching under J. Taeter, in Munich, and made Venice his home, where he took first rank in his work.

"But when an artist undertakes to interpret the work of many who differed in mental faculty and in technical training, both from himself and from each other, he must either enter heartily into their ways of thought or else grossly misrepresent them. He then requires that rare gift of a good critic which enables him to enjoy opposite kinds of work, and to admire them with such perfect sympathy that for the time being each may appear right and sufficing in its own order. Unger has this in perfection."

ASSESSORS' NOTICE

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 41, of Part 1 of Chapter 490 of the Acts of 1909, all persons, firms and corporations, domestic or foreign, subject to taxation in the Town of Winchester are hereby notified and required to bring in to the Assessors of said Town of Winchester, on or before the

in case of residents, true lists of all their polls and personal estates (not exempt by law from taxation,) of which they were possessed on the first day of April in the current year, and in case of non-residents and foreign corporations, true lists of all their personal estates, in said Town of Winchester (not exempt from taxation) which lists must be verified by oath as required by Section 43 of said Part 1.

Under the provisions of Section 42 of said Part 1, as amended by Chapter 515, Acts of 1909, the above-mentioned lists must be in form prescribed by the Tax Commissioner of the Commonwealth. These blank forms may be had at the Assessor's office, or will be mailed to any address upon application.

Section 45 of Part 1 of Chapter 490, Acts of 1909. A mortgagor or mortgagee of real estate may bring into the Assessors of the city or town in which it lies, within the time prescribed by the notice under section forty-one, a statement under oath of the amount secured thereon or on each separate parcel thereof, with the name and residence of every holder of an interest therein as mortgagor or mortgagee. If such property is situated in two or more places, or if a recorded mortgage includes two or more estates or parts of an estate as security for one sum, such statement shall include an estimate of the interest of the mortgagee in each estate or part of an estate. The Assessors shall, from such statement or otherwise, ascertain the proportionate interests of the mortgagor or mortgagee, respectively, in said estates, and shall assess the same accordingly. If in any year, such statement is not brought in, the tax for that year on such real estate shall not be invalid merely for the reason that the interest of the mortgagee therein has not been assessed to him.

In accordance with Section 41 aforesaid, all persons and corporations are hereby required to bring into the Assessors, on or before the 20th day of May next, true lists of all real and personal estate held by such persons and corporations, respectively, for literary, temperance, benevolent, charitable, or scientific purposes on the first day of April, in the current year, together with statements of the amounts of all receipts and expenditures for said purposes during the year next preceding said first day of April; such lists and statements to be in accordance with blanks furnished by the Tax Commissioner.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

Something decidedly new and novel in the way of vaudeville productions is announced for B. F. Keith's next week, in Joseph Hart's latest production, "The Opening Night," a forty-five minute playlet in three scenes, written by George V. Hobart, author of "Cherie," "Peaches," "Dinkelspiel's Chirstmas," and "Everywife." The Opening Night" tells an intensely interesting story full of fun, pathos, and realism, and is in three scenes.

"The Opening Night" will be but one feature of a splendid bill, a big spectacular number being B. A. Rolfe's "Courtiers," a brilliant company of musicians, who dress in Colonial costume and, appear in beautiful stage setting; Nate Leipzic, a great German trickster; Harry H. Richards and Bessie Kyle in a comedy called "A Regular Club Fellow; Lew Brice and Lillian Gonne, two clever kinds; and Dean and Price in a novel specialty.

IN THE CAUSE OF THE HOME AND THE STATE.

On Friday, March 29th, a parlor meeting of the Winchester Anti-Suffrage Association was held at the house of the Misses Joy, Washington street. After the business has been transacted, two interesting phases of the question of woman-suffrage were discust.

One of the members had been askt to tell what to her was the strongest argument against woman-suffrage. She stated that to her the need of woman in the home, and the fear of the gradual disintegration of the home, if women attempted to be politicians as well as home-makers, was to her the most powerful argument; and she read from the writings of three women whose intellectual attainments, as well as their occupations and opportunities for judging of the status of women, make their opinions of especial value. Before reading these, however, she read an entertaining introduction of her own, in which she made an amusing application to the present, unsettled condition of the feminine mind of a part of Hamlet's soliloquy, and of the nonsense verses:

"The centipede was happy quite,
Until the toad, for fun,
Said, "Pray which leg comes after which?"
This workt his mind to such a pitch
He lay distracted in a ditch,
Considering how to run."

She expresst the hope that before long someone would find a parasite for the germ of the disease, "Votes for Women." She predicted that a period of reaction and calm would then follow the present deplorable unhealthy agitation, and that women would finally realize that in devoting their energy and powers in solving some of the many vext problems in the domestic life of the present day,—problems men cannot solve for them—they would be doing a far nobler and more valuable work than in feeble attempts to do the work of men.

The women from whose writings she read were Jeannett L. Gilder, founder of "The Critic," and sister of the late Richard Watson Gilder, poet, philosophet, and philanthropist, whose opinion of woman-suffrage agreed exactly with that of his sister; Emily P. Bissell, whose position in New York has given her opportunity to become acquainted with all sorts and conditions of women; and Mrs. Clara T. Leonard, the first woman member of the State Board of Health, Lunacy, and Charity of Massachusetts. The late Senator George F. Hoar characterized Mrs. Leonard as "the highest living authority on private and public charities." Surely we ought to consider well what such women say, and I wish every woman in the land might read their papers on the subject of woman-suffrage. In this report an be given, of course, only a few short extracts. They all agree that woman has no place in politics; "that her power is far greater without the ballot, when standing outside of politics, she discusses great questions upon their merits; that the best work she can do for the purifying of politics is by the wise training of her children, by her unselfish counsel to husband, brother, or friend; by a thorough knowledge and discussion of the needs of her community."

"If women had conquered their own part of life perfectly, one might wish to see them go forth to set the world to rights. But, never were domestic conditions so badly attended to. Until woman settles the servant question, how can she ask to run the government? You will find on the side of woman-suffrage all the men and women who believe in socialistic Utopias, community homes, free love, the care of children by the State, etc. The best suffragists do not like them and disown them. But you cannot get them away from suffrage, for it fits exacatly into their scheme of the destruction of the family and the private home. Anarchist and socialist, and communist are all in favor of woman-suffrage."

"Many of the women who are enthusiastic in the cause of suffage seem to think that if they were once given the power to vote, every vext question would be settled, every wrong righted. By dropping their ballots in the box, they believe they can set in motion the machinery of an earthly paradise. It is my opinion that it would let loose the wheels of purgatory."

"In these peaceful New England homes of ours, great and noble men have been reared by wise and pious mothers, who instructed them, not in politics, but in those general principles of justice, integrity, and unselfishness, which belong to and will insure statesmanship in the men who are true to them."

The last extract read was from Dr. Henry Van Dyke. He says, "To the hands of women the ordinance of nature has committed the trust of training men for their country's service. A great general, like Napoleon may be produced in a military school; a great diplomatist, like Metternick, may be developed in a court; a great philosopher, like Hegel, may be evolved in a university; but a great man, like Washington, can come only from a pure and noble home. The greatness parental love cannot bestow; but the manliness is often the mother's gift."

The other point considered was "The Tax-paying Woman." About ten years ago, the suffragists submitted to our Legislature a bill asking municipal suffrage for tax-paying women. This was a most extraordinary bill to come from a party so bond of calling the opponents undemocratic, for nothing more undemocratic could have been askt for. It was asking a republic to set up a plutocracy; and, of course, our lawmakers quickly relegated such a bill to oblivion. Now another undemocratic petition is that surffage be thrust upon all women because a small minority of women pay taxes. The war cry has been "Taxation without Representation is Tyranny."

Miss Marsh, to whom this topic was alotted, made some wise selections from the writings of men, well-fitted to speak on the subject. Mr. Chas. R. Saunders, of Boston, says of "Taxation without Representation is Tyranny," that "no phase in pohtical discussion is used so frequently with less comprehension of its real meaning. When James Otis used those words before the Revolution, he used them with reference to the action of the British Parliament in imposing taxes upon the colonies, without allowing anyone representing them to have a seat in Parliament and state their needs and participate in the law-making power. That is what Otis and Adams and Hancock meant by taxation without representation, and such taxation as that was tyranny. But nothing was further from those men's minds than that every ndivdual paying a tax should, in consequence of such payment, have the righ to vote."

"The fact is that the payment of taxes and the right to vote have no connection whatever. The Boston Terminal Company, paying a tax of $218,000, is the heaviest tax-payer in Boston; but it has no vote. The largest individual taxpayer of Boston could not vote, if he could not read and write. Minors are fully taxt on their property and so are aliens, but neither class can vote. This theory that taxation and voting go together would lead directly to the establishment of a government based on property"—directly opposed to the spirit of our government.

Dr. Lyman Abbott says that "Taxation without Representation applied, when first uttered, as it still applies, to communities and not to individuals."

Frank Foxcroft, editor of "Littell's Living age," says: "A second objection to be noticed in this connection is that to give the ballot to tax-paying women, would, in a considerable number of cases, double the voting strength of certain men. It is an open secret, or rather it is no secret at all, that many married women who are rated as tax-payers are such because their husbands have found it convenient to deed over to their wives some portion of their property. The wife's ownership is nominal. To give the wife, in such cases, the ballot, would often be the same thing as giving the husband a plural vote; and that, all would recognize, as undesirable and unjust." And again, he says: "The idea that the owner of property is entitled to a vote because of such ownership, is a British idea, but it is not the American. John D. Rockfeller, Andrew Carnegie, or J. Pierpont Morgan have no more power at the polls than the humblest workman in their employ.

"I think it will be long before any legislature revives the discarded notion that the right to vote has any connection whatever with the ownership of property."

After the reading, tea was served when those present had an opportunity to discuss these questions.

It is encouraging to those who believe that evil rather than good results would follow admitting women into the electorate that requests for anti suffrage literature are coming from all over the country to the Massachusetts association. It is also encouraging to know the result of the Hearing at the State House, this year, when arguments were presented by both suffragists and anti-suffragists. The committee of eleven appointed for this hearing returned a report adverse to suffrage, the vote standing 11 to 0.

WHY NOT THE LOWEST BIDDER.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Is competition the life of trade, or is it better to give one firm more than the other for the same kind of work, under the same specifications, and when the work is done, accept almost a shadow of what it ought to be, as it is done in a town that I know of, under some men.,

Why is it that the contractors of this town, when their bids are lower, are not given the work? Men who carry more in their vest pocket every day than some men the town employs will ever have.

I wonder why some men who receive a good sum for their supposed wisdom, cannot demonstrate it a little better by the work actually performed in their department, if their wisdom is such as they claim it to be.

Take for example, why pay 62c per sq. yard for the cheapest kind of tar walks when any man who knows anything about the business could lay the same walks for 31c per yard, and cross walks that cost $1. to for 65c. If they know their business as they try to pretend to, some people I know, why did the town have to spend $3000 in this kind of work, why didn't they try to save this $1500? It could have been easily done. Or is it the style to throw this much money away?

This sum would apply to the oiling of the streets. Why go down to Essex County to get a contractor? Is Middlesex County too small or is this too new or inn to understand?

Why don't they try to save this money which is so much needed at the end of each year?

I will guarantee to any city or town like this that I can lay this work for the above price named and pay every laborer $2.50 per day and give them Saturday afternoon off for three months every year.

Why go over on Ridge street and build a macadam road, when the town could have done the walks and let the Ridge street job out by contract instead of wasting two hours every day with horses and men, taking their time when they left the barn and when they returned.

Better fill up some of the depressions on the side streets near the center of the town and do the work nearest home and if you have to let any of it by contract, use some common sense about it.

If Everett avenue can be built with blue gravel (so called) why not Ridge street? What good is stone roads if you skip around and leave three quarters of a mile of mud between them. Would it not be better to begin where your stone road ended and continue the work each year, and show people where wisdom comes in.

Take the example shown us at the Town Hall, building a granolethic walk in front of this building, which we own, and the next year repairing the tar walks on the inside; this is what some men call saving; I call it saving cents and throwing away dollars.

In regard to the eight hour law, it is as the gentleman from Beacon Hill said in the Town Hall, it was the same in 1908 as it is today only it takes some men a long time to understand it, but when Winchester contractors had the work to do, they had to live up to it, and the men to supervise it and carry the eight hour law to a T had to come from Norfolk County.

So we have Essex, Norfolk and Suffolk; evidently the men brought up in Middlesex are lacking in something, it we'll t some men be the judge.

I wonder also if some men who go around town telling that they have fooled certain men by not putting the concrete measurements, their location and the grade of work in the Town Book, ever realize that some tax payers are convinced that they are ashamed to publish the report, as the property owners would wonder at the results.

Why don't some people get things as they thought they would; the steam roller for instance. We were good enough to pay for it, but we were not supposed to have sense enough to be told that we were to buy one. How childish we are getting as the twentieth century progresses. It is time to give women the vote.

FOR AGED PEOPLE.

Old Folks Should Be Careful In Their Selection of Regulative Medicine.

We have a safe, dependable, and altogether ideal remedy that is particularly adapted to the requirements of aged people and persons of weak constitutions who suffer from constipation or other bowel disorders. We are so certain that it will relieve these complaints and give absolute satisfaction in every particular that we offer it with our personal guarantee that it shall cost the user nothing if it fails to substantiate our claims. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity. Three sizes, 10c., 25c., and 50c. Sold only at our store — The Rexall Store. Frank N. Abare, Cor. Main and Mt Vernon Sts., Winchester.

During the process of painting the flagpole on the Common yesterday one of the painters had a narrow escape from death. The man was on the grating separating the top-mast from the main pole, painting the top-mast as it was hoisted up by men below. When the pole was nearly up the rope holding it broke, allowing it to fall to the ground. The butt of the top mast was buried about two feet in the earth. Fortunately the painter was able to retain his position on the grating while the pole slid by him, otherwise he would have been killed.

PROTEST ONE BRIDGE.

Monday afternoon there was a meeting of town business men and others to consider the grade crossing question. It was the opinion of nearly all present that a single bridge at the station should be opposed at the town meeting Monday evening and that the town plan should be supported. Tuesday afternoon an adjourned meeting was held at which were advocates of the arch bridge plan, when it was agreed to unite and oppose a single bridge at the station and to favor the abolition at the centre embodying the present lines of travel.

ORCHESTRAL CONCERT.

The Winchester Orchestral Society gave its final concert for the season last Tuesday night. Mr. S. Henry Hadley, the orchestra's regular conductor, whose illness prevented his conducting the last concert, was again in his place, and was warmly applauded by the audience and presented with flowers. The Haydn symphony with which the concert opened, was both good and interesting. Good, because it was, whether grave or gay, melodious and pleasant to the ear, and well orchestrated; interesting, because it shows Haydn to the fullness of his mature powers, and because it illustrates the great change of popular thought at the end of the 18th century. The thought and manners of the time had become both mystically religious and courtly, and its best musical expression is found in Palestrina. But the pendulum swung back. The mystic and courtly had been pushed so far as to rob life, and therefore music also, of its vitality. The form cramped the life, and men rebelled, and turned from the mystic and formal, to the common joys and sorrows of ordinary human beings, and the simple songs and dances that voiced them. Haydn, being a genius and therefore beyond his times, turned from the overstrained mysticism long before others, and found in the Croatian folksongs of his native Rohrau and thereabouts, the musical motifs and material he wanted. Hadow has called Haydn's music "bright, sensitive, piquant;" Mason has characterized it as "vigorous, incisive, and utterly simple," and Haydn certainly showed all of those qualities last Tuesday night under Mr. Hadley's baton.

The opening movement, after its short adagio, was bright, gay, bubbling over with genriality, and the last movement had the same qualities, yet in spite of the rapid tempo of both, Mr. Hadley kept the rymthm always clear and incisive, and the dynamics marked to the ear, and in the "clock" andante, kept the rhythmic ticking passing smoothly back and forth among the various instruments, without losing any of the music's sensitiveness and grace. Altogether, it was an excellent performance of the symphony, and the orchestra answered finely to the conductor's calls on it. It should be noted, too, that though Haydn's music is styled "symple," it is only so in harmonies and keys, not in notation and rhythm. Haydn's music is not easy to play. All the more credit to conductor and orchestra, that it was so excellently done.

Yet the audience plainly did not care for the music of "Papa Haydn," (as Mozart affectionately called him), and recieved it, and also the Weber "Konzertstuck" for pianoforte and orchestra which followed with merely perfunctory applause. Was the audience too sophisticated? Too much enamored of the moderns like Strauss, Debussy, Sibelius, d' Indy, to care for Haydn and Weber? Or was the night too warm? We wonder.

Weber is chiefly known to us today as the composer of the operas "Der Freischuts," "Oberon," and "Euryanthe," but his contemporary reputation was probably foremost as a great pianist, and as such Mr. Phippen rendered his "Konzertstuck" with delighttul clearness of tone, pertect technical mastery, vigor, and brilliancy. Weber's music is dramatic in form, romantic in fibre, and brilliant;—almost Lisztian in technique. All this Mr. Phippen brought out in the music, and no quality of it was lost or blurred. From the soft, romantic chords of loneliness and sorrow, through the implusive crescendo rushes of longing and despair, and the ringing military movement of the march as the knights approach, to the exultant finale with its mounting octaves of joy and victory, its brilliant cascades of flying notes, and the final crashing chords that typify the triumph of love and life,—Mr. Phippen painted in dramatic and romantic tones, the brilliant picture that Weber drew in musical notes. Painted it, too, with color, with technical ease and fluency, and clear intellectual perception of Weber's thought and ideal. That was all. It was Weber, and not Phippen. He reproduced Weber; personified Weber; sunk himself in the musical picture and showed it as he felt Weber meant it; but never obtruded himself. It was an artistic modesty of interpretation too rarely seen in our over-strenuous times.

In the final movement of Mr. Phippen's own Concerto for pianoforte and orchestra, he showed the same clear tone and fluent technique, but how unlike Weber's was his music! Surely as gay as Haydn's it seemed, yet far more delicate; as brilliant as Weber, but never theatrical. If anything by comparison, rather French in style, yet always original, and with orchestra and pianoforte rounded into a well defined, symmetrical whole. It was bright and joyous, yet, without losing its joyous note, it had moments of quiet emotion, and moods of swift, but pensive, thought. The motif;—bright, lilting rhythm;—flitted through subtle modulations of keys and harmony, as a bird might flit, now in soft shade now in golden light, through the sun-shot leatage of the woods. Mr. Phippen gave no program analysis of his music, but it suggested youth, free and joyous, laughing and running through woods and green uplands, tasting, touching, feeling, with careless happiness. Now stopping, half pensively, to look at some lovely, distant view, then onward, shouting and laughing again, full of the throbbing life and joyous spirit of the spring.

At the close of the concerto excerpt, Mr. Phippen was warmly applauded, and presented with a wreath. Mr. Hadley, it should be said, led the orchestra through all its intricate accompaniments, with the frequent changes and difficult entrances, with smoothness and unbroken rhythm, and kept the volume of the orchestra really in just balance with the pianoforte.

The three dances by Henry German were as quaint and brilliant as before; were even better played; and received hearty applause. Mr Hadley took the "Torch Dance" at an exceedingly rapid pace, so that once or twice it was slightly blurred, but the orchestra could do it, and it succeeded. The "Sakuntala" overture was full of color of strong contrasts, and massive effects, and in the finale Mr. Hadley lifted the orchestra to a mass and volume of tone that was most admirable.

Altogether, both musically and technically, the concert, was a success, and the best one the Orchestral Society has given.

W. H. S. NOTES.

The first track practice was held at the held on Tuesday afternoon. Many candidates reported to Capt. Goddu and a good season is looked for.

Invitations to the Junior Prom. were given out this week at the school for Friday evening at the Town Hall.

The boys of the Senior Class who will go next year to college or other schools are, Baker, Bugbee, and Emery, Harvard; Blank, Currier, Tutein and Weber, Technology; Clark and Neiley, Amherst; Farnsworth and Park, Lowell Textile School; Boyle, Blackham and Murphy, Burdett College.

The Base ball team gives promise of a winning nine this season. Last Saturday's victory was very encouraging to the boys.

The electric lighting fixtures for the new residence of Miss Mary Johnson, on Glen road, are being installed by Sanderson, the Electrician.

PART 2. WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, APRIL 19, 1912. PRICE FIVE CENTS

POND STREET.

Hearing Before County Commissioners on Petition.

Before the County Commissioners last Friday forenoon at the Selectmen's room there was a hearing on petition of Burton C. Caldwell and others regarding the condition of Pond street.

Mr. Caldwell stated to the Commissioners that the matter of improvement of Pond street had been brought to the attention of the Selectmen of Winchester five times without result. The Selectmen wanted it repaired, but the street being used by Woburn and Arlington people, they did not see why they should do it all themselves. As to the taxes, there is $956 paid in taxes every year by residents of that street and $112 in water taxes. In the last twenty-five years the Town has spent $265 10, according to the town records. During that twenty five years there has been paid $26,750 for taxes and it seems that there should be something done. Nothing has been done on it since 1903. For the last two years a hole has existed in the street below our place and the automobiles are getting stuck there daily. This last spring has been the worst of any. Most of the street is mud and loamy without very much gravel in it. The Town has spent something for lights. The other end of Pond street, Woburn, is macadamized. Considering the amount of taxes paid and only $285 put out in work, it seems that something should be done.

Dennis Lawton said that six years ago he had put in a petition for a sidewalk which had not been attended to. All the towns west of Boston to the north of Winchester would use the street if it was fit to travel. Now we drive on the sidewalk in wet weather. Some automobiles and teams travel off the street altogether to get by. It seems to me, however, that the town should not pay all the cost, because it is used by outside towns.

George B. Welsh. Everybody knows the condition of the street. I have much teaming to do on that street and have to put on an extra horse to get a team up to my place. It has been so all winter. Some repairs should be made even if slight.

Arthur E. Whitney. I was on the appropriations Committee three years ago and the Chairman and Selectmen were a Committee on Highways and we looked it over carefully and came to the conclusion that if there was any street in town that needed specific repairs it was Pond street and we recommended a certain amount for that street, but the Selectmen did not spend any money on it and have not for a number of years. The Woburn end of it is in good order and Cambridge street also, but when you ride out through Pond street it is a pretty poor countryroad. The water stands in the middle and with an automobile you always get stuck going through there in the springtime. The town has been negligent in not doing anything to it. If the County Commissioners ordered specific repairs it would be no hardship to the town, for it has taken the money that they might have spent there and spent it for other purposes. The reason given for some of the delay has been on account of a probable Park Development in connection with the Metropolitan Park System.

It is one of these old roads that was laid out in the 1600s and ran from Woburn to the Mills. It has been a travelled road ever since. I do not think the town of Winchester has spent anything on it for a number of years and it seems as if it should be put in good condition.

Dr. Clarence J. Allen. I am a physician here and in the last year have had occasion to use Pond street many times, sometimes much to my regret. Pond street is a connecting road between two main thoroughfares between Boston and Lowell; there is no other connecting link at any convenient distance on it, north or south. If the street were made passable it would be used a great deal more than it is now. During a considerable portion of each winter for at least 10 or 12 years, portions of that street have been practically impassible for heavy teams and autos. The water gathers in the middle of the street and in order to avoid it one has to get out on the sidewalk, and that is dangerous. It should have been remedied years ago. Within two weeks I was called over that section one evening about 9 o'clock, near the Cambridge end of it. I got out as far as I could to one side and had to walk the rest of the way. When I came back and tried to turn around and get back into the road, I had all kinds of trouble. I have had similar experiences several times. I believe fully that not only for the citizens on that street but for the interest of the travelling public at large, it should have been fixed years ago and should be fixed now.

Preston Pond speaking for the Selectmen. In past years this subject has been very seriously considered because it was so serious as regards outlay and expense. In our discussions, I think with the Engineer and Superintendent of Streets, we have not been encouraged to believe that it was economy to do much in the way of repair, if anything. I imagine the lack of attention that is complained of is the result of the lack of use which Winchester people make of that road. I have been impressed with the conditions there but there did not seem to be any general or large sentiment among the different appropriations committees in response to the suggestions of the Selectmen, and I imagine that Mr. Whitney's committee was no different from the others. They probably reported that it ought to be done, but without any positive recommendation that it should be done. There have been other features in the town that have been so imperative that they have taken precedence and that is the condition at that time. It would seem that its being distinctly a county road and made such large use of by adjoining towns that any large investment is to be made there ... town of Winchester should not bear the whole load; that it should be shared by those who are going to most largely benefit. We recognize that the conditions are bad and that the citizens living there have every reason for their anxiety in the matter.

A. E. Whitney. Pond street is used very largely by Woburn people. It is the shortest way from Woburn to Arlington and Boston. It seems, however, that this should not work against the town of Winchester doing the work. It is really as Mr. Pond says a county road,—something like Cross street. It seems to me that if this road is ordered put in thorough repair by your Board and a part of the expense taken on by the County, it would be a fair thing. I do not think the Town would object at all.

Preston Pond. Mr. Spates our Superintendent of Streets and Mr. Hinds our Town Engineer, are familar with all the details of the matter and if you would like to hear from them, they will give you such information as you would like.

Chairman Gould. We have got to take a view of the street and it would be a saving of time to listen to them at that time. Enough has been said here to show that something must be done and I think we can leave the matter of what must be done until a later date.

Town Engineer Hinds. I want to call your attention to the position of the street on this map. It is the only long street of any size we have got that is so far from the main part of the town. The only approach other than from Woburn and Arlington is by way of a private way which is known locally as Woodside road. It is a very attractive district naturally. What I want to show is that the street is so much on the extreme outside of the Town that the townspeople as a whole, unless they go there for pleasure, do not have much use for the street.

Chairman Gould. We have some similar cases in my own city. That is none the less reason why it should not be kept in proper repair.

Of course we are here for the special purpose of subserving the interests of the entire public and not for any particular section and we often meet such cases as this. We have to deal with them as circumstances seem to allow. There is no real excuse for a town not keeping the roads on the outskirts in as good condition as possible as they keep them everywhere excepting that there might have been more or less sentiment that where streets are thickly settled that directs the attention of the town authorities to those streets; still they have got to look after the streets outside as well as any.

Mr. Daly of the Selectmen called attention to the probable plans of the Metropolitan Park Commission and the terms of the demands likely to be made by Woburn for a connecting link with the present Metropolitan System and the likelihood of Pond street being taken into such a system it adopted.

Chairman Gould. I would like to say that if the Metropolitan Park Commission should lay out such a road, that they put usually restrictions upon it, one of which is if they take it for Park purposes, they would allow nothing upon it except pleasure vehicles. This is worth consideration although they can be gotten over by action of the County Commissioners. In a similar instance in Stoneham they proposed to take certain roads there and the town by vote agreed they should do it and they would have accomplished it had it not been that we refused to go further with it unless provision was made for the public to use this street as they always had.

A. E. Whitney. I have seen the proposed plan and they do not consider taking this street under discussion. The Park people do not want to take a highway and use it for a parkway on account of the public use of the street.

Burton C. Caldwell. I attended a meeting three weeks ago at the State House when the Woburn people were called there in regard to the Metropolitan System. Only two plans were shown and both plans showed that Pond street was to be crossed with the Parkway and no part of the street itself was taken.

Dr. Allen. I wish to say that if this Park matter is deferred to the next Legislature, there will be a third plan considered which all Winchester people are interested in. That is to have the Woburn Boulevard instead of coming down through Mr. King's land, come down from the ice-house, just crossing Pond street and then follow Horn Pond Brook to its mouth in Winchester, then following the shores of Wedge Pond and coming out across Main street, then across the railroad track and becoming a part of the Kellaway plan for the development of the Winchester Parks. That plan if pursued will give Woburn a more direct connection with the Park System and it will also help out the Park Department of Winchester.

Chairman Gould. They would take no public street but would come down all the way on private land? Dr. Allen. Yes Sir.

Adjourned at 10.30 for a view of the land.

ENTERTAINMENT AND BALL.

The members of the Winchester Fire Department held a grand testimonial entertainment and ball in the Town Hall last Friday evening. The proceeds were tendered to Mr. Albert R. Libby of Hose 1, who at present is in the Massachusetts General Hospital undergoing a serious operation necessitated by injuries received at a fire during the winter.

About 600 persons attended the affair, which was in charge of a committee composed of the following members: David H. DeCourcey, J. McCarron, G. F. Osborne, M. J. Quigley, E. S. Flaherty, E. M. Polly, J. Haley, M. C. Ambrose, O. B. McElhiney, E. G. Beaton and J. J. Gorman.

The entertainment consisted of slack rope performance by Clifton C. Bradbury, comedy and knockabout act by the Clevelands, singing by the Genette Sisters, and selections by a quartet consisting of James H. Hammond, John F. Fitzgerald, Clifton C. Bradbury and Thomas H. Hammond.

The dancing was in charge of the following:

Floor Marshall, Chief D. H. DeCourcey.

Assistant Floor Marshall, Fisrt Assistant Chief F. L. Waldmyer.

Floor Director, Second Assistant Chief R. E. Simonds.

Assistant Floor Director, John Moynihan.

Chief of Aids, Edw. Callahan.

SPRING BOWLING TOURNAMENT.

Teams A and C split even in their match in the tournament, the latter rolling its last game. The first two strings went to team C, but the Tigers took the last by such a large margin that they easily had the total. Some good strings were rolled by individual members. Gendron got singles of 112 and 117, and total of 333; Woods rolled a single of 113 and a total of 310; Fitch rolled a good single also of 110. On the same evening team H strenghtened its lead on first place by taking all four points from team G. Campbell's single of 110 was high, as was his total of 297. Stone also had a total of 295 and two strings just under one hundred.

On Monday night team A made sure of second place in the tournament by taking all four points from its nearest competitor in the race, team B. The latter team took a big slump and the Tigers had easy work. Gendron rolled high for the match with singles of over one hundred and a total of 316. On this evening team G made a three in four win from team I. This match did not affect the prize winners. Some good strings were rolled by the winners, Comins getting a single of 116, Tompkins 119 and Cutter 117. The first string total of 522 of this team was remarkably good.

Electrics Meet on the Broad Highway

She-with-the-Dog—Well, to think of meeting you 'way out here.

Dorothy—Pray, why not? I can run my Electric 30 miles from home, can't I? I often do a 100-mile run for my daily outing.

She—Of course! What a color you have these days, Dorothy—is it your daily drive in your Electric?

Dorothy—Yes, the breath of outdoors and the sound and refreshing sleep I get afterwards. Doctor said I needed air, not drugs, and his own experience with an Electric Roadster induced him to recommend this Electric Coupe' to me.

She—Well, Freddie says I'm not the same woman since we took on this Electric Limousine. I don't know, but somehow or other this country life in winter now has more charms for me.

Dorothy—Why?

She—Well, miles have no terror nowadays. Here we are wintering in our country place 20 miles from Boston, yet I have as much bridge and theatre and opera as though our town house was open. And my—the saving in expense!

Dorothy—And neither of us need a high-priced chauffeur—think of the repair bills and running expenses we save.

She—Yes, and one feels so free and untrammeled. I keep my car under the porte cochere always ready day time or evening. The children do so enjoy the runs.

1912 Models Gentlemen's Electric Roadsters Now Ready.

Dorothy—Do you drive Fred in town often?

She—About three times a week. He's laid up his gasolene car for the winter.

Dorothy—So has Tom. Friday we're going to run clear over to Newport for the week end.

She—Don't forget you're coming to us for bridge next week. How long do you take to make the twenty miles?

Dorothy—About an hour.

She—Just think, a year ago we saw each other so seldom but now our Electrics certainly do put us next door to one another.

The Dog—Bow wow!

She—That's Vic's sign of displeasure. I'm such a chatterbox. Bye bye.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

Old age is not without its consolations and even its delights. So we are assured by many a writer and moralist of all ages from the days of Cicero, and even from the far more distant days of those who inspired Cicero. The Spectator is not concerned to dispute the proposition so far as tells of the consolations of old age; but as regards its alleged delights, they are surely rather negative than positive or only comparative at the best. Old men may rejoice to be free from the infinite soarings, and undisciplined as yet and wholly inexperienced of youth from its vague longings and boundless ambitions, from the struggles, the triumphs, it may be, from the disappointments and defeats of middle life: but such freedom is for the most part only gained at the cost of much greater losses. The apologists of old age have not always been themselves old men. In spite of all that Cicero inspired by Plato and by many an ancient sage had made Cato the elder say, in spite of all that had been said by the sage Fontenelle and confirmed by the good and amiable Button, in spite of all that Voltare, Hume and many other men of letters may have felt, Gibbon knew, nevertheless, that "two causes, the abbreviation of time and the failure of hope, will always tinge with a bronze shade the evening of life." No man in Winchester who is growing old will disagree with him. "The abbreviation of time and the failure of hope." These, far more than the inevitable, even if imperceptible, delay of mind and body are what constitute the irremediable sadness of declining years in spite of all the consolations of the philosopher. Nothing can altogether console the old man for the stealthy narrowing of his horizons, the inexorable shrinking of his aspirations. We may shut our eyes to what Hallam in his last Preface calls "the gathering in the heavens" and take short views of life, as Sydney Smith wisely bade all of us do. But we cannot close our understandings. The peau de chagrin of Balzac's tremendous tale dwindles day by day, and there is no force in the universe that can enlarge it by the fraction of a hair's breadth. It is true that none can measure the abbreviation of time of which Gibbon speaks. Young or old, nour sommer tour condamner a la mort avec des survis indefinis, as Victor Hugo says. But, indefinite as the reprive is for all of us, the old man knows that it is but a span, whereas to the young man life seems infinite and its end never darkens his horizon. This is not to say that the old man fears death more than the young man. Probably he fears it less, though he knows it to be nearer at hand when in his youth and prime he thought of it, if he thought at all, as "the blind Fury with the abhorred shears." The Spectator would point out that it is not so much the approach of death as the shortening of the span of life that saddens the wise man and "tinges with a browner shade the evening of his days." Death often comes to the aged in the guise of a nursing sister rather than in that of an avenging angel St. Francis of Assisi, in one of his moments of strange exultation, could even speak of praising his Lord "for our sister the death of the body from whom no man escapeth." But, neither St. Francis of Assisi nor anyone else, were he visionary, saint or sage, would ever think of giving praise for "the abbreviation of time and the failure of hope."

Success or failure depends on the individual merchant. Where one will lose another will meet success. It depends on the amount of energy and intelligence used. The Spectator has just been reading an item in one of the exchanges reaching his desk. This item recounts how a man started a store in a certain town not a hundred miles from Winchester, but did not make a go and had to sell out. His successor began to pick up trade, in a few months had to hire a clerk, then a second and finally a third to take care of the growing business. Now, the only reason was the difference in methods. The town had not grown sufficiently to account for the change. The first man was careless of his dress and equally careless of his establishment. His wares were not displayed to advantage, the front of his store was not attractive, and he did not advertise in the local paper. The result was that people passed him by or, if they did call once, felt no inducement to go back. The second man was clean in his personal appearance, energetic, put his store in order, had an attractive display in front and strove to know people and to please them. He advertised. He arranged his goods to the best advantage. He made friends. He let the town know he was on earth and that he wanted trade. He got it. People were attracted to his place. They were pleased by their treatment and dropped in again. They were still more pleased and told their neighbors. In other words, this merchant by ordinary dilligence took a store that had been a failure and in a few months created a flourishing business. The secret of it all was that he knew how to play up his goods. He understood the magic of attractive appearances and of skillful advertising in the home newspaper. The Specator is told of an amusing case of working up an artificial demand for goods, or creating a market. An enterprising Yankee found himself in one of the countries near the Equator, where the natives wear no shoes and scarcely any clothes. There was no shoe stores in the village, and the Yankee concluded that the natives ought to put on leather and be civilized. So he laid in a stock of shoes and then sent for a cargo of dry sand burs. These he sprinkled all through the streets in the middle of the night. The natives had never met the sand bur, but soon got acquainted. Then the Yankee got in his work. With his feet encased in a pair of new shoes he walked all over those sand bur strewn streets and never turned a hair. The result was a rush for that shoe emporium, which sold out its entire stock before night. Of course that sort of play is too coarse for a town like Winchester, but it merely shows that brains make business.

The Spectator is of the opinion that the air wearers of immitation ivory or coral combs and handlers of many fancy articles of daily use would be startled if they knew the nature of the substance of which their finery is made. "There you go with your tonsils out," was the comic cry of the smaller boy in Hood's story; but how many ladies whose white necks are encircled by celluloid collars have ever thought that they might some day suddenly find themselves in the lamentable conditions expressed by that cry. It is calmly stated, on the authority of an expert, that the celluloid collar is explosive in certain conditions; and also the celluloid cuff; that the celluloid umbrella handle will go off, doubtless taking the umbrella with it, and, in short, that all the substances made of light and ivory-like material are equally dangerous. One of The STAR'S valued contemporaries wants to know why should not such compounds be subject to the same limitations upon their sale that is applied to gunpowder, poisons or other dangerous substances.

THE PREVENTION OF SKIDDING

Skidding is so frequent a cause of automobile accidents both slight and serious that every motorist must decide on some form of protection against it. It is however difficult to select from the many devices offered the one which will be most effective and economical.

Anti-Skid devices may be divided into two main classes, the detachable and the non-detachable. Steel chains, leather straps and removable steel-studded leather treads are perhaps the best known of the first class. All these are widely used, but tire manufacturers are agreed that all detachable anti-skid devices are expensive in the end because of the wear and tear which they put on tires and machinery.

If chains be fastened tightly to the wheels so that they have no freedom to slip back and forth, it will be quickly noted that the cross pieces are biting away the tread beneath them and when removed will show the tire marked with deeply gouged cross lines. Experience has proved that the best way to use chains is to attach them as loosely as possible.

Attachments such as removable studded leather treads, while not likely to cut or gouge the rubber are generally so cumbersome that they destroy resiliency. In other words the tire, instead of absorbing obstructions, rebounds from them and thus transmits the shock to the chassis, defeating the very purpose for which pneumatic tires were designed.

These conditions show the necessity for a satisfactory anti-skid. Many of these depend on some form of rubber elevation to check the skidding of the car. The experience of many motorists is that such rubber non-skids if used with care are satisfactory while they last, but that in some cases the studs or other elevations wear away rather quickly. One set of figures recently compiled showed that after travelling one thousand miles the average non-skid tire was worn perfectly smooth. Since most non-skids are considerably more expensive that those with plain treads, manufacturers everywhere are trying to make the anti-skid feature more durable.

Finally there is the orignal type of anti-skid invented by Michelin in which the rubber tread is reinforced by a tread of steel studded leather. In this Anti-Skid the leather tread is an integral part of the tire and thus does not affect its resiliency, while the steel studs naturally wear longer than rubber and grip better on wet or icy roads.

STILL MORE MAINS TO FOLLOW GAS PLANT.

Besides building a new gas plant the Arlington Gas Light Co. is now planning to lay a new main from the Cambridge line to the centre of Arlington along Massachusetts avenue and also a number of other new mains in the region around Alewife Brook and in Belmont and Winchester.

It is understood that the town engineer in Arlington is planning to resurface Massachusetts avenue and the gas company hopes to lay its new main while this work is in progress so that the street will not be unnecessarily torn up. The company believes that there will be an imperative need of a larger main on Massachusetts avenue within a very short time, and need also of many service mains in the new "Back Bay" section of Alewife Brook now that the subway is already beginning to accelerate the growth in this district.

In Belmont and Winchester new mains will be laid as fast as people move in. The new supply main to Belmont will probably be started next week.

"HULLO, HOW D'YE DO!"

W'en you see a man in woe,
Walk right up and say "hullo!"
Say "hullo," an' "how d'ye do!"
"How's the world a-using you?
Slap the fellow on his back,
Bring your han' down with a whack;
Waltz right up, an' don' go slow,
Grin an' shake an' say "hullo!"

Is he clothed in rags? O sho!
Walk right up an' say "hullo!"
Rags is but a cotton roll
Just for wrappin' up a soul;
An' a soul is worth a true
Hale an' hearty "how d'ye do!"
Don't wait for the crowd to go,
Walk right up and say "hullo!"

W'en big vessels meet, they say,
They saloot an sail away.
Jest the same as you an' me,
Lonesome ships upon a sea;
Each one sailing his own jog
For a port beyond the fog.
Let your speakin' trumpet blow,
Lift your horn an' cry "hullo!"

Say "hullo," an' "how d'ye do!"
Other folks are good as you.
W'en you leave your house of clay,
Wanderin'in the Far-Away,
W'en you travel though the strange
Country t'other side the range,
Then the souls you've cheered will know
Who you be, and say "hullo!

BASE BALL.

Highlands 15. W. Medford 8.

From the time when Mr. John Park threw out the first ball last Saturday until the last out was made, the Winchester Highlands Athletic Club base ball team outplayed and defeated the M. M. M. team of West Medford, by a score of 15 to 8. Good solid hitting enabled the home team to return victor. The game was clinched in the fifth, when an error, two singles, and a triple by Park scored three runs.

WON ITS FIRST GAME.

Winchester High opened its season at Manchester Field last Saturday afternoon, defeating Watertown High, 5 to 4. Winchester got a lead early in the game, but Watertown bunched hits in the seventh, scoring three runs and tied the game up in its half of the ninth. Winchester then scoring the tally needed. BIG NEW GAS PLANT.

To be Built by the Arlington Gas Light Co., to Meet Growth in Territory.

To meet the astonishing growth of Arlington, Belmont, and Winchester the Arlington Gas Light Co. is to build a brand new gas plant of enormous capacity and of the most up-to-date design near the present works in Arlington.

Property for the site of the new plant has been acquired and its construction will be started in the near future although no definite date has yet been decided upon for breaking ground.

The land upon which the new works will be built is that formerly occupied by the American Chrome Co. and is bounded by the Boston & Maine tracks, Grove street, and Massachusetts avenue. Within these limits the company expects to erect a plant that will more than do credit to the communities served and that will be capable of supplying Arlington, Belmont, and Winchester with gas for the next twenty years.

Even at the present moment the Arlington Gas Light Co. is spending $100,000 in building a mammoth gas holder with a capacity of 500,000 cubic feet as the first step towards the new plant.

These new works have been decided upon because of the vast amount of building now going on in these towns and in order to anticipate the extraordinary growth that must take place in these communities now that the Cambridge subway is completed and their accessibility is increased. Belmont and Arlington are now practically within twenty minutes of Park street. This fact together with the five cent fare and the great desirability of the towns as residential centers is sure to bring a vast influx of people into these localities in the next few years.

$375,000 is at present invested in dwellings and stores that are in the course of construction in Arlington, Belmont, and Winchester. About half of this sum represents the amount of building begun since the first of the year and practically all of it is invested in residential structures. These facts bring out most emphatically the correctness of the two assumptions that have long been made concerning these towns, their great popularity as residential centers, and the belief that the Cambridge subway will influence people to settle in them.

Of the $375,000 about $200,000 is invested in Arlington, $95,000 in Belmont, and $85,000 in Winchester. All these facts have been largely instrumental in causing the Arlington Gas Light Co. to decide upon its enormous building project.

FOR THE BLUE OR THE GRAY.

Every seat was taken in Whites Hall, last Saturday evening, when the H. F. Club presented to an enthusiastic audience "For the Blue or the Gray."

The play deals with the experiences of a northern girl in a southern school whither she has been sent by her father in order to seclude her from the attentions of an ardent lover. The crisis of the play is reached when the heroine, having lost her way, returns to the school to seek the help of Madam, who out of her great love and sympathy for the "motherless, brotherless child" tells her how to evade her father's soldiers, in order to join her lover.

Everyone who saw the play was struck by its beauty and simplicity, and was delighted by the fine acting that the girls did. Miss Dorothy Farrow played the part of Mlle. Fordet, the excitable and self important French governess to perfection, and Miss Martha Russell played the part of Helen Hastings, a pleasure loving school girl admirably. Every bit of the acting was well done. The cast of characters were:

Eleanor Hamilton, the Northern girl	Bertha Kelley
Madeline Burgson, the sleepy German girl	Marion Kendall
Cecil Hotspur	Dorothy Kerrison
Ruth Anna Morton	Winsome Abbott
Helen Hastings	Martha Russell
Mabel Davis	Constance Park
Lulu Jefferson	Helen Ireland
Southern School Girls
Madame Mayburn	Ruth Elder
Mlle. Fordet	Dorothy Farrow
Rosy Harrigan, an Irish Maid	Anna Hefflon
Juliet Johnson, a colored Mammy	Marguerite Saltmarsh

Miss Kelley deserves great praise for her portrayal of Eleanor Hamilton. This article would be incomplete without giving Miss Ruth Elder the highest of commendation for the way she took the part of Madame and for the success with which she carried the undertaking through assisted by the able coaching of Mr. Hefflon.

Another delightful feature was the music, given by members of the High School Orchestra assisted by other young musicians.

The proceeds from the play are to go to the Boston Floating Hospital.

TOWN MEETING.

One Bridge Plan at Station Given Scant Attenti n.

Again has the grade crossing question received the attention of a town meeting, and again it will received the attention of the citizens next Monday evening. To many citizens who attended the adjourned town meeting Monday evening; the advance made toward a solution of the vexed pro'lem appeared to be but slight. Years ago the Boston & Maine Railroad officials announced that they would let the citizens decide on a plan and from that time to the present no definite decision has been reached, and probably there never will be, as it appears to be impossible in such a large gathering to unite and stay united on any particular plan. The meeting of Monday evening by an overwhelming vote rejected the latest scheme proposed by the special committee of five, thus leaving the matter where it was some years ago. Next Monday evening the town and arch bridge plans will hold the attention of the meeting, and that any decision will be reached is problematical, as both of them will probably call for an excess payment on the part of the town which many citizens are opposed to. The passage of such a measure would require a two-thirds vote. Nevertheless such excess payment will have to be made if the town desires any scheme which the special commission and the railroad might declare to be unreasonably expensive.

The meeting opened with the hall filled with voters and the galleries packed with ladies and younger persons. As the meeting was called to order by Moderator Ives, Mr. Rufus Herrick offered a motion to reconsider article 32, and provided this article was not finished by eight-thirty to leave it and take up articles 17 and 18. Mr. F. N. Kerr moved to amend the motion by including article 4 for reconsideration previous to taking up 17 and 18. In voting on this motion the following tellers were appointed by Moderator Ives for the evening: F. S. Snyder, A. S. Hall, T. P. Wilson, J. H. Dwinell. The motion as amended was carried and article 32 taken up.

Under this article Mr. Arthur H. Russell offered the following:

Voted—To reconsider the vote passed at this meeting under Article 32 whereby the town adopted as Article VII of the By-Laws of the Town of Winchester certain Building By-Laws, so-called.

Voted—That the proposed Building By-Laws of the Town of Winchester as set out in the motion now before the meeting be amended by striking out Section 20 to 24 inclusive, and by inserting in place thereof the following sections bearing the like numbers, to wit:

"Section 20. Every tenement or apartment house shall have two independent stair cases directly accessible from each tenement.

Section 21. All tenement or appartment houses shall be of fireproof construction.

Section 22 Fire proof construction shall consist of fireproof material throughout, with floors constructed of iron, steel or reinforced concrete beams, filled in between with terra cotta, or other masonery arches or with concrete or reinforced concrete slabs.

Section 23 Wood may be used for under or upper floors, windows and door frames, sashes, doors, interior finish, hand rails for stairs, necessary sleepers bedded in the cement, and for isolated furnishings bedded in mortar.

Section 24. In such construction there shall be no air space between the top of any floor arches and the floor boarding.

Mr. Russell stated that after preparing the building laws it appeared that the sections stricken out did not sufficiently cover the matter of erecting apartment houses; more especially the socalled "three and four deckers." He stated that the town was threatened with the erection of a block of these "three deckers," which were erected solely for speculative purposes by builders unknown and unheard of, who, upon their completion, passed on to erect similar structures elsewhere. Many surrounding towns had been ruined residentially by their erection, and it was the purpose of the proposed sections to exclude them from Winchester.

Mr. Tuck favored the new sections and the exclusion of the "three deckers."

Mr. Nugent favored the exclusion of these buildings, but thought the section might be more stringent than necessary. He desired the opinion of others who were experienced whether or not the proposed rules were extremes, and thought the matter of sufficient importance to appoint a committee to make a future report.

The insertion of the proposed sections in the building laws was carried almost unanimously.

Article 4 was then taken up, Mr. Kerr making a report for the committee previously appointed under the following vote:

"That a committee of 3 be appointed by the moderator to investigate as to the wages paid our day laborers of the town with the view to an increase of the same and with a Saturday half day all the year and a minimum wage and to report at the next town meeting." This committee was composed of W L. Tuck, F N. Kerr, Geo. T. Davidson.

In speaking on the matter Mr. Kerr said that the committee had investigated the conditions in over fifty towns and cities in this vicinity and had received thrity-seven letters relating thereto. Of these twenty-six are paying more than Winchester, and he made the following motion:

That it is the sense of the meeting that the Town of Winchester establish as a minimum wage for the laboring men in the employ of the town, $2 25 per day, beginning April 22, 1912, and a half holiday on Saturday, without loss of pay, from June 1st, until Labor Day of each year.

Mr. Tuck presented a minority report of the committee in which he favored a minimum wage of $2 50 a day and Saturday half holidays for four months of the year.

Mr. John Carter favored Mr. Kerr's motion and it was voted as "the sense of the meeting."

Mr. Carter then spoke, stating that several of the motions carried at previous sessions should be reconsidered, being wholly out of the jurisdiction of the town. The first of these was the appointment of a committee on the abolition of town caucuses. He stated that caucuses were either called by one of the political parties or by a body of citizens and not by the town, and that the appointment of a committee to consider their abolition was unnecessary. The motion to reconsider was carried 116 to 0, and upon this vote Mr. Tuck, who made the original motion, withdrew it. Mr. Carter then stated that the motion previously carried for the investigation of political affiliations and salaries of the ballot clerks should be reconsidered. The pay of the clerks was open to the citizens and with the present system of declaration at primaries the party lineup could also be readily ascertained by those interested. He stated that the work done by the ballot clerks of this town was as good as could be desired. The motion to reconsider was carried 102 to 0, and then Mr. Tuck withdrew the original motion.

POND—WHITE.

In the presence of a large and fashionable gathering on Tuesday evening Mr. Gardner Dwinell Pond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Pond, and Miss Amy Elizabeth White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. White, were married at the First Congregational Church. The edifice was decorated for the ceremony with palms, ferns and green, and the marriage service was performed by Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon, pastor of the church. Mrs. Irene Osborne Grant presided at the organ and the wedding party entered to the strains of Mendelssohn's match.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white satin, trimmed with rose point lace, and carried a bridal bouquet of roses. Miss Elizabeth Pullen of Norwich, Conn., was maid of honor, and was dressed in pink satin veiledwith white chiffon. Mr. Shepard Pond, brother of the groom, was the best man.

The bridesmaids were Miss Marguerite S. Barr, Miss Marion W. Pond of Boston, Miss Barbara Fernald and Miss Ethel Sargent. They were gowned alike in pink crepe de chine, and carried bouquets of pink sweet peas.

The ushers for both the ceremony and the reception which followed at the home of the bride's parents on Lagrange street were Messrs. Clifford D. Mason of Cambridge, Alexander S. MacDonald of Ashmont, Kenneth P. Pond, Harold V. Hovey, Dana R. Pond of New York and Henry Bryant of Cambridge. The couple were assisted in receiving by their parents, and the residence was handsomely decorated with cut flowers, palms and ferns, with various color schemes in the different rooms, white lilacs, Richmond roses, pink roses and other flowers being used with tasteful decorative effect.

The groom is a graduate of Milton Academy and Harvard '10, and is associated with the White Leather Co. of Boston.

Upon their return from a wedding journey, Mr. and Mrs. Pond will reside at No. 4 Prospect street.

SUFFRAGE TEA AT MRS. OREN C. SANBORN'S.

A very delightful afternoon was enjoyed at the beautiful home of Mrs. Oren C. Sanborn, Wednesday, April 17th, when Mrs Stanley McCormick of Boston spoke on the subject of Woman Suffrage. About ninety ladies were present and they listened with great interest to Mrs. McCormick's forceful and convincing presentation of the subject. Mrs. McCormick is a member of the Executive Board of the National Woman's Suffrage Association and is well known all over the country as a gifted and delightful speaker—and everyone enjoyed immensely the opportunity of meeting and hearing her.

She spoke for over an hour, and dwelt on the need of women in politics—and the need of more attenton to the things women are interested in—in politics—and the need of all women for more interest in the big affairs of life.

The president of the Winchester Equal Suffrage League presided. After the meeting eight joined the Winchester League and two joined the Massachusetts Woman's Suffrage Association.

Mrs. Sanborn then served coffee and tea and delicious refreshments to all

The Winchester Equal Suffrage League wishes to say that the next tea will be Friday, May 3rd at 3.30 at the home of Mrs. Alfred S. Higgins, 68 Church street. All interested in suffrage are invited.

CHARLES T. GUETHING DEAD.

Charles Theodore Guething, for many years a resident of this town, died last Friday afternoon at the Arlington Hospital following an operation performed about a week previous. He was born in Germany, coming to this country when a boy. He was 61 years old.

While a young man he entered the employ of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company and for over 30 years was agent for the company in Boston. He retired from that position in December, 1910, and purchased a farm in Hollis, N. H., in the hope that the change would benefit his health, but a few weeks ago an operation was necessary.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Ralph C. Herrick, and three sons, Harvey, Carl and Harold. Services were held Monday afternoon at 2.30 at Mt. Auburn.

EXAMINATION POLICE.

April 18, 1912.

Announcement has been made by the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission of a competitive examination for positions in the Police Service at Winchester to be held May 7; applications should be filed at once. Blanks for this purpose may be had by applying to the Civil Service Commission, State House, Boston, or at the Selectmen's Office, Town Hall.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

Application for Sixth Class Licenses Refused.

April 22, 1912.

The Board met at 6 p. m., all being present.

The records of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Arthur E. Whitney presented a petition signed by the Whitney Machine Co., Edmund C. Sanderson, David N. Skillings, George E. Morrill and nineteen others that Maurice Tiger of Chelsea be granted a license as a junk dealer for the year beginning May 1, 1912 and reciting their satisfactory dealings with him, and it was voted to ask Mr. Tiger to appear before the Board.

John F. Cosgrove was elected registrar of voters to serve from the expiration of his present term to May 1, 1915.

Division of pay roll for week ending April 20th, $291.03 received from the Superintendent of Streets.

Applications for common victualler's licenses were received from Christus Athan, 546 Main street, Harry W. Dotten, 578 Main street and referred to the Chief of Police.

A letter was received from William D. Richards, representing the residents of Black Horse terrace, stating that they would like the road rolled and a top-dressing of fine stone put on; that they are also considering the question of having light oil applied, and asking that the Superintendent of Streets give them an estimate of the cost. Referred to Committee on Highways.

A letter was received and filed from Levi S. Gould, Chairman Middlesex County Commission, stating the position of that Board in regard to any extension of time for completing the Cambridge street alteration.

A discussion was held on the matter of granting 6th class liquor licenses to druggists and it appearing that such licenses were not demanded by the Town, or by the druggists as a whole, and that all needs of the citizens for medicinal liquors and alcohol for medicinal, mechanical and chemical purposes could be satisfied under the cretificates of reigstration in pharmacy, already held by the druggists of the town, it was voted that no 6th class licenses be issued, and the applications of Frank H. Knight, Frank N. Abare, John F. O'Connor were returned.

Application for permit to manufacture fire-works in Winchester was received from Ernesto Borrelli, 6 Holland street, and referred to Committee on Police.

Application for an Innholder's and common victualler's license from Mrs. Caroline J. Murray, 607 Main street, was received and referred to the Chief of Police.

The Chief returned with his approval applications for common victualler's licenses from George D. LeDuc, Mrs. Clara A. Mullen, R. A Ferretti, and the same were granted.

Isaac Ice, junk dealer, appeared before the Board and gave notice of his intention not to apply for a junk license this year.

George H. Enstis, Town Treasurer, appeared with sealed bids for $12,000 of the Town of Winchester Surface Drainage Bonds, authorized by the March Town Meeting. Those were opened in the presence of the Selectmen and found to be as follows:

Adams & Co.	$1,004.53
Lee, Higginson & Co.	1,003.30
E. M. Farnsworth & Co.	1,004.70
Blodget & Co.	1,006 80
Curtis & Sanger	1,005.20
Blake Bros. & Co.	1,003 00
Plaezler & Co	1,005 80
E. H. Rollins & Sons	1,002 77
R. L. Day & Co.	1,002.79
Merrill, Oldham & Co.	1,002.89

It was voted that the Treasurer be authorzied to accept the bid of Blodgett & Co. $1,006.80.

Application from Frank L. Ripley was received for an auctioneer's license and was granted subject to the payment of the usual fee.

Warrants were drawn for $2609.50 and $1130 82.

Adjourned at 11.05.

Frank R. Miller,
Clerk of the Board.

The Board will open their session to the public each meeting night at 8 to 8.30 to hear any citizens who may desire to present matters in person.

FIVE ADDITIONAL STORES.

Mr. J. A. Laraway broke ground this week for five stores which he proposes to erect on Walnut street at the corner of Thompson street. The building will be of re-enforced concrete construction one story in height. Mr. Laraway will fit up the stores to suit the conveniences of any prospective tenants, applications for which can be made now.

Plans had been prepared for this building some months ago, but the uncertainty of a bridge being erected over the railroad at the station as proposed by the special committee of five, held up the work. When the scheme of such a bridge was rejected by the town at the meeting Monday evening, Mr. Laraway felt free to go ahead and actual work on the building was started the next day.

FALL—BROWNING.

Announcements were received in Winchester this week of the marriage of Mr. Charles Barker Fall of Stoneham and Miss Marian Bradstreet Browning, formerly of this town. The ceremony was performed at Reading on Monday by Rev. D. Augustine Newton. Miss Browning is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Browning, formerly of Walnut street, this town, and later of Somerville. The couple will make their home in Stoneham.

LADIES' FRIENDLY ELECTS OFFICERS.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Friendly Society was held Tuesday afternoon with a large attendance. Interesting reports from the various branches of the organization were given. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Mrs. George H. Root
Vice President, Mrs. Joel H. Metcalf
Secretary, Mrs. Samuel S. Symmes
Treasurer, Mrs. Ralph S. Vinal

WELCOME TO DR. BLACKETT.

The following was taken from the Episcopal Church Herald of Dorchester:

The Church Herald gives a cordial welcome to our new pastor and his family, as they enter into their new relations of fellowship and service with Stanton Avenue Church, Dorchester.

We welcome Dr. Blackett, as a faithful message bearer and a man in fellowship with God, and a devout follower of Jesus Christ.

The record of his ministry of more than two decades in the New England Conference has preceded you, and we believe the story of Stanton Avenue is not unfamiliar to you.

We welcome you to a loyal church—loyal to the Bible, to the great church of which it is a part, to the great things for which the church stands—loyal to the whole purpose of God in a man's life—loyal to truth, loyal to the highest type of service for Jesus Christ, and loyal to its pastor in his God directed ministry. We welcome you to a United Church. You will not need to spend any time in trying to bring discordant elements into unity. We havn't any of that kind with us. We are a united people—and while we do not all see alike in all things, we are one in our desire or the success of the church and all it represents. It will be a solid rank march when you give the order.

We welcome you to a Working Church. The people of Stanton Avenue agree with Babcock that:

"We are not here to play, to dream, to drift,
We have hard work to do, and loads to lift."

From the youngest to the oldest member we are a busy people. Always "something doing," not simply for the sake of doing something, but to produce results—aggressive and progressive work along the lines of social, financial, civic and spiritual endeavor.

We welcome you to a Spiritual Church—a body of believers who are content to define righteousness, as that which represents Jesus Christ in human life—as manhood and womanhood rounding itself out in Christian fullness, and which counts service as a privilege, responds cheerfully to the call of duty and finds ample reward in its own untarnished consistency.

To such a church and people we give you welcome and pray that our relations and our work together may be mutually helpful, and profitable in the name of our Lord and Master, "Whose we are and Whom we serve."

TO INSTALL NEW RECTOR OF CHURCH OF THE EPIPHANY MAY 1.

The evening service at the Church of the Epiphany Wednesday, May 1, will be of uncommon interest. It will mark the regular visit of the bishop of the diocese for confirmation. In addition the service instituting the new rector, Rev. Murray W. Dewart will take place. The Rev John W. Suter a former rector will take part as well as Rev. W. S. Packer who has been minister in charge since the resignation of Mr. Suter. Mr. Packer's sermon on Sunday, April 28, will therefore be the last which he will preach in his present position. He has won high regard from the whole parish as a minister and in the pulpit.

Rev. Murray W. Dewart, rector of St James' Church, Roxbury, has accepted a call to the Church of the Epiphany, Winchester.

Mr. Dewart succeeded the late Rev. Percy Brown as Rector of St. James Church. He had been Mr. Brown's assistant, and was a very young man when he received the call to the rectorship. Moreover, he succeeded not only a much older and more mature man, but a brillant man, a man of real genius in some directions, and a man of great personal charm—the intimate friend of Phillips Brooks, Professor Allen and others of that class. A more difficult position for a young man it would be hard to imagine.

And yet he has filled it with distinct success and with great satisfaction to a people who, as might be expected, were hard to please. He won their hearts by his directness, simplicity and frank and genuine piety. He has led the parish forward into new lines of activity; he has vastly improved the fabric, until St. James is now recognized as one of the beautiful interiors of the diocese; and he has grown and deepened and matured mentally and spiritually in process.

At Winchester another difficult task awaits him, for he succeeds Rev. John W. Suter, the first and only rector of that parish, one of the strongest men in the diocese, who in twenty-five years has built himself into the community and parish, and has been called the "Dean of Winchester."—From the Church Militant.

MRS. PUTNAM HELD RECEPTION.

Mrs. Ralph Putman held a reception at her home, No. 409 Main street, Tuesday afternoon from four until six. The affair was largely attended by guests from this and many surrounding towns, about two hundred calling during the afternoon. The residence was decorated with spring flowers, palms and greenery, and Mrs. Putman was assisted in receiving by her sister in-law, Miss Beatrice Putnam of West Medford. Assisting in pouring in the dining room were Mrs. J Morrill Putnam of West Medford, Mrs Arthur H Russell, Mrs. Arthur W. Hale and Mrs. Frank H. Thayer of Boston. These ladies were assisted in serving the tea and coffee by Mrs. Clarence C. Miller. Miss Elizabeth Downs, Mrs. Arthur Irving and Mrs. Harry K. Clarke. Mrs. George C. Coit and Mrs. W. S. Forbes served frappe, being assisted by Miss Dorothy Coit, Miss Elizabeth Coit and Miss Esther Parker.

GAME TOMORROW.

All roads lead to the ball game in the Highlands tomorrow. The Winchester Highlands Athletic Club will play against the Fenno Athletic Club of Chelsea. The game will start promptly at three fifteen, and will undoubtedly prove interesting. To reach the grounds, take a Reading car to Clematis street.

PRESENT TOWN COUNSEL IS COMPETENT.

Mr. Joslin Declines to Again Take Up Crossing Problem.

April 23, 1912.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Dear Sir:—I was sitting so far from Mr. John H Carter at the town meeting last evening that I did not hear the motion read by him which he proposes to offer at the next meeting, and in which, I now understand, the selectmen are directed to retain me as special counsel in the grade crossing matter. I trust that upon further consideration Mr. Carter will not offer that part of his motion referring to me, but if he persists in so doing I shall feel compelled to oppose it.

In the first place, there is no occasion for special counsel. The present town counsel is entirely competent to handle the matter and should be given a free hand in so doing. In the second place, if special counsel were deemed advisable the selectmen and town counsel should be given the opportunity of exercising their own choice in making a selection. In the third place, the town of Winchester possesses among its citizens a number of lawyers of eminent ability who have had many years of actual experience in handling cases under this law, whose availability in this connection should be carefully considered; and lastly, I am not willing to take up the matter again in any form for the town. For the last six years I have tried, not merely to get the crossing abolished, which could have been done at any time and now can be done immediately if the town will accept the railroad's plan, but rather to get it abolished as the town's people believe it should be abolished as shown by their votes. The latter is quite a different proposition, and I confess that I have wearied of the task, not because of the opposition from the other parties to the proceeding, but because of the lack of unity and patience on the part of the citizens of the town as a whole.

While I am about it permit me a final word which I intend shall be the last from me to the voters of Winchester on this subject. You are playing directly into the railroad company's hands by your backing and filling on this question. The longer you do this the better the railroad is pleased. Your vote at the next meeting as to the plan you desire adopted should end the matter so far as voting in town meeting is concerned. Put the matter unreservedly in the hands of your selectmen and counsel, give them united support before the commissions and the courts and you will win eventually. You never will win in any other way.

Yours truly,
Ralph E. Joslin.

REAL ESTATE NEWS.

The Edw. T. Harrington Co., report the sale of Clarence H Lewis' stucco house and about 13,775 square feet of land at No. 4 Ravenscroft road to A. T. Hunnewell of Chelsea who purchases for a home. The above house contains 10 rooms and 3 baths and was built only a few years ago by L. V. Niles.

Messrs. Ripley and Hovey of Winchester have sold to Percy A. Bearse, also of Winchester, lot number three on Oxford street, containing about 8000 square feet of land. This lot bounds on the north side of the estate already owned by Mr. Bearse, corner of Warren and Oxford streets, Edward T. Harrington Co., represent the purchaser and George Adams Woods the grantors.

Agreements have been signed for the sale of nearly an acre of land, situated on the westerly side of Grove street near Symmes corner and belonging to Albert D. Rogers of Winchester. The name of the purchaser is witheld for the present, Edw. T. Harrington Co., were the brokers.

The same brokers have negotiated the following leases: The estate corner of Fletcher and Copley streets belonging to Mrs. W. H. Gibson of Chicago to Mr. Paul C. Kellogg of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The estate No. 4 Park road owned by Nellie R. Ogden to F. D. Clement of West Medford.

The house No. 5 Webster street owned by George W. Payne to James K. Dalton of New York city.

PEOPLES' LEAGUE.

The last gathering of the season under the auspices of the Peoples' League will be held in the Assembly Hall of the High School building next Tuesday evening, April 30. The entertainment will begin promptly at 8 and no one will be admitted after 8.15 when the doors will be locked.

The program will be in keeping with the high standard which has characterized the previous entertainments. The program for the meeting last week included piano solos by Miss Edith J. Swett, songs by Mr. Richard B. Derby accompanied by Mrs. Derby, readings by Miss M. Alice Mason, songs by Mrs. John Lawrence Tufts, with Miss Sadie Felber at the piano and stories by Mr. Frank E. Rowe. Dancing followed in the gymnasium, the music being furnished by an orchestra of High School boys.

As announced by the President, Rev. George H. Gutterson, at the meeting next Tuesday evening cards will be distributed to the young people on which they will have an opportunity to indicate the things which they would be interested in for next season. Among the subjects which have been suggested are gymnasium classes, folk dances, manual training, choral class, dramatics, debating club and classes in millinery. The success of the League and the work which it will undertake for next season will depend in a great measure on the interest which the young people take in these matters as well as on the financial support which will come from the public. The past season has been experimental to a certain extent in feeling out what might be undertaken and in laying a foundation for the work of the next year. There seems to be a genuine demand for just such work as the League has tried to do and the interest of the young people is on the increase as was evidenced by the last gathering, when the attendance was the largest of any of the meetings.

COMING EVENTS.

April 26, Friday 8.15 p. m. Ninety third Anniversary of I. O. O. F., Masonic Hall.

May 3, Friday, at 3.30 p. m. Winchester Equal Suffrage League Tea Hostess, Mrs. Alfred S. Higgins, 68 Church street.

May 4, Saturday, 2.30 p. m. Annual May Party. Town Hall.

May 6, Monday. Annual meeting of the Home for Aged People in Winchester, in the Small Town Hall, at 7.30 p. m.

May 28, Tuesday. First Concert and Ball of employees of Kelley & Hawes Co. in Lyceum Hall.

A POPLESS CONCERT.

A Popless Concert was the title of the closing entertainment by the members of the Calumet Club for their ladies, held at the club on Tuesday evening. The affair was largely attended and most thoroughly enjoyed by all, taking the form of a concert with the guests seated at thirty tables and enjoying refreshments with the music.

The music was of exceptional quality. The list of artists included Miss Margaret L. Shepherd, contralto soloist, a Canadian prima donna of considerable reputation and who has recently created much favorable comment in Boston musical circles by her exceptional voice and charming stage presence. She was heard to great advantage in her group of three songs included in the program and heartily encored at every appearance.

With Miss Shepherd was William F. Dodge, the well known violin soloist. Mr. Dodge proved to be a thorough artist and master of his instrument, his selections being rendered with ability and finish, and gave much to the program.

Associated with these artists were nine members of the Boston Philharmonic and Boston Opera Orchestras, whose selections were all that could be desired by the many music lovers present.

The refreshments were served at the various tables by an efficient corps of waiters, among the ices the Grade Crossing Dream being especially delectible, as was the Calumet cocktail in the liquid list

The following program was rendered:

Overture	Orpheus Offenbach
Two numbers for strings
(a) Standchen	Schubert
(b) Dancer's Dream	De Seve
Aria for Contralto From the Hugenots	Meyerbeer
Waltz Tales from the Vienna Woods	Strauss
Solo for Violin Meditation from Thais	Massenet
Selection From the Opera Madam Butterfly	Puccini
Group for Contralto
(a) Shadows	Jacobs-Bond
(b) In the Boat	Grieg
(c) Will o' the Wisp	Spross
Spanish Suite	Lacombe
(a) Serenade
(b) Tournament
(c) Bull Fight
Characteristic Number Mice and the Trap	Kohler
Finale Dance of the Hours from La Gioconda	Ponchielli

"HOW THE VOTE WAS WON"

Was presented by the Winchester Equal Suffrage League in the Town Hall on Thursday evening, April 18th, and, in spite of the bad weather, a large and interested audience showed its appreciation of a lively and well acted performance. This is the fourth presentation in Greater Boston of the playlet, which is based on a logical enforcement of an old English law providing that every woman shall be supported by the "nearest male relative." How great a boon Votes for Women would be to every man, under such circumstances, is amusingly shown by the experience of Horace Cole, a clerk with a small salary, who is deserted by a housemaid who strikes for the cause, and is called upon to feed and shelter sister, niece, distant relation, first cousin and aunt, as well as aunty's dog and parrot. The parts were all well taken. Mr. Pezet of the Toy Theatre, Mrs. Farmer and Miss Sprague of the Brookline Dramatic Club, Mrs. Franklin Walter, jr., and Mr. Snow took five of the parts. The other characters were presented by members of the Equal Suffrage League—Miss Frances Elder, Mrs. William Buckley, Mrs. Edgar M. Young, Miss Daphne Dunbar and Mrs. Frank H. Merrill.

After the play there was dancing, and, for the entertainment as well of those who do not dance, the small Town Hall was turned into a cafe where ices, cake and coffee were offered.

It was a most enjoyable evening for the members of the League and their friends as well.

Following is the cast of Characters

Horace Cole, (a clerk, about 30)
Mr. A. Washington Pezet
Ethel (his wife) Miss Frances Elder
Winifred (her sister)
Mrs. Everett Farmer
Agatha Cole (Horace's sister)
Mrs. Edgar M. Young
Molly (his niece)
Miss Daphne Dunbar
Madame Christine (his distant relation)
Mrs. William Buckley
Maudie Spark (his first cousin)
Mrs. Frank H. Merrill
Miss Lizzie Wilkins (his aunt)
Mrs. Franklin Walter, Jr.
Lily (his maid-of-all-work)
Miss Frances W. Sprague
Gerald Williams (his neighbor)
Mr. Sidney I. Snow
Beauty Wilkins

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The fourth grade crossing committee to be turned down by an overwhelming vote. The great mistake the town has made has been in not leaving it in the hands of the Selectmen after it had voted forty to one in favor of the Town plan, and that is just what we will come back to by a decisive vote Monday night, for elevation is out of the question, the railroad will not have it nor the town either, and its cost is also prohibitive. We can undoubtedly have the Town plan at little or nothing above the ten per cent of total cost, and practically everybody says it is the best plan for the town. All of the other parties in interest agreed in 1910 to pay $270,000 toward the cost and undoubtedly would now.

Friar Tuck lost his temper for no good reason and deserved just what he got. Will he ever learn?

Mr. Prime seemed to be "knocking" everybody, but what he expected to accomplish by such a speech is hard to conceive, it began and ended nowhere.

The advocates of the elevated plan fired off their amunition, but it will be shown Monday night they made no hit. That plan was disposed of long ago and cannot get any considerable endorsement now.

Mr. Ginn certainly is brave in offering to go on to another grade crossing committee, or did he feel safe, knowing that the town would never appoint another? It would be a bold man who would offer the motion.

The Selectmen did not offer that motion for ten thousand increase of the highway approriation and I don't believe they will at this meeting. They have been given all the town can afford to give this year, and what they need to do is to see it is expended to advantage. They have over forty thousand dollars to spend and that is liberal for one year. Much work has had to wait every year and always will have to. Give the tax rate a little consideration.

Since Speaker Cushing's illness the House has lagged badly and wasted much time in silly talk and motions. There appears to be no leadership on the floor and Speaker pro tempore Cox is very lackadaisical. It looks now as the middle of June will be the best it can do on getting through.

The bigger Boston question will go over once more with or without a special committee to drag it around. The legislature is about as looney on special committees as we are.

Not more than half of the voters in the meeting Monday night voted, and that frequently is the case. Why is it, are they too tired to stand up, or don't they have any opinion? The biggest vote we ever cast in a town meeting was eighteen years ago.

We may not own the bed of the river, but we can control the flow of the water as we are the only riparian owner now.

Some elderly citizens are so anxious to live to see the grade crossing abolished that they ought to get Lloyd's to issue them that pleasure

John H. Carter.

ROBINSON—SPAULDING.

Mr. Harold Long Robinson, Tech 11', son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Robinson of Winthrop street, and Miss Frances Spaulding, Wellesley '11, daughter of Mrs. Frank B. Spaulding, were married on Saturday evening, April 20th, at eight o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, No. 75 Washington street The ceremony was attended by about 75 relatives and classmates of the couple and was performed by Rev Edward A. Robinson of the Congregational Church of Hingham, a brother of the groom's father and the officiating clergyman at his parent's wedding twenty-seven years ago.

The best man was Mr. Herbert Fryer, Tech. 11', of Stoneham. Miss Ella Pennell, Wellesley 11', of Westbrook, Me., was bridesmaid.

The residence was decorated for the occasion with cut and potted flowers and palms. The bride carried lilies of the valley and brides roses, and her attendant pink roses.

A reception to those witnessing the ceremony was held at its close, the ushers being Messrs. Warren J. Simonds of Marlboro and Herbert Floyd of Manchester-by-the Sea. The music for the evening was by the Blaikie-Marsh trio.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of the Winchester High School '07, and the groom is one of the engineers of the Aberthaw Construction Co. of Boston.

ELECTED MISSIONARY BISHOP

Rev. Herman Page, D.D., son of Eben Page of this town, of St. Paul's Church, Chicago, who was elected Missionary Bishop of New Mexico by the House of Bishops on April 11, was born in Roxbury forty-five years ago. In his boyhood he attended St. James Church, Roxbury. He graduated from Harvard in the class of 1888, and from the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, in 1891.

Bishop Lawrence says of him in the Church Militant

I know of no man in the Church better fitted to be a Missionary Bishop than Herman Page. He is a Boston boy through and through, and at the same time has all the enthusiasm and energy that one associates with the frontier.

Newsy Paragraphs.

The State Board of Health has issued an order that will eliminate the "roller towel" from use in public places. On and after June 1, 1912, it will be unlawful to provide the "common" towel in any public institution, hotel, restaurant, theatre, public hall or public school, railroad station, car, steamboat or ferry boat. The small towel is to be substituted, this to be washed after use by one person.

There is protest by owners of small autos over inequality in motor fees in a proposed law. At present a fee of five dollars is required for cars from 10 to 20 h.p.; the proposed fee is $5.00 for 10 h. p. and 50 cents for each h. p. additional. For 19 h. p. this would amount to $9.50,—an increase of nearly 100 per cent.

BALD HEADS NOT WANTED.

Baldness Is Too Generally Considered a Sign of Advanced Age.

A bald-headed person does not have an equal chance with one blessed with a healthy head of hair, because baldness is too generally accepted as an indication of age. Many large corporations have established an age limit, and refuse to take men over 35 years of age as new employees.

Probably 65% of bald-headed people may regain a good head of healthy hair if they will follow our advice and accept our offer. We have a remedy that we positively guarantee to grow hair on any head, unless the roots of the hair are entirely dead, their follicles closed, and the scalp has become glazed and shiny. We want people to try this remedy at our risk, with the distinct understanding that unless it does exactly what we claim it will, and gives satisfaction in every respect, we shall make no charge for the remedy used during the trial.

We know exactly what we are talking about, and with this offer back of our statements no one should scoff, doubt our word, or hesitate to put our remedy to an actual test.

We want every one who is suffering from any scalp or hair trouble, dandruff, falling hair, or baldness to try our Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. We want them to use it regularly—say until three bottles have been used—and if it does not eradicate dandruff, cleanse and refresh the scalp, tighten the hair in its roots, and grow new hair, we will return every cent paid us for the remedy for the mere asking. There is no formality expected, and we exact no obligation from the user whatever.

We make this offer with a full understanding that our business success entirely depends upon the sort of treatment we accord our customers, and we would not dare make the above offer unless we were positively certain that we could substantiate it in every particular. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store. [illegible] N. Abare, Cor. Main and Mt Vernon Sts., Winchester

POINTERS FOR THE MOTORIST

Just at this season of the year when country road commissioners are repairing the highways with crushed stone, motorists find many stretches that look alarmingly harmful to their tires. A little care in driving over places where ruts and hollows have been filled with crushed stone will prevent injury to the tires, says the Michelin man.

The best way to proceed when it is found impossible to avoid a short distance of stony road, is to take it at reduced speed after releasing the clutch. The distance should be estimated so that it will not be necessary to throw in the clutch in the middle of the stony part which would necessitate a fresh start while on the stones.

In case of a long distance of stony road, when it would be impossible to "coast" over the entire distance the best thing to do is to throw in the first speed going over the stony part slowly. It may be explained that as the shocks of the road increase with the increased speed of the car, the cutting of the tires by the sharp stones will be reduced to minimum when proceeding in the manner suggested.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten-fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. THE TREASURES OF THE DEEP.

[Published by request of J. E. S.]

What hidest thou in thy treasure caves and cells,
Thou hollow-sounding and mysterious main?—
Pale glistening pearls, and rainbow-colored shells
Bright things which gleam unwrecked of, and in vain.
Keep, keep thy riches, melancholy sea!
We ask not such from thee.

Yet more, the depths have more! What wealth untold,
Far down, and shining through their stillness lies
Thou hast the starry gems, the burning gold,
Won from ten thousand royal Argosies.—
Sweep o'er thy spoils, thou wild and wrathful main!
Earth claims not these again

Yet more, the depths have more! Thy waves have rolled Above the cities of a world gone by!
Sand hath filled up the palaces of old,
Sea-weed o'ergrown the halls of revelry.—
Dash o'er them, ocean! in thy scornful play:
Man yields them to decay.

Yet more! the billows and the depths have more!
High hearts and brave are gathered to thy breast!
They hear not now the booming waters roar,
The battle-thunders will not break their rest.—
Keep thy red gold and gems, thou stormy grave!
Give back the true and brave!

Give back the lost and lovely!—those for whom
The place was kept at board and hearth so long.
The prayer went up through midnight's breathless gloom,
And the vain yearning woke midst festal song!
Hold fast thy buried isles, thy towers o'erthrown—
But all is not thine own.

To thee the love of woman hath gone down,
Dark flow thy tides o'er manhood's noble head,
O'er youth's bright locks, and beauty's flowery crown;
Yet must thou hear a voice—Restore the dead!
Earth shall reclaim her precious things from thee!—
Restore the dead, thou sea!

BASE BALL.

PETTINGILL-ANDREWS CO.—WINCHESTER HIGHLANDS A. C.

Playing against a team of experience and considerably older men, the Winchester Highlands Athletic Club Baseball team lost their second game of the season to the Pettingell-Andrews Co. of Boston, last Saturday afternoon, by a score of 11 to 1. The home team put up a good game but was clearly outclassed in every department.

Robinson made two wonderful catches in centerfield, and Bellville accepted a hard chance in left. Murphy relieved Obregon in the 5th inning, and pitched a winning game, allowing but four hits.

For the visitors, Toppey, Gillis, and Telfer excelled.

BATTLE OF LEXINGTON.

Hon. S. J. Elder Addresses Lexington Historical Society.

The annual meeting of the Lexington Historical Society on the anniversary of the evening before the Battle of Lexington was held in the Town Hall.

The address was delivered by Samuel J. Elder of Winchester on the topic, "What Led Up to Lexington."

The speaker briefly reviewed the common misapprehension that the prime causes of the revolt against British authority were of recent origin such as the Stamp Act, the Three Pence Pound on Tea, the Boston Massacre, and the Boston Port Bill, and pointed out that the underlying causes had existed for a century and a half. The population was homeogenious and American in their character and not English. Immigration in any considerable number to the New England States had ceased more than a century before and the two millions of people inhabiting the Atlantic Sea Port were the hardy and venturesome descendants of the early settlers with their own traditions trained in the Indian and French wars and of creeds quite antagonistic to the English Church.

Furthermore, the colonies never were colonies in any real sense. They had practical independence of British rule from their inception. Rhode Island and Connecticut had charters of such liberalities that they were lived under after they had become parts of the United States and into the last century. Massachusetts' charter after it was brought by Governor Winthrop to these shores gave well nigh absolute independence to Great Britain. The Governor and General Court were elected. The Judges were appointed without interference from abroad. Even after the charter was taken away in 1685 there was practically independence. Though the Governor and Judges were appointed by the Crown the Legislature had absolute control over appropriations and supplies. Contributions to the French wars were voluntary. Such restrictive legislation as Great Britain attempted was ignored and little effort was made to enforce it since England was compelled to rely so entirely on the colonists for assistance in the wars against the French and especially, the Canadian campaigns.

Mr. Elder then traced the attempts at the reorganizations of the colonies after the French Treaty of Peace in 1763. The whole purpose of which was to establish England as a manufacturing country, to make of the colonies only a market for English goods and producers of raw material. Trade with the continent and manufacturing of iron and wood were prohibited. Colonists faced not so much taxation without representation as complete industrial subserviance and political domination. The offering caused by the Boston Port Bill and the radical changes in the Massachusetts Charter and other restrictive legislation caused rioting and preparation for armed resistance everywhere, and it only needed Foray into Middlesex to fire the shots of actual revolt.

Mr. Elder said in closing, this annual occasion would be of little value if it merely told the story of heroism and revolt against despotism. Standing tonight 137 years after the event, we look back upon a people disunited by a revolution but still kindred in blood upon the steady irresistible and inevitable progress toward reunion in thought and sentiment of the two great branches of the English speaking race. During the interval thirty six arbitrations between them have taken place and forestalled and prevented war. Geneva, Halifax, London and The Hague have told the story of judicial determination of dispute instead of bloody controversy. We are approaching the celebration of 100 years of peace. Just now we have seen the proposal of a Treaty of well nigh unlimited arbitration of all disputes hailed with intense enthusiasm on both sides of the water. Hundreds of meetings in each country proclaimed the unity of the race and the willingness to enter into a permanent pact of peace. Though mutilated in the form of acceptance by the United States Senate the vital principle of the Treaty remains and at no distant day will compel complete acceptance. The glory comes to the daughter of having made the proposal and to the great American President for its formulation and advocacy.

We meet tonight under the shadow of a great disaster. Your beautiful town sits silent awaiting news of the fate of one of its distinguished citizens. The whole country is still breathless awaiting the final roll call of those who sank and of those who were saved.

But one thing we know and it thrills us amidst our tears. All the women of the ill-fated ship were saved. Englishmen and Americans stood by the side of the ship and saw their women safely to the boats, not the women of wealth and rank alone but those of the steerage and poverty as well. They stood still in the face of certain death.

We are bred of the same stock grounded in the same traditions, chivalry to women is still the dominant trait of the race. Coming of generation, bread to the sea and inured in a peril, men faced death dauntlessly. Peace has its heroism as well as war. Soldier and sailor and merchant and lawyer are of the same stuff. We may say of the whole race what Kipling said:—

"It makes you think better of you and your friends, and the work you may have to do

When you think of the sinking Victoria's Jollies, Soldier and Sailor too."

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

The last lecture in the course arranged by the Household Economics Committee will be given on Monday afternoon, May 6, at 2.30 in the High School library. Miss Stern will talk on "The Child, the Adult of Tomorrow."

The Club on Monday had the pleasure of listening to a most interesting lecture by Mr. Herbert W. Gleason on "Luther Burbank and His Wonderful Plant Creations." This was illustrated by many lantern slides. The speaker showed first some views of spots in Lancaster where the famous scientist spent his early days; then he took his audience across the continent to Mr. Burbank's farms in California. The beautiful orchards, gardens, and indeed the whole region was clearly shown. The methods of grafting and development of the best were very interesting and the colored pictures which the stereoptican gave so vividly were wonderfully realistic. One felt as if a trip to this place had been enjoyed. The Club was very fortunate in securing Mr. Gleason.

The Massachusetts presidential primaries are set for Tuesday, April 30.

There will be a chance to register at the Town Hall Saturday evening if your name is not already on the voting list and you desire to vote at the primary next Tuesday.

The total vote cast at the town meeting Monday evening for and against the plan submitted by the special committee was 189. This was not a very large vote for so important a measure.

A vote for President Taft means not only a vote for fair play but for safe and sane administration of the affairs of the United States, with equal justice and fair dealings for all the people.

Woburn's City Council has refused to grant a permit for another Hebrew cemetery at Montvale by the vote of eight to seven. Residents of Montvale are justified in this opposition to making that section a vast series of cemeteries.

It is said that $25,000 has been spent by the Legislature trying to divide the state into Congressional districts. Most of this was spent in paying legislators for work on recess committees. All this would have been saved by leaving the districts as they are and having two congressmen at large, as other states have done and as we after all may do.

Rev. Dr. Blackett, pastor of the Methodist Church, who has been assigned to the Stanton Avenue Church, Dorchester, carries with him to his new field the best wishes of hosts of friends. Dr. Blackett during his all to brief pastorate here has greatly strengthened the local church in all its activities and in addition had been active and interested in making Winchester an ideal residential town.

As a means of settling the grade crossing problem, the STAR suggests that the matter be referred to a committee composed of five of our strongest citizens and that they be given full power to decide upon a plan, put it into execution and have full authority to agree upon any excess expense that might be necessary to secure any particular plan that they might decide upon. It is practically impossible at a large gathering similar to our town meetings to satisfactorily settle an important question like the grade crossing and secure the best results. There is too great a divergence of opinion.

JUNIOR RECEPTION.

The Junior Reception given by the Junior Class to the Seniors of the High School was held last Friday evening at the Town Hall and largely attended by many of the students and their friends.

The decorations were superb and far exceeded those of previous years. They consisted of streamers of roses, extending from the balconies across the hall, presenting a delightful setting. The Junior Class Pin was placed on the background of the stage and various banners and pendants were hung about the hall.

A full orchestra furnished music during the evening and Young catered.

The matrons for the occasion were Mrs. Alexander Foster, Mrs. John E Emery, Mrs. F. G. Trott and Mrs. H. W. Rohrman.

The committee in charge was, Marion Trott, Rachel Emery, Miriam Foster, Wray Rohrman, James Flinn and Raymond Strawbridge.

W. H. S. NOTES.

Registration cards were given out last week for students to fill out. A change has been made in two studies. Three periods will be given to cooking instead of the pevious one, and two periods will be taken for sewing. Other courses of study remain the same as before.

A new plan is being tried in regard to returning afternoons. Hereafter a list of failures for the week will be posted in room 14 and those pupils desiring to make up work will report without further notice.

At the A. A. meeting on Wednesday reports were read from Park, on committee for the dance and Rhorman as hockey manager.

James Flinn has been appointed track manager by Louis Goddu.

The Recorder will be ready for publication soon.

BOWLING ENDS.

Spring Tournament Closed Season at Calumet Club.

The final games in the spring bowling tournament at the Calumet Club were rolled last week and the finish of this tournament marks the closing of the bowling at the Club for this season, although owing to postponed games the ladies' tournament will continue until into next month.

The winners of the spring tournament were team H, an aggregation which did not show up strong until the last of the tournament owing to a number of post poned games. Its final work left no doubt of its ability to win first place however, and it had a good margin of wins over its nearest competitor. The Tigers took second place and team E third.

The best individual work was that of Gendron, who rolled an average of over 100 flat during the tournament.

The results:

First team prize—won by team H. Phillips C. Simonds, capt., Charles E. Kendall, Willard T. Carlton, Harry W. Campbell, Robert M. Stone. Won 25, lost 7.

Second team prize—won by team A. Joseph E. Gendron, capt., Harry J. Olmsted, George A. Woods, Charles E. Kinsley, George W. Fitch. Won 22, lost 10.

Third team prize—won by team E. John L. Ayer, capt., Orion Kelley, Edgar W. Metcalf, Walter J. Brown, Charles W. Tarbell.

First individual prize—high average—won by Joseph E. Gendron, 101 15-24.

Second individual prize—high average with handicap won by George A. Woods, 96 7-24 and 9 making 105 7-24.

Third individual prize—high three string total with handicap won by George S. Littlefield, 304 and 48 making 352.

Fourth individual prize—high single with handicap, won by Ernest W. Hatch, 127 and 9 making 136.

MIXED BOWLING TOURNAMENT

Two postponed matches were rolled in the mixed bowling tournament at the Calumet Club on Monday night, team 5 taking all three points from team 3 and team 1 winning two from team 6. In the first none of team 3 were present. Mrs. Gerlach rolled a single of 90 and a total of 169. Mrs. Flanders was high in the second match with singles of 83 and 85, and Dr. Olmsted rolled a single of 119 and a total of 217.

TAFT RALLY.

We have heard it said during the past few years that the days of political rallies in Winchester had gone by never to return. And yet the largest rally ever held in the Town Hall took place last evening. With less than 36 hours' notice, the vast assembly came together. It may have been the popularity of the two "Sams," and it may have been the demand for the return of President Taft and fair play. In all probability it was both, with a strong leaning toward the latter, and showed the President's strength in Winchester.

Hon. Samuel J. Elder and Congressman Samuel W. McCall were the speakers and the inconsistencies of Mr. Roosevelt were shown unstintingly to the applause of their hearers.

F. M. Ives, Esq., was the presiding officer.

The Everett Brass Band of 32 pieces furnished the music.

Mr. George E. Sewall of Norwood street has just returned from a trip to Richmond, Va., Pittsburg and Buffalo.

"Num — — ber?"

"Give me 890."

"What exchange please?"

"Winchester 890."

"Line is—s busy."

"They have several lines—give me—Hello—is this 890?"

"Yes, madam."

"This is Mrs. Epicure."

"Yes, madam."

"Send me two pounds of tub butter; two pounds of print; one-half dozen oranges; one-half dozen bananas,—nello—central, you cut us off—890,—890?"

"What exchange, please?"

"Winchester, 890—hello—is this 890—they cut us off—did you get the bananas?"

"Yes, madam"

"And I want coffee; have you the S. S. Pierce Mocha and Java, three pounds for a dollar?"

"Yes madam."

"Send me three pounds,—and one-half pound Orange Peko; five pounds of sugar; and have you the after dinner size loaf sugar?"

"Yes, madam."

"Send me five pounds, then, and send me another can of that new cocoa—"

"You mean Priscilla Minuet?"

"Yes. Have you Crosse & Blackwell's India Relish?"

"Yes."

"Send me one bottle, one jar of that finnan haddie packed in glass, and a can of Taka pears."

"Yes, madam."

"And send me about six pounds of sirloin roast; and what have you for fresh vegetables?"

"We have new potatoes, asparagus, tomatoes, spinach, turnips—"

"Is the asparagus fresh?"

"Yes, madam, we are putting on a team to bring all our fresh vegetables and fruits from Boston at six o'clock each morning."

"Give me one bunch of asparagus and two quarts of new potatoes, and a bunch of radishes; and do you carry glass washboards?"

"Yes, madam."

"Then, send me a glass washboard, and can you get something for me at the hardware store?"

"Yes, madam."

"I must have a double-boiler, small size."

"We will get this and send it up with your order."

"I must have this order delivered—,"

"When do you wish it?"

"I simply must have some of the order by noon—"

"Everything will be delivered by half-past eleven."

"And I forgot to mention, I want a yeast cake, and I want a box of Cammebert, it you have a nice soft one."

"We have a special arrangement for keeping them. Is there anything else?"

"O, yes,—a small size box of Royal Baking Powder, a package of Cream of Wheat, a bag of King Arthur Flour, a pint of maple syrup, and a small bottle of Red Lily olives."

"Is there anything else?"

"No, be sure and have them here by noon."

"Yes, madam, thank you."

BLAISDELL—SUNDWALL.

Miss Maria Augusta Sundwall, well known in Winchester, and George Elmer Blaisdell of North Woburn, son of Mrs. Josephine Blaisdell, were united in marriage Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Emil Swanson at 65 Prospect street, Woburn, by Rev. P. A. Mickels of the Swedish church of Woburn. Attending the couple were Misses Edith Anderson and Anna Johnson, both of Woburn, Rudolph Swenson of Woburn and Edward Green of Reading.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Swanson, after which the couple left on an extended wedding tour and on their return they will reside at 645 Main street, Woburn.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Winchester Democrats will make no mistake if they vote for Wilson for president at the primaries next Tuesday night. He is the kind of a man the country is looking for, honest, able, fearless, progressive and patriotic. The "interests" want neither him nor La-Follette and are working hard to defeat them. They would not feel badly if any of the other candidates succeeded, not even our friend Tom's bluff Colonel.

Newsy Paragraphs.

On Monday evening a dinner was given at the Colonial for the bridesmaids and ushers of the bridal party of Miss White and Mr. Pond.

Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Nutt, of the Colonial, have returned to their home, after a trip to New York and Bermuda.

Mrs. Edward O. Clark of Park avenue was called to Woburn Wednesday by the sudden illness of her father.

At one p. m., Thursday, May 2, the Western Missionary Society of the First Congregational Church will hold a cake, cancy and apron sale. All are invited. Luncheon will be served at 12.15 to members and holders of tickets. No tickets will be sold at the door. A limited number may be obtained at 14 Hillside avenue at 25 cents each.

Court Santa Maria No. 150, National Order of the Daughter's of Isabella, are preparing for their first May Party, which is to be held in Town Hall, afternoon and evening of May 3rd. An entertainment will be held in afternoon for children. The committee on arrangements are working earnestly, to make this, their first May Party one of the most successful, and enjoyable parties in the history of the Court.

Now is the time to have your Heaters and Furnaces cleaned and repaired for next winter. Edwards & Poor Co., Tel. 251-M, 4-6 Thompson street.

Members of the A. O. U. W. spent a very enjoyable evening last Friday, in Masonic Hall, in celebration of Patriot's Day. An entertainment was given consisting of songs by Miss Annette Symmes, readings by Miss McKay and selections by the orchestra. The entertainment was followed with dancing and whist, and refreshments were served during the evening.

The H. S. team took its second game of the season Wednesday to the tune of 7-1. Danvers was the opposing team. Next Saturday's game is with Winthrop and it promises to be a close game with Winchester on the winning end.

Miss Hannah Hurley, bookkeeper at the Home Market, is ill this week with a severe cold.

GRADE CROSSING QUESTION DEBATED.

Because pressing business pevented the debaters of the Junior Class of the High School from discussing the Grade Crossing Question, on Monday, as was expected, the matter was laid on the table until Tuesday.

At 10.30 o'clock Tuesday morning, Miss Weeks, the moderator called the meeting to order. The question was—"To see whether the Grade Crossing at the center of the town should be abolished, as proposed by the "Town Plan" or as suggested in the Stone Arch Bridge Plan. After arguments for and against each of the two plans had been made and summarized, a Special Committee of Five, appointed by the moderator for the express purpose of settling the question conferred, and rendered decision in favor of the Stone Arch Bridge Plan.

The debaters for the Town Plan, were—Messrs. Getty, Lane, Young and Dover, while those who spoke in favor of the Stone Arch Bridge Plan were, Messrs. Hodges, Harris, Hilton and Noyes Messrs. Hodges, Harris and Hilton, by the forceful arguments which they made for the Stone Arch Bridge Plan and by the ready answers which they had for the "disadvantages of the plan" as portrayed by the supporters of the Town Plan, won the debate for their side. Mr Young made the most forceful arguments for the Town Plan.

WHEREAS, at a meeting of the County Commissioners for said County, at Cambridge on the first Tuesday of January, A. D., 1912.

On the petition of certain inhabitants of the Town of Winchester in said County, praying for alterations of Pond Street in said Town, after a view and hearing said Commissioners are of the opinion that the existing highway can be so far amended as to supersede the necessity of alterations.

Said Commissioners therefore give notice that they will meet at the Commissioners Office in the Court House, East Cambridge, on Saturday, the twenty-fifth day of May, A. D., 1912, at ten of the clock in the forenoon, to direct specific repairs on said street.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

Last night occurred the first of the course of illustrated lectures, given in the Methodist Church under the auspices of the Epworth League.

Beautiful Nova Scotia was portrayed most vividly by the lecturer, Mr. Charles S. Otto, whose extensive travels enabled him to speak from actual experience and observation. The long list of pictures were most beautiful and showed some of the most charming spots in the entire province of Nova Scotia. The next lectures will occur May 2nd and May 9th.

Next Thursday night Rev. H. J. Hillbourne will deliver his famous lecture on "The glory of the Italian City." The subject never fails to interest those who have traveled extensively as well as those who glean from these lectures visions of the east.

SUBURBAN LIFE FOR MAY.

Hundreds of pointers and suggestions for building the small house make Suburban Life Magazine for May of inestimable value to everybody. The cover design shows a glimpse of a striking suburban house. First-class photographs of first-class homes, interior and exterior, with helpful building plans and live descriptive material make the number notable.

"Little-Cost Houses with Individuality" is the opening article, and describes two beautiful homes in a New Jersey town. "A Brick House for a New Jersey Lot" shows what may be done when lot space is limited and the beautiful English type house is desired. "Two Striking Moderate Cost Stucco Houses" tells of a couple of homes built in the newest fashion over hollow tile walls. Be sure and read "The House that Jack Built." It's teeming with suggestions. Some of the other articles are: "An All-the-Year House in a Resort Town"; "Plumbing for the Modern Home"; "A Talk About Your Floors"; "How We Built Our Bungalow"; "The Beneficial Sleeping Porch"; "Constructing and Maintaining Suburban Highways;" "Bees as a Cure for a Woman's Nerves"; "The Joy of Owning a Dog and How to Care for Him;" "Should Women Have the Ballot?" "Tree Gardens for Children"; "Bee-Keeping for the Suburbanite;" "What Milady Motorist Will Wear," and two dozen live, timely articles besides.

BOSTON THEATRE.

Everybody is interested in the announcement that the famous Julian Eltinge, the one and only actor on the American stage who has dignified the impersonation of beautiful women by artistic methods, is to return to the Boston Theatre as a star of "The Fascinating Widow," for a limited engagement beginning April 29.

Many theatregoers will remember Julian Eltinge when he was seen at the same theatre here last season in the same piece in which the popular actor plays both the leading man and leading woman in the characters of Hal Blake, a college boy, and Mrs. Monte, the "fascinating widow."

This season the production is new in every detail.

For the benefit of out-of-town patrons special matinees will be given Wednesdays, with no seat over $1.00, as well as the regular Saturday afternoon performance. The prices for the evening performances are 25 cents to $1.50.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

Something decidedly new and original in the way of farce is promised for B. F. Keith's Theatre next week. Hazel Weston and company will present one of the funniest and most pretentious travesties ever staged in vaudeville or anywhere else, for that matter. This piece is a take-off on the old time melodrama, such as "No Mother To Guide Her," "Bertha, The Sewing Machine Girl," and the like, and is called "More Sinned Against Than Usual." The characters are an old farmer, his wife, two sons, a sheriff, villian, and his accomplice, and a very much mis-judged young man.

Other big features will be the Three Leightons, in "A One Night Stand in Minstrelsy," Howard and Lawrence, Norman and Toomey, Rosaire and Doretto, the Two Jolly Tars; and Wartenburg Brothers, the double footed [illegible].

TREMONT THEATRE.

Robert Hilliard an American player of dignity and distinction will make his first local appearance in his new comedy drama, "The Avalanche" at the Tremont Theatre, for one week only, commencing April 26th.

Mr. Hilliard has collaborated with W. A. Tremayne in the joint authorship of this four act play. He assumes the role of a Wall Street broker—a well seasoned man of the world, virile and alert, ready of resource, generous, impulsive and dominating. The jealousy of his wife, given some warrant for suspicion through wholly innocent circumstances, results in a condition threatening the distruction of domestic happiness. Thais Magrane will personate the seductivey fascinating widow; Stella Archer, the unreasonably jealous wife; Julia Hanchett, the worldly mother; Aileen Elayne, a budding debutante; S. L. Richardson, an eccentric young scientist; Reginald Barker, a scheming stock manipulator; Ben R. Graham, a loveable lawyer of the old school; together with Ruth Grosby Wanda Carlyle, George Clare, Robert Newcombe, Harvey Clark, Alden Wheeler, C. W. Haksins and a dozen others.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"The Prince Chap" is a play that is designed to appeal to theatregoers of all ages. Its author is Edward Peple, who also wrote "The Spitfire" and "The Littlest Rebel. The strongest quality of "The Prince Chap" lies in its humanity. Its pathos rings true and its humor is ever present. The cast at the Castle Square next week will be one of unusual excellence. Mr. Craig taking the part of the young artist who finally succeeds in love and art. The child in the first act will be acted by Miss Henrietta McDannel of "End of the Bridge" fame, and Mary Young will represent her during the rest of the play. The run of "The Prince Chap" on the Castle Square stage will be for only one week.

TOWN MEETING.

Mr. William A. Kneeland then offered the motion that the report of the committee on ash disposal be accepted as printed in the STAR. This was voted.

Mr. Farnsworth then offered the following motion, which was carried:

That it is the sense of this meeting that the action of the Board of Selectmen in their efforts to procure a through line of electric cars from Winchester to Harvard Square, by way of Arlington, be endorsed and that a copy of this vote be sent to the President of the Boston Elevated Railway Co., and to the Bay State Street Railway Co.

Mr. Carter stated that it was necessary for the Selectment to take further action in this matter under the statute.

Mr. Tuck then started to offer a motion, but as the time set for taking up the grade crossing matter had arrived his motion was not presented.

Grade Crossing.

Under article 18 Mr. Brown, for the committee of five, offered the motion that the first recommendation of the committee be accepted.

This was as follows:

The town adopt the plan proposed by the Committee; submit the same to the Special Commission, respectfully present the necessity of the abolition of the crossing at grade and urge that its execution be in general accordance with such plan.

The motion was carried, and Mr. Brown then entered into an explanation of the plan, using stereopticon views thrown on a screen on the stage. He said in part that if the "town plan" is adopted the town must be prepared to spend a large sum of money, and the rejection of the plan shown might result in the loss of other plans and all plans considered by the town. The town must limit its selection to a plan of reasonable cost to have it accepted by the Commission. That considerable sentiment had been wasted upon the business portion of the town in criticism of the plan proposed and it was the opinion of the committee that its solution was the best offered, everything considered.

Mr. Carter questioned the necessity of legislative action in taking a part of the "Whitney park Property" so called. Mr. Brown replied that this would be necessary.

Mr. Whitney said that the town had not purchased the right to close up the waste-way stream as the committee contemplated, neither had the town ever voted to take down the milldam. That was a matter to be decided in the future. Town counsel had urged the speaker not to remove the stone work of the dam when the town took possession of the property as many citizens wished the mill pond to remain full of water until it was decided what to do with the bottom of the mill pond should the water be drawn off some time in the future, but perhaps not for many years. The speaker agreed to the request of town counsel though it had previously been arranged that he might remove the dam when the town took possession of the mill property. The dam is now the property of the town if the town wishes to retain it. Mr. Whitney thought the price the committee put upon the mill site and the water power too low for the parties in interest to pay. The best and most valuable portion of the property was included in what was to be given up by the town to the railroad company principally. Mr. Whitney called attention to the fact that the scale printed upon the committee's plan was evidently wrong, ("one inch to forty feet") as it should be one inch to one hundred and sixty feet, but according to the best evidence obtainable the space for roadways left on each side of the square east and west of the railroad location, walled in as per committees plan, would be about forty feet on the west side and from twenty to thirty feet opposite Lyceum Building on the east side, the west passageway to include the location of the electric road. As the new proposed overhead crossing was to be eighty feet wide, after leaving the center, it would seem that the small passage ways contemplated as good enough for the square were altogether too small for such an important locality. Attention was also called to the fact that no foot sub-way was provided at the square for foot travelers going up or down Main street under the railroad, the committee only recommending one foot subway leading to the West Side at the south side of Church street, also that no subway for vehicles of any kind was provided for Manchester Field. If any serious accident happened to any one on the Field, the unfortunate would have to be carried out on a stretcher through a foot subway to Thompson street. The only carriage or team roads to the Field from any direction would be destroyed if the committee's plan is ever carried out. Mr Whitney called attention to the artificial hill twenty feet high over the railroad which the committee's plan would call for, a climb which the town would pay $20,000 to remove if it existed naturally, as an undesirable thing in any highway. Now the committee propose to build and maintain such an encumbrance that every team would have to pass over in going through or across the town for all time. Let the railroad do some of the hill climbing, not put it all on to the town and county. Mr. Whitney thought the center business men had not been considerately treated by the committee and that the village square, about two hundred feet in either direction, could be made a creditable feature in the landscape if properly treated and preserved to its full size by some plan other than the one presented by the committee of five. The committee should receive full credit for the work they had put into formulating their plan but it should not be accepted or approved in any way by the town for the reason that it does not improve the general situation at the center and is not anything near an equivalent for what the town now possesses.

Mr. Rufus Herrick then spoke on the "Stone Arch Bridge" plan, illustrating his remarks with some very attractive views of arch bridges taken in other places and with sketches of the appearance of the centre with such a plan carried out. Of interest in his remarks was a letter from Mr. Edwin Ginn offering to serve on a future committee on abolition and recommending that another committee be appointed for further consideration of the problem. Also the statement that the railroad derives about $80,000 from Winchester business each year.

Mr. H. D. Murphy said that the erection of such a bridge, with an enbankment through the town, would be a decided detriment to the town; not only the center, but the whole valley would be spoiled from an asthetic view point. He thought the conditions here were not similar to those in Belmont, where such a scheme had proved satisfactory. He thought the tracks could be lowered, with the advantage of less noise and dirt. He favored depressing rather than raising the tracks.

Mr. Laraway spoke in opposition, as did Mr. Holland.

Mr. John T. Wilson favored depressing the tracks and raising the center.

Mr. Prime spoke at length, favoring any plan whatever, so long as the crossing was abolished.

Dr. Allen spoke, urging immediate action, and stated that unless a decision was reached soon the town would be forced to accept any plan decided upon by the Commission. He favored the Committee's plan.

Mr. Farnsworth stated that he had been informed that the railroad would oppose any plan to raise its tracks, but would not oppose any plan to depress the tracks two or three feet; the railroad would not pay one cent more than the special commission should decree, and that any plan with a cost in excess of $150,000 would mean that the addition would have to be borne by the town; furthermore as fixed by an act of the legislature a state highway must have a clear view at all parts for a distance of 150 feet; as Main street was a state highway the plan adopted would have to recieve the approval of the county commissioners.

As the hour of ten had been reached the motion to adjourn was put, but was lost. It was voted that when adjournment was made it be to next Monday, April 29, at 7 45 o'clock.

Mr. Carter spoke against the committee's plan, likening it to the "Vinal Plan," and being of the opinion that it was favored by the railroad; if so the railroad should pay for the whole of it. He thought the business of the town should be considered; said that a special act of the legislature would be necessary to use the "Whitney Park Property," which would not be easy; the Railroad was now ready to spend the money to do the work and was willing to begin; the town should fight for what it wants and it would get it.

The motion to adopt the committee's plan was made and rejected by the vote of 168 to 21.

The meeting then adjourned to next Monday evening.

ASSESSORS' NOTICE

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 41, of Part 1 of Chapter 490 of the Acts of 1909, all persons, firms and corporations, domestic or foreign, subject to taxation in the Town of Winchester are hereby notified and required to bring in to the Assessors of said Town of Winchester, on or before the

in case of residents, true lists of all their polls and personal estates (not exempt by law from taxation,) of which they were possessed on the first day of April in the current year, and in case of non-residents and foreign corporations, true lists of all their personal estates, in said Town of Winchester (not exempt from taxation) which lists must be verified by oath as required by Section 43 of said Part 1.

Under the provisions of Section 42 of said Part 1, as amended by Chapter 515, Acts of 1909, the above-mentioned lists must be in form prescribed by the Tax Commissioner of the Commonwealth. These blank forms may be had at the Assessor's office, or will be mailed to any address upon application.

Section 45 of Part 1 of Chapter 490, Acts of 1909. A mortgagor or mortgagee of real estate may bring into the Assessors of the city or town in which it lies, within the time prescribed by the notice under section forty-one, a statement under oath of the amount secured thereon or on each separate parcel thereof, with the name and residence of every holder of an interest therein as mortgagor or mortgagee. If such property is situated in two or more places, or if a recorded mortgage includes two or more estates or parts of an estate as security for one sum, such statement shall include an estimate of the interest of the mortgagee in each estate or part of an estate. The Assessors shall, from such statement or otherwise, ascertain the proportionate interests of the mortgagor or mortgagee, respectively, in said estates, and shall assess the same accordingly. If, in any year, such statement is not brought in, the tax for that year on such real estate shall not be invalid merely for the reason that the interest of the mortgagee therein has not been assessed to him.

In accordance with Section 41 aforesaid, all persons and corporations are hereby required to bring into the Assessors, on or before the 20th day of May next, true lists of all real and personal estate held by such persons and corporations, respectively, for literary, temperance, benevolent, charitable, or scientific purposes on the first day of April, in the current year, together with statements of the amounts of all receipts and expenditures for said purposes during the year next preceding said first day of April; such lists and statements to be in accordance with blanks furnished by the Tax Commissioner.

ABOUT COLLARS

First detachable collar invented by a Troy, N. Y., mechanic.

Rev. Ebenezar Brown began manufacturing collars at Troy, 1829.

Lyman Bennett's collar factory started 1835.

Sewing machine began to be used in making collars, 1852.

Steam power introduced in collar factories, 1855.

Buttonhole sewing machine appeared, 1875.

Troy today uses 80,000,000 yards of cotton cloth to produce 500,000,000 collars, being 90 per cent. of all made in America.

The number made at Troy would be larger still if the WINCHESTER LAUNDRY and other modern plants did not by their efficient methods greatly prolong the life of the average collar.

THE EFFECTIVE LAXATIVE.

Tastes Like and Is Eaten Like Candy.

In our experience in the handling of drugs and medicines, we believe we have never had experience with any Remedy that gave such great satisfaction to our customers as do Rexall Orderlies. This Remedy is not like any other laxative or cathartic. It contains all the good features of other laxatives, but none of their faults.

Our own faith in Rexall Orderlies is so strong that we offer them to you with our own positive personal guarantee, that if they do not thoroughly satisfy you, you only need tell us and we will hand back to you every penny you paid us for them. Therefore, in trying them upon our recommendation you take no risk whatever.

Rexall Orderlies taste like and are eaten like candy. They do not gripe, cause nausea, excessive looseness, or any other annoyance. They act so easily that they may be taken at any time, day or night. They are particularly good for children, aged or delicate persons. They are put up in convenient tablets in three sizes of packages. Prices, 10c., 25c., and 50c.

Remember, Rexall Remedies can be obtained in this community only at our store — The Rexall Store.

KEEP WORK IN TOWN.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Allow me to make a few remarks in your valuable paper from a Union Carpenter's point of view.

The Carpenter's Union No. 991 of Winchester has been watching with considerable interest a building on Main street, near the centre of the town, being remodelled into a store, to be occupied by a resident of Winchester. We do not find any fault with this man for giving his work to an outsider. We acknowledge his perfect right to employ whoever he pleases, but we do think it is unfair to our builders and to our Union to have men coming into our town and work more hours per week than our established rule allows. Winchester possesses many capable builders and has in her union as able mechanics as can be found in the State of Massachusetts. Proof of the same can easily be found by viewing the many beautiful residences which have been built during the past ten or twelve years by carpenters of Winchester.

Now do you not think Mr. Storekeeper that you are standing in your own light by hiring non-union men, if you value the patronage of the working people of Winchester. There are many unionists in town and they are increasing steadily, for the Union is here to stay. A union store in this town is a possibility in the near future which will be capable of taking care of the union men and their families.

If any other storekeeper in town follows this man's example, we do not see that they have any right whatever to expect the union men to trade with them.

Excuse me for taking so much space but, as this is the first time anything has appeared in the Winchester STAR from the Carpenter's Union, I hope I will be excused.

I remain
Respectfully yours,
Member of Local 991,
Carpenters and Joiners of America.

PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY.

The Presidential Primary Election will take place, according to the new law, on Tuesday, April 30, in the Town Hall. The Selectmen have decided to open the polls at four o'clock in the afternoon and will be kept open until nine o'clock, for election of delegates and alternate delegates to National Conventions and for expression of preference for candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States.

The Republican and Democratic parties only are entitled to take part in these Primaries.

Voters enrolled at the September, 1911 primaries as Republican or Democratic will be permitted to receive only the ballot of the party with which they were so enrolled. Voters not so enrolled may receive the ballot of either the Republican or Democratic party. There will be a meeting of the Board of Registrars in the Town Hall, Saturday evening, April 27, from 7 to 8 to register any who may desire to become voters at this primary.

ROOSEVELT RALLY.

The first political rally to be held here for quite a few years took place in the Town Hall Wednesday evening. Winchester is considered a Taft stronghold, and the home of two of his strongest supporters in this State, hence the desire to make a contest. How much effect this rally will have in changing the preference of voters will only become apparent after the primary has been held. But it will have the good effect of increasing interest. The speakers were: Hon. Moses E. Clapp, U. S. Senator from Minnesota; Hon. Bainbridge Colby, of New York; Senator Charles H. Brown, of Medford; Representative Russell D. Crane of Cambridge.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT

In the long fight for righteousness the watchword for all of us is spend and be spent. It is of little matter whether any one man fails or succeeds; but the cause shall not fail, for it is the cause of mankind. We, here in America, hold in our hands the hope of the world, the fate of the coming years; and shame and disgrace will be ours if in our eyes the light of high resolve is dimmed, if we trail in the dust the golden hopes of men.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Republicans of Massachusetts

The contest to be decided at Next Tuesday's Primaries is not Theodore Roosevelt's. It is Yours.

Roosevelt is the leader in Your cause, not his own.

It is your battle, not his.

Next Tuesday's primaries are your opportunity to express your will. No party boss speaks for you: your own ballot does it. Roosevelt Made This Possible Despite The Machine. He forced the primary law. It Is Now Up To You To Make The Most Of It.

Roosevelt stands for the rule of the people.

Do you? Then Vote For Roosevelt.

He stands against every crooked interest and every crooked political boss.

Do you? Then Vote For Roosevelt.

He stands for rigidly enforcing the pure food laws he had enacted—not for driving out of public office those who, like Dr. Wiley, would enforce them.

Do you? Then Vote For Roosevelt.

He stands for laws to protect the workingman's health and to compensate him for injuries.

Do you? Then Vote For Roosevelt.

He stands against making the farmer pay for tariff benefits conferred on the trusts by reciprocity or otherwise.

Do you? Then Vote For Roosevelt.

He stands for a protective tarriff that will benefit the wage-earner, the farmer and the consumer in precisely the same degree as it benefits the manufacturer and In No Less Degree.

Do you? Then Vote For Roosevelt.

He stands for the protection of small business against the tryanny of Big Business.

Do you? Then Vote For Roosevelt.

He stands for driving out of public office those who "have ruled and legislated and decided as if in some way they had a first mortgage on the United States, while the rights of the people are merely an unsecured debt."

Do you? Then Vote For Roosevelt.

He stands for party organization, but against the political machine in which the voice of the party boss is the only voice heard.

Do you? Then Vote For Roosevelt.

He stands for laws that will better the condition of men, women and children, and safeguard their interest against every other interest.

Do you? Then Vote For Roosevelt.

He stands for the glorious days of Republican victory and achievement—the days of Republican governors, senators, congressmen and local officers, swept from power since 1908.

Do you? Then Vote For Roosevelt.

Who but Roosevelt can regain the magnificent Republican majorities which prevailed in this State and elsewhere during his seven years in the White House—majorities now turned into minorities almost everywhere.

TOWN PLAN AGAIN.

Meeting Votes Strongly for Elevating Centre of Town.

VOTED: That the Town adhere to its choice heretofore repeatedly declared in its town meetings, and again affirms its preference for the general method of abolishing the grade crossing, known as the Town Plan, raising the highway over the railroad at the center of the town, and providing a subway for pedestrians at the present station. And the Selectmen are instructed to have this plan advocated and insisted upon before all tribunals, and to take all proper measurers to secure its adoption.

For the second time, on Monday night, the Town of Winchester voted almost unanimously that its choice of methods for the abolition of the grade crossing at the centre is by the Selectmen's or Guild plan. Like the vote of five years ago this plan was chosen by every voter in the hall with the exception of five. The vote taken five years ago was 262 to 5; the vote of Monday evening was 166 to 5.

When, after considering the plans of the two able committees, appointed with careful consideration, the voters of the town were united in rejecting their reports and on each occasion voting unanimously for this one satisfactory solution of the problem, it may safely be stated that the town is determined to make every effort to eliminate the crossing by this method, whereby the railroad tracks are lowered as much as possible in the square and the center of the town raised to cover them.

Without a doubt the Selectmen's plan has been considered by everyone as the one satisfactory solution of the abolition, the only reason for such difference in opinion as appears to have existed being relative to the cost. It was stated on Monday night that the last committee of five, whose plan for an overhead bridge at the station was rejected by everyone, was unqualifiedly in favor of crossing over the tracks at the center, provided the expense could be apportioned without unnecessary burden to the town, and when it appeared that this was indeed possible, the committee would give its support to that plan.

The speeches made at Monday night's meeting were among the strongest ever put before a meeting in this town, both the few advocates of the stone arch bridge and the large number of supporters of the Selectmen's plan listening to some of the best arguments yet presented in their support. Of the number of speakers who took the floor, but four advocated the stone arch bridge and it was apparent from the first that this scheme did not meet with the approval of any but a few of the citizens.

That the united endeavor of every resident of Winchester will be made from now on to secure the adoption of the plan which has twice received the unanimous support and approval of the citizens is without question and it is now hoped that the abolition of our deadly grade crossing will soon become a reality and not the vision in the clouds it has appeared for so many years past.

Messrs. Herrick and Curtis made a good fight for the arch bridge plan, but they could not overcome the arguments of the battery of speakers who favored the town plan and who carried the meeting by storm. The question is now in the hands of the Select men and town counsel for settlement, and they will have no easy task on their hands to bring about satisfactory results.

At the time for opening the meeting Monday night the attendance was apparently not as large as at the previous session the week before. Moderator Ives did not call the meeting to order until a few minutes before eight, by which time the hall was well filled. The attendance may be closely estimated at about 185 voters, with the galleries packed with women and young men.

Upon the meeting being called to order the three motions were presented one after another. The first motion was that offered by Mr. Curtis for the adoption of the Stone Arch Bridge Plan and was as follows:

Voted:—That, Whereas, the Special Commission apponted by the Superior Court to act in the matter of the petition for the abolition of the grade crossing at or near Winchester Center have not had fully presented for their consideration and study any plan for the separation of the grades at the center by elevating the tracks,

And Whereas, this meeting is of the opinion that the crossing, if abolished at all, shall be first of all abolished at the center of the town and that a plan embodying the elevation of the railroad tracks at the Centre with two arches of stone or reinforced concrete over the highways, together with foot passageways beneath the tracks immediately north and south of said arches and at Walnut street, would be adequate to the needs of the town and a fair equivalent of existing facilities, and should be speedily adopted by said Special Commission;

Now, Therefore, the Selectmen are hereby authorized, empowered and directed in behalf of the town to institute at once such legal measures as may be necessary to reopen the hearings before said Commission; to offer for its consideration such evidence and plans as may be available concerning the separation of the grades at the center by elevating the railroad tracks, and to urge the speedy adoption of a plan for abolition embodying the features of the plan approved as aforesaid by this meeting.

Following this Mr. Curtis spoke at length upon its advantages, receiving extension of time. He said in part that the citizens would decide the plan to be adopted and not any powerful outside influences; the security and convenience of the public was of the most importance, not the apportionment of the expense; the stone arch bridge was not dangerous to automobiles, as both the statutes and police regulations provided against fast driving, it would not prove an obstruction or divide the town except in a beneficial way—that of preventing loss of life; the old lines of traffic would be preserved; numerous foot passages opened through it would make crossing the tracks now more open than ever before. He objected to the Selectmen's plan solely on account of its great cost, which would be more today than in 1906.

Mr. Carter then offered the substitute motion printed at the head of this article. Mr. Carter stated that five years ago the able committee of fifteen made its report, a whole meeting and subsequent meetings being taken up in its discussion. He read the motion originally offered. The motion offered by Mr. Curtis he said, was similar, and as the original plan had been rejected unanimously it had already been proved that the people opposed either changing existing lines of travel or elevating the tracks. Five years ago this plan was rejected and the Selectmen's plan voted; the town was in exactly the same position now as then; no more committees would be appointed. He gave various ways and instances wherein it would be most unwise to elevate the tracks, and presented upon a screen three sets of views showing the present aspect of the centre and its appearance with the Selectmen's plan carried out. He stated that it was reported by the second committee appointed for the abolition that the last named plan would receive the approval of the Railroad and that it would stand its proportion of the expense up to $300,000. The plan would cost about $320,000 with a 4 per cent. grade. The land damages were figured high and would probably be lower, and settlement could be left to the Selectmen and town counsel. Mr Wilson then offered the following amendment:

WORDS OF APPRECIATION.

Winchester, Mass., April 30, 1912.

Mr. T. P. Wilson,

Dear Sir:—Will you please insert in this week's edition of the STAR the following:

We the members of Local 465 of the town of Winchester of the Federation of labor of State, City and Town Union wish to thank Mr. F. M. Ives, Moderator of the town meeting, for the able and efficient committee he appointed to attend to the increase of wages and the Saturday half holiday for three months which they were successful in getting for them and other departments of the town employees at the town meeting of April 22. Also the committee, Mr. W. L. Tuck, Mr. Fred N. Kerr and Mr. George T. Davidson, and also Mr. Arthur E. Whitney and Mr. John Carter for their interest and time they used for this cause.

We the Local of this town No. 465 of the Federation of Labor of State City and Towns Union comprised mostly of town employees wish to thank all of these men for their services rendered.

We remain yours respectfully,
Frank M. Nowell, Pres.,
Michael O'Flaherty, Fin. Sec.

ITALIANS STRUCK AGAIN.

A pre arranged strike of the Italian laborers employed by contractors Fitzgerald and Quigley occurred in town yesterday morning. The trouble opened with a gang working in Arlington for Mr. Fitzgerald. These men marched to the scene of the work in connection with the erection of the new residence of Mr. Jere A. Downs near the Country Club, where they were reinforced by those laborers. Work on the cellars being constructed for Mr. Whitehorne on Cambridge street was stopped by the men there joining the procession, and other recruits were picked up at various places.

The police were early engaged in supervising the movements of the strikers and the unusual appearance of the officers about town started many rumors afloat. The Italians were in every instance quiet and peaceable. As they marched through the center of the town on their way to their homes, about 100 strong, they made quite an appearance. The strike is for $12 a week of nine hours it is said.

PHYLOMATHEA SOCIETY.

The Phylomathea Society of Winchester High School was organized last Tuesday evening with an object to further public declamation and debating. The first business consisted of drafting the constitution. Then officers for the year were elected and were:—President, Raymond Strawbridge; Vice-President, Francis Getty; Secretary-Treasurer, Wray Rohrman; Recording-Secretary, E. Langworthy Burwell.

Mr. Wixom was elected chairman of the next debate to be held at the meeting of May 14. The committee for the night is: Swett, Weber, Meincke, Burwell.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

The last lecture in the course arranged by the Household Economics Committee will be given on Monday afternoon, May 6, at 2.30 in the High School Library. Miss Stern will talk on "The Child, the Adult of Tomorrow."

As this lecture is directly along the line of work of the Mother's Association a cordial invitation is extended to the members to attend this meeting.

Members of the Fortnightly who have changed their address or telephone number will please notify Miss Mary French, in order that the correct form may appear in the new Year Book.

MISS CATHERINE L. ROBBINS.

Miss Catherine Louise Robbins, aged 48 years, died at the home of her sister, No. 26 Crescent road, on Friday last. She was the daughter of Frederick A. and Catherine Whittlesey Robbins of Angelica, N. Y. She is survived by her sister, Ellen S. Robbins of this town and her brothers, Fred A. Robbins of Hornell, N. Y., and Hayes Robbins of this town.

The funeral services were held from the residence on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The burial was in Wildwood cemetery.

"THE BIRKENHEAD DRILL."

At the Unitarian Church Sunday morning Mr. Metcalf will discuss the Ethics of the Birkenhead Drill which was carried out at the wreck of the Titanic. Why should women and children go first.

The general subject will be the "Morality of a Plank at Sea." All are cordially invited.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

Action Taken on Abolition of Crossing—New Fire Engineers.

April 29, 1912.

Board met at 6 p. m., all being present.

Maurice Tiger appeared and applied for a license to be a dealer in and keeper of a shop for the purchase, sale and barter of junk, old metals or second-hand articles. Referred to Mr. Pike.

Bids for the Town Sheds, exclusive of brick work were recieved from A. J. Young, G. H. Hamilton and J. Johnston opened and referred to the Committee on Highways.

David H. DeCourcey, Elbridge K. Jewett and Addison R. Pike, were elected Fire Engineers; the two latter to serve without pay and the appointees were instructed to meet at the Town Hall, Tuesday, April 30, 1912, at 9 p. m., for the purpose of perfecting their organization.

Report received from James Hinds, Town Engineer, approving petition of T. Price Wilson, Frank J. Wills and others for an incandescent street light on Wolcott terrace and recommending that the light as ordered be placed on the last pole, near residence of F. J. Wills; and the light was ordered installed.

A report of James Hinds, Town Engineer, concerning street lights on Salisbury road, Calumet road and at the corner of Parkway and Bacon street, was referred back to him for recommendations.

Notice was received from the County Commissioners of Middlesex County, on the petition of certain inhabitants of the Town of Winchester for alterations of Pond street that they were of opinion that the existing highway can be so far amended as to supersede the necessity of alterations and that they would meet at the Commissioners Office at the Court House, East Cambridge Saturday, May 25, 1912, at 10 a. m. to direct specific repairs on said street.

Notice was received from the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission that Patrolman James T. Hargrove, had been subjected to non-competitive examination for promotion to the rank of sergeant in the Police force in Winchester, had passed the same successfully and that they certified him to the Selectmen for promotion.

Applications from Herbert Roy Waite, for a pool and billiard room license at Lyceum Building, and from Mrs. Sarah J. Rogers, 831 Main street, for common victualler's license, were referred to Chief of Police.

Voted:—"That the Clerk be instructed to ask the Board of Assessors to insert in the forthcoming issue of the Poll Tax Book, the number of registered voters in the town; also that the words "Private Way" be inserted against the name of each street that has not been accepted by the town as a public way."

The joint committee of Fire Engineers and Board of Selectmen reported that they have purchased of the Knox Automobile Co., an automobile-chemical in accordance with the vote of said joint Board, and the contract was placed on file.

A letter was received from Fred F. Walker, Chief of Cattle Bureau of the State Board of Agriculture, approving the appointment of Dr. William Buckley, as Inspector of Animals, for the year ending March 31, 1913.

A letter was received and filed from P. F. Sullivan, President of the Bay State Street Railway Co., relating to the matter of through cars from Winchester to Harvard Square, and stating that his Company is having a study made relative to such through service, after which a conference will be held with representatives of the Boston Elevated Co., and that he will later advise the result.

A letter was received and filed from George H. Carter, Town Clerk, transmitting the text of two votes passed at the adjourned session of the March Town Meeting held April 22, 1912, relating to the report of the Committee on Wages of Laboring Men and the matter of through cars from Winchester to Harvard Square; and it was voted to ask the Heads of the different Town Departments to meet with the Board, Monday, May 6th, at 7 p. m., to consider the matter of a minimum wage for the laboring men in the employ of the town in accordance with the vote of the town meeting session of April 22nd.

F. V. Wooster and Cutler B. Downer, applied for auctioneer's licenses and the same were granted subject to the payment of the usual fee.

Chief of Police returned with his approval, applications for Common Victualler's Licenses from Harry W. Dotten, Christus Athan, and for an Innholders and Common Victualler's License from Caroline J. Murray, and same were granted.

Applications from American Express Co., and Kelley & Hawes Co., for licenses to transport alcoholic liquors, were laid on the table for action at the adjournment of this meeting to be held Tuesday, April 30, 1912, at 8 p. m.

Applications for Hackney Carriage licenses from Charles Snodgrass, Coleman Flaherty, Wm. F. Hargrove and John H. Carpenger, each accompanied by fee of one dollar, were referred to Chief of Police.

Application for a license, without recommendation, for the carrying on of a tea room and for the continuance of an employment bureau, from Mary W. Carpenter, Winchester Exchange, 529 Main street, was granted.

An application for license for an intelligence office from T. J. Campbell 14 Winchester place was referred to the Chief of Police.

A letter was received and referred to the Town Engineer from George H. Gray General Superintendent Bay State Railway Co. Lynn, stating that the company intends to petition at once for permission to relocate their tracks on Forest street from the Stoneham line to Highland avenue turnout; and for an extension of approximately 180 feet of their Black Horse terrace, Winchester center and Ice Bridge turnouts all on Main street, and that they anticipate at this time no other alterations of repairs that will necessitate the tearing up of the streets.

Arlington Gas light Company asked for permission to lay a 4 inch main on Highland avenue from the existing end to corner of Highland avenue and Hancock street, approximate distance 120 feet; also to lay a six inch pipe on Mt. Vernon street from Washington street to Highland avenue, approximate distance 1200 feet, also to lay an 8 inch pipe on Main street from Winchester centre to Symmes Corner; also to construct a governor pit at corner of Sheffield road and Everett avenue, same to be about 10 feet square and about 7 feet deep, and to contain pressure regulating apparatus. Referred to Town Engineer.

The Town Engineer recommended renumbering Highland avenue, Canal street, Oak street, Salem street, Richardson street, and Water street, and it was voted that he be asked to submit a plan for the same to the Board.

Adjourned at 7.35 to attend the adjourned session of the annual Town Meeting. Re-assembled at 10.30.

George C. Ogden applied for four electric light, two on Edgehill road and two on Ridgefield road where there are nineteen houses to be served. Referred to the Town Engineer.

Mr. Pond for the Highway Committee suggested that a conference would be desirable in the matter of re-building and widening Cambridge street, with the Engineers of the State Highway Commission, the County Commissioners and the town of Arlington, and he was instructed to write the two Commissions and the Selectmen of Arlington asking for such a conference.

The bond of George H. Carter, Town Clerk for $1000 with the National Surety Co., as a surety was received and approved.

Superintendent of Streets submitted his division of payroll for week ending April 27, 1912, amounting to $394 and the same was discussed in detail and filed.

Mr. Jewett reported for the Committee on Highways that the new road roller had been received and put to work; another engineer having been engaged.

Mr. Pond of the Highway Committee presented a letter from E. M. Young of 30 Wedgemere avenue, in regard to his petition of April 8th, for certain work on his sidewalk and the clerk was instructed to reply that the sidewalk would be repaired and the loam space marked out as requested and that if an additional appropriation is made by the town for Highways and streets, the matter of the remaining work would be again taken up.

Mr. Daly for the Committee on Police, returned the application of Ernesto Borrelli for a permit to manufacture fire works in the town and recommended that it be refused, because the applicant had not complied with the public statutes and that the applicant be recommended to confer with the Chief of the State Police at the State House. The report was accepted and the permit refused.

It was voted to request the Edison Electric Illuminating Co., to change the switches on their electric light poles at the center, the present switches being within reach and capable of being operated by mischievous persons.

Voted that the Town Counsel be requested to examine the order of location granted to the Boston & Northern Street Railway Co., and advise the Board as soon as may be, what are the rights of the Selectmen as to regulating the service of the Street Railway Co.

Mr. Daly reported for the Committee on Police that the detention room for women in the Police Station was much in need of repair; that the Station House itself needs a new flooring and that two new lockers are needed for the men. Also that a new call box was desired for the West side of the Town, in the neighborhood of Cabot and Fletcher streets.

It was voted that the improvements referred to be made in the quarters of the Police in the basement of the Town Hall Building, at an expense of not exceeding $150.

Mr. Daly for the Committee on Police reported that a set of by-laws to cover the Police Department was practically completed and would be submittted to the Board at an early date.

The Highway Committee reported favorably on the petitions of Nathaniel G. Hill, for repairs on sidewalk on Wildwood street; James W. Russell, jr., for repair on sidewalk on Wolcott road.

Mr. Pond for the Committee on Highways reported advisability of delay on the following petitions unless the town makes a larger appropriation for streets, namely Geo. W. Dearborn and others, for work on Herrick street, Ethel F. Barnard and others, for work on Oxford street, A. W. Dean, C. A. Gleason and others for granolithic sidewalk on Foxcroft road.

Warrants were drawn for $570.42 and $8609.80.

Adjourned at 11.30 p. m.

Frank R. Miller,
Clerk of the Board.

The Board will open their session to the public each meeting night at 8 to 8.30 to hear any citizens who may desire to present matters in person.

April 30, 1912.

A meeting of the Board was held in the small Town Hall Tuesday, April 30, 1912, called to order at 8.30 p. m., all being present.

Selectman Pike offered the following vote, which was passed:

Voted:—That the Town Counsel be and he is hereby requested to forthwith file such papers and take such action in the matter of the petition of the Selectment of the town of Winchester against the Boston & Lowell Railroad Company and others for the abolition of the grade crossing in Winchester, as in his opinion may be necessary and proper to carry into effect the vote passed at the adjourned session of the annual town meeting, held April 29, 1912.

The matter of granting permits for the transportation of intoxicating liquors was discussed at length by all the members of the Board, after conferences with representatives of the American Express Company and Kelley & Hawes Company, petitioners for such permits and it was voted to grant such a permit to the Kelley & Hawes Company.

Adjourned at 9.15 p. m.

Frank R. Miller,
Clerk of the Board.

The new board of Fire Engineers met on Tuesday evening and organized with David H. DeCourcey chief and Addison R. Pike clerk.

PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY.

President Taft the Favorite in Winchester.

The Presidential Primary was held in the Town Hall, Tuesday afternoon and evening, calling forth a vote of 889. Many of the voters did not know of the hours for the opening of the polls and the town clerk's office was beseiged with telephone calls during Monday requesting information. As it was many voters arose a half hour earlier in the morning, assuming that they could vote before going to their business.

The total vote was a surprise to many, the majority of the officials predicting a considerably smaller vote.

Taft carried the town by a majority of about one-third, much less than had been predicted. The fact that many Roosevelt voters did not go through the ballot was evidenced by the falling off of the ex president's vote in the preference for president, three hundred odd votes being cast for the delegates at large shrinking to 281. Taft's vote was 428.

On the Democratic ballot Champ Clark won out over Woodrow Wilson about three to one in the presidential preference. About 100 Democratic votes were cast.

The polls closed at nine o'clock in the evening and the work of counting the ballots by the clerks was completed at 12.45. During the evening supper was served by a Boston caterer for the clerks and officers in the basement at the hall.

ORCHESTRAL ASSOCIATION MEETING.

Notice has been sent to the subscribers to the Orchestral Association of an important meeting to be held in the Small Town Hall next Tuesday evening, May 7th, at eight o'clock. It is earnestly desired to have all the subscribers present and others who are interested in the success of the Orchestra will be welcome, for the matter that will be discussed and probably decided upon is whether the Orchestra shall be continued as a Winchester institution and if so, on what financial basis it shall be conducted.

The Orchestra has now been running three years and each year has given three high class musical entertainments which have been greatly enjoyed by a goodly number at a nominal price, but expenses have been heavy, much heavier, in fact, than originally estimated, and while the attendance outside of the subscription list has been fair it will have to be considerably increased if the Orchestra is to be maintained on its present basis.

The Winchester Orchestra is an unusual proposition; there are only one or two organizations like it in the whole country,—a band of amateur musicians rehearsing regularly every week and keeping together as an orchestra year after year, improving every year in their work and individually advancing in musical education. It gives pleasure to hundreds who attend the concerts and is now beginning to be talked of outside of Winchester, thereby advertising the town in no small degree.

It would seem a pity that such a splendid enterprise should have to be dropped for lack of support. Therefore it is important that as many as possible attend this meeting, to hear the committee's report on the work of the past three years and to support its recommendations for the coming season, recommendations which if carried out will undoubtedly put the Orchestra on a self-supporting basis in another three years.

SECOND CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH NOTES.

The pastor, the Rev. William Fryling and six others from this church attended the S. S. convention at Stoneham last Friday. The pastor made a short address after dinner.

Twelve members and the pastor attended the Woburn Association meeting at Woburn on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fryling attended the reception given to the Rev. Mr. Adams at the M. E. Church Tuesday evening.

The members of The Highland Baraca Class, of the Second Congregational Church, were the guests of the Philatha Class Thursday evening, when they were treated to a salad supper, held in the church. After the supper, which consisted of salads too numerous to mention, pies, cakes and college ices, the class held its regular monthly business meeting, at the close of which the program of the evening was taken up. Many kinds of games were played and the evening was enjoyed by all.

BASE BALL.

The first game for this season of the Winchester Base Ball team will be held on Manchester Field tomorrow afternoon at 3.15.

The game will be with the Gillette Razor team of Boston.

The Sunday School of the Second Congregational Church will hold a pound party tonight at the residence of Mrs. Henry Smalley, Cross street, to raise money for the work of the Sunday school.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

A very wise young mother who seems to have excellent control over her little ones, let fall a few words of wisdom within the hearing of The Spectator recently. "When my babies are tired at night and it is time for them to go to bed," she said, when she was asked how she succeeded so well in getting her children to bed without a row, "I never say 'get ready for bed at once and put away your playthings immediately,' for that will call forth tears and a protest against the strict command. Instead I say, 'Nearly time for bed, so put away your playthings in a few moments.' In this way they have fair warning, and they are seldom unwilling to go when the final signal comes. That is my simple method." The Spectator believes it is well for young mothers here in Winchester and elsewhere to remember this one mother's way, for it is the keynote of the real understanding of the child's heart. Sympathy is a quality children never fail to understand and appreciate. Imagine a mother being told by some one in authority to put down her book without finishing the one chapter which is the most interesting in the whole book. Would it not at least save a frown of impatience to be told to finish the chapter first?

"My little boy has always been very chivalrous in his attitude towards me," said another mother recently. "This trait I make use of now when he comes from school saying, as most small boys do at one time or another: 'I don't like the teacher.' I talk about the large number of little boys the teacher has under her charge, how tired she must get, how much she needs strong, manly little boys to help her, and my son decides at once that he'd like to be a teacher. He always returns to school in a helpful frame of mind."

The Spectator would like to point out that often one cannot help hearing things that should not be repeated, but one can always refrain from helping to repeat them.

To be discontented is the normal condition of some men in Winchester as elsewhere. They would not be content if they got all that they desire, but would at once become disgruntled because they hadn't more, or something else.

The language of a clerk in a lunch emporium in an order to the cook, is certainly amusing and the construction of the language rarely fails to cause the customer amusement. In a New York lunch emporium last week The Spectator for his desert ordered ice cream and clear coffee. The lingo of the counterman changed The Spectator's order as follows: "Draw one in the tunnel and a dash for the pole."

Lots of our Winchester housewives waste coal dust. It makes beautiful fires. Have a galvanized iron scuttle for the purpose. Sufficient water should be added to the coal dust to make it moist. When a fire is burning brightly, bank it up with this wet dust and you will have a clear fire which will last for hours.

A teacher in the public schools after having given the class a lesson in anatomy asked if anyone could tell her where the spinal column is. One bright faced cunning little fellow said. "Ess, I do, my head is on one end and I sit on the other."

Typographical errors are very easy to happen. Even the STAR is not exempt from them. But the effect sometimes is far-reaching. An editor friend of The Spectator told him of an incident, or error that happened to him, in his paper. A druggist in his town had died, the business being continued by his widow. A month later she re-arranged the window, and it was really very attractive. That week his paper contained this item: "Mr. W-M—,a prominent Boston druggist took in the sights of our town on Wednesday. He was very much interested in our druggists attractive widow."

The Spectator wonders how many Winchesterites ever stop to think that few pieces of machinery show more wonderful features than that of the watch. A watch is the smallest, most delicate instrument of the same number of parts that has ever been devised. About 175 different pieces of material enter into its construction and upward of 2000 separate operations are comprised in its manufacture. Certain of the facts connected with its performance are almost incredible when considered as a whole. A manufacturing Journal before The Spectator gives some of these facts as follows:—

A blacksmith strikes several hundred blows on his anvil in a day and as a matter of course is glad when Sunday comes, but the roller jewel of a watch makes everyday—and day after day—432,000 impacts during the course of a year without stop or rest—or some 3,152,600,000 blows during the space of 20 years, the period for which a watch is usually guaranteed to keep good time. But the wonder of it does not cease here. It has been calculated that the power that moves the watch is equivalent to only four times the force used in a flea's jump. The watch power is therefore what might be termed the equivalent of a four flea-power. One horse power would suffice to operate 270,000,000 watches. Furthermore, the balance wheel of a watch is moved by this four flea-power 1-43 inches with each vibration, or 3,553 1-4 miles continuously in one year. Not much oil is required to lubricate the little machine on its 3500-mile run. It takes only one-tenth of a drop of oil to oil the entire machinery for a year's service.

A local story-teller gives The Spectator this one: Little Helen's mother was discussing the drink question with a visitor, and the child listened gravely to the conversation. "Papa used to drink," she volunteered suddenly. The visitor turned her head to conceal a smile, and mama frowned and shook her head at the little one. "Well, then", demanded Helen, "what was it he used to do?"

FAREWELL TO REV. MR. DEWART.

The parish house of St. James' Episcopal Church, Roxbury, was filled last week Wednesday evening by members of the Guild, the Men's Club, women's and boys' societies and the parish at large. They gathered for a farewell reception to the rector, Rev. Murray W. Dewart, who came here to the Church of the Epiphany, May 1, after 10 years as rector of St. James.

A committee made up of representatives of the various organizations of the church had been working on the reception since the announcement of the rector's resignation, and the result was the large gathering, in spite of the unexpected rain of early evening, which kept many of the older members of the parish away.

Early in the evening the senior warden, W. Dudley Cotton, called Rev. Mr. Dewart forward, and in a brief address told of the efficient work done by the rector in his decade of service, the improvements to the church building, and the fact that he leaves the church free from debt.

Then, feelingly alluding to their love for their rector, and the regret with which they parted from him, he presented as a gift from the members of the parish a purse of $500. In responding, Rev. Mr. Dewart took occasion to thank his parishoners for their many kindnesses to him and to bespeak for his successor, when chosen, their loyal support.

Rev. Dr. Clarence A. Vincent, pastor of the Immanuel-Walnut avenue Congregational Church, spoke of the esteem in which Rev. Mr. Dewart was held by the clergymen of the other denominations in Roxbury, and then the Viking Club, an organization of the older boys of the parish, presented a gift from their club.

Adjournment was made to the lower rooms of the parish house, where a fine musical program was carried out, ices and cake served and a general good time enjoyed.

JOINT RECITAL OF MISS TEMPLE AND MME. CHARBONNEL.

Through an oversight the following notice was omitted from the issue of April 26:

A very unusual opportunity was offered to music lovers in the joint recital of Miss Temple and Mme. Avis Bliven Charbonnel which took place in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening, April 23d. Mme. Charbonnel a pianiste of great ability has played on concert tour with Mme Sembrich and other noted singers. She offered a wide range of selections, varying from the classical German composers of the 18th century to two "tone pictures" from Debussy, the last expression of modernism. In them all she showed the same technical skill, and sympathetic intrepretation. Miss Temple has not been here for some time, and her soprano voice of wide range and flexibility exhibited to her delighted hearers the result of her arduous work in Rome. She justified all the promise of her earlier performances, as was well shown by her rendering of the arias from Le Nozzede Figaro, and Alessandro, and she sang the group of French, German and English songs with great sweetness and charm.

"When autumn nights were long" by Joshua Phippen,, and an Elizabethian lyric, set to music by Mrs. Henry Temple Brown, were received with especial enthusiasm.

APRIL CONSTRUCTIONS BREAK RECORD.

The greatest activity and the largest amount of construction work ever done in one month in its entire history is reported by the Arlington Gas Light Co. for the month of April.

Manager E. L. Locke says the reports of the company show that during April 40 services, 1650 feet of four inch main, and 2890 feet of eight inch main were laid. The object of this work was to take care of the rapidly growing population in Arlington, Belmont and Winchester.

This extraordinary amount of construction is the result of the acceleration given the forward impetus of these already growing towns by the actual operation of the Cambridge subway. People are moving into the territory so fast that the gas company will have "to go some" to keep up with them.

This fact is really a source of reassurance to the company which is spending a large amount of money and profits to build its new gas plant, undertaken in expectation of the appreciation of its customers in its desire to render first class service.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Bridges, formerly of Highland avenue, have moved to North Cohasset, where they will make their future home. Their house has been sold to the Misses Johnson of East Boston, who will occupy at once.

Mr. George H. Hartson has purchase one-half acre of land on Windsor road near the stand pipe and will build a cement bungalow.

Mr. and Mrs. Abijah Thompson of West Medford, formerly of this town, observed their 64th wedding anniversary on Saturday last. Many handsome floral remembrances were received from their hosts of friends in Winchester and surrounding places. Mr. Thompson is at present confined to his bed, but his wife is enjoying her usual excellent health.

The schedule of women's events on the links of the Winchester Country Club was issued this week. The list includes tournaments from this coming Tuesday until the twenty-second of October. The tournament committee in charge is composed of Mr. M. F. Brown, Mrs. R. S. Vinal, Mrs. G. H. Davy, Mrs. R. B. Wiggin and Miss Isabel Hunt.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Folger and Miss Folger of Calumet road are registered at Chalfonte, Atlantic City, N. J.

At the annual meeting of the Woburn District Sunday School Association held at Stoneham last Friday afternoon and evening, H. L. Lingham of Winchester was elected secretary and treasurer, F. E. Barnes secretary of elementary grades, and F. G. Finnemore and John McLane members of the executive committee. In the evening a song service was given under the direction of Rev. Henry E. Hodge assisted by the chorus from the Baptist Church of Winchester.

The body of Miss Helen M. Young, the victim of the sad coasting accident on Highland avenue, last winter, was removed from the vault in Wildwood cemetery last Saturday afternoon, and taken to Everett for interment. Burial was in the family lot in Glenwood cemetery, services being conducted at the grave.

Jere Downs of Hayden, Stone & Co., has returned from a vacation to Panama. "One look at the canal and you're mighty proud that you're an American," said he to the Observant Citizen yesterday. Vacuum Cleaning

HAVE you ever used the Vacuum Process? If not, kindly allow us to convince you of what REAL Vacuum Cleaning is. It may seem strange to you but the operating of a Vacuum Cleaner is a SCIENCE, not labor. Our system and methods are so DIFFERENT from the ORDINARY manner in which the PUBLIC have been educated to apply the Vacuum Process, that it requires even a so-called experienced operator to study OUR METHODS for from three (3) days to two (2) weeks before he is capable of serving our patrons and rendering them the REAL "Colgate Service."

NOTE:—Within the past year our business has increased to such an extent that we have made BOSTON our center and any of your friends within 15 miles of Boston can now receive the same service that you may be receiving. We trust that every Modern Housewife will allow us to demonstrate, to her, what REAL VACUUM CLEANING is.

PLUMBERS GET SHORTER DAY

The journeymen plumbers of Winchester, Woburn and Stoneham, having formed a union, demand was made last week for a 44-hour week, with Saturday afternoons off all the year round, increased wages, recognition of the union and time and a half for all overtime. The master plumbers granted practically all the demands except the closed shop and this being satisfactory to the men there was no interruption to the work. This will mean an increase in the cost of plumbing work in Winchester, Woburn and Stoneham, with time and a half for work done on Saturday afternoons and after the eight hour on ther days. These conditions prevail in all parts of metropolitan Boston.

ANOTHER TOWN MAKES A LONG LIGHTING CONTRACT.

Stoneham, through its Board of Selectmen, has just signed a contract for ten years' service from The Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston for electric lighting in all its municipal buildings and on its streets.

By making such a contract the town has the advantage of knowing that it is definitely assured of the best electric service, and also gets the advantage of the liberal discount of ten per cent from the yearly rates which is provided for in the Boston Edison Company's printed schedule.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

TOWN PLAN AGAIN.

That the Selectmen are hereby authorized and instructed to move to have the Commissioners Report now pending in the Superior Court for the abolition of the grade crossing at Winchester Center reconsidered and a new hearing ordered and that at such hearing the modified "town plan" be advocated as presented at this meeting, to wit a covered concrete structure not less than fourteen feet high in the clear in the inside and about two hundred and thirty feet long, north and south, by about sixty-four feet wide east and west, covering the entire location of the Boston & Lowell Railroad Company, the Boston & Maine Railroad Company, Lessee from the southerly line of Church street to the northerly line of Main street, with all necessary raising and filling and grading in order to accommodate and carry over and across said concrete structure and said crossing, all public travel conveying at and passing through said Centre, substantially as at present. And in case said Selectmen are unsuccessful in having said Report reconsidered they are hereby instructed to oppose by every possible means, the approval or adoption of said Report, before the Courts, Railroad Commissioners, County Commissioners and all other officers or persons having any power over said Report. And to have substituted for said Report and the method therein described, the aforesaid modified town plan for the abolition of said grade crossing.

Mr. Wilson stated that this would leave a beautiful square in the center, a great improvement over a 100 foot bridge; the expense would not be as great as had been stated for a similar method of abolition. His actual figures prepared by an expert totalled $984,000, allowing for an increase of 20 per cent. over construction and damages for contingencies. No repairs would be necessary; four tracks could be carried under it and it embodied Mr. Carter's previous substitution.

Mr. Tuck stated that the crossing would be abolished when the Railroad desired and in the way it desired.

Mr Herrick, in reply to Mr. Carter's statement that no view had been shown of appearance of center with stone arch bridge, said that he had shown such a sketch at the previous session, and urged the passage of Mr Curtis' motion or else the town would have an overhead bridge at the station.

Mr. Murphy desired to know how much of Manchester Field would be taken if an embankment were put where the tracks now are beside the field, to which Mr. Herrick said there would be no encroachment on the field, the present width of the roadbed being ample to accomodate the necessary filling.

Mr. Holland appeared somewhat in doubt regarding the motion before the meeting and hoped Mr. Wilson's amendment would not prevail.

Mr. Hall thought it hard for the town to arrive at a decision and complimented the committees on their work and the town on its fight to secure the only feasible plan—Selectmen's. He would favor the town's spending the money necessary for the stone arch bridge just to avoid having it; there would be great noise from the elevated trains; it would be unsightly. But two plans were favored by him, the Redfern two bridge plan and the Selectmen's plan, the latter being by far the best. The Selectmen's plan, from figures obtained of Mr. Wheeler, engineer of the Railroad, would cost about $163,000 exclusive of land damages and about $226,800 for the land.

Mr. Wooster made a strong speech in favor of the Selectmen's plan, citing numerous instances in nearby places where the elevation of the tracks had wrought much harm and dissatisfaction. The conditions at Belmont were not, he said, similar in any respect to those of Winchester, and even so, the arch bridge there had caused much dissatisfaction. In Jamaica Plain a similar condition existed; property had decreased two-thirds since elevation. The time had arrived for carrying the tracks below the streets and not above them. He closed his speech with a hope that the town would unite in its choice of the plan decided upon.

Mr. Laraway favored the stone arch bridge.

Mr. Braddock stated that he had previously favored the Selectmen's plan, but if the town could not have it, the thought the stone arch bridge the best substitute, and cited the instance of such a bridge which had fine electric car transfer accommodations at Worcester.

Mr. Holland favored elevation.

Mr. Woods hoped the Curtis motion would not prevail and favored the Selectmen's plan. The damages for the land were estimated higher than they would actually be, as whole lots had been figured where only a part would be affected. It was the only plan to consider; the 4 per cent. grade would be less than that from the center to Waterfield building now; keep the center as near as possible as it is and beautify it rather than deteriorate from it.

Mr. Snyder said the Committee of Five did consider another crossing farther north of its proposed bridge at the station, and looked upon the town plan as the alternative, its expense being the only objection. After the committee had made its report it learned that the Railroad's representatives would approve no plan with a greater cost than $150,000. This brought the cost down to an exceptionally low figure, and in view of it the committee would work for the Selectmen's plan. He believed that if the town voted for what it considered to be its rights by demanding a crossing at the center, the expense would be reasonably apportioned.

The town should not be obliged to pay an unreasonably large sum. He favored Mr. Carter's motion.

Mr. Richards gave the cost of the Selectmen's plan from the original figures for a 4 per cent. grade, being $177,492 without damages, and with a 3 per cent. grade $253,939, with such agreement made by owners of land as could be secured. The same with 4 per cent. grade would be $223,524, which would be slightly higher today. The Selectmen's plan could be put through at an expense not exceeding $300,000 and the town would not have to pay more than 10 per cent.

Prof Charles Zueblin made the strongest speech of the evening, keenly followed by every man in the hall, and he was frequently interrupted by applause. Prof. Zueblin said he was attracted to Winchester by its beauty, that he had taken up his residence here after an inspection of all of the so-called beautiful towns about Boston; this beauty of the town would be even greater improved by raising the center and lowering the tracks, but it would be a great detriment to reverse it by raising the tracks. At the conclusion of his remarks the hall resounded with applause and repeated requests for the vote were made.

Mr. Wilson spoke again, urging his plan as containing just the things the town wanted to make a beautiful center and embodying Mr. Carter's motion.

Mr. Carter read the vote of five years ago, saying that the square would be bridged over to its full width if possible.

The question on the adoption of Mr. Wilson's substitution was then voted, it being lost 87 to 2.

The question on the adoption of Mr. Carter's substitution was then voted, being carried 143 to 37.

Before the vote on Mr. Carter's motion as substituted, Mr. Corey spoke, urging a unanimous vote. He stated that he favored the plan and had great faith in a unanimous vote of the town.

The vote was then taken, resulting in the decision of the town for the second time to adopt the Selectmen's plan 166 to 5.

The meeting then dissolved.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Vote of five years ago on grade crossing plans repeated; again five citizens voted against the Town Plan—they are like the "Old Hickory" democrats of the back woods districts of the south who still vote for Andy Jackson, and they will still be voting against that plan long after the grade crossing has been abolished and when their great grandchildren have to lead them to the polls and mark their ballots for them.

It is worth considerable extra expense to have Mr Wilson's idea of carryng the bridge clear across the square carried out. We ought to have the use of that entire area and will certianly need it in time, and it is of vastly more importance than a difference in grade of one per cent. I hope he will urge it before the Selectmen and have support from others.

The Town Plan people still had a few more guns in reserve if the enemy had ever stopped retreating, but it seemed too much like rubbing it in to call them out. Let us hope the fight has been settled so far as town meetings are concerned.

The Selectmen now have a great chance to earn their salaries and the gratitude of the town by getting down right away to "brass tacks," and the first thing to do would seem to be to get Mr. Mellen to agree to what Mr. Tuttle agreed to in 1910, that he will pay his per centage on $300,000 cost.

Six sessions for the annual town meeting is the greatest for many years, and more than there is any need for any year, although we had more important articles than usual this time. Full discussion is desirable, but many speakers should post themselves better before taking the floor. It might work well to fix the time for adjournment at ten thirty o'clock, which seems to be a reasonable hour, and which would very likely save an extra session of the annual meeting. Next year we should take up appropriations the first thing, as they are of most importance, and settle them at the first session. Let the warrant so be drawn.

Let the Selectmen start no new street work until all repairs are first made. This should be made a fixed rule, as it has not been in the past, and it costs us a great deal of money to do otherwise. There are still a number of poor looking street signs that should be replaced this spring and not wait till next fall. They do not cost much and add greatly to the town's appearance. Some of the street poles should be replaced and many need painting. This work costs the town nothing and the corporations will do the work if requested to.

Where do election officers think they get the right to request voters to remove their hats?

The motion carried on grade crossing was one agreed to by those who favored the town plan and was not an individual motion.

DIGGING UP TREES.

On the charge of removing trees and foliage from the Fells reservation an Italian was arrested last week by the Metropolitan Park police. He had dug up by the roots four pine trees for the purpose of transplanting them when discovered by the police. In the Malden court he was found guilty and fined $15.

The Italian's love of the beautiful is to be commended, says the Medford Mercury, but, like others, he ought to have known that he had no right to remove the trees. It is one thing to take a few flowers, leaves or berries from the reservation, but quite a different matter to dig up trees and bushes even though they are small.

In the printed accounts of the wrecking of the Titanic but little has been heard about the fate of the steerage passengers. Away down in the bottom of that ship is where the greatest horrors of this pitiful tragedy took place. These poor people had no alternative—it meant death by being shot if they tried to get on deck and it was death from drowning if they remained in their quarters. There was no hope for them.

For the second time the town has voted in favor of the town plan for eliminating the grade crossing, so that there is no longer doubt as to the town's position in regard to this question. It only remains now for the citizens to take hold, support the plan and push it to completion. Outside of town the outcome of this question has been watched with much interest and some persons have looked upon it in the nature of a farce. Yet, nevertheless, when the whole situation is carefully reviewed and the work completed, it will be found that Winchester was only desirous of settling this question in a manner that would be of benefit to the town in the future and not be a cause for regret later. Now let all assist in boosting the town plan.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church tendered a reception to their new pastor, Rev. L. W. Adams and family, in the vestry of the church Tuesday evening. The parish was well represented and all seemed to want to make the affair as informal and home-like as possible. Mr. R. M. Armstrong was in charge of the exercises and in a few well-chosen words greeted the pastor, to which Rev. Adams repsonded in a very happy vein. Rev. William Fryling pastor of the Second Congregational Church responded cordially for the pastors of the town. Rev. M. D. Kneeland welcomed Mr. Adams in behalf of the community and hoped the time would soon come when there would be even more of a unity of spirit and less of "ism" than exists today.

Mr. J. Alfred Dover sang finely twice and Miss Etta McKay read two selections all of which were listened to with much interest.

Miss Mary H. French accompained Mr. Dover and Miss McKay in a Delsate number.

Much credit is due the president, Mrs. F. W. Roberts, who was in charge of arrangements. She was ably assisted by Mrs. Nestor W. Davis who arranged the programe and looked after the decorations.

Mrs. F. E. Crawford and Mrs. E. L. Dunning also assisted Mrs. Davis.

Mrs. R. W. Dover was chairman of the refreshment committee and Mrs. Ivan E. Moulton presided at the punch bowl.

Miss Mary French served harlequin opposite Mrs. Moulton.

May Walk.

Pastor Adams has already won the hearts of the children by instituting an annual May walk through the Fells which took place Wednesday afternoon at 3.30. About 25 jointed the pastor in this outing and all were regaled by the stories he told and the questions he answered about birds, flowers and insects.

Epworth League.

The second of the League lecture course was given at the Methodist Church last evening, by Rev. H. J. Kilbourne on "The Glory of the Italian Cities." Both lecture and pictures were greatly enjoyed. Next week Thursday night occurs the last one of the course entitled "Switzerland and the Rhine" by Rev. C. W. Blackett, D.D., illustrated. We should have a full house to greet Dr. Blackett.

THE COLGATE SERVICE.

To whom it may concern:—

It may interest the patrons of "The Colgate System" of regular vacuum cleaning, to learn that our subscribers, during the past year, have increased very rapidly.

Last Fall we opened an office in Somerville and now we have found it necessary to take another step and make Boston the center of our territory.

We shall continue to maintain our Winchester office, but all Somerville patrons as well as the patrons in all suburbs within a radius of 10 miles from Boston, except Winchester and Woburn, will be served from our Main Office at No. 407 Boylston street, Boston. Telephone Back Bay 5280.

"The Colgate System" has attracted the attention of one of the largest Oriental Rug firms in Boston, this firm being A. U. Dilley & Co., Inc., Corporation of Boston and New York. Our system is also endorsed by The Edison Electric Illuminating Co., of Boston.

Heretofore, vacuum cleaning has been condemned by Oriental Rug merchants because of the fact that the ordinary methods of applying the vacuum process to valuable Oriental Rugs, was very injurious, but we have carefully studied out how to apply this process.

In numerous cases, we are vacuum cleaning the same Oriental Rugs weekly or monthly by "The Colgate System" and instead of wearing out the rugs we are positively prolonging their life. Our System prolongs the life of an Oriental rug because it keeps the pile properly arranged and does not allow it to become matted. It also keeps the body of the rug free from the sand and grit which, by the old process of beating and even by an inexperienced vacuum cleaner operator, is not removed but left in the body of the rug to cut off the pile and ruin the rug.

In addition to our vacuum cleaning services, we wash, with soap and water, repair and store Oriental Rugs. Our repair Dept., is always open to visitors. Come in and see the native workmen weaving back the original designs in torn rugs.

We are putting forth every effort to insure that "The Colgate Service" is perfect and reliable, and will esteem it an extreme kindness on the part of any patron, to offer us such suggestions as may assist us to improve our service.

Kindly report, to one of our offices, any dissatisfaction or discourtesy, if any, on the part of a representative or employee.

Trusting that we may serve and be of assistance to the modern housekeeper, when ready to undertake their Spring House-cleaning.

I remain,
Very truly yours,
Wm. Homer Colgate.

MIXED BOWLING TOURNAMENT

With the closing of the spring tournament at the Calumet Club the mixed tournament will now proceed rapidly to its finish, games being rolled on every opportunity. Last week four matches were rolled with the following results:—Team 7 won three from team 3, team 2 won six, teams 9 and 1 being the losers, and team 11 won three from team 4.

Mrs. Simonds rolled a single of 93, which was the best for the ladies, and Mrs. Caldwell rolled a total of 175 which was also high.

On Monday evening team 6 won two points from team 5. Mrs. Hindes rolled the best individual string for the ladies with 81, and her total of 155 was also high. Mr. Gerlach's single of 112 was high for the gentlemen. On the same evening team 11 won two points from team 1. In this match Mrs. Wallace F. TO SING AT FESTIVAL.

The choir of the Church of the Epiphany will sing at the annual choir festival given in St. Paul's Church, Boston, on Wednesday of next week, May eighth.

Five choirs will sing at the festival St. Pauls, Boston, Church of the Redeemer, Chestnut Hill, Christ Church, Hyde Park, St. Peter's, Salem and the Church of the Epiphany, Winchester.

Mr. Warren Locke organist of St Paul's, Boston will conduct the festival and Mr. J. Albert Wilson organist of the Church of the Epiphany Winchester, will be the organist.

At the primary election each voting booth was equipped with an Electric Light. The work was done by Sanderson, the Electrician.

HEIME LEARNS SOMETHING ABOUT GRADE CROSSINGS.

Heime—"Vot iss all der talk apout grate crossins I hear me so much apout in der paper?

Honus—"Ach my poy, dot iss a deep querestions. Our schmartest men can't settle mit it at all."

Heime—"Vell vot iss id? Iss id gott somedings ter do mit der Big Trunk caming ter Bosting?"

Honus—"Naw, Der Big Trunk has nodings ter do mit id only made id worser if id cames ter Bosting und goes thru Winchester, pecause den dey vill haf two grate crossins ter ambeilition stead off vun. Der whole drouble Heime der peoples off der town vants ter do avay mit der streets crossin der tracks mit out makin any change mit der center off der Town und mit out id costih too much ter do id."

Heime—"I gott cher Steve, but I don't understandt."

Honus—"Vell iff yer did you'd be der first vun who did."

Heime—"Vot 'ss der madder mit id now der vay id iss?"

Honus—"Der grate drouble iss, id iss a danger. A man may vant ter cross der tracks apout der same time der 4.67 express vants ter, und der quencequonces iss dere iss anoder chob for Mr. Kelley, und tho some peoples are dying ter gif Kelley a chob nopody likes ter do id mit such a suddeness. Also Mr Vinn off der Bosting Stores some day haf a fife minute sale on Men's oferhalls und Mrs. Jones who lifs vay up Main street leafs her house in dime ter get tu der sale. But ven she strikes der track a freight drain mit der Injun at der Swanton street pridge haf her oder end at der Vedgemere station und py der dime der caboose rolls py und Mrs. Jones gets ofer der track der fife minute sale iss ofer und she has ter pay der full price fer der oferhalls. So yer see Heime vy dey vant ter do avay mit der crossins."

Heime—"I can't see id eider yet, Honus. If dey do avay mit der crossins how vill Mrs. Jones get ofer der tracks?"

Honus—"Yer knob Heime vas made fer a bin cushions. Dats vat I peen tellin you all der dimes. Der peoples don't vant der tracks dere so dey can get ofer der tracks any time dey vant ter."

Heime—"Vell how dey goin ter do id?"

Honus—"Right dere comes der droubles. Eferybody haf a blans und nopody vants dem.

Mr. Schmidt haf a blans ter build two pridges ofer der tracks und raise der streets. Apout 75 buildings comes in on der raisons, too.

Mr. Brown haf der blan made out mit vun pridge. Only 57 puildings und a half ter raise mit his.

Mr. Somepody else haf der blan ter raise der tracks. No puildings ter raise mit his. Und somebody else vants ter send der railroad ofer through Arlington vich iss der pest blan off all only dey vont do id.

Und Mr Laraway says, 'To—vell nefer mind der tracks I vill puild anyvay, und so on und so on.' Nodings put blans und cometees.

Der peoples off der town vote in a cometee ter make der blans und made a report. Ven dey make der report dat seddles it. Dey gif dem der hook und make another cometee und so on."

Heime—"Vy dont dey made id mit der blan off der wan mit der tracks ofer der streets und leaf der center der vay id iss?"

Honus—"Id looks goot until you look mit id deeper. Id is a danger as much as pefore. Ter made id dat vay a big posts iss needed in der centers und at der ends. Mit der otters whizzing through der center from 17 differences directions some off dem may hit der posts und deres vere Kelley comes in again or maype ve gif dis chob ter Cosgrove, dere all in der same business. Anoder vay; a Voburn sports leaf Bosting mit his otter after der last Hotel closes up fer der night und trys ter make Voburn pefore dey haff anoder raid so he can get somedings for his head in der morning. His eyes are a mistyness from riding fast und he don't chust miss der bost. If Mr. Kelley iss in ped dey takes him mit der Hosmittals und dere iss more news for der STAR next Friday.

So yer see Heime, leafing out apout six honered und sefenty fife oder reasons yer can see id iss no goot."

Heime—"Dose der railroadt vant ter do avay mit der crossins?"

Honus—"Dey haff ter vedder dey vant ter or not. Anyvay id vould pe better for dem. Dey could safe 5 mens pays vot tends der gates."

Heime—"I tought dey haf 4 mens ad der gates."

Honus—"Dey do. But de oder feller swings a flag on de oder side off der track mosts off der dime. Generously vun off, der gates iss sick und don't vock goot."

Heime—"Vot iss der drouble mit raison der streets? Iss id der oxpences?

Honus—"Yah. Some, und some oder reasons. It dey raise der streets vere vill our common pe? Deye'd haf ter made steps for der kids ter go down und valk on der grass. But dey mighdt be able ter painted der flag bole from der street mit out taken dir top off id off, und ve could haf der flag up holidays. Der pest dey can do mit id now iss haf mast, und der grate crossin aindt dead yet. Also vot vould pecome off der pusiness plocks? Dey vould haf two stories under der groundt und a skyligt on der street. But I forget dey are goin ter raise dem. If dey do I supposition dey raise der rent along mit dem and id vill come out off der poor people anyvay. More high cost lifing—Roosenveldt. Resolution—see Charley Dugan! But Heime I am gedding avay from der subject. Ter puild id dat vay vouk costing too much. Pesides some of der people don't vant it. Also some off der people are gettin discouragement mit it. Dey pud 3 new shingles on der Injun House roof last veek und dat means dey haf gifen up hope off der crossin fer a long vhile yedt. Dey are goin ter fill in der cellar mit oldt Steamer rollers und oder tings so ven she falls dey vont haf so far ter drop."

Heime—"Vell I dont see no blan ter fix id."

Honus—"Da's funny. Eferybody else does."

Legal Formalities
and delays that may ensue

Legal formalities in connection with municipal permits to set poles and string wires sometimes involve delays of a month or more in completing orders for telephone service.

Don't wait until the last minute, therefore. Give your order without delay, so that these legal requirements may not inconvenience you when you want service.

Call Fort Hill 7600 and ask for the Contract Department. If possible, we shall complete the work in time to list your address in the next Boston Division Telephone Directory.

The next Telephone Directory will include not only Greater Boston, but also the North Shore and the South Shore. No other directory will be published this Summer.

TREMONT THEATRE.

Werba and Luescher will present their delightful operetta, "The Spring Maid" and its captivating little star, Miss Christie MacDonald, at the Tremont for a limited engagement next Monday direct from its New York run of three hundred nights at the Liberty Theatre. Not since "The Merry Widow" has there been a musical production so loudly heralded as "The Spring Maid," and its entrancing melodies are too well known to music lovers to need any added comment. They have caught the public's fancy from the first.

On rare occasions a star seems born to fit a role in a play and such is the case of Miss Christie MacDonald as the saucy Princess Bozena.

The production of "The Spring Maid" in Boston will be identically the same as it was during the two season's run in New York City.

IN AID OF COMING BAZAAR.

A very enjoyable whist party, entertainment and dance in aid of the coming bazaar of St. Mary's Church was held in Lyceum Hall last Friday evening by the Young Men's Catholic Club. The entertainment consisted of solos by Harold Budreau, mandolin solos by Miss Gabriella McCarthy, accompanied by Miss Lillian McCarthy; recitation by Frank Butler, assisted by Francis McNally, Leo McNally and Henry Maguire; vocal solos by Gertrude Bell, accompanied by Miss Stella Bell; vocal solos by Martin Craffey; buck and wing dancing by George Pritchard; solo by Will Dillon, accompanied by Edgar H. Kelley, and harmonica solos by Chas. Flaherty. The winners at the whist were Miss Alice O'Connell, Miss Alice Foley Miss Nellie Sullivan, Miss Emily Kelley, Edward Donovan, John O'Connor, Joseph M. Donahue and James Hennessy. Dancing followed under the direction of Christopher Callahan floor director, Edward G. Boyle assistant, and the following aids: Charles Flaherty, George D. LeDuc, jr., Frank Butler, Henry Maguire, Michael Maguire, Frank McNally, Leo McNally, R. Edwards, George Glendon, Fred Donahue, Harry J. Donovan, Daniel Callahan.

As a result of the large attendance and financial receipts the young men contemplate running something on a larger scale in the fall.

TAFT'S MISTAKE.

"The reason why such a splendid man as Taft can make such an awful mess of things," said Professor Charles Zueblin at the Sunday Commons last Sunday at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, "is because he clings to the old idea that the state exists for the benefit of the individual. In America we exploit the state at the expense of individuals. We can't relieve ourselves of these utterly insignificant things that are running for the presidency till we have made the whole anxious people for nationalism. We want principles rather than personalties when election time comes."

Professor Zueblin said in part: "When we shall have a metropolitan commission elected by all the men and women to dispose of all metropolitan affairs we shall be nearer home rule than Des Moines or Dallas.

"We should send home the defectives who come to us from other nations. Just think what it would have meant to the Titanic if there had been no third class."

"MATRIMONIAL MEASLES."

A severe epidemic of "matrimonial measles" has broken out among the teachers of the High School in Winchester says the Boston Globe. Some time ago three of the teachers announced their engagements and formed a club which they called "The Engaged Teachers' Club of the Winchester High School." A few days ago notice was posted of the addition of three new members of the club. The members of the club now are Edward E. Thompson, submaster of the school; Miss Mabel Hendrix, Miss Cora M. Kenty, Miss M. Frances Harriman, Miss Susan J. W. Brown and Clifford A. Watson. Miss Hendrix is engaged to Mr. Thompson. The others have sought mates elsewhere.

In addition to those named above Miss Jessie Rhodes of the teaching staff of the Wadleigh School was married at the beginning of the Spring vacation

FIRST PASSENGER TRAINS.

The first cars on the Boston and Lowell road, containing passengers, passed through Winchester, on the last Wednesday of May, 1835. It was an event of great importance, and the people gathered along the line to see it. A small boy was seen to place on the rail a large Bungtown cent. A prominent citizen, so excited for fear so large an obstacle would derail the train, exchanged the cent for a thin ten cent piece. As the cars approached, remorse for their rash act seized both man and boy, and they ran together to push it off. They succeeded, however, and after the train had passed, the citizen remarked: "You might have put a silver dollar on the rail, and no harm have come of it!" —[Woburn News.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Rexall Orderlies are unsurpassable and ideal for the use of children, old folks and delicate persons. We cannot too highly recommend them to all sufferers from any form of constipation and its attendant evils. That's why we back our faith in them with our promise of money back if they do not give entire satisfaction. Three sizes: 12 tablets 10 cents, 36 tablets 25 cents and 80 tablets 50 cents. FLY EXTERMINATION.

Why not put the flies in jail and let ourselves out? This was the key note of the illustrated lecture given by Mr. Harold F. Pierce of Clark College at the High School Assembly Hall on Wednesday afternoon. Each spring and summer we shut ourselves in with fly screens and let the fly revel in the out-of-doors.

The mosquito has been successfully eliminated from neighborhoods by draining the pools or pouring oil on the surfaces, wherever this insect finds breeding places. The breeding place of flies is chiefly in stable manure, but also in any decaying animal or vegetable matter. Therefore the first thing to be done in a war on the fly is to clean up these filthy breeding places.

A fly may lay six batches of eggs of from 120 to 150 each. Only 10 days are required for the eggs to hatch and mature. It has been computed that one pair of flies beginning to breed early in April may, if all live, be the progenitors of 191,010,000,000,000,000,000 by August. Is it not sensible, then, to begin the campaign against this enemy of mankind early in the season?

It is only within the last dozen years that the fly has come to be generally regarded as a disease carrier. It is now known that this pest carries the germs of typhoid, diphthera, scarlet fever and many other diseases. More, than 6,000,000 germs have been washed from the body of one fly. The yearly death toll due to fly filth has been estimated at about 100,000 persons. It is of the utmost importance that every dairy or farm which produces milk be made completely flyless.

The easiest way to get rid of this filth carriet is to let it catch itself. This can be done by using one of Dr. Hodge's fly traps. (These can be purchased at our local hardware stores for 25c each). Place them on the garbage pails, or attach them to screens or set them in any spot to which the fly is likely to be attracted. Bait the trap, if necessary, with milk and bread slightly sweetened. When the trap is filled with flies, hold it under the hot water faucet and these flies will do no more harm.

Another easy method of killing is to fill a bottle with a solution of formalin (8 teaspoonfuls to 1 quart of water). Place a saucer over the mouth of the bottle and invert the whole. Tip the bottle a least bit by putting a chip under one side so that the liquid will partially fill the saucer. Place this on a shelf or bracket in some convenient place. Flies are always thirsty and so will drink of this liquid never more to go back to lay eggs.

There are then these three easy lines of attack on the enemy, first, clean up all filth so that there will be no breeding places; second, place traps to catch those flying about; third, use the formalin solution both indoors and out of doors. If every household in town had even one out door trap near the fly's most likely feeding place, it does not seem improbable that every fly in existence now would catch itself. The one thing necessary for complete extermination is that every home shall co operate.

Mr. Pierce spoke in a most convincing manner and aroused a great deal of enthusiasm among his hearers. This was shown when at the close of his lecture he was immediately surrounded by scores of listeners who kept him busy for some time answering questions.

The lecture was given under the auspices of the Home Economics Committee of the Fortnightly, and the Mother's Association.

W. H. S. DEFEATED.

In its game with Winthrop High last Saturday afternoon Winchester High was overmatched, and from start to finish the local boys failed to show up. The game was listless and errors on both sides were plentiful. O'Donnell, Bartlett and Capt. Verner played well for the visitors and Hilton and Maguire for the locals. The score:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
Winthrop	2	1	0	0	4	4	3	0	0	11	9	3
Winchester	0	1	0	0	0	0	2	0	4	7	6	4

NEW COMBINATION FIRE AUTOMOBILE.
Winchester Has Ordered an Auto Similar to This, Which is Now in Use in Gloucester.

AUTOMOBILE CHEMICAL.

At a joint meeting of the Board of Selectmen and the Board of Fire Engineers, held April 22, it was voted by the joint Board that Mr. Jewett of the Selectmen and Chief DeCourcey of the Fire Engineers, be authorized on behalf of the joint Board, to purchase from the Knox Automobile Co., at a price not to exceed $5800 an automobile-chemical according to the specifications submitted by that Company with such minor changes as they might deem wise. Machine to be fitted with solid tires.

The Committee have purchased in accordance with the foregoing vote a Knox Model M-3 Two Tank Combination Hose and Chemical Automobile, similar to the machines in use at Danvers and Holyoke, and the following are some of the specifications:

Wheel Base: 145 inches
Forward Tread: 60 inches
Rear Tread approximately: 70 inches
Tires: solid 40x5 inches forward and 40x4 inches rear
Front Axle: 2 inch I beam solid forging 3 1-2 per cent nickel steel
Rear Axle: 2 inch square solid forging; roller bearings front and rear

The frame is to be the strongest used in any motor fire vehicles constructed. Made of 5 inch Carnegie Rolled channel steel, 9 lbs to the foot. Drilled and hot riveted. Braced with cross and lateral members and large gusset plates. It is to have a four cylinder motor 5 1-2, inches bore by 5 1-2 inches stroke, water cooled.

The capacity of the motor is powerful enough to drive the apparatus fully equipped with a crew of six men on 10 per cent grade at 25 miles per hour; on level at 40 miles per hour.

The transmission is of selective type, three speeds forward and one reverse.

The foot brake is a very heavy contracting band on the ends of the jack shaft. The hand brake is internal expanding in rear wheel drums. A suitable brake is also placed on the driving shaft between the clutch and transmission. All gears are operated by one lever conveniently located beside the driver. The gear shift is so arranged that only one set of gears can be engaged at a time, all other gears being automatically locked at that time, and when in neutral position.

Two sets of spark plugs are provided, on opposite sides of cylinders, a Bosch high tension magneto, connected to one side. The other set of plugs to be connected to a Connecticut four-unit coil and timer used in connection with two sets of six standard dry batteries. Both systems of ignition to be controlled by independent switches, giving two absolutely independent methods of firing.

The body will be 7 inches long and 50 inches wide, back of drivers seat carrying 1000 lb. or more of 2 1-2 inch water hose and 10 men including 2 on the front seat.

Color is to be Maroon with Red running gear.

It is to be fitted with a 30 ft extension ladder.

20 ft. extension roof ladder, fitted with folding roof hooks.

2—40 gallon chemical tanks, fitted with 2 1-2 inch water connection.

2—extra acid receptacles.

2—extra soda containers.

400 ft. 3-4 inch chemical hose, with 1-4 inch nozzle and one 3-8 inch nozzle.

1 Chemical Hose Basket.

2—3 gallon Badger extinguishers and holders.

Detroit Door opener.

Crow bar, axe, lanterns, plaster hooks, oil and electric side and tail lamps, gas head lights, one revolving gas searchlight mounted on dash, Prest-o-Lite tank, Siren horn, chains, shock absorbers, etc., etc.

The Company is to furnish an instructor, free of charge for two weeks.

TEACHERS' CLUB ENTERTAINED.

The Winchester Teachers' Club entertained the members of the Winchester Mother's Association and their husbands in the assembly hall of the High School last Thursday evening. The entertainment consisted of dramatic readings by Willis Warren Harriman; his program including "Shylock" in scene 3, act 1, from "The Merchant of Venice;" the closet scene from "Hamlet," scene from "The School for Scandal," "The Debating Society" and "Tell It, Milliner." Selections were rendered by the High School orchestra, under the direction of Miss Emma C. Diehm as follow:

Mercedes March, Rollinson; The Wayside Chapel, Wilson, Melody in F, Rubinstein Air de Ballet, Hille.

First Violins—Charles Downer, Gretchen Avery, Esther Cutting.

Second Violins—Philip Savage, Nellie Haley.

Cello—Harold Bugbee.

Clarinet—Eben Ramsdell.

First Cornet—LeRoy Downer.

Second Cornet—Ralph Thompson.

Trombone—James Fenaligan.

Pianist, Sadie Felber.

The affair was in charge of a committee consisting of Miss Grace C. Moore, chairman; Miss Marjorie N. Weeks, Miss Helen Doherty, Miss Janet C. Hanson and Schuyler F. Herron.

LAWSON, ROOSEVELT, REVOLUTION.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Will you kindly publish the following open letter to Thomas W. Lawson, 100 Main street, Winchester, Mass?

Dear Sir:—I recently saw a lot of people reading your paid advertisement article "Roosevelt-Revolution" They maddened at wasting their time reading it and not discovering whether youstand for or against Roosevelt. You should have headed your article either "Roosevelt Will Bring Revolution," or "Roosevelt Will Avert Revolution." In fact with either of these headings given alone and with your name and address signed thereto, you would have saved yourself time and money and at the same time made yourself plain to the American people.

With either of the above there would be no extended remarks necessary. Everybody knows what would induce you to take either horn of the delimma. I would like to see all rich men go in print as you are doing, but there is no use being ambiguous. I say Roosevelt will bring revolution.

Very truly,
Francis Buck Livesey,
West Friendship,
Maryland.

BOSTON'S NEW THEATRE.

Boston's latest palace of amusement, Gordon's Olypia, on Washington street, opposite Boylston street, in the very heart of the theatrical and business section of the city, will be thrown open to the public next Monday morning, May 6 at ten o'clock. The Olympia will be found the last word in theatrical construction for not only is it magnificently equipped with every possible device for safety; built of reinforced concerte throughout, and superbly decorated; it will also have the biggest novelty and a greater convenience than is possessed by any other theatre in the city, and possibly in the country- escalators or moving stairways to every part of the house. And every seat in the house, is not only "a clear sight seat" but it is individual. There are no benches in the balcony or the gallery, every patron has his or her own chair and there are no stairs to climb. One is carried direct to his seat. The Olympia will be popularly known as the "House with the moving stairs." And the management also confidently asserts that it will also be as popularly known as the "house of big novelties; as the ideal popular-price theatre in Boston." The very best attractions possible to obtain in the music halls of London, Paris and Berlin and the highest class vaudeville acts from the theatres of America will always be presented at Gordon's Olympia amid surroundings of ideal comfort and beauty.

"THE RIVALS."

The annual play given by the Senior and Junior classes of the High School was presented before a large audience in the Town Hall on Saturday evening last. When the curtain arose on the first act practically every seat on the floor was taken and the balconies were well filled.

The young artists gave a very interesting and well acted interpretation of the play. Of much gratification was the individual work of Mr. Dwight Thompson, as Sir Anthony Absolute, Miss Lillian Henderson as Mrs. Malaprops and Mr. Raymond Strawbridge as Capt. Jack Absolute. The play was coached by Mr. Robert Howes Burnham.

Characters named in the order of their entrance:

Thomas, Sir Anthony's coachman	Howard Meincke
Fag, Capt. Absolute's servant	Franklin Lane
Lucy, Mrs. Malaprop's maid	Barbara French
Lydia Languish, Mrs. Malaprop's niece	Florence Amsden
Julia Melville, Lydia's cousin	Esther Parshley
Mrs Malaprop	Lillian Henderson
Sir Anthoy Absolute	Dwight Thompson
Capt. Jack Absolute, his son	Raymond Strawbridge
Faulkland, Jack's friend	Howard Meincke
Bob Acres	Gilbert Swett
Boy, a servant	Lloyd Clark
Sir Lucius O'Trigger	Dexter Tutein
David, Acres' servant	Weber Emery
Maid	Grace Stilphen

Following the play dancing was enjoyed by both the actors and audience until a late hour.

Last Friday afternoon two automobiles were in collision at the dangerous corner of the Parkway and Main street near the Whitney Mill. The touring car of Dr H. L. Houghton was coming up the parkway and was struck by a light delivery auto of a Somerville merchant which was going to Medford. No damage was done except to damage a mud guard on the Houghton machine. Fortunately the heavier machine was going very slowly.

BOSTON THEATRE.

Julian Eltinge, famous the world over as the foremost impersonator of beautiful feminine types, returned to the Boston Theatre Monday night as the star of "The Fas mating Widow" and was met by an audience which taxed the capacity of the big historic playhouse. Julian Eltinge's vehicle this year is new in every detail. The plot of "The Fascinating Widow," and the cast, remains the same, but many new songs, dances and musical numbers have been added, with the result that theatre patrons looked upon an entirely new and thoroughly refreshing entertainment. The piece, in its farcical aspect, is bright and snappy from beginning to end, full of lines and dialogue which call forth the heartiest laughter, and crowded with complications which keep the audience constantly in the best of humor. But the chief feature of the entertainment, of course is Julian Eltinge's marvelous exhibitions in the disguise of a woman.

As this will be Julian Eltinge's only appearance in New England, it being his intention to sail for England immediately following his Boston Theatre engagement, it is urged that everyone wishing to see him and his successful musical comedy, do so at the earliest possible moment, for the engagement is limited to a very few weeks.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

Madame Bertha Kalich, the celebrated tragedienne, and one of the highest salaried stars on the American stage, comes to B. F. Keith's Theatre next week for a limited engagement of one week only. For her vaudeville tour Mme. Kalich has chosen a powerful one-act playlet entitled "A Light From St. Agnes." The locale of this drama is laid in Louisiana during the days when that colony was under French rule. The New York critics declared Mme. Kalich never had a role that offered more splendid opportunities for emotional acting. Mme. Kalich will be surrounded by an excellent bill of features. Linden Beckwith, the "Magnetic Mistress of Melody," will sing several new songs; Merrill and Otto present a bright skit called "After the Shower;" Charles Mack & Co. have a comedy, "A son of Killarney;" The Holdsworths are clever musicians; Peto & Wilson are expert equilibrists, and Rice, Sully and Scott are three clowns on the horizontal bars.

Mr and Mrs. Oren C. Sanborn entertained a house party of eight last week at their summer home at North Falmouth.

The first indication of the improvment to come from the recent vote of the town in taking the Whitney property at the corner of Walnut street and the Parkway appeared this week when work commenced on tearing down the old Small furniture factory. This building is one of the prominent old landmarks of days gone by. The inside has been cleaned of shafting and other fittings and work is now going on fast in tearing the whole structure down. The lumber alone in this building is valuable today, giant beams having been used in the structure, and it is said that the sills are of solid mahogany.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

The Board is Pushing Grade Crossing Matter.

May 6, 1912.

The Board met at 8 to p. m., all being present.

Mr. David W. Gurney and Thomas F. Higgins of Hemingway street, appeared to urge the early attention of the Board to the improvement of that street.

Mr. Lutes, Agent of the American Express Co., of Winchester appeared in regard to their application for permit to transport liquors.

Mr. Daniel Kelley of the Kelley & Hawes Co., explained to the Board their system of charges for teams hired by the various departments of the town.

Dr. Clarence E. Ordway of the Park Commissioners appeared in regard to employing the Town Engineer on the survey of the Whitney property.

Mr. James W. Russell, jr., and Thomas E. Jansen of Wolcott road appeared in support of the petition to improve conditions of that street.

A letter was received and filed from George H. Carter, Town Clerk, transmitting the text of a vote passed at the adjourned session of the annual Town Meeting March 4, 1912, held April 29, 1912, namely:

Voted:—That the Town adhere to its choice heretofore repeatedly declared in its town meetings, and again affirms its preference for the general method of abolishing the grade crossing, known as the Town-Plan, raising the highway over the railroad at the centre of the town, and providing a subway for pedestrians at the present station. And the Selectmen are instructed to have this plan advocated and insisted upon before all tribunals, and to take all proper measures to secure its adoption.

The Town Engineer appeared with plans for re numbering Highland avenue, Oak street, Salem street, Richardson street, Canal street and Water street, and the same were referred to the Committee on Highways.

The Town Engineer also presented a plan of Cambridge street, showing poles to be removed and replaced and explained the same to the Board.

A request from Patrick Nelson, 253 Swanton street, for correct street lines from White street to the Bridge connecting Main and Swanton streets was referred to the Town Engineer.

A letter from Allan E. Boone, to Central street, asking whether the town is ready to put in a granolithic sidewalk in front of his property and how much of the expense he would be required to pay, was referred to Committee on Highways.

A petition of the Edison Electric Illuminating Co. to attach its wires and fixtures to the existing pole of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. on Main street, about 170 feet south of Elmwood avenue, was referred to the Town Engineer.

A letter from Levi S. Gould, Chairman Middlesex County Commissioners agreeing to a conference of their Engineer with the Town Engineer on the Cambridge street alterations, was referred to the Committee on Highways.

A letter was received and referred to the Committee on Highways from the Water and Sewer Boards stating that they contemplate the following work requiring the opening of streets this season.

For Water Pipes.

Main street. House connection from junction with Washington street to Chestnut street and side street connections

Junction of Wedgemere avenue and Foxcroft road.

Cliff street. New pipe whole length.

Highland avenue. Various places between Lebanon street and Mt. Vernon street.

For Sewer Pipes.

Forest street from Highland avenue to Washington street, Washington street from Cross street to Forest street extension, and north from Lebanon street to Cross street.

Grove street from Fenwick road to two farmhouses in Winchester to Grove place.

The Committee on Highways reported that they had awarded the contract for building the Town Sheds, exclusive of brick work to George H. Hamilton, and their action was confirmed.

Contract specifications for curbing and edgstones were submitted by S. and R. J. Lombard, 275 Rutherford avenue, Charlestown, and accepted and the Superintendent of Streets was notified to order what curbing and edgestones were necessary for the coming year.

The Committee on Highways reported on the request of Mrs. Susan A. Richardson, 15 Linden street, entered April 15th, that the bank wall and board fence separating the Richardson estate from the town property would be put in order. Action confirmed.

The Chief of Police returned with his approval applications of Herbert Roy Waite, for a pool and billiard room license at Lyceum Building;

INSTITUTION OF THE REV. MURRAY W. DEWART.

On Sunday morning, the Rev. Murray W. Dewart was formerly instituted rector of the Parish of the Epiphany, by the Rev. John W. Suter, acting for the Bishop of the Diocese.

The solemn and beautiful service of Institution is seldom performed in this country and was in this instance especially impressive from the selection by the Bishop of Mr. Suter as his representative. At eleven o'clock the full choir, followed by M. B. May and H. S. Underwood, Wardens of the Parish, preceded the Rev. Carlton P. Mills, Mr. Suter and Mr. Dewart in a processional to the chancel, where Mr. Suter used the letter of Institution, signed and sealed by the Bishop, after which the keys of the church were presented to Mr. Dewart by the Senior Warden, in token of acknowledgement by the Parish of Mr. Dewart as Rector; he was given also a Bible, Prayer Book and Book of the canons of the church. After this the Holy Communion was celebrated, preceded by a sermon by Mr. Dewart.

In his sermon, he spoke warmly and eloquently of the duties and responsibilities, mutual and to the world at large, of the ministers and people, in their effort to make their church of such inspiration, as it should be, both to its members and to the community. He spoke earnestly of the work done in this Parish during the twenty seven years of its active existence, and of the work before it. It was a matter of regret to the Congregation that the Rev. William S. Packer who has been in charge of the Parish in the interval between Mr. Suter's resignation and the institution of Mr. Dewart, was unable to be present.

HER 82d BIRTHDAY.

Thursday Mrs. Charles D. Folsom quietly observed her 82d birthday at her home on Main street. But for an accident which she sustained to her hip several years ago, by falling from an electric car, her bodily health is considered fairly good. The many friends wish for this estimable woman many more birthdays and the continued enjoyment of life.

Mrs. Folsom was born in 1830 on Friend street, Boston, when that street was very different from what it is now, and was part of the fine residential section of the city. In her youth she attended the Hancock school and later the Charlestown Female Seminary, a noted academy of its day.

The larger part of Mrs Folsom's life was spent in Cambridge where her father, Hiram Welch, was prominent in its business and political life and held many positions of honor and trust. On her mother's side she comes of Revolutionary stock, being a descendant of Solomon Pierce, who figured largely in the war of independence.

Mrs. Folsom has two sons, Hiram W. of Winchester, Chas. E. of California and a daughter, Mrs. M. E. Denley of Winchester.

During her residence in Cambridge Mrs. Folsom was secretary of the Ladies' Samaritan society, an association very similar in its beneficent objects to the Visiting Nurses' Association of today. She filled the position for 25 years, and on her resignation she was presented with a silver service as a mark of the appreciation in which her work for the society was held. During the civil war she was active in the work of the soldiers' relief corps. She is a member of the Congregational Church, and has always been active in church work.

REAL ESTATE NEWS.

Through the office of Edw. T. Harrington Co., the following sales have been made within the last ten days: Katherine S. Cummings has sold to John W. Ramsay of Winchester the estate on Lexington street, Woburn, comprising a remodelled colonial house, nearly new barn and about 9 acres of land.

William P. Natalie of Boston has sold to Frank A. Cummings of Woburn a modern plaster house of 12 rooms and 3 baths and nearly 10,000 sq. ft. land situated on the corner of Ravenscrof and Lakeview roads. The purchaser intends to occupy immediately.

Mrs. Ida M. Belichon has leased to F. F. Hallock of Indianapolis the house No. 13 Webster street. Edw. T. Harrington Co., were the brokers.

SECOND CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH NOTES.

A pound party was held at the home of Mrs. Smalley under the auspices of the S. S. last Friday evening. Mr. Alfred Marshall Swan a member of the Highland Baraca Bible Class was received into church membership on confession of his faith last Sunday morning. Mr. Frederick L. Marion was received by letter from the First Presbyterian Church of Watertown, N. Y., and Mrs. Marion from the M. E. Church of Woburn.

ORCHESTRAL ASSOCIATION MEETING.

Voted to Raise Guarantee Fund to Continue Orchestra.

A meeting of the Associate Members of the Winchester Orchestral Association to hear the reports of the President and the Treasurer and discuss the Orchestra's financial needs, was held in the Small Town Hall last Tuesday evening. A considerable audience including many ladies was in attendance.

The President, Mr. Dawnell, gave a brief history of the organization from its inception three years ago. At the close of the first season there was a financial deficit, as was to have been expected of any new movement like an amateur "grand orchestra" but the second season closed with a small credit balance. The third season, the present, had developed another deficit—a deficit larger than that of the first year. Owing to the limitations of the Town Hall the membership of the Association had to be limited to 160 subscribers which was not sufficient to support the Orchestra on its present basis and deficits were liable to occur every season through such a large deficit as the present, $150, was not likely to occur again for this had been caused by extraordinary expenses which need not be and probably would not be incurred another year. The Directors had decided to call a meeting of the Associate members to consider the situation and if possible decide upon some plan to remedy it. It would be a pity to have to abandon the Orchestra for lack of financial support just at the moment it had "found itself;" the conductor and the performers were in perfect accord one with the other; both were enthusiastic over the Orchestra and were willing to give their best efforts towards its success. The Directors believed that if the needs of the Orchestra were put fairly and squarely before the Associate members a feasible plan for the continuance of the Orchestra would be decided upon. Remarks, suggestions and criticisms were in order and invited.

After the Treasurer's Report had been read and discussed several plans were offered by members. The propositon to increase the Annual Dues from $5. to $6. was deemed inadvisable as it might result in losing many members. It was finally decided to raise a guaranty fund to take care of all deficits arising in the next three years. Each subscriber to the guaranty fund will agree to contribute, in addition to his annual dues, his pro rata share towards the liquidation of any deficit occurring in any year for the next three years, no subscriber to be called upon for more than $5 in any one year.

It was pointed out by Mr. Newell, who proposed the plan, that all who are sincerely interested in the Orchestra and its success will subscribe to this fund,—that the larger the number of subscribers the smaller the contribution required of each,—and the improbability of subscribers being called upon for more than a small fraction of their guarantee in any one year.

The Treasurer requested that some action be taken toward the liquidation of the Association's present indebtedness, $150.00 and it was unanimously voted that the meeting constitute itself a committee of the whole to solicit contributions for the immediate liquidation of that amount. The Treasurer's Statement of Receipts and Disbursements is given below.

SYLVESTER H. TAYLOR, Treasurer.

Winchester, Mass., April 30th, 1912.

W. H. S. NOTES.

At the assembly hall last week Mr. Redfern gave a short talk about athletics. He was very interesting and his words ought to inspire the boys.

At a meeting of the A. A. last Tuesday Clark's report on the basket ball season was read. It was voted to buy Meincke a baseball suit.

At a meeting of the class of 1912 it was voted to accept Dwight Thompson's invitation for Class Day. Selwin Prime and Lucy Stearns were elected as Class Prophets, Edward Murphy for Class Statistician, Alberta Seagrave for Class History; and Helen Ordway for Class Song.

A burlesque track meet will be held in the Gym on Monday for the benefit of the "Recorder."

ITALIAN STRIKE STILL IN PROGRESS.

The strike among the laborers employed about town which commenced last week is still going on, with little prospect of settlement.

Many of the men involved in the difficulty have made no formal demand for more wages or shorter hours, but the entire controversy seems to be to establish a rate of $2 a day of nine hours as the lowest wage to be paid. It is understood that many of the men who are paid much more than $2 a day are demanding nothing for themselves, but have affiliated themselves with the strikers in order to secure the minimum wage rate for their fellows.

James Fitzgerald stated that the lowest wage paid by him is $10 a week for a nine hour day, and that some of his employees (masons) received as high as $4 a day. He said that the wages were graded from $2 a day up to $4 a day in accordance with the value of the men employed.

But one serious disturbance occurred during the week. This was last Friday morning, when word was sent to the police that a non-striking man had been pulled from a team of contractor Quigley by strikers. The police visited the scene, but the men had left. They followed and found the gang near the Sandbank. Officer Mullen, who reached the scene in advance of the other officers, attempted to arrest the man who had caused the trouble and was set upon by the gang, about 50 in number. His club was taken from him and he had pulled his revolver to defend himself just as the other officers reached the place. Had he not been reinforced when he was, serious results would undoubtedly have followed. The offender was taken to the station house and later fined $25.

Instances have occurred in numerous places where men willing to work for the wage paid, or who have received an increase, have left their work fearing violence from the strikers. In all about 250 Italians have stopped work on account of the strike, and some laborers of other nationalities have been forced to quit through fear of trouble.

The contractors appear willing to pay $2 a day or more, provided the men are worth it, but refuse to pay the poor workmen the same wage paid their better men.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

The annual election of officers of The Epworth League was held last Tuesday night in the vestry of the church. The Australian printed ballots were used which resulted in the following persons being elected: President, Herbert Sellar; 1st Vice President, Miss Mina B. Hartley; 2nd Vice President, Miss Grace M. Snow; 3rd Vice President, Miss Alta M. Hartley; 4th Vice President Mrs. Robert W. Dover; Secretary, Miss Elizabeth Mason; Treasurer, Mr. W. Raymond Adams.

A supper was served at 6.30 after which Rev. L. W. Adams, the new pastor of the church gave a short address. He gave an outline history of the Epworth League and its remarkable growth and said that he had the honor of being present when the society was formed in Boston by Bishop Vincent of the Methodist Episcopal Church. His remarks were interspersed with bright entertaining stories and won the hearts of the young people.

Next Sunday, May 12th, occurs the twenty-third anniversary of the founding of the society. The installation of officers occurs in the evening and the pastor will speak in the morning on a subject which is in harmony with the celebration of the day.

The last lecture of the Epworth League Course was delivered last night by Dr. Chas. W. Blackett, the former pastor of the church. A large audience greeted the speaker, and his subject, "Switzerland and the Rhine" attracted many people who had travelled through Germany and Switzerland. After the lecture many old friends were glad to greet their former pastor.

PRAISE SERVICE.

An evening praise service with many old time selections will be held at the First Congregational Church, Sunday at 7.00 o'clock. The Rev. Mr. Hodgdon will speak of "Praise as an Element in Worship." Mr. John E. Daniels, tenor soloist of Boston, who has made a deep impression by his spiritual interpretation of heart music and who was with Dwight L. Moody in his later days, will assist in the service. This is a fine place for lonely hearts to get cheer and for strangers to make friends.

Following is the program:

Hymns, "Day is dying in the west"
"The sands of time are sinking"
Solo, "In the Secret of His Presence," Daniels
Mr. John E. Daniels
Duett, "Almost Persuaded," Bliss
Mrs. Weber, Mr. Daniels
Choir Hymn, "Master the Tempest is Raging," Palmer
Solo, "The Ninety and Nine," Sankey
Mr. Daniels
Address, "Elements of Worship Praise"
Solo and Chorus, "Eternally," Buck
Mr. Daniels and Choir
Hymn, "Now the day is over"

BASE BALL.

A team of Winchester Highlands boys met and defeated a team of Melrose boys, at Melrose, last Saturday morning, in a fast five-inning game by a score of 14 to 12. Solid hitting by the visitors enabled them to return victors, while their errors allowed the Melrose team to score.

The line-up for Winchester Highlands was: Nutting 3b, Hatch p, Burwell ss, Betts 1b, John Betts 2b, Dearborn cf, Ronald Hatch lf, Chase rf, Bruce c.

Three-base hit, Burwell. Runs, Nutting 3, Hatch 2, Burwell, Joe Betts 3, John Betts 2, Bruce, Dearborn, Ronald Hatch. Hits, Nutting 3, Hatch 2, Burwell 2, Joe Betts 3, John Betts 2, Bruce, Dearborn 3, Chase. Sacrifice hunt, Burwell.

Mrs. Samuel R. Priest of Wildwood street annouces the engagement of her daughter, Fannie, to Mr. Robert G. A. Felton of Wilmington, Delaware.

GRADE CROSSING.

A Statement of Fact on Vote of Town Plan.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The voting list of Winchester contains, I am informed, 1674 names. The so-called "Town Plan" for the abolition of the grade crossing, which should now perhaps be more properly designated as the "Carter Plan," has received on two occasions votes in its favor of 205 to 5 and 166 to 5. It is widely published that this plan is practically the unanimous choice of Winchester. Assuming that the number of voters entitled to vote was 1674 on each occasion (it was probably somewhat less at the time of the first vote), I wonder whether the other 1469 voters (1674 less 205) who did not vote on the first occasion, and the 1503 voters (1674 less 171) who did not vote on the second occasion desire to be thus heralded as in favor of the plan. It will be seen that it has never received the approval of voters equivalent in number to one seventh of the voting strength of the town.

This statement is not intended as an argument against the abolition of the grade crossing in the way proposed. It is simply a statement of fact bearing on the weight which should be given to the votes in question, and it may also contain a suggestion that a larger attendance of voters at town meetings would be desirable, especially if the town is to burden itself with an obligation to pay more than its statutory share of the expense of abolition as it has a right to do under the Act of 1911, provided a vote is passed in favor of such action by two-thirds of the registered voters who are present and voting at a meeting duly called for the purpose.

If such a proposition shall in the future be presented to the town meeting, it is certainly to be hoped that the men of Winchester will take sufficient interest to see to it that the town is not burdened with this lability by a vote of two-thirds of one hundred and seventy-one registered voters present and voting at the meeting out of a total voting strength of nearly seventeen hundred, which apparently would have been the case had a vote been taken at the last town meeting on the question of assuming this additional share of the expense, if conditions had been such that the vote could properly have been taken at that meeting.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE.

The Study Group of the Winchester Equal Suffrage League met at the home of Mrs. Alfred S. Higgins on Church street last Friday. Miss Mabel Willard of Boston, who took a trip round the world with Mrs. Charles Park two years ago and studied the Status of Women in the Orient and in Australia and New Zealand, gave an interesting and instructive address. She dwelt particularly on laws concerning women, contrasting English laws with those of Australia and New Zealand, where women vote on the same terms with men. Those in the latter countries were more just to women than English laws. She gave her four distinctive reasons for believing in equal suffrage. Her first was the "old fashioned" one of justice, which is generally acceded and needs no enlargement. Her second reason was the one that our opponents use against us—the essential difference between men and women, which really constitutes a strong argument for equal suffrage in a representative government, where every point of view should be recognized—that of women being often very different from that of men. Her third reason was that the exercise of the franchise furnishes opportunity for accomplishing much in a quicker way than by the much extolled method of "indirect influence" and fourth, the educational value of the use of the ballot. Women with the responsibility of the franchise resting upon them became much more interested in government matters and social problems after the ballot is in their hands and men do not feel it necessary to talk down to them or to adapt themselves to the trvialities in which alone they are supposed to be interested. It increases the spirit of comanderie between men and women. In Australia and other places where women have been entranchised, not only is their self respect raised but they are accorded more respect by men.

Thirty-five or more were present. Tea and light refreshments were served and seven new members were added to the League.

The Winchester Equal Suffrage League would like to invite all those interested in Suffrage to attend the next two meetings. The president of the Harvard Equal Suffrage League—Mr. Gerard C. Henderson is going to speak at the home of Mrs. Edward J. Johnson, 180 Highland avenue, May 17th at 3.30. His subject will be "Suffrage and Social Progress" and it is hoped that no one will miss this opportunity of hearing a splendid speaker. Mr. Charles Zueblin will speak Tuesday -June 4th at the last meeting until fall of the Winchester League. This will be held at the home of Miss Frances Elder, Myopia Hill. There will be a business meeting from 3 to 3.30 and all those who are not members of the league are invited to come at 3.30 and hear Mr. Zueblin. The speaking will be followed by a lawn party and the league wants to say again—that everyone who is interested in suffrage, and wants to hear Mr. Zueblin speak on this subject is cordially invited to come.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

The last meeting of the club will be held on Monday, May 13, at 2 30. Miss Margaret Sayward is to read Irish stories and Mrs. Carroll J. Swan is to sing Irish Folk Songs. Mrs. Swan is very well remembered by those who have had the pleasure of hearing her before.

Members are reminded that Monday will be the last opportunity for payment of dues for the coming year.

Those who have changed addresses or telephone numbers will please notify Miss Mary French. Tel. 881-M, so that they may appear correctly in the New Year Book.

ANNUAL MAY PARTY.

The Ladies Friendly gave their annual happy time to the children of the town at the May Party on Saturday afternoon in the Town Hall. Over 300 children attended and at times the floor of the hall seemed inadequate to accommodate all. Those who danced were the younger boys and girls, and the popularity of the pretty, and graceful accomplishment was quite apparent. Some of the tiniest ones were performing their part in the march, being accompanied by the older ones, and felt quite as important and dignified. The hall was profusely decorated with pink rambler roses, the balconies hung with garlands and potted plants were arranged on the stage. An orchestra furnished the music. At the intermission refreshments were furnished to all the children. Miss Mary Kellogg was the conductor of the party and she was ably assisted by Mrs. Geo. Root.

The Queen was Miss Helen Sanborn and the page was Caleb Sanborn. Annette Mason was the crown bearer, and the fairy attendants were: Marian Smith, Amy Merrill, Dorothy Ordway, Catherine Redfern, Barbara Goddard, and Olive French.

The May pole dancers were: Phillis Ridett, Frances Boone, Rhoda Chase, Sally Thompson, Ruth Whittaker, Ann Zueblin, Dorothy Lewis, Daphne Parker, Beulah Foss, Dorothy Abbott, Caroline Breen, Melora Davis, Helen Woods, Louise Alexander, Georgianna Waters, Esther Lombard, Thelma Trott, Joan Abbott, Carlene Murphy, Betty Dunn, Elizabeth Levick.

The bearers of the Maypole were:—Max Passano, Eric Coburn, Jack Sanborn, Dean Symmes, Caleb Sanborn.

The little fairy petal throwers were:—Barbara Forbes, Cynthia Poirier, Lucia Thomas, Nancy Wilson, Alice Mitchell, Dorothy Cross.

The following ladies were the committee in charge:—Mrs. Oren Sanborn, Mrs. Joel H. Metcalf, Miss M. Alice Mason, Mrs. F. H. Merrill.

PRIMARY RECOUNT.

The recount of the primary vote was held in this town by the Registrars of Voters on Wednesday night. Contrary to expectations the count was made in remarkably quick time, being completed by ten o'clock. Representatives of the candidates for whom the recount was asked who were present said the work was performed in the quickest and most satisfactory manner of any of the town's they had visited. At Woburn another recount has been asked for. Messrs. William Adriance and F. A. Parshley assisted the Registrars in the count.

The result in Winchester made practically no difference in the vote. Of the Taft delegates 20 ballots were thrown out in the original count owing to nine votes being cast, including Seberlich. Crane and Glines each lost one vote, which left the local result the same. Fay lost two votes and Davis three, giving the latter a net gain of one vote.

GAME TOMORROW.

The Winchester Highlands Athletic Club will meet the Farley Athletic Club of Brookline tomorrow afternoon at three fifteen, at the Highland Athletic Field. Never mind the defeat of last Saturday, but come up and witness the game. It will encourage the boys, and they will play a better game if they see that the supporters are as strong as ever. Take a Reading car to Clematis street, and walk straight down.

PARISH OF THE EPIPHANY.

On Wednesday evening, May 15, at 8 o'clock at the Parish House there will be a reception given to Mr. and Mrs. Dewart by the Parish.

The men of the Parish of the Epiphany will hold a meeting and informal reception to Mr. Dewart, this Friday evening at the Parish House at 7.45.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

Politicians not already familiar with the incident may find food for thought in the information that the first meeting of Ex-President Roosevelt and President Taft occurred when the former was Governor of New York. A neighbor of President Taft, then Judge Taft, gave a dinner party to a few friends, one of whom was a Boston gentleman. During the evening Mr. Roosevelt, who was a guest, showed great interest in Judge Taft, and after the latter had gone home, remarked with a good deal of vim, "That man Taft is a great find. I'll have use for him at some future time." The foregoing is very interesting in connection with some of the things let drop by Winchester admirers of both men during the recent campaign in this Commonwealth.

In regard to long communications, The Spectator recalls that a very young reporter on the New York Sun once complained that the city editor would not give him space enough for his news. Dana heard the complaint, and replied, "The story of the Crucifixion was told in six hundred words." Never did a scribe speak to better purpose. The early idea of the Sacrifice on the Cross being a ransom paid to Satan Anselin's stately view of an infinite debt, the later discussions as to the atonement,—it is not for The Spectator in the columns of the STAR to cover the ground on which Dale and Oxenham have written so well. But the four gospels do not state a doctrine of the atonement; they give the facts. The idle loungers about the hall, the mocking soldiers, the weak governor the curious Herod, the scarlet robe of mockery, the crown of thorns, the cry of Pilate's wife, the craft of the leaders, the yells of the mob, the unpenitent thief and the man who owned his faults, the sorrowing mother, the beloved disciples, and the works from the Cross—all these are vivid realities. As darkness covers the land, as the agony ends in death, as the bones of the thieves are broken, and the unbroken bone fulfils the prophecy, as the Governor grants Joseph's request for the body, as two men inter the mangled corpse and risk lynch law for doing it, the reader feels that the awful facts are grander by a thousand fold than all which divines, poets and musicians have said in comment on them. A secular weekly may speak with reverence as it says that the most amazing reports the world's literature knows are the reports of the tragedy of Calvary. From the dark hour before the dawn to the shades of the evening, all is recorded. Only a few words, and the greatest scene of the ages is set before us in language no historian can equal.

Men here in Winchester and elsewhere outside of fraternalism often give utterance that weekly benefits are simply matters of contract, that they can be collected by legal process, that such matters are at times decided by the courts. This is all true, or rather it is a half truth, and half truths are misleading. On the books of the lodge it appears that Brother A has been laid up for eight weeks and duly received his benefits. That is a fact—the books do not say that A has a sick wife, that his earnings were small, and that a few brothers quietly lent him enough money to keep him in the beneficial list. No lodge books here in Winchester or elsewhere mention that a worthy man out of employment has been kept in good standing. At times such things are done so tactfully and good-humoredly that very few know anything about it. There is no reason for trumpeting such news, but it is worth saying that such things are done. It is not wise to say that there is no sentiment in business for there is a great deal of it that does not appear—as a Hibernian would say, it shows itself by not appearing. The "secret work" of the lodge includes a memorized ritual, and it also includes a great many brotherly actions of which little is ever said. The ancient counsel to let not the left hand know what the right hand doeth is often followed, and many be the proofs that could be furnished by those who know the inner history of fraternalism in many towns —Winchester among them.

Burning sugar in a sick room or in a room infected in any way, has long been one of the fads of some people. The Spectator has heard that physicians ridicule the idea as being worthless, so far as disinfectant purposes are concerned, but he notices that a French scientist has, however, demonstrated recently that burning sugar develops formic acetylene—hydrogen, one of the most powerful antiseptic gases known. Five grams of sugar (77.16 grains) were burned under a glass bell holding 10 quarts. After the vapor had cooled bacilli of typhus, tuberculosis, cholera, smallpox, etc., were placed in the bell in open glass tubes, and within half an hour all the microbes were dead. If sugar is burned in a close vessel containing putrified meats or the contents of rotten eggs the offensive odor disappears at once. The popular faith in the disinfecting qualities of burned sugar appears, therefore, well founded.

On a train upon which The Spectator was a passenger the other day, a bright little eight year old fellow was in a seat with his mother, and was interested looking at passing objects out of the car window. As the train passed pole after pole along the side of the track the lad became more interested, and turning to his mother said: "Ma, where do all those poles go to that have passed us since we started?" The mother explained to him that it was the train, not the poles, that was moving, but the little fellow did not seem at all satisfied with the explanation.

A little five-year-old girl of The Spectator's acquaintance who has begun to go to Sunday School, asked her mother where Adam and Eve got the money to buy their furniture when they went housekeeping. She was informed that they didn't need money—they camped out.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The newspapers of the smaller towns throughout the country are frequently solicited to insert reading advertisements for the Philadelphia School for Nurses, located at 2219 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, and as it poses as a beneficent and charitable institution these advertisements are inserted free of charge.

The Visitor of the Pennsylvania State Board of Charities in a report states: "Nothing to be seen worth reporting. No indication of lessons or instruction. Your visitor cannot commend this institution:" and in a letter says: "This last, places this institution under the head of those we condemn absolutely in our printed report."

It is advisable that the public should know that the young women who enter this school as pupils are sent out after having had the most meagre instruction from incompetent instructors, to nurse in private families for money, eighty per cent of which is returned to the school treasury. They receive no bedside instruction nor are they under the direction of skilled and competent teachers.

The Chief of the Bureau of Health in his report to the Director of Health and Charities of the City of Philadelphia says: "I feel that it is an imposition on the public to allow this class of nurses to practice their profession, as the following circumstances connected with these cases of typhoid fever prove conclusively to my mind that these nurses are not properly trained to be intrusted with the noble work of nursing the sick."

The graduates of this school are not accepted by the American National Red Cross Society, nor the Nursing corps of the Army and Navy; they are not admitted to the Directory for Nurses connected with the College of Physicians, Philadelphia, nor are they recognized by the Pennsylvania State Board of Examiners for Registration of Nurses.

I have given you this information for the reason that poor and ambitious young women, attracted by the advantages set forth in the free advertisements inserted in the newspapers all over the country, with great effort travel long distances to attend this school, in the hope of becoming trained nurses, only to find after entering that they are giving their time and work to an institution which does not educate and equip them for the profession of nursing.

In the interest of these young women of your locality I would ask that you give this statement as much publicity as possible.

Respectfully yours,
William S. Higbee, M.D.
President of the Pennsylvania
State Board of Examiners for Registration of Nurses.

GUEST OF EMPLOYES.

Twenty five years ago, on May 1, 1887, Mr. Sanford F. Petts of Winchester arrived in Boston from Keene, N. H., and started in business in a small and unpretentious way at 237 Friend street. To celebrate its quarter centenary the 60 odd employes of the S. F. Petts Company gathered last Sunday in the green room at the Georgian at a dinner complimentary to Mr. Petts.

After the dinner Mr. Daniel J. Deasy, the toastmaster, presented the guest with a magnificent loving cup in behalf of the employees. After Mr. Petts had responded and related interestingly some of his early trials before achieving success, Mr. Deasy called upon the various heads of departments.

Mr. Edmund O. Thompson responded for the office, Mr. Jas. A. Williams for the rectifying department, Mr. Earl O. Barney for the shipping room, Mr. Frank L. Harmon for the bottling department and Mr. Don I. Petts for the retail store.

A happy feature of the occasion was the presence of Mr. Petts' father, Mr. Ferdinand Petts of Keene, N. H., who with Mr. Sanford F. Petts, jr., and Mr Leo H. Vogel were the only invited guests.

According to a German scientist the commercial value of a man weighing 150 pounds is $7.21 3-4. This is interesting, as it is a larger appraisment than put upon some men. The values are divided as follows: fat $2.06, iron 1-4 cent, sugar 2 1-2 cents, salt 5 S cent, lime 13 cents, phosphorus $2.25, magnesium 94 1-2 cents, sodium 3 3-4 cents, potassium 5 5-16 cents, sulphur 1 9-16 cents, albuminoids $21.3.

The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis declares that a consumptive who exercises sufficient precaution in the disposal of his sputum need not be a menace to any one. The association goes further, however, in saying that when a consumptive refuses to adopt the proper precautions necessary to prevent the spread of his disease, he should be forcibly isolated and segregated in a special hospital provided for that purpose.

The crossing at the centre was blocked by a train of freight cars last Saturday night for about three quarters of an hour. As the train was passing through the center something went wrong and it stopped, blocking all passage from the east to the west side. Electric cars were stalled and foot passers were obliged to climb over the cars or risk crawling beneath them. After over a half-hour wait another freight appeared and pushed the cars just clear of the crossing. It was after eleven-thirty before the train was able to proceed. An alarm of fire at such a time as this would have been a bad thing for the west side, with all the fire apparatus pocketed on the east side of the town. The ten-thirty train from Boston was flagged near the Bacon felt mills on its way out and the crew called Wedgemere passengers starting to leave the cars just as the train started up again, and riding for some distance on the steps and platforms.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The current number of the Union Signal is a Mother's Day number and contains some excellent articles to be used in Union celebrations of the day. May 12. The chosen flower is the white carnation, and there are many people who will pat themselves on the back for remembering their mothers on the day set aside for this. To mothers, however, it seems to be in line with those who keep the Sabbath religious lyand use no religion in the other six days. A special day if one likes, but not at the expense of the other days of the year. The every day variety of affection is the most valuable, after all.

The great woman suffrage parade in New York last Sunday was noteworthy in the character of the women who marched and many leaders of the white ribbon host were conspicuous. Temperance workers know that the franchise is the lever that will move the mountain of opposition to temperance reform.

The Anti Saloon League is kept busy compelling people to keep hands off the "Bar and Bottle Bill." It has been tried for a year and its results have been quite as bad from the liquor sellers standpoint as they feared they would be, so they have sought to bring about its repeal although so far in vain. It is a step in advance although by no means a long one, but advance is not retrogression.

The new headquarters of the State W. C. T. U. is not as much frequented as the former very central rooms. But the work goes forward as actively as ever. The state president was chosen a delegate to the Methodist quadriennial conference and is now in Minneapolis.

Vacuum Cleaning

HAVE you ever used the Vacuum Process? If not, kindly allow us to convince you of what REAL Vacuum Cleaning is. It may seem strange to you but the operating of a Vacuum Cleaner is a SCIENCE, not labor. Our system and methods are so DIFFERENT from the ORDINARY manner in which the PUBLIC have been educated to apply the Vacuum Process, that it requires even a so-called experienced operator to study OUR METHODS for from three (3) days to two (2) weeks before he is capable of serving our patrons and rendering them the REAL "Colgate Service."

NOTE:—Within the past year our business has increased to such an extent that we have made BOSTON our center and any of your friends within 15 miles of Boston can now receive the same service that you may be receiving. We trust that every Modern Housewife will allow us to demonstrate, to her, what REAL VACUUM CLEANING is.

SANTA MARIA COURT HOLDS MAY PARTY.

The first annual May party and dance of the Santa Maria Court of the Winchester Daughter's of Isabella was held last Friday afternoon and evening in the Town Hall. The affair was unusually successful, large numbers being present in the afternoon, which was devoted to the children and in the evening, when the grown-ups held sway. All the numbers on the program were run off with a smoothness and precision characteristic of the popular club of ladies, and the audience showed its appreciation with numerous interruptions of applause.

The fancy dances were nicely executed and showed patience and painstaking care in instruction and coaching, and reflected considerable credit to the little dancers and the young ladies who coached them.

The afternoon program consisted of two Maypole dances, Folk dancing, Spanish waltz, Butterfly dance, Barn dance and Minuet by the small children. The evening program consisted of Scotch Reel, Sailor's Hornpipe, Dill Pickle dance, Sword dance, Irish Jig, Irish Lilt, Jim O'Long Josey, Buck and Wing and Grecian solo dance.

All the numbers were highly interesting, and very much appreciated. The Grecian solo dance by Miss Norma Benet was excellent, her interpretation of the Greek art being perfect, and she was loudly applauded.

About 75 couples enjoyed dancing, after the concert until one o'clock, music being furnished by Hern's Tremont orchestra. Many beautiful costumes were worn at the dance, which harmonized perfectly with the beautiful and elaborate decorations of Rambler roses.

The affair was directly in charge of the Entertainment and Charitable committees, and the proceeds will be donated to the Winchester Town hospital. The entertainment committee consisted of Mrs. Frances Sullivan, chairman; Mrs. John F. O'Connor, Misses May Foley, May O'Leary, Gertrude Cahalin. The Charitable committee consisted of Mrs. Minnie Noonan, chairman; Miss Annie Foley, Mrs. Elizabeth Flaherty, Mrs. Katherine O'Loughlin and Miss Mae Harrold.

Miss Adeline Tipple, physical instructor of schools of Winchester, assisted by a number of children from Boston had direct supervision of the fancy dancing numbers, and to her goes considerable credit for the success of the numbers. No little credit is reflected on Miss Elizabeth B. Naven, who instructed the Folk dancers, and to Miss Norma Benet, who coached the fancy dancers.

The officers of the dance were: Floor marshal, Mrs. Frances Sullivan; floor director, Mrs. Minnie Noonan; aids, Miss May Harold, Miss May Foley, Miss Annie Foley, Miss Gertrude Cahalin, Miss May O'Leary.

MICHELIN QUICK DETACHABLE CLINCHER TIRE.

Tire fitting is not always the easy task motorists could wish, but the Michelin Tire Company has minimized the difficulty with the introduction of its 1912 Quick Detachable Clincher. An important advantage of this tire is that it is very easy to put on any Quick Detachable rim. It eliminates the necessity for laborious fitting. It simply drops on the rim without forcing and without the use of tools.

Another feature is the elimination of the inside envelope flap or tube protector, which has usually been considered a necessary evil. The absence of protectors simplifies the fitting of inner tubes, reducing the danger of punching, as well as the labor formerly involved when protectors were necessary.

The Michelin Quick Detachable Clincher is shaped full and round. The tread is broad and flat. The side walls are properly proportioned to assure maximum durability without sacrificing resiliency.

It is believed by the Michelin Company that car owners will appreciate a tire of advanced design that at once removes several of the old vexations of motoring.

AN UNFORTUNATE.

Aleck Calivous, the Greek who lost his left hand in an embossing machine at the Beggs and Cobb tannery, is a most unfortunate man and his misfortunes have happened mostly during his career as a leather man. The machine in which he lost his hand was also the cause of his right hand being mangled some time ago and it is now crippled so that it will never be any use to him, leaving him without the use of either of his arms.

To make his burden harder to bear and his misfortunes to rest more heavily upon him, comes the fact that his wife gave birth to a child. He is still at the Winchester Hospital. The machine works similarly to a press, descending with great force on the leather and making an imprint as of alligator and some similar fancy grade.

BOAT CLUB COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

President Charles A. Gleason of the Winchester Boat Club has made the following appointments for the current year:

House Committee—Preston E. Corey, chairman; Fred M. Bates, Philip Sher dan.

Entertainment Committee—Fred M. Bates, chairman; E. Russell Murphy, Charles S. Tenney, Dwight Cabot

Regatta Committee—Frank H. Gerlach, captain; Marshall K. Berry, lieutenant; Ernest V. Evans.

Finance Committee—Charles A. Gleason, Chairman; Vincent Farnsworth, Dexter P. Blaikie, George B. Smith.

MERGER OF ICE COMPANIES.

A merger involving three of the largest ice companies in Woburn has been practically completed, final arrangements to be made by May 15, by which the monopoly of the ice trade of Woburn and Winchester will be in the hands of a consolidation to be known as the Woburn-Winchester Ice Company. The big deal will mean the decline of the two oldest companies, viz., F. C. Nichols and Brown & Gifford. The other company is the recently organized Hopper Ice Company, a company with a large plant and artificial pond in Shaker Glen on Lexington street.

Promoters of the new company are, mainly, three former division superintendents of the Boston Ice Company. Brown and Gifford have sold their claim outright, thus disposing of their interests in a business which they have carried on successfully for over a dozen years. The Nichols Ice Company has not wholly relinquished its claim, but will continue as member of the new firm, although Mr. Nichols himself will not take an active part in the management of the business. The Hopper Ice Company will continue to do business, although under the name of the new firm, and in all probability Mr. Hopper will have general charge of the business in this district.

The price of ice will not differ under the new firm from the prices under the former dealers, and if possible, the service will be improved. The Spring Water Ice Co., under the management of Mr. R. B. Wyman is not a party to the new deal.

GOVERNMENT WASTE.

Few better examples of the government's waste and lack of business judgement are seen than in connection with the Boston custom house. It has been over two years and a half since work was begun on remodelling the old custom house, a fine-looking old structure which it was proposed to spoil by running an Ames building through its roof. The work is by no means half-done. Yet all this time and until the gigantic folly is completed the government is renting at $90,000 a year one of the most valuable retail locations in Boston, on Tremont street. Had this matter been handled by a private concern a new custom house would have been erected on a suitable site and the old one used until it was completed. After that the old structure could be used for many of the departments for which the federal government now hires property. Such a plan would have preserved the old structure which is one of Boston's most famous land marks. No way could be found more costly than that now adopted. It is a colossal blunder and one which it will be hard to surpass in impracticability.—[Melrose News.

TREMONT THEATRE.

Last Monday night at the Tremont Theatre the return of "The Spring Maid" with the dainty star Christie MacDonald was greeted with a large and enthusiastic audience. Werba & Luescher have left the original cast intract and in the strong supporting company are Tom McNaughton, the English comedian who made an instantaneous hit, Thomas Conkey, the dashing Prince Aladar, whom Christie MacDonald, as Princess Bozena, leads such a merry chase, Ben Hendricks, Ann Tasker, and Charles H. Hart, and all were most heartily applauded.

With music that clings to the lips, such numbers as the haunting waltz song, "Day Dreams" "Two Little Love Bees," "Fountain Fay," and "How I Love a Pretty Face," were encored over and over and the audience could not seem to get enough of them.

The story of "The Spring Maid" tells of the flirtatious love affair of the saucy Princess Bozena (Christie MacDonald) and Prince Aladar, a Hungarian nobleman, in which she disguises herself as a spring girl, wins his love, casts it aside to punish him, only to yield later to the dictates of her heart and marry him, is one of the prettiest and danitiest bits of stage romance seen in recent years.

There will be the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

The locomotive engineers on fifty railroads east of Chicago and north of the Norfolk & Western Railway on January 22nd, 1912, presented request for wage increases amounting to 18.63 per cent. per annum. On March 14th and 15th, Mr. Stone presented the case of the engineers, saying in effect that the wage increases asked by the engineers were sought, not because of the increased cost of living, but because of what he termed the increased responsibility placed on the men. If the request is granted the total wage increase will amount to $7,553,792.74, and the managers of the railroads say that to accede to the demand would force many of the railroads into bankruptcy. In reply to Mr. Stone they say: "In view therefore of the fact that the present rates of wages are as a rule full and liberal, and the railroads are financially unable to bear the increased expense involved, it is evidently impossible to grant the requests which you have submitted." The railroads of New England are included in the demand. Mr. Stone says that the way to overcome the increase is to raise freight rates.

Despite the fact that it is now a quarter of a century since Arbor day was established in Massachusetts, the custom of planting a tree on that day is not as general as it should be. How many Winchester citizens observed Arbor day? There should be more determined attempts to beautify our streets by the setting out of shade trees and by the restoration of old trees. And this leads the Stoneham Independent to say that there can be no "town beautiful" without a plentiful supply of beautiful trees.

In the hands of the Selectmen, the grade crossing abolition matter is moving along radidly. At the first session of the Board after the town meeting the initial steps were taken to carry out the vote of the town and considerable progress has been made. This evening the property owners will meet the Board at the Selectmen's room to arrive at some basis of understanding as to what the former will agree to do. This is the most important phase of the whole question, for on the outcome of this meeting depends a great deal. The Selectmen are to be commended for the energetic manner in which they are pushing the question along.

WINCHESTER'S FIRST.

Winchester A. A. opened its season on Manchester Field last Saturday afternoon by a game with Gillettes. It was a raw, cold afternoon and the players and spectators were unable to warm up to the game, consequently there was a certain amount of looseness due to this and to the fact that the nines were not in prime condition because of the lack of practice. Winchester, however, easily defeated their opponents by the score of 9 to 3. In the second inning Winchester got four runs, two in the third, two in the seventh and one in the eighth. The indications were that Winchester will play through the season in as fine form as last year

STILL AFTER THE JOBS.

J. A. Laraway & Co are heating and plumbing the three fine residences for Capt. P. A. Nickerson, Sheffield West Laraway, the plumber, has just completed a fine new bath-room in Mr. James Corey's residence, Parkway.

J. A. Laraway & Co. are installing a very attractive bathroom in a residence for Mr. Edwn Ginn at 38 Rangeley.

J. A Laraway & Co. have the contract for installing the new plumbing fixtures, and a complete hot water system, in the residence for Mr. German Tucker, No. 106 Brooks street, Medford, Mass.

When the Edison house was erected in Winchester, they gave the plumbing to the old reliable firm by the Aberjona. When they moved it to Newton, Laraway was again called on to dissemble and reassemble. Now the same firm are playing checkers with the plumbing and the move is from Newton to South Framingham. Where is the next?

J. A. Laraway & Co. have the contracts for the plumbing in houses, 95 Swanton street, Winchester, and also in Mr. Wm. Kelley's two family house, 21 Swanton street, Winchester.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The public has taken to "Seven Days," and consequently John Craig announces it for a second and positively last week at the Castle Square beginning next Monday. There is no doubt of its persistent humor. Audience has laughed at it during the past week, and still there is a greater and greater demand to see it. The playgoers who enjoys it once are certain to want to see it and its hilarious scenes again. For three acts "Seven Days" continues its series of unbroken comic events. All of its scenes are filled to overflowing with humor and wholesome comicality, and the critic who said that "Seven Days" is the funniest farce ever written was not far from the mark.

They are all real characters in "Seven Days," and they are all acted at the Castle Square as if they were real people. During the coming week, the cast will be unchanged, with John Craig, George Hassell, Donald Meek, Mabel Colcord and Mary Young in the leading roles.

MIXED BOWLING TOURNAMENT

With the mixed bowling tournament at the Calumet club closing next Tuesday night several changes have been made in the standing of the leading teams. Team 2, from occupying first place, has dropped into third position; team 6, by making three straight wins, now occupies first place, although team 10 has a chance to tie it by winning its next two matches. The latter team lost its chance to hold first place alone by dropping two points to team 7. Team 5 is also in the race, with a good opportunity to capture third place.

Some good scores were rolled by the ladies during the week The high single string was raised to 110 flat by Mrs. W. C. Brown, and her total of 188 is high for total with handicap. Mrs. Hindes has a better total for flat rolling with 189, and also rolled a fine single with 100. Mrs. Flanders also rolled a fine single and total on Tuesday night with 91 and 172.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

street, for a common victualler's license;

Charles Snodgrass, Coleman Flaherty Wm. F. Hargrove and John H. Carpenger for hackney carriage licenses;

T. J. Campbell, 14 Winchester Place, for an intelligence office license; and the same were granted.

The Board of Fire Engineers reported that they had elected David H. DeCourcey, Chief and Addison R. Pike, Clerk.

The Board received from the Superintendent of Streets separation of pay-roll for week ending May 4th, $432.81, and Mr. Pond for the Committee on Highways asked that the other members of the Board visit the West Side streets recently put in order by the Superintendent and note the good work accomplished on the same.

The bond of Miss Mabel W. Stinson as Deputy Tax Collector with the Massachusetts Bonding & Insurance Co., as surety in the sum of $10,000 was received and approved.

Mr. Belcher for the Committee on Town Hall reported that he had received some estimates for the repairs to the Police Station but that the contract was not yet ready to be awarded.

The Committee on Town Hall was authorized to have a door put in the vault in the Clerk's Office for the use of the Auditor.

Mr. Daly reported that the drinking fountain at the Center is out of order. Referred to Mr Belcher for the attention of the Water Board.

Mr. Pond for the Committee on Highways reported that he had been in correspondence with the Bay State Street Railway Co., in regard to re-laying their tracks on Church and Main Streets; that the Company had not felt that they could do this work this year but that on the representation of the Superintendent of Streets concerning the safety of the tracks, he had felt obliged to insist upon some prompt action by the Railway Company, and that they had promised a conference on the subject.

Mr. Jewett reported for the Committee on Highways, that the space between the tracks on Church street had been oiled.

An application for a license for an intelligence office at 360 Washington street was received from C. M. Kenneally with fee of $2. and referred to Chief of Police.

The Chief of Police submitted his report for April, showing 59 arrests, of which 29 were for offenses against the automobile laws. Fines imposed $342.

Also report of defective street lights for the month, arc lights 4 hours, incandescents 38 1-2 hours April 17th, all lights on the west side circuit were out two hours.

Also a supplemental report of work done by the police department during the month in response to requests by citizens and town officials, and in regard to enforcement of liquor laws, etc., and the Clerk was instructed to acknowledge receipt of the same and to compliment the Chief in behalf of the Board upon the excellence of his report.

A letter was received from the Town Clerk, asking permission to purchase a filing cabinet and other furniture required for his office; and was referred to the Town Hall Committee.

Mr. Pike reported with a form of permit for transportation of liquors and the same was adopted by the Board for issue to the Kelley & Hawes Co.

Mr. Pike also presented new forms for auctioneer's licenses and reported that he had in preparation the forms for other licenses required for issuance by the town.

Mr. Pike also called attention to the value of a book published by Louis Epple, Secretary of the Licensing Board of the City of Boston, and the Clerk was instructed to purchase two copies of the same for the use of the Board and for the Town Clerk.

A statement of the monthly balance of the different Town appropriations was received from the Auditor.

Voted:—That Mr. Jewett represent the Board of Selectmen on the Committee of the Town Boards to consider the Town vote in regard to a minimum wage for the town laborers.

A letter was received from Flavel Shurtleff, Secretary, National Conference on City Planning, inviting a delegation from Winchester to attend the fourth session of the conference to be held at Boston, May 27th to 29th, and Mr. Pond was appointed such delegate to represent the Town of Winchester.

The Town Engineer reported on the application of George C. Ogden for four electric lights, two on Edgehill road and two on Ridgefield road, and his report was referred to the Committee on Highways.

Mr. Wingate called the attention of the Board to the vacant land at the westerly corner of the Parkway and Bacon street, stating that some person is making a practice of dumping ashes and refuse there, making the lot unsightly and out of keeping with the surrounding property. Referred to the Chief of Police.

Town Engineer reported recommendations concerning street lights on Salisbury road, Calumet road, at the corner of Parkway and Bacon streets, and the same was referred to the Committee on Highways.

The Town Engineer called attention to unsuitable electric light fixtures on a portion of the street lights and the matter was referred to the Committee on Highways.

Warrants were drawn for $4565.82 and $1343.88

Adjourned at 11.05 to meet on Tuesday evening, May 7th, 1912, at 8 o'clock.

Frank R. Miller,
Clerk of the Board

The Board will open their session to the public each meeting night at 8 to 8.30 to hear any citizens who may desire to present matters in person.

Joint Session May 6.

The members of the Board of Health, Water and Sewer Board, Cemetery Commissioners, Tree Warden, Superintendent of Streets, and the Board of Selectmen, met this date at 7.10 p. m., and organized with W. M. Belcher as chairman and Frank R. Miller as clerk, pursuant to invitation from the Board of Selectmen, as voted by that Board April 29, 1912, to consider the vote of the town passed at the adjourned session of the March town meeting held April 22, 1912, as follows:

Voted:—That it is the sense of this meeting that the Town of Winchester establish as a minimum wage for the laboring men in the employ of the town, $2.25 per day, beginning April 22nd, 1912, and a half holiday on Saturday without loss of pay from June 1st, until Labor Day of each year.

After discussion it was Voted:—It is the sense of this meeting of the joint Boards that the vote of the town passed at its meeting April 22nd, relative to a minimum wage of $2.25 per day with a half holiday on Saturday without loss of pay from June 1st, until Labor Day of each year, cannot be put into effect with the present appropriation; that a minimum wage does not appear to be feasible for all classes of Town Employees and the whole matter should be brought again before the town.

It was further voted:—That a Commitee consisting of one member from each Town Board, canvass the situation and ascertain the effect of the vote passed at the Town Meeting April 22nd, relative to the minimum wage upon the appropriation of the different departments, and report their findings, together with a plan stating the position of the Boards to a Town Meeting to be held in June.

Voted:—That the member of the joint committee appointed by each Department, notify the clerk of joint board of his appointment and upon receipt of such notice the clerk shall call a meeting of the committee.

Voted:—That when this meeting adjourns it adjourn subject to the call of the Chairman of the Joint Board.

Adjourned at 8.10 p. m.

Frank R. Miller,
Clerk of the Joint Board.

Adjourned Meeting, May 7, 1912.

The Board met at 8 p. m., Selectman Belcher absent.

Mr. Charles F. Dutch, Town Counsel reported that he had had a conference with the Chairman of the Special Commission on the grade crossing abolition and that he was greatly interested in the votes of the Town Meeting and was quite sure that the Commission would grant a request for the re-opening of the case before it for the presentation of these votes and such other evidence as might be offered including the changes in property due to the so-called Whitney purchase and the growth, nature and character of the Town, and in fact had suggested an early date for a hearing.

A course of procedure was discussed for carrying out the vote of the Town passed at the adjourned session of the annual meeting of March 4, 1912, held April 29, 1912, for the abolition of the grade crossing at the center of the town.

Mr. Dutch also outlined a plan of procedure, which was fully discussed; it appeared that prompt action was necessary to protect the interests of the property owners at the centre, and it was voted to call a meeting of such property holders at the small Town Hall, Friday evening, May 10th at 7.45 p. m.

Adjourned at 10 p. m.

Frank R. Miller,
Clerk of the Board.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

Frances Starr has added to her glory as an actress and David Belasco to his fame as a producer by the new Edward Locke play, "The Case of Becky," which will open its last week at the Hollis Monday night, May 13. Mr. Belasco has certainly found a play different from anything he has produced, and Miss Starr a role that few actresses would dare attempt.

As Dorothy, Miss Starr is lovable, intellectual, refined, pure-minded and good, in her other personalty, which is the Becky principal in her, she is cunning, mischievous and vicious, hating Dorothy with an intense hatred, always playing tricks upon her,—in short, doing all she can to humiliate and hurt her. The play is one of great power. There are times when every man and woman in the audience longs for an opportunity to choke Belzamo, the hypnotist; other times when the emotions are overwhelmed by the seemingly utter hopelessness of Dorothy's situation, under the baneful influence of her foster father.

Mr. Belasco has seen to it that Miss Starr has distinguished support in Charles Dalton, Albert Bruning, Mary Lawton, Hugh Dillman, Harry C. Browne and John P. Brawn. The final matinees will be played on Wednesday and Saturday.

NOTICE

On and after May 1st, 1912, The Master Plumbers will close their places of business on Saturdays at one p. m. and charge one and one-half time for Saturday p. m. and overtime, owing to a demand made by the Journeymen for a 44 hour week which means 8 hours per day for 5 days and 4 hours for Saturday, which makes it necessary to increase the price of labor.

HOME FOR AGED PEOPLE.

Because of the rain of Monday night, the annual meeting of the corporation of the Home for Aged People has been adjourned to Tuesday next, the 14th, at 7.30 p. m. in the small Town Hall.

Mrs. Weld's Sunday School class of young ladies were entertained at the home of Miss Frances S. MacRae, 15 Vine street on the evening of Friday, May 3rd. The affair took the form of a May party and each young lady invited a gentleman, Miss Ethel Richardson was in charge of the evenings festivities which consisted of making romance books, and May baskets made by the young men on the spot. Mr. Leslie Johnston rendered a number of vocal selections after which the whole company joined in chorus singing. After light refreshments had been served the ten couples took their leave of their hostess and Mrs. Weld and all agreed that the evening was one long to be remembered by the young ladies class of the Baptist Church.

PROGRESS OF SAVINGS BANK INSURANCE.

During the last few month savings bank life insurance has shown a most encouraging advance, not only in the number and value of policies in force, but, also in the amount of business done over the counter.

When the trustees of the Savings Insurance Guaranty Fund made their last report the amount of insurance in force had not quite reached the $2,000,000 mark, but since that time it has increased to an amount exceeding $2,200,000 mark, and steady progress is shown from week to week. The net gain during the week ending March 30, 1912, amounted to 59 policies and over $25,000 insurance.

Perhaps the most hopeful feature of the last few months is the great increase in over the counter business since January first of the present year. During the year 1911, over the counter business amounted to about 10 per cent of all the policies issued, but since the first of 1912 it has been much greater than 10 per cent, and in some months has reached very nearly 20 per cent of all the business issued.

The extension of savings bank insurance in mutual benefit associations for employes has also resulted in a great deal of business. In the benefit associations which have taken up the savings insurance scheme the amounts of the benefits are provided for by savings bank insurance polices, and the members of the association pay the premiums on these policies instead of paying into a fund of the association.

It would seem, therefore, that gradually the expectations of the founders of savings bank insurance are being realized, and that in time it will be possible to build up an insurance business for the savings banks in which they will do all their business directly over the counter without instructors, or any other agents employed for the purpose of getting business.—Chamber of Commerce News.

SAYS EVERY ONE GOES TO HELL.

Well-Known Bible Student Has Original Ideas.

Alfred I. Ritchie, a Bible Student of wide reputation in the United States and Canada, declares that everyone goes to Hell. Mr. Ritchie has some interpretations on the Bible that appear sensational and along a new line. In an interview he gave out some interesting information regarding various prominent Bible subjects that require more than ordinary consideration to obtain their full meaning.

"I have a new cure for infidelity," declared Mr. Ritchie. "To prescribe the remedy we must find the cause, which I believe is the inability of the people to understand how a God of all Love and Wisdom and Justice, and having all Power, could permit present conditions and conduct human affairs as proclaimed by the dominant creeds of Christendom Unbelievers choke at the idea of the great Creator providing an eternity of any kind of torture for His own creatures, especially if He was gifted with the foreknowledge that most of the human family go there, and that He had all Wisdom to plan otherwise, and all Power to do as He pleased. Truly the religous teaching on this line is a foe to reason and the mother of doubt.

The Bible Glorifies God.

The Bible, taken as a whole, presents no such idea of our blessed Heavenly Father, but praises, glorifies and exalts His holy character. And so, when understood, it will be as natural for average human beings to emulate, love and praise God as it has been in all human history for them to worship as leaders and heroes those who have shown greatness of character, either in power or wisdom or benevolence. When rightly shown the character of our God will compel the admiration and loyalty of the masses infinitely more than the character of a Caesar, or Napoleon, or an Edison, or a Bryan, or a Roosevelt. What is the reason that the character of God is so little reverenced, that the Holy Name of Himself and of the Saviour are made the commonest "cuss" words? We answer that it is because His character is blasphemed by the erroneous "Hell" teaching of deceived Christianity

Well did Pastor Russell, of the Brooklyn, N. Y., Tabernacle say, "If the Bible does teach that eternal torture is the fate of all except the saints, it should be preached, yea, thundered, weekly, daily, hourly! If it does not so teach, the fact should be made known, and the foul stain dishonoring God's Holy Name removed!" I understand a free copy of his pamphlet, "Food for Thinking Christians," which examines every mention of Hell in the Bible, can be had by addressing him.

Everybody goes to Hell Why? Because Hell is the grave, or death condition, to which good and bad alike go to remain until the blessed time of resurrection, judgment, and restoration to perfection of all the obedient. The Hebrew word sheol is positively the only "hell" word in the Old Testament. Its Hebrew definition is the unseen state, or the place of the dead. It occurs sixty five times, and nowhere is the word fire associated with it.

No Work in Sheol.

"Solomon said, There is no work, nor device, nor knowledge in sheol," and he adds, "whither thou goest." Why? Because all in Hell are dead. Referring to the resurrection, the Revelator says "Death and Hell (marginal reference reads "or the grave") delivered up the dead (not the living) which were in them."

Sheol is translated twenty nine times as "Hell," three times as "pit," and thirty-three times as "grave." In the revised version, "sheol" is translated as "hell" only about twenty times out of the sixty-five times, and its Greek equivalent, "hades" occurring eleven times in the New Testament, is not translated as "hell" at all, but is left untranslated, because the Bible revisers knew it did not mean eternal torment.

Only sixteen out of the sixty-six Bible books use the word "hell," in the English translation. St. Paul wrote fourteen books of the New Testament, but never mentioned "hell fire." John never mentioned it in his Gospel, nor in his three Epistles; nor did Peter in his two Epistles, nor did Ruth, Erza, Nehemiah, Esther, Jeremiah, Daniel, Hosea, Joel, Obadiah, Micah, Nahum, Zephanah, Haggai, Zechariah or Malachi. Strange that all these holy Apostles and Prophets did not harp upon the danger of falling into that "lake of fire" which is supposed to be the doom of billions of humanity!

No wonder that men turn away in disgust, full of fear and doubt! No wonder that church pews are empty and no one seems to care! No wonder that hundreds of thousands are infidels, or are fast becoming such! The sure cure, the only cure, is to get a knowledge of God's true character, for to know Him is to love Him. With present day Bibles, Bible Helps, Concordances, Bible Dictionaries, and Studies in the Scriptures, no one need be in the dark.

HONEST ADVERTISING WINS.

Advertising in Massachusetts is to be synonymous with truthful statement of fact. A bill has been signed by the Governor which makes it illegal for anyone to knowingly advertise in the Commonwealth untrue or misleading statements, in regard to quantity, quality, method of production or manufacture, cost of production, cost to the advertiser, the present or former price, the reason for the price of the merchandise advertised, or the manner or source of purchase of such merchandise, the penalty attaching to infringment of the law being a fine of not less than ten nor more than five hundred dollars for each offense. This measure embodies the recommendations made in the bill drafted by the Chamber of Commerce two months ago.

The Retail Trade Board has been indefatigable in its efforts to obtain legislation that will make fraudulent advertising of merchandise illegal in the State, and the passage of the present Act is in large share due to the energy and activity of the Board.

The new law should eliminate the unfair competition of unscrupulous advertisers and increase the value of legitimate advertising to the honest merchants who are spending many thousands of dollars annually to call attention to their goods.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE.

In every part of the world a strong movement is setting toward the enfranchisement of women. Women are the main front of this movement, but men are rapidly joining them in their efforts. The universality of the movement is amazing. From France comes the report that the names of eighty new members of Parliament have been added to those who are pledged to support the Woman Suffrage bill. In Edinburgh, Scotland, a meeting presided over by Rev. R. J. Drummond was held at which a Scottish Church League for woman suffrage was formed, to be denominationally free, to work on religious, educational and non-party lines. The Reform Club of Hungary formed for the purpose of promoting a universal manhood suffrage measure, has begun to discuss the advisability of including Woman Suffrage in the plan—a most logical proceeding. In Egypt, a committee of women was recently formed for the "defence of woman's interests, political, educational and social." The whole question of women and education is advancing in Egypt, and those associated with the movement are described as high-spirited and eager.

A Woman Suffrage Congress has just been held in Vienna, Austria, at which resolutions were passed protesting against the exclusion of women from the political, legislative life of the state and asking for a woman suffrage bill. The Holland Woman Suffrage Association reports an astonishing increase of members during the past few weeks. Miss Anna Rogstadt has been elected member of the Norwegian Parliament. She has been a teacher in the public schools of Christiana for thirty four years, was a member of the City Council for a number of years, was one of the founders of the Norwegian woman suffrage association, and is a director in Norway's National Council of Women. There are such women in the U. S, but they cannot even vote!

The Editor's Association in Kansas, in Convention at Lawrence, last week, enthusiastically endorsed the Woman Suffrage amendment. The Kansas Federation of Labor, the State Grange—the Teachers Association, the M. E. Conference, the Interstate Literary Association of colored people, the W. C. T. U., and the Federation of Woman's Clubs have all gone on record as favoring Woman Suffrage. Kansas has had municipal Suffrage for many years, so suffrage is no experiment there only an extension is asked. Wisconsin Suffragists are sending out literature translated to Polish, Norwegian, Swedish, German, Spanish, Portugese and Yiddish, in order to secure the attention of all classes of voters.

Michigan women who are in the midst of an earnest campaign for equal suffrage are finding a strong ally in the Grange, the most powerful organization in the state. The Grand Rapids, Mich. Herald says:—"When women have the right of universal suffrage, there will be a new community of interest in the home, and will be a good thing for all the members of the home. The responsibility of voting is not going to direct feminine attention from home duties. It is to accentuate woman's place in the home by giving her a place in its protection. Michigan's splendid women are entitled to the ballot?

So individuals, organizations, states and counties are gradually falling into line, and as fast as the thing is accomplished, it immediately becomes as though it had always been, and women assume their responsibilities and new duties with earnestness and intelligence, as has so recently been seen in California. May the good time come still more rapidly!

M. E. A.

ADVERTISE THE CHURCH.

It has been demonstrated, by canvass and observation, that religious people form two-thirds of the community, everywhere.

How can we impress the people with the character of our work? Like the man "from Missouri" they must be shown. We cannot impress them unless we can reach them, and we cannot reach them through the usual and ordinary channels of information.

The greatest channel of information is the press—but if we wait for the press to give us the facts of religious progress—the process will be a long one and the waiting time will be prolonged.

Very little is said, comparatively, about religious matters by the secular press. We can find the latest "news" about the "Braves," the "Red Sox," "The White Man's Hope" or the "Hat in the Ring."

We can run through two or three columns of "story" to find whether our dog has taken a prize at the bench show—but if the people want to know what is going on in the churches they must seek other sources of information.

Results? Of course there are results. Last Sunday all the seats were taken and extra chairs were needed. Several people said, "We read about this in the paper that came to us. We are glad to know about this. We want to come again."

Our pastor says it is the greatest single help he has ever had in his ministry. He gives his message to a larger audience every week than ever before, both in and out of the church, and scores of people know about us and ours—as they have never known.

It is a good investment, and from the returns we know that socially, financially and spiritually it pays to advertise.—[Episcopal Church Herald.

WHEREAS, at a meeting of the County Commissioners for said County, at Cambridge on the first Tuesday of January, A. D., 1912.

On the petition of certain inhabitants of the Town of Winchester in said County, praying for alterations of Pond Street in said Town, after a view and hearing said Commissioners are of the opinion that the existing highway can be so far amended as to supersede the necessity of alterations.

Said Commissioners therefore give notice that they will meet at the Commissioners Office in the Court House, East Cambridge, on Saturday, the twenty-fifth day of May, A. D., 1912, at ten of the clock in the forenoon, to direct specific repairs on said street.

ASSESSORS' NOTICE

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 41, of Part 1 of Chapter 490 of the Acts of 1909, all persons, firms and corporations, domestic or foreign, subject to taxation in the Town of Winchester are hereby notified and required to bring in to the Assessors of said Town of Winchester, on or before the

in case of residents, true lists of all their polls and personal estates (not exempt by law from taxation,) of which they were possessed on the first day of April in the current year, and in case of non-residents and foreign corporations, true lists of all their personal estates, in said Town of Winchester (not exempt from taxation) which lists must be verified by oath as required by Section 43 of said Part 1.

Under the provisions of Section 42 of said Part 1, as amended by Chapter 515, Acts of 1909, the above-mentioned lists must be in form prescribed by the Tax Commissioner of the Commonwealth. These blank forms may be had at the Assessor's office, or will be mailed to any address upon application.

Section 45 of Part 1 of Chapter 490, Acts of 1909, A mortgagor or mortgagee of real estate may bring into the Assessors of the city or town in which it lies, within the time prescribed by the notice under section forty-one, a statement under oath of the amount secured thereon or on each separate parcel thereof, with the name and residence of every holder of an interest therein as mortgagor or mortgagee. If such property is situated in two or more places, or if a recorded mortgage includes two or more estates or parts of an estate as security for one sum, such statement shall include an estimate of the interest of the mortgagee in each estate or part of an estate. The Assessors shall, from such statement or otherwise, ascertain the proportionate interests of the mortgagor or mortgagee, respectively, in said estates, and shall assess the same accordingly. If, in any year, such statement is not brought in, the tax for that year on such real estate shall not be invalid merely for the reason that the interest of the mortgagee therein has not been assessed to him.

In accordance with Section 41 aforesaid, all persons and corporations are hereby required to bring into the Assessors, on or before the 20th day of May next, true lists of all real and personal estate held by such persons and corporations, respectively, for literary, temperance, benevolent, charitable, or scientific purposes on the first day of April, in the current year, together with statements of the amounts of all receipts and expenditures for said purposes during the year next preceding said first day of April; such lists and statements to be in accordance with blanks furnished by the Tax Commissioner.

BOSTON THEATRE.

Everybody is talking about the wonderful success of Julian Eltinge in "The Fascinating Widow" at the Boston Theatre. The name of Eltinge is a household word in this city, where the famous young actor was born and reared until he went forth to claim the attention of the theatre-going world. He returned crowned with his well earned success to the Boston Theatre and his welcome must have made his heart beat the quicker, for the reception accorded him proved the undeniable and marvelous hold he maintains on the affections of his admirers in this city. We cannot praise the artistic accomplishments of this young man too highly. All the flattering things which could be said of his wonderful impersonations of the feminine sex would require columns of space. It suffices to know that he stands supreme and unrivalled in this line of endeavor. The supporting cast is remarkably good and too much cannot be said of the excellent efforts of Winona Winter, Edward Garvie, James Spottswood, Carrie Perkins, James Sullivan, Gilbert Douglas, June Mathis and Louise Orth.

Out of town patrons shoud not fail to send in their orders for seats at the earliest possible moment for the approach of summer and the warm weather will end Mr. Eltinge's appearance at the Boston Theatre on short notice. The Wednesday and Saturday matinees, with 500 good orchestra seats at $1 are especially suited for amusement seekers unable to attend the evening performances.

COLONIAL THEATRE.

At the Colonial Theatre next week opening May 13th, Mr. Geo. M. Cohan will present himself and his own company in the great revival of his music play, "45 Minutes from Broadway" in which the famous author-actor-playwright-composer and producer will be seen in the role of "Kid" Burns.

Mr. Cohan's Kid Burns comes nearer, it is said, to a stage realization of the genuine Bowery type than has heretofore been visualized.

Mr. Cohan believes in never doing things by halves. Therefore, when he presents himself it will be with a surrounding that includes his entire company, production and scenery, as well as the orchestra from his own theatre.

Of almost equal importance as Mr. Cohan's appearance in this revival is that of Miss Sallie Fisher, who has created a sensation by her conception of the part of Mary.

"45 Minutes from Broadway" will be seen at the Colonial exactly as it was presented at the Geo. M. Cohan Theatre in New York.

It is safe to predict that there will be sufficient people take advantage of it to fill the theatre to the capacity point at every performance during his Colonial engagement which includes Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

Zelda Sears, the late star of "The Nest Egg," Harriet Burt, the prima donna of "The Time, The Place, and The Girl;" Trovato, the Filipino violinist; and the Charles Ahearn Troupe of cyclists, will be among the principal features of a great all-star bill announced for next week at B. F. Keith's Theatre. For her vaudeville engagement Miss Sears has secured one of the funniest and most original comedies ever written. It is entitled "The Wardrobe Woman," and deals with life behind the scenes in a small one night stand theatre in the far West. The Charles Ahearn troupe have a most amusing burlesque on a six day bicycle race; the Acroplane Ladies is a stunning aerial novelty; J. Waldo Connolly and Margaret Webb will present their surprise finish, "A Stormy Hour;" and Sampson and Reilly are known as "The Fashion Plate Entertainers."

GIVES EDUCATORS THE LIE.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The New Bedford Standard of April 14th last gave descriptions of upwards of 25 successful cotton mill men under this heading: "Started at base of ladder. Mill managers learn business by first doing menial tasks. How they got there. Over half the manufacturers forced their way up. Successful ones came out of all departments of mill. Not one had college diploma and few high school training." The educators tell us no man can possibly succeed in these days unless with a fully equipped education—therein is the lie.

TWO RAILROADS MAY ELECTRIFY

Legislature Likely to Pass Consolidation Bill to Compel It

RAILROAD BOARD TO STAND

Great and General Court Making Good Progress to Prorogation — Last Year's Record Broken.

In 1910 the people of Massachusetts elected a Democratic Governor and a House of Representatives almost half of whom were democrats. There followed in 1911 a year of strenuous investigation of the conduct of the state's affairs by former republican administrations, of strenuous opposition to legislation proposed by republicans and of strenuous advocacy of legislation proposed by democrats. The result was a session protracted almost up to the first of August and a general feeling on the part of the public that time had been wasted and that the public business had been neglected. (5-6)

That feeling showed itself last fall when election day arrived in the election of a House of Representatives with a republican majority of forty-nine as against a republican majority last year of only fifteen. The wisdom of this return to greater control of legislation by the Republicans has already shown itself in the despatch with which legislative business has been conducted. Up to April 29 the Committees of the House had reported on 2067 bills as opposed to only 1697 bills reported on up to the same time last year, so that although a considerably larger number of bills were presented this year than last year, there are left only 51 bills not yet reported on as against 357 at the same time last year.

The prospect for adjournment early in June or possibly at the end of May is therefore favorable. Speed, however, is not the only thing to be considered. The people do not want their representatives to dawdle but they do want them to spend all the time that is necessary to enact legislation beneficial to the Commonwealth.

Railroad Electrification In This Bill.

There is one bill still pending which particularly interests all the men, women and children in the Commonwealth who ever find themselves standing on the platform of a railroad station watching a steam engine come snorting in to the station belching out black smoke, and who in summer find themselves sweltering in a hot train with no ventilation except when a door or window is open filling their eyes with cinders and their lungs with smoke. That is the bill to provide for the leasing of the Boston & Maine Railroad by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad on the express condition that all the tracks of both roads in the metropolitan area shall immediately be equipped with electricity, and that a tunnel connecting the two roads shall be built under the City of Boston.

Everyone wants electrification at the earliest possible moment and the moment now seems to have arrived. The railroads are not satisfied with the merger bill enacted several years ago under Governor Draper. They say that it has helped them to better the transportation facilities of the State but that the closer affiliation of the two roads which would be made possible by a lease would enable them to go much further.

What the Railroads Are Asking.

Their proposition is this: Give us the right to combine these two roads by a lease as has been done again and again with success in Massachusetts and we will electrify our roads in the metropolitan area and we will put the cities and towns of northeastern Massachusetts in close connection with the cities and towns of southeastern Massachusetts by building a tunnel, for through railroad service, under the City of Boston. It seems like a good proposition,—one involving the expenditure of millions of dollars, one apparently essential to the welfare of the people of Boston and vicinity, and one holding out more hope for the future electrification of all the railroads in the state than any which has ever been presented.

This plan was suggested to Governor Foss a short time ago and he has recommended it to the Legislature, but he has made use of it to try to get through one of his own pet schemes. In a message to the Legislature he admits that electrification is essential and that the tunnel is a good idea, but he says that we must not have them unless the railroad commission, and the gas and electric light commission, and the commission having supervision of telephone rates, are abolished, and the Foss plan for a high salaried "Public Utilities Commission" to take charge of all public service interests and to be appointed by the present Governor, is adopted. It made no difference to him apparently that there has been so little demand on the part of the public for such a change that at two separate hearings on the matter before the Committee on Ways and Means of the House not a citizen apeared to urge it. Nor, apparently, did it make any difference that almost every member of the Legislature, so far as appears, believes in electrification and the building of the tunnel, whereas many members believe that such a change as has been suggested in our method of regulating public service corporations would overturn a system which has worked well in the past and would probably result, as it has in New York, in having one member of the Commission in charge of the railroads, one in charge of gas companies, one in charge of electric lighting companies and one in charge of telephone companies, none of them knowing about more than a quarter of the matters on which they have to vote and never being able, except in extraordinary cases, to get the benefit of each other's advice and experience.

To Divide the Question.

The putting of these two matters into one message and the attempt to make the one dependent on the other will probably be supported by some democrats of the Legislature, but the republicans can divide the question and they undoubtedly will do so. In fact they have already made a beginning by having so much of the Governor's message as refers to the lease, electrification and the tunnel, referred to a different committee from the part relating to a "Public Utilities Commission." There is a feeling among the members that if the terms of the lease can be satisfactorily arranged the Legislature will take this opportunity to get all the advantages of electrification without giving up the careful, intelligent supervision of our public service companies which has characterized our railroad, and gas and electric light commissions, during all the years that they have been blazing the way for the rest of the country in the matter of state regulation.

The Preferential Primary Law.

The primaries just held for the choice of delegates to the presidential conventions have demonstrated that something is lacking in the new law to make it work successfully. It would seem as if the fact that many thousands were practically disfranchised through marking for nine candidates for delegates instead of eight proved that. Some method should be devised so simple as to make it impossible for such an error to occur again, if the preferential presidential primary is to be retained.

American Trade Losses In Azores.

There is a growing disposition among the importing firms of the Azores, to make their purchases in either Germany or England, and they are doing so because there are, practically speaking, no facilities for getting American goods direct from the United States. Transshipment via Europe means loss of time, more or less damage because of too much handling, and increasing costs. In fact, one of the most important importing firms of St. Michael's, which is the distributing port for these islands, canceled orders amounting to more than $10,000 during 1911 because there was no certainty of the goods arriving in time for the fall trade.

England and Germany have an advantage over the United States, inasmuch as they enjoy fortnightly facilities for delivering their wares direct to this island by two small steamers that bring out miscellaneous cargoes and return with pineapples for the London and Hamburg markets. The Germans, however, are at present getting the better part of all foreign trade and their goods are fast replacing goods formerly supplied by the United States, and their success is due to the fact that they systematically cover this field by salesmen and can guarantee prompt deliveries.

In the matter of charges, terms, etc., the principal importers of the Azores do not ask or expect extended credit and are in position to make satisfactory financial arrangements. What they need most is a service by which they may obtain their American goods when they want them.

For the reason that so many of the inhabitants of the Azores have been in the United States, and naturally are more familiar with American goods than with the goods of other foreign countries, it remains for the United States to provide the means of supplying their goods to them. With a regular service monthly, or even a steamer every two or three months, with positive sailing dates the United States can have the lion's share of the foreign trade.

Iron-Tubing Imports of Japan.

Iron tubing valued at $2,125,000 was imported into Japan in 1911, of which the United States contributed $778,000 worth. The valuation placed on iron tubing imported into Japan in 1910 was $1,613,000, and during the year 1911 Germany nearly doubled its importations, while Great Britain's increased approximately 25 percent. The importations of American iron tubing during 1911 remained stationery as compared with 1910, the importations for the latter year being valued at $775,000.

A small boy by the name of Kelley came very near being run over Monday afternoon by the train which reaches the station shortly after two o'clock. The boy is about six years old. He attempted to run across the tracks in front of the station, not noticing the approaching train. Just as he reached the opposite side he stumbled on the stone curbing and fell. Fortunately he drew up his feet as the locomotive passed him, but bystanders said it seemed impossible that the wheels escaped touching him. On last Saturday afternoon another boy crossed the tracks at the station just behind an inward bound train and came very near being struck by an express. The boy was pushing a bicycle, and when the engineer of the train whistled for him the locomotive had passed by. This is a very dangerous place—said by many to be worse than the center crossing. A fence should be placed between the tracks and a subway built.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

Business Transacted by the Board of Much Public Interest.

May 13, 1912.

Board met at 7.30 p. m., all being present.

W. H. Yetter, Sheridan circle appeared and petitioned for street lights stating that this was the only street in that section without them and seven or eight houses to be served. The matter was referred to the Town Engineer.

Dr. Clarence H. Allen, Chairman Board of Health, appeared and asked that the plumbing by-laws adopted at the last town meeting, be printed in pamphlet form. The matter was referred to Mr. Daly of the Board to order 1000 copies.

Messrs. Fred N. Kerr and Whitfield L. Tuck, appeared with a delegation of laborers from all the Town Departments, except the Cemetery Department, to urge prompt compliance with the vote of the Town, passed April 22, 1912, namely:

"That it is the sense of this meeting that the Town of Winchester, establish as a minimum wage for the laboring men in the employ of the Town, $2.25 per day, beginning April 22, 1912, and a half holiday on Saturday without loss of pay from June 1st until Labor Day of each year."

Messrs. Nowell, W. H. Donnelly, Edward O'Connell, Thos. J. Collins and Mr. Donaghey also spoke on the subject.

The records of the meetings of May 6th, 7th, and 10th, and of the meeting of the Committee of the Joint Town Boards, to consider wages of laboring men, were read and approved.

Separation of pay-roll for week ending May 11th, was received from Superintendent of Streets, $123.96.

Mr. Pike was authorized to prepare a proper license to be issued to parties renting the Town Hall.

It was Voted: That the following regulations relating to all persons now or hereafter licensed as junk collectors, be established: The licensee when engaged in collecting, transporting or dealing in junk, old metals and second-hand articles shall have his license with him and shall wear a badge (where it can be readily seen) upon which shall be legibly inscribed in letters one-half inch in height the words, "Licensed Junk Collector" and his license number and shall have displayed in a conspicuous manner upon both sides of any wagon used by him when so engaged, the words, "Licensed Junk Collector" and his license number.

The shop and vehicle used by the licensee for the collection or keeping of the articles aforesaid may be examined at all times by the Selectmen or any person by them authorized thereto.

It was voted to purchase for the town a copy of the Revised Laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts; a copy of the Supplement thereto with pamphlet editions of the Acts and Resolves, for the years 1909, 1910, 1911.

A letter from Charles F. Dutch, Town Counsel, reporting on the rights of the town in regard to the water which seeps through the retaining wall onto the sidewalk adjoining the northern entrance to Rangeley, was referred to the Committee on Highways.

Attention was directed to the discharge of water from the gutters on the Wentworth Block running across the sidewalk. The matter was referred to the Committee on Highways.

The Highway Committee approved the recommendation of the Town Engineer for a 60-candle power incandescent light to be located on Salisbury street, about 240 ft. from Calumet road, and the Town Engineer was authorized to have the light installed.

The Highway Committee approved the recommendation of the Town Engineer for the installation of an incandescent light at the junction of Calumet road and Salisbury street and one about 205 ft. westerly from the proposed light on Salisbury street; that the incandescent light on Cambridge street near Calumet road be turned on the pole so that it will be of greater benefit to Calumet road; that the tree warden be requested to remove two trees which interfere with the street lights, one tree at the corner of Calumet road and Oxford street and the other at the corner of Calumet road and Cabot street; that the wires of the Telephone Company and the Edison Co., on Calumet road between Yale street and Oxford street, which are low and sagged down, be re-hung and straightened up by the companies. The Town Engineer was authorized to have his recommendations carried out.

The Town Engineer's report May 4th, was received from the Highway Committee in regard to changes in street lights on Bacon street from Grove street to Ravenscroft road. The existing lights are estimated to cost $207.92 and with the changes recommended for an improvement of the service, the cost is estimated to be $149, and the Engineer further recommends an additional light on Ravenscrofts road and one on Lakeview road, both of which are at present private ways. The report has the approval of the Highway Committee provided a contract with the Welsbach Street Lighting Co., does not prevent carrying it out. The report was laid on the table.

The Highway Committee reported on the petition of Allen E. Boone, for a granolithic sidewalk on Central Street, that it would not be possible to do this work unless further appropriation was made by the Town, and the Clerk was instructed to so notify the petitioner.

The Highway Committee approved the recommendation of the Town Engineer for four incandescent street lights on Edgehill road and Ridgefield road on the petition of George C. Ogden; and the lights were ordered installed under the direction of the Town Engineer.

The Highway Committee approved the recommendation of the Town Engineer for four incandescent street lights on Edgehill road and Edgehill road on the petition of George C. Ogden; and the lights were ordered installed under the direction of the Town Engineer.

The Highway Committee approved the plans presented by the Town Engineer for re numbering Highland avenue, Canal, Oak, Richardson, Salem and Water streets; and the Town Engineer was instructed to carry out his plan.

The letter of the Town Engineer calling attention to unsuitable fixtures for incandescent street lights which are too short to project the lamps beyond the shade trees, was referred to the Highway Committee to confer with the Electric Light Company.

The Highway Committee reported that they had conferred with the officials of the Bay State Street Railway Co. in regard to doing the necessary work on Church and Main streets, for which the Railroad Companies have made no appropriation; that it might be possible for the Companies to make a transfer of their appropriation for Forest street and devote it to Church and Main streets; the estimate of the Railroad company of the cost of doing the work from the Medford Line to Madison avenue is $14,000.

The attention of the Committee on Accounts was directed to the matter of advertising the sale of property for unpaid taxes.

The Committee on Town Hall reported that the doors of the building which opened contrary to law had been changed.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

Under the management of the Art department there will be on Tuesday of next week, May 21, an excursion to Marblehead to visit the pottery there. A special car will leave Winchester Square at ten minutes before nine. The proposed plan is to have a shore dinner at the Adams House. We have lately been assured that the cost of such a dinner there is in the vicinity of fifty cents a plate. The cost of the round trip not including dinner will be one dollar a person if eighteen people go. The car holds forty-five, in which case, should the car be filled, the cost is reduced to less than fifty cents each.

Should Tuesday be stormy, the trip will be taken on the first pleasant day up to and including Friday.

All members of the club are most cordially invited to take this trip. And those who desire to do so are asked to notify, by Saturday noon, Mrs. Breen on the Parkway, Miss Vinton on Main street or Mrs. Drisko on Lloyd street. Any member wishing to take as a guest some one not a member of the club, may do so if by Saturday noon, the seats are not all taken by club members.

The last lecture of the course in Home Economics was given Monday afternoon May 6th. Although the day was very stormy the class was well attended. Miss Stern spoke on "The Child in the Home."

Particular emphasis was placed on training the child through play. She advised every mother to supervise her child's play and to see that it gives training in habits of neatness and order, in efficiency, self-reliance, and social responsibility. She suggested that in many homes too much is left for the schools to do.

While in some instances it is not only possible but advisable for parents and teacher to co-operate still the principal responsibility rests with the parents. This requires careful study and persistent attention but it is the only way in which the work can be done. It may sometimes be a burden but it is also the joy of parent-hood. The lecture was full of helpful suggestions and was a fitting ending to the course, which began with the "Economics of Food" and included "The Maintenance of the Household," "Division of the Income," "Sanitation and Ventilation." The class feel that Miss Stern has made this course of lectures not only interesting and entertaining, but one of permanent inspiration and value.

The last meeting of the season was a fitting end to one of the best yearly programs the Fortnightly has ever given. To recall the various good things we have listened to both in the regular meetings and in the classes since the first meeting in October, means to count over the wealth we have accumulated.

Miss Sayward told Irish stories in a most charming manner with very good reproduction of the Irish brogue. Most of the folk lore of Ireland is about the fairies in whom the peasants firmly believe, so her first story was of little Peter the piper, who made the fairies such a beautiful song, that the queen removed the terrible hump from his back and he was straight and happy forever after.

Then she told of a poor farmer to whom the fairies gave a cow, and his family never again were hungry. It seems that at a dance among their peasantry a part of the entertainment is to gather about the open fire and listen to the tale told by the old men and women. Miss Sayward told a story which a friend had heard under these conditions. It was of the beautiful Princess, and the ragged vagabond who turned out to be a king, and had all the charm of Hans Christien Andersen.

Miss Jean MacLellan sang Irish folk-songs; the sweet sympathetic quality of her voice brought out all the beautiful romance in which they abound. Her first number included "The Little Galway Cloak" "Believe Me" "The Low-back Car." The second number "Little Red Lark" and "The Kerry Dance."

STABBING AFFRAY WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

A stabbing affray took place between Italians living on the plains late Wednesday night, one man being slightly wounded in the abdomen. The victim is Vespucci Donata and his assailant is said to be Nichola Collante. The trouble occured about eleven o'clock, the police not being notified until nearly an hour later.

As near as can be learned several men, mostly employed at Beggs & Cobbs factory, got into a wrangle over some unknown cause in the middle of Florence street near their boarding house. Donato was first assaulted by Giovanni Deangeles and then stabbed by Collante. The friends of the victim first called Dr. Sheehy and then notified the police. Deangeles was arrested at his work at Beggs & Cobbs yesterday morning by officer McCauley, but Collante has disappeared. Donata was not seriously wounded. It is expected that Collante will be arrested within a short time.

CAPACITY REACHED.

Home for Aged People Demands More Accommodation.

It will be a surprise to all but the directors of the Home for Aged People to learn that the present building is inadequate to provide accommodations for any prospective inmates. Indeed this has been the condition for some time and in consequence the directors have reluctantly refused deserving applicants, so that in order to more adequately fulfill its mission a larger and more suitable home will have to be provided in the near future. The Home has a permanent fund of a little over $14,000, and this with the building now occupied as the Home on Kendall street might form the nucleus toward providing a home commensurate with the needs of Winchester.

Not a great deal of information reaches the public regarding the splendid work that the Home is doing, yet its affairs are carried on in first class shape and in a thorough business manner, the inmates are happy and contented, and the directors and the matron, Mrs. Whitford, are doing everything for their comfort and welfare.

The nineteenth annual meeting was held in the small Town Hall, Monday evening, Mr. Preston Pond, the president, presiding.

The reports of the officers were presented and since the last meeting it was shown that 225 new members, including four life members, have been added to the membership list.

The directors report follows:

To the members of the Home for Aged People in Winchester:

Your Directors report that the management of the Home has been continued as in the past year and with the same inmates. The work of the matron has been made very difficult because of the severe sickness of one of the original inmates, Mrs. Fullam, requiring special care since the first of last summer. Much of the time we have had a special attendant in charge of her and have endeavored to do everything possible for her care and comfort regardless of the considerable extra expense. To the matron, however, as in previous years, is due the credit for the maintenance of a truly homelike spirit in the Home.

The number of persons in the town who appreciate the opportunity by word and deed to assist our charity is increasing and would doubtless be far greater if it were commonly understood how easy it is to lend a helping hand. As it is the number of visitors at the Home has averaged twenty-five per month; in addition to the regular system of contribution of dinners, other contributions have been of fruit, special articles of food, flowers, magazines, household linen, clothing and the like; and the various inmates have been taken to ride in carriages and automobiles.

Your Directors are glad to report that the campaign for an increase in membership in the corporation has been successful to the extent of adding 225 new members, including 4 life members.

For the Board of Directors,
Charles F. Dutch,
Secretary.

The officers elected for the ensuing year were:

MEETING AND RECEPTION.

A special meeting of the parish of the Epiphany was held Wednesday evening in the parish house, and the following vote was passed unanimously: "That at the end of his service as locum tenens the affectionate and grateful thanks of the parish be extended to Rev. William S. Packer for his constant and disinterested devotion to the welfare of the parish, for his singular success during this period in holding together the congregation and for his inspiring preaching of the word of God, which has deeply sunken into the hearts of his hearers."

It was also voted unanimously that "In grateful appreciation of the devoted and faithful service and administration of the first rector of the parish, extending over a quarter of a century, the office of rector honorarius of the parish of the Epiphany is hereby created and Rev. John Wallace Suter is hereby appointed thereto."

A reception was tendered to Rev. and Mrs. Murray W. Dewart. Mr. Dewart was installed rector May 5. About 250 members of the parish were in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Dewart were assisted in receiving by Senior Warden and Mrs. Marcus B. May and Mrs. Anthony Kelley, president of the Woman's Guild. There were selections by an orchestra from the Winchester Orchestral Society under the leadership of W. H. W. Bicknell. Mrs. Alfred S. Higgins and Mrs. Herbert S. Underwood presided at the coffee tables and refreshments were served by the entertainment committee: Mrs. T. E. Thompson, Mrs. Walter Cummings, Mrs. Francis D. Cleveland, Mrs. L. K. Ely, Mrs. George W. Fitch, Mrs. Joseph Fessenden, Mrs. Robert W. Hart, Mrs. William I. Kendall, Mrs. George N. P. Mead, Mrs. Addison R. Pike, Mrs. Edward O. Punchard, Mrs. Samuel S. Stevens, Mrs. W. Eugene Wilde. Mrs. Walter Cummings had charge of the decorations.

The affair was in charge of a committee consisting of Percy B. Metcalf, Alfred S. Higgins, Robert W. Hart, Marcus B. May, Sylvester H. Taylor, Mrs. Anthony Kelley, Mrs. Louis Barta, Mrs. Thomas E. Jansen, Mrs. W. Eugene Wilde and Mrs. Francis D. Cleveland.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

May 16, 1912.

The Board was called to order at 9.30 p. m., all members present.

Voted: To call a Town Meeting to be held Monday June 10, 1912;

To close the Warrant for the same Saturday, May 25, 1912;

That Mr. Pike and Mr. Daly act as a committee of the Board to prepare the Warrant for the meeting.

Letter from Mr. William D. Richards, accepting the estimate of the Superintendent of Streets for rolling, putting on stone and oiling Black Horse terrace, referred to Committee on Highways.

Adjourned at 10.30 p. m.

Frank R. Miller,
Clerk of the Board.

MAN BURNED AND BIG AUTO INJURED.

An alarm from box 35 was rung in Wednesday night at about six o'clock for an explosion and fire in the big automobile oiling machine used about the streets during the past two weeks. The driver of the car, Amos Pearson of East Boston, was badly burned about the face and one arm, and the big oiler considerably damaged.

According to report the big truck had gone to the freight yard at the close of its afternoon's work in the center. At the yard is a tank car filled with the oil used on the streets, it being the intention of the men in charge to pump the remaining oil from the car to a horse drawn tank and then take the automobile to Cambridge, bringing out a last load of oil for use on Main street the next day.

While waiting for the tank to arrive Pearson started to light his lamps on the truck, having filled the gasoline tank. As he did so an explosion occurred and the front of the truck burst into flames, burning him badly.

When the department arrived the front of the truck was a mass of flames and the freight house nearby was dangerously threatened. Chemicals soon extinguished the blaze. Although two lines of hose were laid the water proved ineffective except to put out fires in the freight house.

Pearson was taken to the Winchester hospital on the hose wagon and his burns dressed. He stated that the did not know what caused the explosion. Fortunately the big truck was empty, the street preparation being all drained ont.

REV. WALTER J. ROCHE LEAVES WINCHESTER.

Rev. Walter J. Roche severs his connection with St. Mary's Church of this town today. He goes to St. Joseph's Church in the West End, Boston, and will have charge of the hospitals and prisons in that part of the city. Rev. John W. H. Corbett of the Sacred Heart Church, Roslindale, will succeed Rev. Fr. Roche here. During his stay in Winchester Rev. Fr. Roche has made hosts of warm friends.

A SPLENDID EXHIBITION.

A Pleasant Surprise Given a Large Audience.

The parents and friends of the public school children were given a pleasant surprise at the excellent exhibition at the Town Hall, Saturday afternoon, by the pupils in Gymnastic work interspersed with Folk Dancing. Miss Adeline Tipple, the instructor, had a delightful program full of variety which reflected great credit on herself and careful drilling by the teachers under her. All the grades and schools gave exercises except the High School, which held theirs a few weeks ago in the W. H. S. gymnasium.

Although the program was of necessity a long one, no person was glad when it came to an end. The opening number: Trees in a Storm, was a pretty pantomime of a summer storm including the wind howling among the branches. This story was executed by the Third Grade children of the Wyman School; and were drilled by their teacher, Miss Todd. The next was an action and speaking story: Little Red Hen, first, second, and third grades of the Wyman School. The little Red Hen, little Nancy Clark, was the principal character of the play and was particularly good, making her voice reach all parts of the hall in the dialogue; Stuart Friend as the Frog, and Cathleen Case as the Pussy Cat were also very good in their parts. These grades also did some children's dances: Sing-a-song of Sixpence, See-saw, and Diddle, diddle Dumpling. Their instructor was Miss Woodbury. The Wand drill executed by pupils of the sixth grade of the Prince School, Miss Spencer teacher, elicited loud applause for their quick action in unison of the drill. Miss Lyons of the Chapin School with a class of little girls of the fifth grade, who were dressed in white with white bows on their hair, next entertained with school room dancing of Reaping the Flax, Hickory dickory dock, My Maid Mary and Bean Porridge Hot, which included singing.

A weaving dance was prettily done by Catharine McLellan, Amelia Burwell, Dollie Benet, Pearl Dearborn, Edward Reebenaker, Howard Chase, Fred Boyle, and Wallace Savard; Miss Davis is the teacher, and the children of the fifth grade of the Washington School.

The Minuet was prettily danced by little boys and girls of the first and second grades of the Highland School, Miss Clark teacher. A Swedish Folk Dance, Fjallnospolska, was danced by the following young ladies of the Wadleigh School who were dressed in the picturesque costumes of the country: Margaret Adriance, Marian Symmes, Marian Reynolds, Constance Smith, Marie White, Jessie Dearborn, Helen Bagge, Ruth Hammond, Marian Mobbs, Irene Coty, Clarissa Kidder, Eleanor Hanlon, Evelyn Murphy, Edith Johnson, Mary Kennedy, Susan McElhaney. The Mountain March, another dance was by the same young ladies who were drilled by Miss Tipple. A clown dance by Harold Ogden, Eugene Danahy, Paul Wheatley, Lester Davis and Robert Skinner was given by boys of the ninth grade, Wadleigh School, Miss Tipple instructor. A card lesson by the children of the fourth grade of the Rumford School, Miss Riley teacher was well done by the children. Tarentella and Cinderella were two pretty dances by the young ladies of the ninth grade of the Wadleigh School in costume, drilled by Miss Tipple. The tamborines carried made a pleasing variety to the dancing.

The next number showed games which are played in the school room. Miss Barr had command and the first, Captain Ball was quite exciting, the pupils playing to rules similar to Basket Ball, and the baskets won were announced. The game which was a fast one resulted in a win for the blues 3 to 2. The sides of the game were distinguished by red and blue pennants worn across the breast. Changing seats and Relay another room game was shown by the children of Miss Howard's class, the fourth grade of the Gifford School. Next came yard games by the first, second and third grades of the Mystic School. Miss Dodge was the instructor and the games were: How do you do, Fox and Weazel, Over the Green Grass and Pigeon House.

Mr. O'Donnell, principal of the Chapin School conducted a military drill by a company of boys uniformed in white blouses and blue trousers, who went through the manoeuvers in good military discipline. After a while Mr. O'Donnell turned the command over to a pupil, Master Mark Kelley, who continued to drill them. The following boys were in the drill:

Mrs. Annie O'Sullivan, teacher of the seventh grade of the Wadleigh Grammar School directed her boys in an Apparatus Drill which received loud applause, as it was a fine exhibition. The next on the program was called "Action Story," and was the Story of Pocahontas saving the life of Capt. John Smith. Miss Tipple was the instructor of this play which called for some pretty dancing by the young ladies and a solo dance by Miss Marian Mobbs. Miss Mobbs executed the difficult dance in a very graceful manner and received well deserved applause. The Indian costumes were realistic and the make up of the little Indian boys who danced Ride-a-Cock Horse, children of the first, second, and third grades of the Gifford School, Miss Jepson and Miss Hanson teachers, was quite picturesque. The Principal characters were taken by: Pocahontas, Miss Marian Mobbs; Powhattan, Master Curtis Olmsted; Capt. John Smith, Master Lester Davis. Brooks Jakeman, Paul Wheatley, Robert Skinner were Braves of the Council who smoked the pipe of peace when Capt. Smith's life had been spared. The Indian Maidens were: Misses Margaret Adriance, Marian Symmes, Constance Smith, Ruth Hammond. A large number of Squaws and Braves were seated around the camp. All the exhibiting children were delighted with this Indian Story as it savored a little of the Wild West.

Miss Sadie Felber of the High School, who presided at the piano added much to the exhibition, by playing proper time for the exercises, some calling for very rapid and others for slow music.

The exhibition was the first large one of the kind given in town and reflected great credit on Miss Tipple, the instructor. The hall was crowded both at the rehearsal on Friday and the Saturday performance.

COMING EVENTS.

BASE BALL.

The strong St. Eulalia ball team of South Boston will play Winchester on Manchester Field, Saturday at 3.15 p. m. St. Eulalia's baseball team is connected with the St. Eulalia's Men's Association of the City Point section of South Boston. Dr. William Griffin, the former Andover and Tufts athlete, is the manager. The team includes: Heyer, formerly the Boston Latin School shortstop; Halligan, formerly South Boston High and Boston College left field; Brodie, formerly South Boston Red Sox, first base; O'Connell, formerly of the South Boston Independents, center field; Kelley, formerly of the Lowell, New England League, pitcher; Futs, formerly of the Gate of Heaven Holy Name, second base; Lane, formerly of South Boston High right field; and Carey, formerly of South Boston High, catcher.

BAPTIST NEWS.

Mother's Day was observed in the morning service and Sunday School last Sunday with appropriate exercises. A hymn was composed for the occasion. In the Sunday School each mother was presented with a carnation.

"Chaplain" Day, a slum and prison worker, will give a lantern talk on "Tramps" at the Ladies' Night of the Brotherhood on Friday evening, May 24. This will be an occasion of rare interest, for Mr. Day secured his pictures first hand from real experience with tramps, and besides, he is a royal entertainer, having a wide reputation especially among Y. M. C. A.'s. This event is in the care of the Social Service Committee of the Brotherhood, and tickets may be secured from Mr. J. Albert Hersey.

REAL ESTATE NEWS.

Final papers have been passed conveying nearly an acre of land on the westerly side of Grove street belonging to Albert D. Rogers, to Harris M. Richmond of Winchester. Edw. T. Harrington Co., was the broker.

WINCHESTER PUBLIC LIBRARY

May 15—June 1.

Exhibition of pictures loaned by the Library Art Club. Food and Game Fisheries of New York. These beautifully colored pictures are taken from the reports of the Forest, Fish and Game Commission of the state of New York, and the accompanying text, by Tarleton H. Bean, is from the same source. The names employed are essentially the same as those used in "Fishes of North and Middle America," by Jordan and Evermann. References are limited to the writings of Dr. Samuel Latham Mitchill, James E. DeKay, and a few more recent authors.

For this collection the Library Art Club is indebted to Mr. John E. Thayer of Lancaster.

Exhibition of a collection of photographs taken by Mr. B. A. Haldeman, Engineer of Bureau of Survey Philadelphia, on the Boston Chamber of Commerce Tour July and August, 1911.

The photographs illustrate Municipal Housings, Parks and Boulevards and Garden Cities in Liverpool, London, Brussels, Dusseldorf, Franfort, A. M., Hamburg, Berlin, Dresden, Munich.

Mr. Haldeman is to be one of the speakers at the City Planning Conference to be held in Boston next week. These photographs are loaned by Mr. Newton Shultis of Winchester.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

Every once in a while, a man while dsicussing some problem of State entirely lowers his own guard and leaves himself open to a deadly thrust in return. This is what has been done by a most estimable gentleman who suggests that the suffrage be given to all women who have one or more children, and only to such women. The retort is immediate that if such a regulation is wise and just in the case of women it is equally so in the case of men. Let us give the ballot only to such men as are fathers, and then the other could be enforced without any trouble. If the spinster and the childless wives are to be allowed no part in the government of the State, the bachelor and the childless husbands are logically in exactly the same category. But even the Winchester gentleman who made the first suggestion would hardly stand for that. For it happens that there are many very wise and discerning men, men who are leaders, both from a literary and from a business standpoint, who have been old bachelors. It happens that many men and women of splendid capacity and training are childless, not of their own choice. It would not do to compel the removal of all these from participation in the affairs of the state. Race suicide is doubtless a dreadful thing, although The Spectator seriously questions whether those children in a family carefully brought up and educated, are not of as much value to the State as those who grow up in ignorance and evil. Quality is as worthy to be considered as quantity. And a regulation which men do not wish applied to themselves in relation to the suffrage, should be kept out of the discussion where women are concerned.

When a Winchesterite reads the books which have remained to us from earlier days, he is in danger of getting the impression that the language spoken was very pure, and that very little slang was intermixed with it. That is only because the best works have survived, and there was almost no medium, except that of letter writing for preserving the homelier sayings of the people. If a Winchesterite were, on the other hand, to pick up one of our yellower newspapers and to read over the headlines and the kind of "dope" that is handed out to baseball fans, he would wonder if there is any considerable section of the people who use anything but this kind of lurid language. In all the papers too the readers will find terms like "insurgent" which have a current significance and no other. And if it happens that somebody 100 years from now runs across a file of these newspapers, he will be considerably puzzled at many of the terms he finds, and some of the language will be entirely unintelligible. Some of it might just as well perish. It never had any excuse for being. But one reason why one century fails often to understand another is because all the things such words stand for are forgotten. The background to history is the common life of the people. And most historians fail in any large way to transfer this life of the people to their books. The Spectator presumes it will be so with the happenings of our time. Nevertheless there are men in Winchester today who would like to hear the learned discussions of 300 years from now when some erudite individual unearths a few of these newspapers.

Recently a gentleman interested in the public schools brought up the question of penmanship. He demands that some method be adopted of improving the hand writing of the pupils who are coming out of our schools. At present it is in a more or less demoralized condition. This gentleman is inclined to blame the book publishers for the situation. He says: "It results directly from the tendency to change text books for the accommodation of publishers, and without any regard of results." There is doubtless truth in this. Everybody knows that for years the publishers of drawing books had a tight grip on the schools, and prevented any real progress. The case has doubtless been the same in writing.

The other day The Spectator was shown a list of proprietory "medicines," essences and perfumes which may be sold by druggists or others only after payment of the Government liquor license. These concoctions are held to be not sufficiently medicated to take them out of the class of alcoholic beverages, and they are not intended by their manufacturers to be considered outside of that class except for the purpose of circumventing the prohibitory liquor laws. They are put up especially for sale and consumption in the "dry" towns and while their intoxicating potency is little if any lower they contain just a sufficiency of drug impregnation to make them more pernicious than "third-rail" whiskey. But then the places where they are sold are only drug stores and not wicked saloons, and this fact is supposed to abundantly offset both their vileness and their fraudulency.

A certain man who was bitten by a dog gives The Spectator to understand that he is seriously considering bringing suit for $25,000. Should he recover that amount one result would be a partial abatement of the dog nuisance in Winchester and vicinity.

One day recently a cyclist in order to avoid a collision brought his machine up with such a sudden check on Main street as to hurl him over the handle bars. It was the most peculiar happening The Spectator has witnessed for many a day.

Here is a bit of philosophy that ought to be posted in a conspicuous place by every Winchesterite: Worry is the one thing that is always better put off until tomorrow.

When a person is sure he is right the opinion of others is a secondary consideration.

A fruit and vegetable dealer has given The Spectator some of the signs by which to tell good fruit and vegetables. The signs are:

Oranges are sound and juicy when heavy, but not too heavy.

Radishes and turnips when spongy are not fit to eat.

Pineapples are best when the eyes of the edges of the top are smooth; in inferior qualities the tops are of the saw edged variety.

Celery is good when it breaks without bending.

Asparagus should be quite stiff.

Nuts cannot be judged very correctly until they are opened, but they should be of good weight and not too hard to crack.

The Spectator.

GRADE CROSSING.

A Statement of Facts and Common Sense on Town Plan Votes.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Mr. Russell apparently thinks if we had had larger town meetings we would have got more intelligent votes on the method of abolishing the grade crossing, but I can think of no evidence to bear out that assumption and he furnishes none, in fact I cannot remember of his speaking on the question in town meeting since the petition was brought over six years ago, and do not know what method he favors. I did not draw the motion voted but it was agreed to by those who favor the Town Plan and that is the name it should be known by. If it will make Mr. Russell and the few others who still oppose this plan feel any better, let them multiply the vote by, say, seven and then it would stand 1435 to 35 and 1162 to 35 respectively. I agree it is always desirable to have a good, fair attendance, for while we never get more than between a third and a fourth of the registered voters at best we probably get a more intelligent expression than if we had the entire list present, for it is those who are most interested and best posted who attend. Battles must be fought by those who go to the front and not by the stayaways. Incidentally I would mention that at the meeting of June 12 last year the vote on the Whitney land and water park question was 483 to 5 and Mr. Russell opposed any postponement on the ground we would probably never get a larger attendance.

The question from the first and still is, what will the town take the responsibility for in expense to put the railroad out of sight in its business centre?

This seems a good time to make public a letter from the Chairman of the Middlesex County Commissioners which he desired not to have read at the Town Meeting.

John H. Carter.

Melrose, April 20, 1912.

Dear Carter:

It was very kind of you to send me the pamphlet relating to the "separation of grades in Winchester" which I shall examine with much interest. You ask for my "personal views" of the matter. Except as a final resort, and for no other reason, the closing of any material portion of the main artery of travel existing for more than a century between two such populous places as Woburn and Medford, to say nothing of an immense territory tributary to this important crossing both north and south, as well as east and west, ought not, in my judgment, to receive a moment of serious consideration. If economy alone was to govern the towns' choice it is possible that a fairly convenient make-shift could be obtained through a bridge at the R. R. Station, but I am not certain that the diversion of traffic caused by the absolute discontinuance of the highway at the crossing, might not form a claim for damages quite as great as any, which could exist if the present scheme was carried out.

Very sincerely,
Levi S. Gould.

ENTERTAINED CHELSEA CLUB.

Mrs. William Martin of Church street entertained on Wednesday the Owls of Chelsea. She was assisted by her daughters, and by Mrs. Ralph Putnam, Mrs. Water Wadsworth, Mrs. Fred Avery, and Mrs. Arthur Irving, of Winchester. This club of forty ladies took up the support of the visiting nurse in Chelsea after the great fire there. Her report, read at the meeting, Wednesday showed for the year 2841 visits, of which number 647 were pay patients, 1329 were part pay patients, and 865 were free visits; an excellent showing for one nurse.

The usual delicious "shower" luncheon was enjoyed, after which the interests of the society were informally discussed, and plans announced for the afternoon tea and sale to be held in June. In spite of the wet weather the ladies from Chelsea thoroughly enjoyed their Winchester outing.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

CONSUL JOHN FOWLER.

Has Served American Government in China for 22 Years.

The following was taken from the China Press, Shanghai, China, of the issue of March 28. Hon. John Fowler is a Winchester boy, but because of his 22 years in China as a representative of the United States, he is known only to the older residents of Winchester. The Press says:

Hon. John Fowler, American Consul at Chefoo, has been transferred to Foochow, and expects to leave for his new post some time next week. Mr. Fowler has been in the American Consular Service in this section of the world longer than any American Consul and has been a powerful factor in shaping the destinies of China. Standing between China and the foreign powers in 1900 with a howling mob of frenzied Boxer fanatics swarming about Chefoo, the guns of the Chinese fort at the point trained on the American Consulate and the combined naval fleets of Europe drawn up in the Pechili Straits, and with the Diplomatic Body cooped up within the Legation quarter at Pekin, Mr. Fowler by energetic co-operation with Yuan Shih K'ai, then Governor of Shantung Province, quelled the disorders in that district. He saved scores of lives of missionaries in the interior by the prompt rescue measures carried out by him in the face of powerful opposition and for these meritorious services, rendered possible through the confidence reposed in his wisdom, ability and integrity of purpose by foreigners and Chinese alike he was decorated by the Emperor of China with the Order of the Double Dragon of the Third Division of the First Class and was honored with memorials and mementos of the high esteem in which he was held by the foreign community.

At the conclusion of the Russo-Japanese War he was again decorated by the Emperor of China for aiding China to maintain neutrality throughout that conflict. Mr. Fowler not only rendered service to the Empire during the struggle between her neighbors, but he saved the lives of many individuals and their property from confiscation by the Japanese authorities immediately following the war. He also received the decoration of the Order of the Sacred Treasure from the Japanese Emperor in 1897 and was tendered thanks from the Japanese government for his service during the Japan-China War.

Last year Mr. Fowler conducted a strenuous campaign single handed against the Chefoo Consular Body, of which he is Dean, and the Foreign Chamber of Commerce, thwarting their attempt to saddle the expense of constructing a breakwater in Chefoo harbor on the trade of the port, a charge which would adversely affect American commerce. American goods costitute over 25 per cent. of all the imports at Chefoo and the major portion of the Shantung silk exported from Chefoo goes to the United States. Under the plan proposed the trade of the port would have to bear two-thirds of the cost of the undertaking, and the shipping, which is mostly British, German and Japanese, would only have to pay one-third, while receiving most of the benefits. Mr. Fowler considering the propostion to be a veiled attack on American interests, took a firm stand at much personal sacrifice and prevented the Diplomatic Body from sanctioning the proposed suttax.

Mr. Fowler is 53 years of age. He came to China in 1890 as American Consul at Ningpo. He was transferred to Chefoo in 1896, making his service in this country extend over a period of 22 years of which he has spent 16 years in Chefoo.

It is reported that Mr. Julian H. Arnold, the American Consul at Amoy, will succeed Mr. Fowler at Chefoo, but this could not be confirmed officially yesterday.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"Nobody's Widow" which comes to the Castle Square next week is a brilliant American comedy written by Avery Hopwood. It was first produced by David Belasco with Miss Blanche Bates in the title role. It has now been secured by John Craig for one of the final plays of his current season at the Castle Square, and it promises a week of exceptional diversity and romantic comedy.

The scenes of "Nobody's Widow" are laid at Palm Beach in Florida, and the heroine is a sparkling creature who in revenge for a fancied pecadillo on her newly wedded husband's part, leaves him on the verge of their honeymoon.

An effective cast at the Castle Square will give "Nobody's Widow" an unusually satisfactory production. Mary Young will appear in the title role, and John Craig will play the part of the deserted husband. Others in the cast will be George Hassell, Donald Meek and Mabel Colcord.

INSPECTION OF GAS CO.

A tour of inspection and investigation of the Arlington Gas Light Co., its plant, mains, extensions in construction, and territory served in Arlington, Belmont and Winchester has just been made by a party of expert engineers headed by J. H. Waterman, general superintendent of the Massachusetts Lighting Companies.

Other members of the party were R. Y. Conklin, engineer of the Massachusetts Lighting Companies, H. E. Learned engineer of Light, Heat & Power Corporation of Boston, and E. L. Locke manager of the Arlington Gas Light Co. The result of the inspection was satisfactory and showed the progress of the local company to be properly conducted both with respect to the extension in construction and the new plant to be built.

The committee comprising one member from each of the Town departments having in charge the minimum wage question, will in all propability recommend to the Town that able bodied laboring men be paid at the rate of $2.25 per day.

The Wakefield police prevented a meeting of the Industrial Workers of the World in that town last Sunday. This organization is looked upon all over the United States as a menace to the institutions of the country. They would pull down, not build up.

A new steamship, the Evangeline, now building in England, will be placed in service between Boston and Halifax and Charlottetown when completed in August. Next winter, it is announced, she will inaugurate a new service between Boston and Bermuda. When Bostonians can go anywhere, without first going to New York, there is cause for rejoicing.

Newsy Paragraphs.

Rev. George B. Spurr has relinquished his parish at Petersham, Mass., and is going to Europe next week for a year of travel and study.

The streets about the center are receiving their annual coating of oil. A coat of sand or gravel, spread over the streets immediately after the preparation is laid has aided much this season in preserving the rugs and carpets and also makes the streets considerably safer for automobile traffic in preventing the dangerous skidding.

A meeting of the Massachusetts Teacher's Federation was held at the Riverbank Court, Cambridge, on Saturday last for the transaction of routine business. The clubs of Cambridge, Brockton, Revere, and Canton were admitted to membership which, now includes over five thousand teachers. A report from the committee on propaganda showed that several new clubs are being organized for the purpose of joining the Federation.

Memorial exercises will be held as usual in the Town Hall on the evening of May 30th. The musical program will be in charge of Mr. Ernst Makechnie who will bring to his aid an orchestra and a chorus of school children who will sing familiar songs.

Announcement has been made this week of another fete at Aigremont, the beautiful estate of Mr. and Mrs. Oren C Sanborn, similar to that of last season which was entitled "Pandora's Box." The affair will take place on the 20th of June. It will consist of a group of three Grecian dances, presenting the "Blue Danube." As in the previous presentation the dances will take place out of doors, with the beautiful Sanborn residence, with its Grecian architecture, as a background.

The meeting of the Winchester Mothers' Association on Wednesday was a large one, as the subject for the afternoon was of unusual interest, "Secret Societies in the public schools." A detailed report of the meeting will be given in next week's STAR.

A meeting of the Winchester Mothers' Association was held in the Assembly Hall of the High School Building Wednesday. Mrs. William C Sache presided and the subject for discussion was secret societies in the public schools. The discussion was opened by Mrs Harrison Parker and addresses on the subject were made by Schuyler F. Herron, superintendent of schools; Rev. John W Suter, Miss Viola Sullivan, Miss Marion McGregor Noyes and Dr. Frederika Moore. A general discussion of the matter followed. Refreshments were served by the entertainment committee under the direction of Mrs. F. J. Muir. The association accepted the invitation of Mrs. Harrison Parker to hold the June meeting at her home on Main street. The affair will be in the nature of a garden party.

Mr. E. Alden Bigelow was elected to the church committee of the First Congregational Church, to succeed Mr. Ralph Redfern, Wednesday.

Mr. Sylvester Taylor has as his guest his sister, Mrs. Stevens of New York.

BOWLING ENDS.

The mixed bowling tournament at the Calumet Club closed on Tuesday night, when the final games were rolled. The winners of the tournament had already been decided on the pervious Friday, when team 10, by a margin of but one pin, lost its opportunity to tie team 6 for the honor. This would have necessitated a roll-off to decide the winner.

Following are the winners:

First team prize—team winning greatest number of points. Won by team 6. Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Davy, Mr. and Mrs. Russell B. Wiggin, Dr. and Mrs. J. Churchill Hindes.

Second team prize—team winning second largest number of points. Won by team 10. Mr. and Mrs. T. Price Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Benj. F. Blank, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Brown.

The individual prizes will not be awarded until the Bowling Commitee meets.

ASSAULTS BY STRIKERS.

Trouble among the striking Italians broke out again early last Saturday morning and as a result, Gaspar Ossiro was arrested by Chief William R. McIntosh, charged with assault on Edward Boyle, and also with carrying a concealed weapon, a dangerous looking dirk knife being found upon his person when searched by the officers after the arrest. The assault was the result of an altercation over the strike, which is still being carried on by the Italians who are organized and endeavoring to induce others to join in the strike.

It was reported last Friday that an Italian who is employed by some of the wealthy citizens to work about their grounds, was approached by three of the strikers and threatened with his life if he did not leave his work.

Chief McIntosh is keeping a close watch on the affair, and is prepared to meet any emergency which may arise as a result of the strike.

Thus far no serious outbreaks have occured, with the exception of two or three assaults on those who refused to join the strike, and these have been promptly taken care of by the police.

WINCHESTER 4 CHELSEA CLOCK 1.

The Winchester team won its second game of the season on Manchester Field, Saturday afternoon, defeating the strong Chelsea Clock team by a score of 4 to 1.

It was a fast clean game, and the local team did excellent work, features of which were the clean stick work by Thornton, who got four hits in four times up, one of them being a three bagger; three of the four runs were made by Badger, and Kenney made a difficult one-handed catch in left field.

Foley was in the box for Winchester and did effective work, striking out 9 and making one of the runs.

Wood, the opposing pitcher struck out twelve. He was given good support in the field, but bunched hits by the Winchester batsmen, gave them an advantage.

Murray, O'Connor and Doherty figured in a well executed double play in the 7th inning.

The management of the local team is putting on some good games and as the season advances, will give some good exhibitions of the national sport.

BURLESQUE TRACK MEET.

A burlesque track meet and indoor baseball game was held in the gymnasium of the High School Monday afternoon for the benefit of the High School Recorder, the school paper. The basket ball game between nines representing Harvard and Yale, was won by the latter, 1 to 0. Lloyd Clark won the 100-inch dash, making the slowest time of any of the contestants. The running broad grin was won by Wray Rohrman, and the standing high grin by Leslie Johnston. A novel race called the "toot-he-went," was won by Lloyd Clark, and the obstacle race by Franklin Lane. A large tin pitcher was presented to Lane for the most points won. The ambulance corps was on hand and their services were called for frequently to aid those who could not stand the pace. Richard Fenno and Robert Coit impersonated the ambulance. Miss Lillian Winn was the nurse and Richard Noyes the doctor. Miss Esther Parshley and Miss Lucy Stearns were garbed as clowns and they with Miss Marion Butler, Laura Chandler and Miss Alberta Seagrave were the Cordette Orchestra, and furnished an unusual brand of "music" on a queer assortment of instruments. Raymond Strawbridge was present in the role of "Teddy Rosenfelt," and made a strenuous campagin speech for open fishing, an aerial ferry to solve the grade crossing problem, equal suffrage for the girls and equal rights for the boys to be admitted to the gymnasium during recess. The affair was an immense success from the standpoint both of fun and finance, a tidy sum being realized for the paper.

PHILOMATHEAN SOCIETY.

The last meeting of the Philomathean Society, the debating club of Winchester High School, was held in the School Library Tuesday evening. A short business meeting was held previous to the initiation of two new members, Mr. Richard Noyes and Mr. Robert Coit. Mr. Noyes spoke entertainingly on the Social Question, and Mr. Coit discussed "Topics for Debate."

Following this an excellent debate was held on the question: Resolved, that amateur wireless operators should be prohibited.

For the affirmative, Messrs. Weber and Strawbridge more than held their own against the negative composed of Messrs. Getty, Rohrman and Swett. Mr. Weber for the affirmative gave a brief history of, and the theory of wireless, and laid great stress on amateur interference by absorption of the waves by intervening stations.

Mr. Getty for the negative brought out the opportunities in the wireless and especially the chances for amateur invention of new devices. He offered a suggestion that restrictions be placed so that amateurs could send but two miles. He pointed out the necessity of amateurs, as they could do little harm but good.

Mr. Strawbridge brought out an illustration of a friend, as a type of all amateur operators, who would continually work his key, filling the air with electricity to the detriment of government stations. He showed that on account of disturbance that many messages could not be read by the larger stations. Thus in a case of need, as a boat sinking, no help could be summoned.

Mr. Swett disagreed with the preceding speaker in regard to the young man who filled the air with waves, saying that the high power stations could tune out the disturbance.

Mr. Rohrman refuted the statement that intervening stations absorb much of the power of the either waves. He showed how amateurs do good, and pointed out as a specific incident the case of a sinking boat off Halifax. S. O. S. calls were sent out but government operators were asleep. An amateur received the call, reported it at once, and the vessell with all on board was saved.

Mr. Getty closing for the negative showed how amateurs were needed in time of need, and spoke of possible wrecks if there were no amateurs.

Mr. Weber refuted statements that amateur wireless operators could be of any great assistance, brought up again the important fact that intervening stations take up waves carrying important messages.

The judges, Messrs. Watson and Thompson retired and returned a verdict for the affirmative. In a short speech Mr. Watson gave the boys some vauable advice for future debates.

BASE BALL.

The Winchester Highlands Athletic Club Baseball team met defeat last Saturday afternoon at the hands of the Stoneham A. A., by a score of 17-9. The game was interesting and contained many individual brilliant plays. Murphy's work in the field was particularly fine, he capturing six hard flies. At the bat Bellville, Cooper, and Obregon excelled, while for the visitors Bennett starred.

The score by innings:

TREMONT THEATRE.

With the same joyous music, effervescent comedy and splendid company that has delighted theatregoers throughout the entire country, Boston's own prima donna, Christie MacDonald begins tomorrow night the third week of her limited engagement in Boston in the wonderful Viennese operetta of happiness, "The Spring Maid."

Never has an operetta struck the chord of popular approval so certainly as has this winsome prima donna in this glorious musical romance.

The strains of "Day Dreams," "Two little love Bees," "How I love a Pretty Face," and the other musical masterpieces are already familiar to every music lover.

Supporting Miss MacDonald is a cast of unusual excellence headed by Thomas Conkey, Ben Hendricks, Mae Phelps, Charles H. Hart, Charles W. Meyers, Isabelle Francis and Tom McNaughton, the droll English comedian. They in turn are supported by the "Spring Maid" chorus and ballet of sixty.

There will be the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

RECEPTION TO RECTOR.

An informal reception and smoker of the men of the parish of the Epiphany was held last Friday evening at the parish house to afford the men an opportunity to meet Rev. Murray W. Dewart, the new rector. The evening was pleasantly spent with "congregational" singing by the gathering, with J. Albert Wilson at the piano, Sylvester H. Taylor entertained with some character sketches, including Harry Lauder in "When I Get Back to Bonny Scotland," "English as You See it on Broadway," and a Bowery tough on "The True Tale of Columbus." George M. Morley contributed two piano selections which were well received. Rev Dr. Dewart spoke of the cordial manner in which he had been received since coming to the parish and asked for the hearty cooperation of the men of the parish in the work. The affair was in charge of a committee consisting of William S. Olmsted, L. Winthrop Barta, J. N. Penahgan, C. Howard Bartlett and E. L. Burwell.

CLASS OF 1895.

Much interest is being shown by the High School team over the game with the Class of 1895 on the 30th of May. Last year the latter won by a considerable margin, but the local boys do not intend to have this happen again this year. The present High School team has been greatly strengthened by the addition of some new players, and together with the aid of the coach, have made a very creditable showing so far this season.

1895 will have the same team as last year and are very optimistic as to the result of the contest.

The degree staff of Santa Maria Court, Daughters of Isabella, visited the court at Milton last evening and conferred the second degree on a class of candidates there. The regular meeting of the Winchester Court will be held this evening, at the K. of C. rooms.

WINCHESTER V. I. S. GIVEN CREDIT.

The enviable reputation that Winchester enjoys as a Boston suburb had its origin in the organization of the "Winchester Village Improvement Society" some 25 years ago, the idea of which had its birth in the brain of Samuel W. Twombly, a public spirited and active worker in promoting the material interests of that fair Mystic Valley town. He was soon joined by other citizens of wealth and influence and the W. V. I. S. was a success. Appreciating the advantages of Mr. Twombly's Society, contributions of money, time and labor came generously in aid of its work; the authorities heartily endorsed, and voted liberal sums to help execute its plans for beautifying and increasing the attractions of Winchester as a residential town, which was the original design of Mr. Twombly and his associates, and the splendid results of which, begun in a small way, are seen and enjoyed there today.—[Woburn Journal.

GRADE CROSSING.

Selectmen Meet Property Owners at Conference.

Last Friday evening in the General Committee room in the Town Hall building the Selectmen had a conference with the property owners in the centre of the town regarding the matter of damages that might arise if the town plan of abolishing the crossing was finally agreed upon by all the interested parties.

All the members of the Board of Selectmen were present and also about twenty property owners.

In opening the meeting, Mr. Pond, Chairman of the Selectmen, said:

"The Selectmen have called you together as the result of a vote passed at the Town Meeting held April 29th, which reads:

"Voted:—That the town adhere to its choice heretofore repeatedly declared in its town meetings, and again affirms its preference for the general method of abolishing the grade crossing, known as the Town Plan, raising the highway over the railroad at the center of the town, and providing a subway for pedestrians at the present station. And the Selectmen are instructed to have this plan advocated and insisted upon before all tribunals, and to take all proper measures to secure its adoption.

"We approach a large subject, and we are the ones, it would seem to the Board, that will have the largest voice and influence in its settlement. We start with the assumption, based upon the two votes of the Town, that they wish to have this grade crossing elimination settled in a definite way, and that involves the interests of every one here,—the property interests,—and it is to see if a 'get together' spirit can be arrived at that shall make it possible to attain the results that the town has evidently decided upon. The Board of Selectmen I think shrink somewhat from this responsibility and the task involved. Our efforts will be fruitless unless there shall be the heartiest co-operation, amounting almost to an entirely unselfish treatment of the whole subject. We are citizens first and property owners afterwards; and I know of no better way in which we can show our regard for the interests of the town than in the endeavor mutually to solve this question. We are confronted with a rather confused condition which it seems to our Counsel is somewhat of a handicap in our efforts to carry out the town's wishes, as a result of the lack of co-operation extending over many years. As I understand it, the Commission stand read and practically committed to an elimination of the grade crossing by prescribing a bridge at the station. I think it is quite evident that the town does not want this and that the abutters do not want it; it is perhaps a happy condition that the owners of property at the center do want what the town wants. Now how shall that be attained other than by the spirit of co-operation which I have mentioned? It is worthy of our deepest interest and of the strongest purpose to solve this problem. I cannot help feeling that this body of men and those who represent the property interests of our town are all to be inspired by the broad thought of what is for the best interests of the town, and also by the further broad thought that that which is for the best interests of the town is for the best interest of the individual. It is an attempt to make some headway in the solution of this problem that the Board of Selectmen have asked the property owners to meet them and frankly discuss the conditions. I can assure you that every assistance you can possibly render will be more than welcome, and we shall try to treat it in the spirit in which it is given."

Mr. Chas. F. Dutch, Town Counsel, explained the present situation of the grade crossing abolition matter as it stands before the railroad commissioners, stating that a tentative plan exists in the Commissioner's Office ready for issue, recommending a single bridge and 60 ft. way across the tracks at the station and closing the center; but that it was quite possible the matter might be re-opened before the Commission and what is known as the Town Plan carried through. In that case an agreement among the property owners of the Center would be a very necessary feature. A proposed form of agreement which he had drafted and which was based upon the old form of agreement previously signed, was read by him and explained in detail, and was freely discussed by those present, particularly, J. A. Laraway, Arthur E. Whitney, F. E. Hovey, Theodore P. Wilson, G. A. Fernald, Frank L. Ripley, Frank M. White, John P. Wright, Town Engineer Hinds, Daniel Kelley and Mr. Daly of the Selectmen.

Mr. Ripley spoke as follows: "I am very much interested in this matter, and am heartily in favor of having the town plan carried out; and I believe it will be much better for property owners as a whole to carry out Mr. Dutch's ideas regarding the minor possible damages than it would be to introduce them. I can see very clearly that the property owners of the center, people who are unfortunate enough to have property there, that possibly they may be called upon to make too great sacrifices. I have a little selfish part in my heart which asks why should I be called upon to contribute more than my proper share; but I believe that we shall be treated fairly. I have not a question but that the plan covers all the property, land and houses, and I am heartily in favor of carrying out the general plan and have it signed up and making the matter of damages just as clear as possible."

No objection to the proposed agreement, except in matters of detail, was raised by any of the parties at the meeting, and a rising vote showed that the project as a whole, and the agreement in general as outlined, was satisfactory, the vote being practically unanimous.

This paper will be circulated among the property owners for signatures, and after these have been obtained, Town Counsel Dutch armed with this and the recent vote passed in favor of the town plan, will ask the special commissioners to re-open the hearing, and efforts made to find out what the other interests will do regarding this proposition.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The Winchester Union celebrated its thirty-sixth anniversary last Friday at the home of Mrs. J. L. Lutes, 31 Vine street. Mrs. Augusta J. Brigham of Malden, secretary of the Middlesex County Woman's Christian Temperance Union, led the devotional exercises and Mrs. Rand of West Newton, County superintendent of scientific temperance instruction gave a very interesting address along the lines of her work telling of some of her experiences in visiting the public schools which showed how very unscientific some of the instruction may be.

The Union voted to entertain a group of children from the Frances E. Willard settlement some time in June, Mrs. Daniel Kelley to have charge of the affair, the time and place to be announced late.

The president, Mrs. Grace M. Hamilton was made a life member of the State W. C. T. U. by vote of the Union, a well deserved honor for her long and active efforts in behalf of the work.

Winchester is to entertain the County convention next September at its annual meeting and committees for the purpose will be announced at the next meeting. Delegates for the spring convention at Maynard, May 23, were also appointed. At the close of the business session ice cream and cake were served and a social time enjoyed.

At the recent meeting of the Massachusetts Total Abstinence Society it was announced that over six thousand school children had signed the total abstinence pledge. We wonder how many of them were L. T. L. members and how many who were not can be enrolled in the Legion. It would be worth while to find out.

CAN HE COLLECT?

The announcement by State Tax Commissioner Tretry that he proposes to hold city and town tax collectors responsible for all taxes uncollected after three years is bound to be of special and personal interest to Collectors.

The law, chapter 272, of the acts of the present year, does not say that the collectors are responsible, but that the State tax commissioners "shall bring an action of contract against such collector and upon his bond for the recovery into the treasury of any taxes thus uncollected or unaccounted for." It will be noticed that this is mandatory.

But whether the unfortunate collectors will eventually have to pony up will depend upon circumstances and the exigencies of law suits, together with the feelings of juries. If they should be generally held liable in the courts, the job of tax collector would become about as popular as that of the public hangman.

THE WINCHESTER STRIKE.

There is a strike in Winchester among certain employees of two prominent contractors. So far as is apparent to an impartial onlooker the strikers have no prima facie grievance against their employers, who grade the pay of the laborers according to what they consider the individual's worth. This state of things is not satisfactory, however, to those who receive the lowest wages. They want as much as the others, regardless of worth, and the obvious remedy is, not to do better work and more of it, but to strike. So they have struck.

We believe that the constitution of the United States guarantees a man's right to quit his work on account of a real or a fancied grievance, and even to take his fellow workmen with him, if he can persuade them to go. Some of the Winchester strikers, however, have gone so far as to intimidate their better paid fellows who did not feel called upon to quit their jobs. Their attitude was correctly set forth by one of the number who was arrested the other day for assaulting other laborers and threatening their lives. He declared that they had no right to go to work. His views were primitive but clearly defined.

These men are trespassing upon the rights, not only of their employers and fellow workmen, but of other workmen and employers who have no connection with the situation over which these men are striking. It is not a question whether or not the situation is likely to become serious. It is serious enough when such conditions exist.

The Winchester police are vigilant and active and quite able to prevent any great disorder. The trouble is that in this country we do not give the authorities enough support in handling such disturbances. The spirit of the American people is too lenient with disorder; particularly industrial disorder. Violence is the less excusable for the reason that it has just the opposite effect from that which is intended. Instability and disorder in the labor market demoralize constructive activity, discourage employment and make business bad for employer and employee. There is a bare possibility that some day this rather important fact may be understood; and when it is the police will have no difficulty in handling rioting strikers, for the people will be back of them, and that is what gives force to authority.—[Woburn News.

PROBATING WILLS.

The present legislature has passed an act relative to the probating of wills which will make that task a much easier one in the future. If it appears to the judge of probate by satisfactory evidence that no person interested in the estate of a deceased person intends to object to the probating of the will, the court may grant probate thereof upon the testimony of one only of the three subscribing witnesses. The matter is further simplified by the witness being permitted to make affidavit before the registrar of probate. The act even cuts all red tape in the cases where the widow or widower of the deceased and all heirs-at law and next of kin assent in writing to the probating of the will and permits the will to be allowed without the testimony of any witness. Whoever is the father of this law to make the probating of a simple will free from all difficulties deserves the thanks of a great many people who have to do business with our probate courts.

BOSTON THEATRE.

Because of the sensational success scored by popular Julian Eltinge in "The Fascinating Widow," every endeavor is being made to lengthen the engagement at the Boston Theatre and keep this marvelous young performer in our midst just as long as possible. But it is highly probable that his visit to Boston will be terminated soon and inasmuch as the present engagement will be absolutely his only appearance in New England, theatregoers are urged not to miss their opportunity, and to go to the Boston Theatre before it is too late. To watch this famous young actor masquerade as a woman throughout the entire performance of "The Fascinating Widow" is well worth going many miles to see.

For the benefit of out of town patrons the Wednesday and Saturday matinees are suggested. There are fully 800 good seats on the orchestra floor at $1.00.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

One of the strongest and best all-star vaudeville bills seen at B. F. Keith's Theatre in months is promised for next week at the popular resort. One of the big novelties will be Joseph Hart's newest and funniest comedy with music, entitled "A Night in a Turkish Bath." The scene of this piece is laid in a New York bath establishment after midnight. A well-to do drug salesman, much the worse for wear and tear, has picked up two tough railroad freight brakemen in his wanderings, and brings them into the bath to get over the night before. The brakemen have never seen anything like the marble cooling room of the baths before, and their wonderment is a source of great amusement to the others. All the regular habitues of the baths are depicted, and incidental to the story a number of musical specialties are introduced. The comedy element is exceptionally strong, and the laughs follow one another in rapid succession. Aside from this big feature, Conlin, Steele and Carr, the college girl and the rah-rah boys, will appear in one of the liveliest and most diverting musical melanges imaginable. Conroy and LeMare are blackface comedians, with a clever skit entitled "The Pinochle Fiends," and two newcomers are Joe Keno and Rosie Green, clever eccentric dancers. Phil Staats, late of "Excuse Me," will poke fun at his avoirdupois and entertain with piano novelties. The Four Londons are wonderful aerialists who fairly make one hold his breath; Maude Hall Macy has a funny sketch called "The Magpie and the Jay," and Romano and Delano are European novelty entertainers.

PARK THEATRE.

Paul J. Rainey's African Hunt which opened an indefinite engagement at the Park Theatre, Boston, Monday evening proved to be one of the real surprises of the season and is easily the most marvelous exposition of what can be accomplished with the motion picture, ever revealed in this country. The entertainment consists of a complete motion picture and stereopticon story of the $250,000 Big Game Hunt of Paul J. Rainey the Millionaire Sportsman, the whole fully explained by a lecturer and it contains almost as many thrills as one would have imagined the hunter himself or the photographer undergoing.

The moving picture operator who accompanied Mr. Rainey on his hunt for the purpose of securing the pictures risked his life repeatedly in going close to wild animals. There is no nature faking or posing in the pictures as a casual glance at them will show and it is not exaggerating to say again that they are easily the most remarkably motion pictures ever shown. Judging by the attendance Monday evening it will be many weeks before they leave.

STATE TAX TO BE LARGE

Needs of State Have Been Great and Are Increasing Yearly.

RADICAL ELECTION CHANGES DEFEATED

Chances of Governor Foss at Democratic National Convention for Vice Presidential Nomination.

Members of the Legislature are concerned over the probable size of the state tax this year. The present indications are that it will be close to $7,500,000, which would be the record levy, though it may be kept down to $6,500,000. The Great and General Court is constantly being importuned to embark the State in costly undertakings, and usually there are few, if any, remonstrants against such expenditures. Consequently the legislator hears only one side, and it is sometimes hard to refuse persistent importunities from his constituents These needs increase faster than sources of revenue are found.

The Legislature has steadily enacted laws which seemed absolutely necessary, that have nevertheless increased the cost of government. A few years ago the State took over from the cities and towns the care of the insane, at a cost of more than a million dollars a year. While the cities and towns were thus relieved of that much expense they spent just as much the following years for local needs and their state tax was greater, making a larger total tax.

Eventually the tax paying public will find out they will have to pay for all the new things which they demand from the Legislature. In the last few years they have demanded state highways, metropolitan parks, state reservations in the country and at the seashore, new and improved sanitoriums for state charges, public control of Boston docks, piers and wharves, state primaries, as well as a hundred and one other things too numerous to mention. It may be true that these are things which help to make the cost of living. And it is just as true now as it ever was that "Those who dance must pay the fiddler."

Defeat of Election Innovations.

The Legislature has just defeated a measure to eliminate a large part of the expense to which candidates at the primaries and elections in this State are now subject. It is the so-called progressive method already adopted in several Western states. It prohibited all expenses on the part of the candidates beyond those necessary for traveling and for purposes incidental to traveling, for newspapering advertising, for personal correspondence, for preparing and transmitting to the Secretary of the Commonwealth statements intended for publication in primary and election bulletins, and for preparing, circulating and filing nomination papers, and also for voluntary payments of money to political committees for promotion of the principles of the party. Under it provision was made for transportation to the polls at public expense of such persons as are physically incapable of otherwise attending, and also provision at public expense for suitable halls for rallies.

Provision was also made for an official bulletin, to be issued prior to the primaries, in parts, each part to be designated by the name of one of the political parties and to contain statements of candidates of that party and no others. Four successive numbers of an election bulletin were also provided for, to be issued fifteen days preceding the regular state election at intervals of four days. In these primary and election bulletins all candidates whose names were to appear on any ballot were entitled to proportional space.

This method has already been adopted by several Western states but the Election Committee considered it inexpedient to adopt it at this time. The bill as first offered eliminated entirely newspaper advertising in a campaign and substituted for it bulletins as described to be issued at the public expense.

This will show the tendency of the times. Possibly the millennium will be hastened by legislation; perhaps, however, it may only come with the reform of the individual. Meanwhile the average man is hoping that conditions will not become worse through the radical changes which are now being made in methods of government in the states.

Governor Foss at Baltimore.

The prospects of Governor Foss in the Democratic National convention are exciting considerable interest in Massachusetts, especially in view of the general impression that a western or southern Democrat is likely to be named for president. There was a time when the governor told his friends with an air of conviction that he was going to be nominated for president himself, but no one is taking a great deal of stock in that happening now. His political associates have advised him to aim for the presidency and compromise on the vice presidency, and that is his plan at present, although not laying too much stress upon the former part of the program.

Very likely if a western man or a southerner is nominated for president, the Democrats will feel like selecting an eastern man for the second place. It is regarded as good politics to do so. It is not impossible that the convention might come as far east as Massachusetts, although it is not perhaps an even chance. But the hope would be in doing so, that the New England states, or a majority of them, might thus be made Democratic; that Massachusetts, at least, might give its electoral vote to the Democratic candidates. But there are states with more electoral votes than Massachusetts, and numbers are what the Democratic convention will aim to angle for, in disposing of the second place. New York is a great state with a big block of electoral votes, and it is a doubtful state, at the present time. Many Democrats are asking if it could be ignored, in case the nomination for president goes westward.

Nomination Is Problematical.

While it is quite within the possibilities that Gov. Foss may be nominated for vice president, it is problematical. In 1896 the ticket was Bryan of Nebraska and Sewell of Maine, but never since has the vice presidential nomination come so far east, and not for a great many years previous to that. And the locality argument is a mighty strong one with a national convention, although it may seem trivial to the onlooker. Besides all that, Massachusetts has never in the last half century wavered in a presidential year in her loyalty to the Republican candidate for president, and her record is well known to the Democrats of the country. They will have to be shown that conditions have radically changed to convince them that Mr. Foss could carry it as a candidate for the vice presidency on the Democratic ticket. William E. Russell carried it as the Democratic candidate for governor in 1892 but it gave a solid Republican vote for Benjamin Harrison for president. William L. Douglas carried it as a candidate for governor in 1904, but Roosevelt electors were chosen by more than 90,000 majority.

If he is not nominated for vice president it is thought Mr. Foss will again be candidate for governor.

American-Jamaican Trade Extension.

With a possible "commercial exposition" in view, at which American manufactures might be displayed and thus brought to the attention of Jamaican tradespeople, Consul Snyder of Kingston began interviewing leading Kingston merchants and one in particular, a wholesale hardware dealer who, he believed, imported little, if any, hardware from the United States. Inquiry developed that his warehouse was stocked with thousands of dollars' worth of American goods, such as carpenter's tools, ready-mixed paints, whips, harness, and nails. He said that he has recently begun to import corrugated iron roofing and wire fencing also, and stated that while American imports are not increasing by "leaps and bounds," they are steadily driving both British and German manufacturers to greater efforts to maintain the trade they have hitherto enjoyed.

The same may be said of the larger dry goods houses, to which were submitted samples (with prices) of a child's jumper suit made in one of the New England States. Notwithstanding many of them maintain a buyer in London, they have placed large orders with this New England manufacturer. Continuing his investigations, he found similar conditions existing among others of the leading merchants, and therefore concluded that a commercial exposition such as he had contemplated would not justify the expense it would entail.

If American manufacturers will (and some of them do) send out competent salesmen, their trade in the West Indies should develop greatly.

New Montreal Railroad Terminals.

The most important event in real estate and railway circles, and one which strengthened speculation in real estate on Montreal Island more than anything else, was the completion of plans of the Canadian Northern Railway for large terminal facilities in both the suburbs and city. The company has bought 4,000 acres north and west of Mount Royal, reaching from the mountain to where the Riviere des Prairies leaves the Lake of Two Mountains to form the northern boundary of Montreal Island. Along this right of way will be built shops, factories, and suburban towns. Mount Royal will be pierced by a double-track tunnel 3.3 miles in length, which will come out on the south side of the mountain in the center of the city near the present Windsor station of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Here a passenger station will be built somewhat on the lines of the new Pennsylvania Railway Station in New York.

Cotton Growing in Chihuahua.

Consul Marion Letcher, of Chihuahua City, states that not much cotton is produced in the Mexican State of Chihuahua. The latest statistics—those for 1908—show only 499,400 pounds, of which 455,400 pounds were produced in the district of Camargo, of which Santa Rosalia is the principal city. However, the consul is informed that with the completion of the irrigation dam on the Conchos River at la Boquilla, a few miles from Santa Rosalia, cotton planting in the irrigated territoory will be begun on a considerable scale.

Snails a Plague In Ceylon.

The region about Bernwala in Ceylon was not long ago afflicted with a veritable plague of snails. Though these animals are extraordinarily prolific they do not often appear in sufficiently large numbers to make themselves serious

Mr. John L. Lutes of Vine street suffered the death of his father Moses W. Lutes of Hillsboro, N. B., a week ago last Thursday. He was 71 years of age and dropped dead of apoplexy in his lawyers office while preparing his will. He left a family of four sons and three daughters.

Mrs. S. L. Bush of 132 Mt. Vernon street who underwent a very serious operation at the Mass. Homeopathic Hospital Thursday night of last week is recovering satisfactorily and it is hoped she may be removed to her home within two weeks. Mrs. Bush was stricken suddenly ill during the afternoon of that day and an immediate operation was found to be imperative. She was moved to Boston by ambulance. An odd coincidence in connection with this case is the fact that, within a few months, three serious operations have been suffered by members of the two families occupying the double house at 130-132 Mt. Vernon street, the other two occurring in the family of Mr. B. F. Miner.

The Electric Fixtures are being installed at the residence of Mr. Frank A. Cummings on Ravenscroft road, by E. C. Sanderson, the Electrician.

A freight tram passed through the center at a high rate of speed last Saturday afternoon. On one of the empty gondola cars the under trap doors were swinging down, just clearing the rails. As the car passed over the electric car cross-over these doors struck the loose stone between the rails, sending showers of it flying in every direction and tearing one of the trap doors partially off, so that it struck the track at every car length, sending out showers of sparks. Fortunately no one was near the crossing at the time to be injured by the flying stones.

The Servant Problem

"Wear-Ever" Aluminum Utensils

help to solve it.

In three ways a careless cook destroys cooking utensils.

1. She allows them to rust;
2. She strikes them against the stove and they chip and scale; and
3. She ruins them by burning food in them.

Now, a "Wear-Ever" utensil cannot rust, it cannot chip or scale, and burning food in it—which does not happen as readily as in other utensils—has no effect whatever upon the utensil. How, then, can a servant destroy it? She may burn it or pound it with a hammer, but even then it can be restored to its original shape and worth.

Since "Wear-Ever" utensils are bright and cleanly, are made without seams, and because food cooked in them requires less stirring than when cooked in other utensils, they are favorites with the cook. Don't blame the servant for the fault of the utensil.

TENTH JUNE BREAKFAST

Will be held in Town Hall on Saturday, June 1st.

Eleven years ago the Visiting Nurse Association held a June Breakfast in order to obtain funds for its work. It was an experiment, but so successful that it has now become an annual event which is anticipated with great pleasure by young and old. Saturday morning, June 1st for the tenth time the people of Winchester and its suburbs will breakfast together in the Town Hall from six to nine.

This will be an occasion "by ordinary." Everybody is invited: Come to the breakfast and help to make it the most delightful event of the season.

The Association has special reasons for rejoicing this year because of the successful inauguration of the new hospital. It greatly appreciates the cheerful co-operation of the town in contributing food, money and personal work.

An orchestra of six pieces will add to the sociability of the affair by furnishing music throughout the morning. Tickets will be twenty-five cents each.

BASE BALL.

The game tomorrow of the Winchester team will be with the Prospect Unions of Cambridge, a strong amateur team, said to be very fast. The game will take place at 3.30 on Manchester Field. The local team has not lost a game thus far, and judging from present appearances will have one of the best teams yet to represent the town this season.

The line-up of the visitors will be as follows:—

McGilvary 3b
Armstrong ss
Easley 2b
Haley 1b

1895 VS 1912.

Old School Boys will Show Younger How to Play Ball.

The '95 Winchester High School Base Ball team has accepted the challange of the present High School team for a base ball game, on Manchester Field on the morning of Memorial Day. It seems hardly possible to the members of the '95 team that 17 years have elapsed since they represented the High School on the diamond. After 16 years of retirement as an organization the '95 team got into action against the High School last year. Those who saw the game, from the time Father Lyons landed on the first ball pitched for a two bagger, until Eddie Smalley retired the last batter on strikes, had to admit that altho the 16 years rest had done the old boys good, or else in their prime they must have been wonders, for at the close of the ninth inning the '95 team had gathered 13 runs to the High School's 6. After the game it is reported that Capt. Nowell was busy declining offers from the Red Sox's Cubs and White Elephants occasioned by his brilliant playing at second base. Twelve chances without an error was "Jims" record. The loyalty of the men of the team is a matter for much congratulation and shows how much athletics serve to bind together men, who after their schools days go out into different places and follow different vocations. To a man all responded to the call for another game. One of the events looked forward to by the members of this old team is the annual dinner held at one of the Boston Hotels. The men also show good spirit in getting out for practice. On Tuesday a practice game was played with the 2nd National Bank team which resulted in a '95 victory 10 6. The personnel of the team is as follows: E. B. Smalley, pitcher, occupation furniture business; G. W. Payne, catcher, George is a salesman; R. B. Redfern, lumber merchant, 1st base; Capt. Jno Nowell, banker, 2nd base; J. W. Russell, jr., farmer, short stop; Father Wm. Lyons, third base, Father Lyons is looking after the spiritual welfare of Lynn; C. E. Ordway, physcian, left field; Charles Wellman, center field, Charles is a Unitarian minister and is located in Dorchester; C. L. Mitchell, lumber merchant right field.

Whatever may be the outcome of the game on the 30th whether victory will again come to '95 or whether they will have to pass over the emblem to a younger generation, this fact remains, the '95 team may be counted upon to do their best and win or lose they hope it will not be their last game together.

As They Appeared in 1911.

MRS. ELIZABETH K. BACON.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kelton Bacon, widow of the late Henry Bacon, died at her home on Highland terrace Tuesday morning. She was in the 81st year of her age.

Mrs. Bacon was born in Lexington, Oct. 26, 1831, and had made her home in Winchester since 1891. She leaves four sons and two daughters; one son, Carl K., and one daughter, Lucy, reside in this town. The others are Francis H. Bacon of Boston, Mrs. W. B. McKoy of Wilmington, N. C., James H. Bacon of Jacksonville, Fla., Henry Bacon of New York.

Mr. Bacon was a native of Natick and as a civil engineer was employed in building a part of the old Boston & Maine Railroad, and just before his death, twenty-one years ago, he took part in the construction of the Cape Fear River Improvement at Wilmington, N. C.

The funeral services were held at Wilmington, N. C., yesterday, the burial being at that place.

TO PUT FIRE DEPARTMENT UNDER SUPERVISION OF SELECTMEN.

A hearing was held at the State House on Wednesday forenoon before the committee on towns on the bill to allow the town of Winchester to appoint a chief engineer of the fire department, together with assistants, etc., as the Board of Selectmen may at any time ascribe. The purpose of the bill is to allow the management and direction of the fire department to come under the supervision of the Selectmen as does the police and other town departments.

NEW BANK BUILDING.

It is understood that negotiations are under way for the purchase of the property on Church street opposite Common street, comprising a large wooden dwelling house and 8,700 square feet of land, owned by Mr. James Hinds, by the Middlesex County National Bank. It is said that the bank contemplates the erection of a new building on the site, with possibly a business block adjoining.

A NEW MEN'S CLUB.

The Men's organization of the Winchester Methodist Church which has been in process of formation for some weeks took active shape at a meeting held last evening, when the following officers were elected:

President, Frank A. Crawford
Vice President, Ivan N. Moulton
Treasurer, Chas. A. Dodge
Secretary, G. Henry McMillan
Chairman of Membership Committee, Robert W. Dover
Chairman of Entertainment Committee, Herbert B. Seller
Chairman of Reception Committee, Thos. J. Bulmer

The active work of the new body will start up with the annual meeting to be held the third Tuesday in September.

REAL ESTATE NEWS.

Edward T. Harrington Co., report the sale to Jere A. Downs of Winchester of lot No. 14 containing about 177,450 square feet of land on Myopia Hill. The grantor is Esther B. Williams of Boston. Mr. Downs' holdings on Myopia Hill now comprises nearly one-half a million square feet of land, he previously purchased through the same brokers lots No. 12 and No. 13 having a combined area of over 300,000 square feet.

The same brokers have sold for Annie S. Palmer the estate No. 135 Highland avenue, comprising, house and 9148 square feet of land. The purchaser is Florence M. Barton of Somerville who intends to make this her residence.

The same brokers have leased for Phillip J. Blank the property No. 140 Highland avenue, to Mr. Walter I. King of Boston, Mass.

There will be a dance at the Winchester Boat Club on the evening of Memorial Day.

LAST MEETING OF DELIBERATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Mock Town Meeting Furnishes Much Fun for Audience and Participants.

The annual meeting of the Deliberative Assembly was held on Tuesday evening in the Assembly Hall of the High School Building.

At the business session the reports of officers were made and the following officers were elected: James Nowell, president; Alfred H. Hildreth, vice president; Herbert A. Wadleigh, secretary-treasurer; James W. Russell, jr., and H. Wadsworth Hight directors.

A mock town meeting was held and many of those who participated were costumed to represent different persons who are accustomed to speak on such occasions.

The warrant contained 21 articles, the first being to adopt rules to govern the meeting. Frank E. Rowe presented a set of rules, which provided that the moderator should be furnished with a gavel A, gavel B and Big Ben. The chief of police in full regalia appeared bearing gavel A, on his shoulder and dragging gavel B after him. Big Ben was set at 15 seconds on some of the long winded orators and they were notified when their time for debate had expired.

One article proposed to turn over to the School Committee all the money raised by taxation and to have it give the other departments what it deemed necessary. In support of this Prof. "Hurrier" of the School Committee read at lightning speed a table of statistics to show the economical management of the School Department as compared with the others.

The proposition to adopt a running trap on all plumbing brought forth a vigorous protest from Mr. O'Bleery, who confused it with a running track. He was a source of much amusement by his illuminating remarks on various other matters, particularly in regard to the inspection of the beer which is brought into town.

Mr. Titfield What was continually rising to questions of personal privilege, during one of which he managed to read a communication from Champ Clark, thanking him for the handsome support given in the recent primaries and inviting Mr. What to lunch with him at the White House.

A telegram was read from Ty Cobb, offering his services in coaching Ralph Redfern's Pets in their annual game with the High School team. Ty Cobb claimed 1000 percent batting average on hitting spectators. A proposal was made to change the name of Wedgemere to Ogdensburg, on account of a builder, who has been operating in that vicinity, and to call the junction of Washington and Main streets, "Doc" square, owing to the number of physicians residing there.

Mr. Rooster of the Board of Assessors made several valuable suggestions regarding new methods of raising funds for town expenses, among them being a tax on bachelors and bridge parties, abatements, however, to be made to any man pushing a baby carriage.

Frank E. Rowe, by a number of lantern slides and postcards, illustrated his talk on the abolition of the grade crossing. George L. Huntress, jr., in the role of Miss Piecrust, was given the privilege of the floor and closed the meeting with a thrilling talk on Woman Suffrage.

The affair was hugely enjoyed by the audience of about one hundred persons. James W. Russell jr., and Dr. A. V. Rogers were exceptionally good in their impersonation of well known town meeting orators. It has been suggested that the affair be repeated.

WINCHESTER HIGH COMES BACK.

After being defeated by Arlington the High School team came back and outplayed and out-hit Reading High. The final score was 4.2 for Winchester. Goddu and Rogers got two-baggers but the longest hit was a clean three-bagger which on account of poor coaching was not a home run. Penalagan was the man who made the hit. Although the infield had four errors they played a great game of ball.

The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R.	H.	E.
W. H. S.	0	0	0	1	0	2	1	0	0	4	8	4
R. H. S.	1	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	2	6	2

Next week here will be three games—Reading on Monday, Class of 1895 on Thursday at 10 a. m. and Stoneham on Saturday. All three games are worth going miles to see and the townspeople should take advantage of this fine opportunity to see some classy baseball at practically no expense.

A NOVEL FEATURE.

The Ladies Aid of the Winchester Methodist Church under the leadership of Mrs. Ivan N. Moulton, held a most enjoyable and novel feature last evening in the shape of an "Orange Supper." The tables were tastefully laid with orange colored trimmings, and all the dishes were planned to conform to the same idea, as for instance there were stuffed egg salad etc., and other yellow dishes skillfully gotten up, which presented a very delightful appearance.

Mrs. Moulton was ably assisted by Mrs. Rev. L. W. Adams, Mrs. Chas. Dodge, Mrs. F. E. Crawford, Mrs. F. W. Roberts, Mrs. Geo. Dupee. The affair was highly enjoyed and pronounced a decided success by all present.

The drinking water has not been so foul for a long time as it is at present. For some weeks it had been remarkably good, but for the past week it has been such as to cause much complaint. It is strange that this is so at this season of the year.

COMING EVENTS.

May 24th, Friday evening. Ladies' Night of Baptist Brotherhood, at First Baptist Church.

May 25, Saturday. Baseball on Manchester Field at 3.30 p. m. Winchester vs Prospect Unions of Cambridge.

FETE AT AIGREMONT.

On Thursday evening the 20th of June an out-of-door performance will be given on the beautiful estate of Mr. O. C. Sanborn by a group of seventy-five young ladies and children. It will be remembered that a similar production was put on last year with remarkable success and it is hoped by those in charge that the performance this year may be even more beautiful.

The program consists of three numbers. The first is to be a repetition of the entire Second Episode of "Pandora's Box" which includes the lovely "Dance of the Playmates." This is repeated by special request from many who saw it last June as well as from many who were unable to do so. The second number is an interpretive Story Dance which has been arranged by Miss Mary Kellogg for this performance. It consists of three scenes, "Dawn" "Midday" and "Evening."

The last number on the program will be Miss Kellogg's arrangement of the "Blue Danube" danced by fifty girls and children.

There will be special dances by Miss Lillian Harrington of Newton Center, by Miss Pauline Chamberlain of Brookline who will be remembered for her beautiful "Dance of Mercury" in "Pandora's Box" and by Miss Kellogg as well as others which will be arranged for later. The complete cast will be published in the next issue of the Winchester STAR.

A group of musicians of the Winchester Orchestral Association will furnish the music which comprises some very beautiful selections, among them the "Morgenstimmung" No. 1 of Peer Gynt Suite and "Danse Caprice" of Grieg and the famous "Dance of the Hours" from "La Giaconda." Mr. Joshua Phippen will conduct the orchestra which is assurance that the music will be of a high standard of excellence. Miss Amelia Wulkop, a pupil of Willenbucher of Berlin, will be the soloist. Mr. W. H. W. Bicknell is arranging for the orchestra and Mr. Sylvester Taylor will be the stage director. The lighting and properties are in the hands of Mr. E. C. Smith, chief electrican of the Boston Opera.

Tickets may be obtained of Mrs. O. C. Sanborn and of Herrick's Ticket agency. Mrs. Sanborn is arranging at great trouble and expense to have the rear seats raised in such a way that the view from each seat may be unobstructed.

SUFFRAGE TEA AT MRS. EDWARD JOHNSON'S.

On May 17th Mrs. Edward Johnson gave a very delightful tea, under the auspices of the Winchester Equal Suffrage League. Mr. Gerard C. Henderson, the president of the Harvard Equal Suffrage League, spoke. His subject was "Suffrage and Social Progress." And from a man's point of view he showed in what ways he thought the enfranchisement of women would be of benefit first in the interest and support that would be given to legislation concerning women and children, as for example, minimum wage, boards and Child Labor Laws, second in the education that civic responsibility would bring to women and in the broadening of their outlook on life.

There were sixty ladies present—and after the talk, Mr. Henderson asked for questions—objections and discussion. But in spite of the fact, that there were a few — anti suffragists in the audience not one spoke up for their beliefs—and the members of the league asked all the questions, did all the discussing and there was splendid enthusiasm shown.

Twelve new members joined the league at this meeting.

After the discussion was over, Mrs. Johnson served tea and chocolate most delightfully.

The last meeting of the season of the Winchester Equal Suffrage League is to be held Tuesday, June 4th at 3.00 at the home of the President, Miss Frances Elder, Myopia Hill. There will be a business meeting from 3 to 3.30 and then Mr. Charles Zueblin will speak. A lawn party will follow. The members of the League and all others who are interested in suffrage are urged to come. All persons who are thinking of joining the league are asked to do so before June 4th, so their membership may be counted in the report of the year's work.

Names can be sent to Miss Elsie Wulkop, 41 Calumet road, chairman of the membership committee, or to the President.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB NEWS.

A Busy and Enjoyable Season with Lively Scenes on Lake.

Activities at the Winchester Boat Club have opened for this season in earnest and the summer promises to be one of the best in the history of the organization for a number of years. Steward John Ward has again taken charge after his winter at the Calumet Club, and the house and grounds are being put in condition under his supervision.

Since the season opened a few days ago nine applicants have been admitted to the club. But one vacancy exists in the non-resident list and the resident membership is in a way to be filled by the early summer.

The first step in the enlargment of the club house will be undertaken this year, it being expected that the work will begin immediately after Memorial Day. For several years the club has been taxed to its capacity, both in furnishing canoe accommodations and room for the social events. Plans have been prepared by Mr. Robert Coit, the designer of the house, to carry the roof of the main building over what is now the roof garden, allowing for an enlargement of the social hall and locker room. The directors have planned to have the roof constructed this summer, leaving the interior arrangement as it now is until next season, when the inside work will be finished. Following this will come the extension and enlargement of the canoe room. By this arrangement the work will be done with the funds of the club and without increasing its mortgage. The usual yearly payment of $200 on the mortgage will be made this season.

The tennis courts have been rolled and marked and are now in excellent condition and daily becoming more popular.

The club has made arrangement for the purchase of a new canoe for its fleet, and in this respect still occupies a unique position among similar organizations, being the only club where a fleet of high class canoes are available for use of the members without charge. The sailing canoes are also in condition for the season's use. A rowing skiff is to be purchased this season, to be kept at the club float for emergency use. Although very few tip-overs occur at the pond, the directors feel that every safe guard should be made to prevent serious accidents.

New shrubbery has been ordered for the grounds about the house, and this with the already attractive lay-out, will make the club one of the show places of the town.

An important vote was passed by the club last week in its endeavor to have the water of the lake raised On former years this has been impossible, but with the purchase of the Whitney mill property it now seems practical, and the club will make request to the Metropolitan Park Commission to have it done this summer. With the water brought up the beauty of the lake and river will be greatly increased, and the latter especially will be much more adapted for canoe use.

Extensive plans are being formulated by the entertainment and regatta committees, headed by Messrs. Fred M. Bates and Frank H. Gerlach, and this part of the club promises to be especially attractive this summer.

WINCHESTER COUNTRY CLUB.

A team match was the attraction for the members Saturday who gathered at the Winchester Golf Club. Team A won by the narrow margin of one point, as they scored ten matches to nine. Summary:

MIXED TOURNAMENT WINNERS

The bowling committtee of the Calumet Club have made the following awards of the individual prizes in the recently completed mixed bowling tournament. The team prizes were announced last week, but owing to the fact that several of the individuals were closely grouped these figures were not available.

First individual prize—highest average with handicap: Won by Mrs. William C. Brown, 75 95 100 and 17 making 92 95-100.

Second individual prize—second largest average with handicap: Won by Mrs Philips C. Simonds, 81 10-100 and 11 making 92 10-100.

Third individual prize—highest two string total with handicap: Tie between Mrs. John A. Caldwell, 175 and 34 making 209, and Mrs. George H. Eaton, 165 and 44 making 209.

Fourth individual prize—highest two string total without handicap: Won by Mrs. J. Churchill Hindes, 189.

MRS. JANE T. HILL.

Mrs. Jane T. Hill, widow of the late Reuben A. Hill, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank M. Russell, 9 Ravenscroft road, Saturday. She was in her 75th year.

Mrs. Hill was the daughter of Ebenezer and Lucy Burrel and was born at Canton, Mass. She was a member of the Charity Club of Boston and is survived by her daughter, with whom she had made her home for the past fourteen years.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Joel H. Metcalf, pastor of the Unitarian Church, on Monday afternoon at the residence. The burial was in Oak Grove cemetery, Medford.

The fire department was called out Sunday morning shortly after seven thirty for a blaze on the roof of the house No. 131 Swanton street, occupied by Mr. Robert McGuinity. The fire was caused by sparks from the chimney. Hose 3 had water on the roof before the alarm had ceased blowing, and as it takes but 2 minutes, 50 seconds for the alarm to finish sounding, some idea of the quick work of the company may be imagined. The loss was small.

Miss Cassie E. Sands is ill with the measles.

Mr. Justin L. Parker of Lebanon street suffered the death of his father, Deacon Stillman E. Parker, at the home of his son-in-law, Dr. A. E. Winship, at Somerville last Friday. He was born in Reading 93 years ago and for 45 years he was engaged in the manufacture of shoes in that town and for more than 50 years was a deacon in the Reading Congregational Church and superintendent of the Sunday School for a quarter of a century. He served the town as selectman for several terms and as a member of the school committee for 30 years. In 1859 he represented the town in the House of Representatives.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

With Jesse L. Lasky's big musical production, "The Antique Girl," and Maude Lambert, late of "Over The River" as the two star features, next week's bill at B. F. Keith's Theatre promises to be one of the strongest of the season. Mr. Laksy is the most skilful and prolific producer in vaudeville to-day. His productions are internationally famous for their lavishness and beauty. This season he has outdone all previous efforts. The cast of "The Antique Girl" includes Fletcher Norton, Charles Pusey, Doris Wilson and Maude Earl. The supporting company numbers sixteen pretty girls, and the stage setting is both elaborate and beautiful.

Other big features will be Freeman and Dunham, a clever pair from the West; Keppler and Brunay, two entertainers with something new; Torcat's Roosters, a wonderful troupe of educated game cocks; Robert Demont Trio in "Hotel Turnover;" James F. MacDonald in songs and sayings; Edgar Bergar, the contortionist; and The Kemps in a singing and dancing specialty.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

Many Matters Receive the Attention of the Board.

May 20, 1912.

The Board met at 7.30 p. m., Mr. Belcher absent.

The Town Treasurer appeared and asked permission to arrange a loan in anticipation of taxes; the loan to become due in December, and the matter was referred to Committee on Accounts.

John McCarron presented and spoke in behalf of a petition signed by himself and six other residents and property owners of White street, for the acceptance and laying out of that street as a town highway. Referred to the Highway Committee.

Whitfield Tuck appeared with articles which he asked to have inserted in the Town Warrant. Referred to the Committee on Town Warrant.

John F. Holland appeared to ask that the street sign at the corner of Oak and Holland street be changed. Referred to the Committee on Highways.

Herbert Wadsworth, jr., of 96 Highland avenue asked that some action be taken in regard to running the street line and grading sidewalk in front of his residence. Referred to Committee on Highways.

Maurice Tiger appeared and stated that he had rented premises to carry on the junk business at the corner of Lake and Main streets, near the town stable, and that it was his intention to reside in Winchester. He was given permission to collect junk from his regular customers pending the issue of a license.

Ernesto Borrelli, 6 Holland street, appeared and stated that before it would be possible for him to get any permission from the State to manufacture fireworks he needed assurance that the Town of Winchester would give him a location. The location suggested by Mr. Borrelli is next to the Winchester-Woburn line in Winchester on Cross street. Referred to the Committee on Highways to view the premises.

George B. Whitehorn appeared and presented for acceptance by the town, the extension of Wedgemere avenue from Foxcroft road to Wildwood street, that the necessary article might be inserted in the Town Warrant.

George Heintz of Everett avenue asked that the sidewalk in front of his premises on Everett avenue be restored to its original level; that a catch basin be put in at the corner of these two streets and that the street sign "Stratford road" be re-painted. Referred to the Committee on Highways.

The Town Engineer submitted deeds drawn by the Town Counsel for the drainage right of way over land on Hemingway street, and for the right to deposit surface water with plans showing the rights required. Referred to Mr. Pike and Mr. Hinds to obtain the signatures of the grantors.

The Town Engineer submitted a draft of requirements to be observed in the opening of certain streets by the Arlington Gas Light Company; and states that the Company plans to have the work completed by August 1st. Permit was granted for the opening at the corner of Sheffield road and Everett avenue, necessary for the construction of a Governor Pit. The work to be done under the direction of the Town Engineer and the Superintendent of Streets.

The petition of the Arlington Gas Light Company for permission to lay a 4-inch cast iron cement-joint main on Highland avenue, from the existing end to the corner of Hancock street, an approximate distance of 120 feet, was granted subject to the usual terms and conditions and to the additional conditions required by the Town Engineer; also their petition for permission to lay an 8-inch cast iron cement-joint main on Main street from the end of the 10-inch main laid last year at Winchester Center to Symmes Corner.

A letter was received from the Edison Electric Illuminating Co., asking whether after they had once received permission from the Board to make attachments to telephone or street railway poles, it would be necessary to petition the Board at any time they desired to add additional wires. It was voted to reply that additional petition would not be necessary, but that the Board should be notified whenever an additional line was placed on locations already granted.

The Fire Engineers reported results of test made of the Fire Engine, April 30, 1912. Report filed.

A petition was received from the Edison Electric Illuminating Company for permission to erect and maintain 38 poles with the necessary fixtures and wires on High street, easterly from Ridge street; accompanied by a plan of the location made by W. H. Cole, May 9, 1912. Referred to the Town Engineer.

A petition was received from the Edison Electric Illuminating Company for permission to erect and maintain 51 poles with the necessary fixtures and wires on Ridge street beginning at a point about 520 feet from the Arlington Line and running northeasterly; together with a plan of the location made by W. H. Cole, May 8, 1912. Referred to the Town Engineer.

A letter was received from Fred B Jordan, notifying the Board of his intention to build a dwelling house on Glen road through which land the town has a right of way for drainage purposes; and asking that some arrangement be made whereby it can be covered over by the town; that it is his intention to carry a driveway over this part of the land so that in case of emergency it could be opened without damage or unnecessary expense; also that there will be considerable filling taken from the land, which can be used. Referred to the Town Engineer.

The Town Engineer recommended placing two street lights in South Sheridan Circle, as shown on plan submitted by him, and the Clerk was instructed to order the same.

Voted:--That the Chief of Police be notified to see that each intelligence office in the Town is provided with three copies of the new form of placard containing the laws relating to Intelligence Offices.

Voted:--To sanction the purchase and distribution of printed cards containing information relating to purchase and sale of commodities by weight, etc., as prepared by the Sealer of Weights and Measures, provided distribution can be made with the Town Warrant at no additional expense.

Warrants were drawn for $3263.72 and $1406.54.

Adjourned at 11.30 p. m.

Frank R. Miller,
Clerk of the Board.

The Board will open their session to the public each meeting night at 8 and 8.30 to hear any citizens who may desire to present matters in person.

Blank forms for petitions or other applications have been prepared by the Selectmen, and may be had at the Town Clerk's office; also at the STAR office, or will be mailed by the Clerk of the Selectmen on request.

BASE BALL.

The Winchester Highlands Athletic Club baseball team received another setback last Saturday afternoon at the hands of the Echo A. C. of Lynn, by a score of 15 to 4. The game was marked by the heavy hitting and good fielding of the visitors. For the home team, the entire outfield, Bellville, Burwell and Claflin excelled, making eight put-outs with no errors. Park and Claflin were the heavy hitters of the day.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The plot and the dialogue of "A Night Off," which Mr. Craig will present at the Castle Square next week are brimful of mirth. One of the most famous of Augustin Daly farces, and produced during many seasons with Ada Rehan, John Drew and John Craig in its leading roles, it comes to the Castle Square once more after an absence of several seasons assured of a hearty welcome. It is because Mr. Craig knows the play so thoroughly, having acted in it many times, that he is reviving it for this spring season.

The cast of "A Night Off" at the Castle Square will add to its humor. John Craig will appear as Harry Damask, a role he has acted may times, and Mary Young will give personal charm and spontanity to the spritghtly Nisbe. Others in leading roles will be Donald Meek, George Hassell and Mabel Colcord.

The play at the Castle Square during the week of June 3rd will be "The Climax," with a specially engaged cast including Donald Meek, Carney Christie and Florence Webber.

Interest in widening Avery street in Boston has petered out since the Metropolitan or Greater Boston bill failed of passage in the Legislature. This scheme would have cost nearly a million dollars and Metropolitan Boston was down for a goodly share of this outlay of money.

SAVED BY A POSTAL

Thousands Have Been Cured by Dr David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy—Lives Saved by a Postal Card.

They wrote for a free trial bottle, and were so much pleased with the general results obtained, that they bought a large size bottle of their druggist and it benefited or cured them. It has cured thousands—it will cure you.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is of the greatest value for diseases of the Kidneys, Liver and Blood; rheumatism, constipation and illnesses peculiar to women. Stops such dangerous symptoms as pain in the back, headache back of eyes, inability to hold urine, burning pains and frequent urination. Wonderfully successful for nearly forty years. Write to-day to Dr. David Kennedy Co., Rondout, N. Y., for a free sample bottle and medical pamphlet. Large bottles sold by 40,000 druggists.

The threatened meat famine may prove to be a good thing in educating people to get along with less of this kind of food. Simplicity in living is conducive to a long life.

The use of the government printing offices and the franking privilege for the circulation of political documents in the interest of any candidate says the Charlestown Enterprise, is an evil that congress ought to stop.

Sealer of Weights and Measures, Maurice Deneen, recognized the importance of his new office by waging a vigorous warfare on those persons who have short measures and faulty scales. He believes that the people are entitled to what they pay for.

Massachusetts is facing a state tax of nearly $7,500,000 or $2,000,000 more than the tax levy of last year. The estimated revenue for the year is $10,151,795 and the appropriations made by the Legislature and called for in pending legislation total $17,474,459, leaving a balance of over seven million dollars to be covered by a tax levy.

The ballot for the next primary will require a few changes if it is to be made absolutely clear to the voters. It is suggested that the preferential choice be stricken out. At best it is confusing and inconsequential. Delegates pledged to certain candidates and their allegiance, is not affected by any expression of preference made in the primaries which elected them.

Stoneham has signed a ten year contract with the Edison Co., and thus gets the benefit of a ten per cent. discount. Natick is about the only town in the Edison district that declines to make such a contract, owing to the game of politics or some hidden reason. It has a split yearly contract—electricity and gas being used—which cost the town about $1000 more than if all lighting was by electricity, and the town is poorly lighted. This looks as if Natick had money to burn.

A bill for the electrification of steam roads in the Metropolitan District is coming before the Legislature. If it passes, the New Haven will be compelled to expend in the vicinity of $80,000,000 and the Boston & Albany $20,000,000. It is doubtful if anything like commensurate gain would result from this expenditure, says the Reading Chronicle. Steam locomotives are not, in our opinion, such a crying evil as to drive the people to bear the burden of this enormous investment, and they see clearly nowadays that they in the end pay the fiddler.

There are indications that all legislation for co-operation in planning and in government in the Metropolitan District, including the bill reported by the Metropolitan Plan Commission of 1911, will be killed by the Legislature. All the bills providing for a metropolitan planning board, for some form of governmental union or for annexation were boiled down by the legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs into a resolve providing for a commission of five persons to give further consideration to the matter of a metropolitan plan, which was considered and reported upon by the Commission of 1911. The Greater Boston scheme has more lives than the proverbial cat.

There was much sorrow evinced by the people of Winchester both Catholic and non-Catholic, and those assembled at St. Mary's Church on Saturday morning, May 18th, to bid goodby to the Rev. Walter J. Roche, who left town that morning to assume his new duties at St. Joseph's, Boston. That he will be missed by the people of St. Mary's is assured, for he was ever ready in his own kind way to assist and advise, to give aid to the needy, to find employment for one out of work, to counsel the wayward, to soothe the sick and dying and help make easy that journey from which no traveller returns. Needless to say, that death was robbed much of its terror under his kind and gentle ministration. He will be missed by all. Father Roche goes as Chaplin to the Mass. General and McLean Hospitals and City Prisons. The Rev. John Corbett is to fill his place at St. Mary's.

BASEBALL SCORES.

Odd Way the Plays Were Recorded Back In the Sixties.

The baseball public of today, accustomed to the minute reporting of games, wherein each run is compounded and many a play analyzed, is offered the account of a game played in Syracuse in 1868. The contestants were the Central Citys of Syracuse and the Athletics of Philadelphia, and the score was 41 to 12.

The game was delayed a half hour by the difficulty in finding an umpire. Then the report goes on to state:

"The game opened loosely upon both sides, and at the end of the first innings the score stood Athletics 5, Central City 4, each side making its tallies promptly from the loose playing of the out club. After the first inning the Athletics played more carefully, while the Central Citys grew more careless until the fifth inning, when they became more demoralized than was the Union army at the battle of Bull Run.

"Considerable dissatisfaction was manifested and expressed, and in two innings rightfully so, at the evident one sided decisions of the umpire.

"We will not particularize, but suffice to say that several of the players on both sides did well, while others, especially the Central City side, were not fully up to their standard efforts. The following is the

GOWNS AND OMENS.

Odd Superstitions That Darken the Dressmaker's Shop.

"Women who wear fine dresses are as superstitious as the girls who make them," said a dressmaker. "If the little accidents that happen in the workroom were not mercifully concealed from the owners of rich gowns they would be sick with apprehension half the time. I had one customer who refused to accept a very expensive dress because a girl who assisted with the fitting dropped a pair of scissors, which fell point down and stuck in the floor. That meant an order for mourning within six months. The customer hoped that by refusing the hoodoo dress she could avert the calamity, but the precaution was useless. In less than three months her father was dead.

"Girls are especially particular in their work on wedding dresses, for if a tiny drop of blood from a pricked finger should fall on the gown the bride would surely die before the end of the year. Then there is green thread. Whether the customer is there to see it or not, no dressmaker will keep green thread near spools of another color. Green thread used for basting means the return of a dress for alterations, and there is enough trouble of that kind in a dressmaking

Early Combines and Corners.

"Engrossing" was an offense punishable in England by fine and imprisonment, and the laws against it struck at those—called "engrossers"—who planned to gain control over necessities, such as grain or foodstuffs in considerable quantities, either by purchase or otherwise, with the intention of raising prices. The statute book holds quite a series of enactments designed to prevent anything in the nature of what we know as a "corner" or "combine." "Regrating" was a criminal offense, and so was "forestalling." The former consisted of buying and selling the same day in the same market or near it, and the latter implied the purchase of merchandise on the way to market or before the hour at which the market commenced with the intention of selling at a profit, while it was also "forestalling" to circulate rumors calculated to raise the prices of commodities. Though these laws have fallen into desuetude, they were in force in our grandfathers' time.—London Mail

Mr. Geo. H. Brown of New Hampshire says:

It is hoped that the Massachusetts Legislature will consider the interest of their constituents and protect them in their eyesight needs by passing the Optometry law now before them.

If there is any profession or business anywhere that needs regulation, it is Optometry and if there is any state where it is especially needed, it is Massachusetts.

Some of the most skillful of the profession are doing business in that state, and a rapidly increasing number of spectacle wearers are relying upon Optometrists everywhere for the care and conservation of their sight.

Massachusetts has more incompetent and unworthy venders of spectacles to the square inch, within her territory, than there is in any other state in the union, and this condition will continue and increase, until some suitable protective regulation is enacted in that state.

Why is this so? Because Maine, New Hampshire, New York and many other states have wise Optometry laws that are driving hundreds of the most unscrupulous out of their territory and into Massachusetts.

If this was embarrassing only to the legitimate optometrists of Massachusetts it would then be bad, for it makes them the scape goats of a very unworthy class, but many thousands of spectacle wearers are being robbed of large sums of money (that in most instances they can ill afford to lose) and irreparable harm is being done to the sight of many whose principle stock in trade is their eyesight.

See me about your eyes at once.

DINED THE AUDIENCE.

And the Treat Proved a Fine Ad. For Liszt and Rubini.

An article in an Italian review contains an interesting story of Liszt and Rubini, the tenor. They were touring together and visited a town where, from the preliminaries which had been arranged, great things were expected. But they were disappointed, for when they entered the hall they found only fifty persons present.

Ribini was furious and said he would not sing, but Liszt calmed him. "You must sing," he said. "This small audience is evidently composed of musical connoisseurs of the town, so we should treat them with respect." Liszt set the example with a grand overture, and Rubini sang to perfection. Liszt gave another piece and then addressed the audience.

Liszt as an orator was as tactful as he had been in the role of pacificator. Addressing his audience of fifty, he said: "Ladies and gentlemen"—there was only one lady present—"I think that you have had enough music. Allow me to ask you to take a little supper with us." After a few seconds the invitation was accepted, and Liszt and Rubini entertained the audience to supper at their hotel, which cost them 1,200 francs.

When the guests separated the hosts thought the affair had been a joke, about which nothing more would be heard, but they decided to give their concert as advertised on the following night. To their astonishment the hall was packed. There was not standing room. The whole town had turned out on the off chance of an invitation to supper.

The Only Mourner.

Randall—Was Spratt a popular man?

"Popular! The only mourner at his funeral was the insurance company."—Life.

Shutting Him Off.

The Dad—My son, I want to tell you that the secret of my success, as it must be of any man's, is hard work.

The Son—Sh, dad! I don't care to hear other people's secrets, and I am too much of a gentleman to take advantage of information gained in that way. Say no more.—Toledo Blade.

Tasty Poison.

Customer—The poison may be excellent, but the rats won't take it. You'll have to make it more tasty. Druggist—I've tried that already, but the apprentice boys eat it.—Fliegende Blatter.

Plurals.

There is considerably less reason why the plural of mouse should be mice than why the plural of spouse should be spice. Any bigamist will admit as much.—Puck.

WINCHESTER BUSINESS PARTICULARLY SOLICITED.

ART DEPARTMENT VISITED MARBLEHEAD.

The last event in the calendar of the Art department of the Fortnightly for the past year took place on Tuesday when thirty-six ladies left Winchester in a special car to enjoy a shore dinner, and visit the Marblehead pottery. The day was fair, and left nothing to be desired, since the car was comfortably filled with a cheerful and enthusiastic company. A good dinner at the Adams House was promptly served upon their arrival in the old town and put all in the mood for a quest for the pottery and other features of interest unique and characteristic of that quaint place.

After locating the pottery and arranging for the visit there a two o'clock, the party dispersed to spend the intervening time about town. One group went to Marblehead Neck by boat, while a large number visited the Lee Mansion, a most interesting and typical example of Colonial architecture. This building is now owned by the Historical Society and in it are preserved many relics, articles of household furnishing, as well as dress of its period. The original wall paper still covers the larger portion of the hall. This is a marvelous expression of the decorator's art and it is said was manufactured in London, a special order for the house it still ornaments. The party also saw with much interest he famous painting by Willard which hangs in the Public Library, and which seems wonderfully in keeping with its environment. This is "The Spirit of 1776."

Two o'clock found the party assembled at the pottery, a small place but pervaded with the atmosphere of the dignity of producing articles of artistic merit under right conditions with the aim of bringing health and happiness in the producing, as well as pleasure to those who received the finshed product. The weaving of rugs, table runners, crib blankets and portieres forms a feature of the work rooms. A few of the ladies brought home souvenirs of the place, and all, we feel sure, a happy remembrance of the outing with its fresh sea breezes, and ideas of work worth while. Those taking the trip were:

Mrs. Howard, Mrs. C. A. Grant, Mrs. C. F. Gage, Miss Eugenia Elliott, Miss Cora Quimby, Miss Georgia Stone, Mrs. John Cleworth, Mrs. F. A. Parshley, Mrs. H. C. Blood, Mrs. J. J. "A BACHELOR'S BANQUET."

"A Bachelor's Banquet," a musical comedy, was presented in Metcalf hall of the Unitarian Church last Saturday evening by the members of the Metcalf Union to the entertainment of a goodly audience. The play was staged under the direction of Mr. John Nolan. The cast of characters included a number of the young people of the Union and the musical numbers were given by a sextette and chorus of eight young ladies. The humorous song, "The Biscuits Miss Flanagan Made," was well given by Mr. Thompson, who took the part of Major Pomroy. The instrumental music was given by the members of the Winchester Orchestral Society, and contributed not a little to the success of the affair.

Following the play dancing was enjoyed and ice cream and candy were on sale during the evening.

Following was the cast and musical numbers:

Mrs. Mortimer, a presiding deity, Miss Dorothea Chase
Della Mortimer, daughter of Mrs. Mortimer, Miss Dortis Goddu
Constance Oldfield, niece of Major Pomroy, Miss Marjorie Root
Major Pomroy, another victim of Fate, Mr. Dwight Thompson
Dick Foster, engaged to Miss Mortimer, Mr. George Proctor
Nat Stillman, engaged to Miss Oldfield, Mr. John Soutter
McGinnis, servant of Foster and Stillman, with the doubtful virtue of being heard and not seen Sextette—Miss Alice Cutting, Miss Josephine Woods, Miss Anna Tindall, Mr. Bryant Woods, Mr. Loring Gleason, Mr. Raymond Young.
Chorus—Miss Ellinore Soutter, Miss Rachael Metcalf, Miss Dorothy Kerrison, Miss Esther Cutting, Miss Barbara Wellington, Miss Helen Lewis, Miss Ina Brown, Miss Edith Fenno.

Should not the rich and poor alike of a High School class have the same chances and liberties. They certainly should, is the idea of many but the pupils of aristocratic parents think they should have first choice and also think that they should be chosen to fill the class offices each year. As a member of the class of 1914 I am not sore because I have not been chosen to fill an office, but I do not believe in partiality. I think there are many pupils of poor parents in my class who have just as much ability and perhaps more than some of the ones now in office. Every year the same group of girls and boys of the richer class are chosen. This is not fair. Did the people neglect choosing Lincoln for President because he was poor? No, indeed. He was the best one for the office with more personal ability. If it is a class, every pupil in the class should have a free and equal right according to her own ability.

WINCHESTER WON ANOTHER.

The Winchester town team played another winning game on Manchester Field Saturday afternoon, defeating the strong St. Eulalia team of South Boston by the score of 10 to 7. It was a good exhibition with the exception of the fourth inning, when the local nine had a streak of bad luck and the visitors piled up six runs. This was the only inning in which the visitors were given any show to score, after making one run in the first.

The features of the game were the home run by Murray on a long drive to left field, bringing in two runs; the double play unassisted by Kelley; a double by Lane and Connell, and Badger's base running.

It was a fairly close game up to the fifth, but the local team had the best of it for the last half of the game. The local team did good work at the bat, getting 14 safe hits off Ross, including one home run and three two baggers. The visitors were only able to touch the ball for five scattered hits.

NELSON TIGERS VS HILLCREST, JR.

The Nelson Tigers defeated the Hillcrest Juniors Wednesday afternoon 2 to 0 in an exciting and closely contested game. Flynn, the southpaw of the Tigers, pitched superb ball with a no hit game. The game finished in the eight

The Hillcrest Jrs. turned the tables on the Nelson Tigers by the score of 14-4 on Wednesday.

The Hillcrest jr. won by the same score as the Nelson Tigers beat them the week before last. The Hillcrest's were strengthened last week by the addition of three new players. The new players were H. Murphy to fill in short stop; Kerns, used behind the bat; McManus to do the twirling. The game started with Harold in the box and George Waters, the effective Tiger pitcher opposing him. The first inning the Tigers got no hits or runs. The Hillcrest's began by hammering Waters hard. Waters was then relieved by Monahan. He pitched a fairly good ball but was relieved by McAdams in the ninth. Harold started for the Hillcrest's and pitched masterly ball for two innings. McManus then took the mound and pitched masterly ball.

A CRUSHING RETORT.

Mme. Songbird Paid Her Haughty Society Patron In Full.

Last year a prominent Boston society leader, in arranging a musical surprise at an elaborate dinner given to the town's elite, called on a singer of renown to engage her services for that event. It chanced that the singer was naturally independent. On the other hand, the caller was notoriously haughty. As a result this was what transpired between them:

After the visitor had announced the import of her coming, the singer succinctly said she would sing one number for $200, and that it would be a Wagnerian selection.

"The price we will not haggle over," said the visitor, "but instead of that grand opera selection I want you to render one of the light and popular ditties of the day!"

"For the Wagnerian song, $200; for the popular ditty, $300," was the firm reply.

"But, madame," expostulated the society leader, "your classical song is much more exacting on your powers, so why should you charge more for the lighter and easier song?"

"Ah," replied the independent one, "the harder song is all fun to me; the easier one all work!"

So the price was fixed at $300.

Just as the haughty visitor was about to depart, she turned to the artist and said:

"Of course, I shall not expect you to mingle with my guests."

"Ah," was the biting retort, "I shall throw off $50."—Life.

Extremely Polite.

The forms of Mexican politeness to the stranger are sometimes embarrassing. Miss Mary Barton, who visited the country to paint landscapes and tells her experience in "Impressions of Mexico," says that "people seemed anxious to help me in all possible ways, from the railway conductor, who invited me to dine with him, to the very smart young man that I met in the postoffice when I had a number of invitations in my hand and who offered to lick the stamps for me."

A Hospital Nurse's Hands.

As an example of trademarks have you ever noticed the hands of the hospital nurse? The soft white hand which in fiction is occupied in cooling fevered brows does not exist and could not. It is a skilled hand, but its work makes it rough and chapped. Try bathing your hands in disinfectants twenty times a day and you will find that, look after them as you may, they will soon be seamed with cracks, which an east wind often turns to bleeding cuts. And as they are worked hard for some twelve or thirteen hours a day the nurse takes a somewhat larger size in gloves than most women. If you ever see the photograph of a hospital nurse you may observe that she prefers to keep those hands behind her back.—London Chronicle.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Floral Tributes for the Dead and Services in Town Hall.

The members of A. D. Weld Post, 148, G. A. R., John T. Wilson Commander, have completed arrangements for the observance of Memorial Day, next week Thursday, the 30th. The order of exercises varies but little from past years. This coming Sunday the veterans will assemble at their hall at 6.45 p. m. and march to the Methodist Church and listen to a sermon by the pastor, Rev. L. William Adams.

On Memorial Day in the afternoon they will report promptly at Headquarters, at 2.00 o'clock, in the regulation uniform—dark clothes, Kossuth hats with gilt cords, white belts and gloves. The Post will form on Mt. Vernon street at 2.15 p. m., and under escort of the Woburn Mechanic Phalanx, Capt. J. Edward Graham, will receive the officials at the Town Hall, after which the route of the procession will be through Washington, Main, Church, Fletcher and Wildwood streets to the Cemetery where the graves will be decorated. Gen. S. C. Lawrence Camp 54, Sons of Veterans, of Medford, have volunteered to assist the Post, in the decoration of graves. Music by National Band of Woburn.

At 7.15 p. m., Comrades will assemble at the Headquarters, G. A. R. Hall, and at 7.30 march to the Town Hall, to attend services there. The program commencing at 7.45 will be as follows:

Our Flag and Motherland — Fisher
By the School Children
Prayer
By Rev. L. William Adams
Speed Our Republic — Keller
By the School Children
Readings of Orders, Roll of Honor and President Lincoln's address at Gettysburg
By Comrade Harrison Parker
Battle Hymn of the Republic
By the School Children
Address
By Comrade Edward O. Skelton of Boston, Commander of Gettysburg Post G. A. R.
Tramp! Tramp! Tramp!
By the School Children
America

The music at these exercises will be rendered by the children of the public schools under the direction of Mr. Ernst Makechnie, who has been drilling the children for several weeks.

Senior Vice Commander, Henry Smalley, and Comrade Philip Maher are detailed to decorate the graves of comrades at East Woburn.

Members of other Posts, and all soldiers and sailors who served in the war of the rebellion are invited to turn out with the Post and join in the observance of the day.

The committee of arrangements is as follows: John T. Wilson, Henry Smalley, S. H. Brookings, W. C. Haskins, Henry J. Richburg.

AUTO SMASHED ON CAMBRIDGE STREET.

An automobile, driven by James A. George of Southboro, crashed into another automobile standing on Cambridge street at the bend between the Sheridan and Langley places, near the Arlington line, about 2 o'clock Saturday morning, badly damaging the fronts of both machines. Mr. George was driving to Winchester, where he was to remain over night, and take a party to Southboro the next morning in his car. With him was Mr. Walter Taylor of Lloyd street.

As he rounded the curve on the rise of the hill opposite the residence of Samuel J. Elder and struck the incline he was confronted by the dim outline of the other machine, a touring car, standing on the side of the roadway, abandoned. He brought his machine to a stop as quickly as possible, but not before the two machines had come together.

The touring car bore the garage number 04428, and was owned by Mr. Henry Harris of Boston. It had been stored in a garage in Stoneham the past winter, and during the afternoon a man called to take the machine to Maynard.

The car broke down and was left in the street. The car driven by Mr. George was badly damaged, but the other car suffered only slight injuries.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

Mrs. Hamilton, president of the Winchester Union, took charge of the Medford W. C. T. U. meeting last Friday. It was Flower Mission Day and Jennie Casseday and her work were the topics discussed, after which Mrs. Hamilton spoke of her visit to the World's W. C. T. U. convention.

The great increase of interest in the temperance reform is noticable in looking over the tables of contents of the magazines these days. Hardly a month passes without some striking article in the popular periodicals that at least gives an arrest of thought to those who read them ever so skimmingly. The practical common sense objections to the liquor habit are pushed to the fore and those who object to the traffic on other grounds find their arguments strongly reinforced in this way. The Union Signal last week had a cartoon showing the comparative values in Maine and Massachusetts and it is a telling object lesson that ought to be seen by everyone.

The number of prisoners in Massachusetts to each 100,000 of population is 2,335; in Maine it is 774. The death rate due to alcoholism is three times as great in this state as it is in Maine. Other items are equally suggestive and worthy of attention by all thinking people. Prohibition may not wholly prohibit but it does help in some sections to make life pure and clean.

NEW MARRIAGE LAW.

Town Clerk Carter has received a copy of the newly enacted amendment to the recently passed marriage statute, which straightens out the tangle that developed because of different interpretations of the conditions governing the five days' clause. In the amendment it is set forth that the license may be issued on the fifth day or thereafter. The original five-days' law, coupled with the opinion of the attorney general that Sundays and holidays could not be counted, often made it necessary for the applicants to wait seven days before receiving the license.

The situation was the cause of frequent difficulty because most of the prospective brides and bridegrooms figured that one day counted just as much as another, and they accordingly waited until the last moment before filing notice of their intentions. In a number of cases, however, special dispensation for waivers on the five-day law were obtained from police court justices, Lynn, it is believed, leading every other city in the State, with the possible exception of Boston, in this respect.

Under the amendment Sundays and holidays can be counted in reckoning the five day period. Under the original law a would-be benedict who made application on a Monday would not be able to secure the license until a week from that day. Now the license can be obtained on Saturday.

TREMONT THEATRE.

The last two weeks of the engagement of Christie MacDonald in "The Spring Maid" at the Tremont Theatre will begin Monday. For the final fortnight a reduction of prices is announced in keeping with the opening of the summer season.

This will be the last opportunity the music lovers and amusement seekers of Boston will have to see this winsome prima donna in the wonderful Viennese operetta of happiness for many months as the organization will go to New York for the summer and on an extended tour before returning to Boston again.

The reduction in prices, it is said, will not affect the splendid cast of "The Spring Maid."

Supporting Miss MacDonald are Thomas Conkey, Ben Hendricks, Mae Phelps, Charles H. Hart, Chas. W. Meyers, Beth Stone and the "Spring Maid" chorus and ballet of sixty. The orchestra is under the direction of Louis Gottshalk.

ASSESSORS' NOTICE

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 41, of Part 1 of Chapter 490 of the Acts of 1909, all persons, firms and corporations, domestic or foreign, subject to taxation in the Town of Winchester are hereby notified and required to bring in to the Assessors of said Town of Winchester, on or before the

in case of residents, true lists of all their polls and personal estates (not exempt by law from taxation,) of which they were possessed on the first day of April in the current year, and in case of non-residents and foreign corporations, true lists of all their personal estates, in said Town of Winchester (not exempt from taxation) which lists must be verified by oath as required by Section 43 of said Part 1.

Under the provisions of Section 42 of said Part 1, as amended by Chapter 515, Acts of 1909, the above-mentioned lists must be in form prescribed by the Tax Commissioner of the Commonwealth. These blank forms may be had at the Assessor's office, or will be mailed to any address upon application.

Section 45 of Part 1 of Chapter 490, Acts of 1909, A mortgagor or mortgagee of real estate may bring into the Assessors of the city or town in which it lies, within the time prescribed by the notice under section forty-one, a statement under oath of the amount secured thereon or on each separate parcel thereof, with the name and residence of every holder of an interest therein as mortgagor or mortgagee. If such property is situated in two or more places, or if a recorded mortgage includes two or more estates or parts of an estate as security for one sum, such statement shall include an estimate of the interest of the mortgagee in each estate or part of an estate. The Assessors shall, from such statement or otherwise, ascertain the proportionate interests of the mortgagor or mortgagee, respectively, in said estates, and shall assess the same accordingly. If, in any year, such statement is not brought in, the tax for that year on such real estate shall not be invalid merely for the reason that the interest of the mortgagee therein has not been assessed to him.

In accordance with Section 41 aforesaid, all persons and corporations are hereby required to bring into the Assessors, on or before the 20th day of May next, true lists of all real and personal estate held by such persons and corporations, respectively, for literary, temperance, benevolent, charitable, or scientific purposes on the first day of April, in the current year, together with statements of the amounts of all receipts and expenditures for said purposes during the year next preceding said first day of April; such lists and statements to be in accordance with blanks furnished by the Tax Commissioner.

THE MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION.

Secret Societies in Public Schools Discussed by Mothers.

The subject for consideration at the meeting of the Mother's Association Wednesday, May 15 was "Secret Societies in Public Schools."

The President, Mrs. Sache, opened the discussion by saying that the value of the Mother's Association is its ability to discuss any topic of vital importance with open-mindedness, and the heartiest good feeling. In all the questions of health, housekeeping, education and morals a common ground had always been found, and now they hoped to discuss the question of the healthiest social life for the boys and girls, in the same broad-minded spirit.

The two important considerations seemed to be—How the greatest good can come to the children from the social life of the town—and how the children can best contribute to that social life. The plan of the meeting was to consider the matter from various points of view, that of the parent, the teacher, the member of a secret society, and of the citizen who has given much serious thought to the subject.

The discussion developed the fact that the objection was, not to secret societies as such, but to secret societies at immature age, and in public school, and the perpetuation of secrecy throughout so many years of school life. It was not for a moment suggested that evils which have existed in other localities have been prevalent here. This may account for the fact that Winchester is comparatively alone in perpetuating a condition which has been condemned and abandoned by practically all progressive educational centers of the country.

The arguments of those who were in favor of the societies seemed to be a defence of our Winchester secret societies and could be summed up in the following way—

That the Societies have been a source of great pleasure for the members—

That they are used as an agency for doing a great deal of work in good causes—and that they are a means of development for boys and girls naturally of shy and retiring disposition.

On the other hand it was urged that Secret Societies are undemocratic in their tendency, and it is a mistake to introduce into an essentially democratic institution anything which tends to substitute for the great bond of loyalty to the school the lesser tie of allegiance to a group. That it is unwise to encourage young people at the age of greatest independence, and least judgment to form binding social ties without the direction of their parents and most of all—

That the unhappiness of the children who are excluded from the societies, and often isolated from their former friends by that separation far outweighs the advantages derived by those who belong to them, and that we ought not to encourage our children in seeking their own pleasure at so great expense to others.

At the close of the meeting a vote was taken authorizing the President to appoint a committee of five to confer with other committees representing the parents, the faculty, the community, the alumni, the school committee, and the young people in regard to the position Winchester ought to take toward Secret Societies in the public schools.

BEAU BRUMMEL'S COLLARS

Of a Century ago were marvels of Extravagance compared with the Simple, Well Laundered Men's Collars of Today.

They were "always fixed to his shirt and so large that before being folded down they completely hid his face and head; the neck cloth was almost a foot in height; the collar was fastened down to its proper size and Brummel, standing before the glass, by the gradual declension of his lower jaw creased the cravat to reasonable dimensions."

Even the Beau's collars could have been taken care of by the apparatus and methods of the modern laundry.

Yesterday afternoon shortly after one-thirty, when the centre was well filled with electric cars and teams, D. R. Williamson the plasterer ran his automobile into a barrel team loaded with empty hogsheads. The barrel team was in the car track in front of Abare's store, turning out for a big truck unloading a new soda fountain into the Winchester Spa. An electric car was standing at this point and several teams were waiting to pass. The auto truck was traveling slowly and no damage was done beyond tipping over a barrel of skimming plaster, which splashed into the street and over Mr. Williamson. A large crowd collected and there was considerable excitement for a time. The horses on the big truck containing the soda fountain attracted much attention, they being said to be the largest pair of horses in the city of Boston, and they were much admired. Each had medals attached to its harness awarded in Boston parades.

THE BEGINNING OF A NEW INDUSTRY.

The most important game legislation ever enacted in New England has now become law. The people of Massachusetts tired of legalizing the extermination of migratory game birds, have now stopped it so far as that State is concerned. Formerly the game laws were so drawn that such birds were protected only when they were ont of the State. In recent years, the shooting seasons have been shortened, so that the birds have some protection. A few years ago the sale of Grouse and Woodcock was stopped, and now the sale of all game birds will be prohibited Jan. 1, 1913.

The principal causes of the extinction of game birds are spring shooting and the sale of wild game, both of which have been eliminated from the Bay State. A determined, sustained and successful effort to prevent the repeal of the present law forbidding spring shooting was followed by a well organized and determined battle to stop the sale of game. The fight was led by the National Association of Audubon Societies, assisted by the Massachusetts Audubon Society, the Massachusetts Fish and Game Protective Association, practically every other Game Protective Association in the State and many scientific societies, among which the Boston Society of Natural History took a leading part. The Massachusetts State Grange was very active and effective; Men's Clubs, Women's Clubs professional men, and people in all walks of life, were at last aroused to save the birds and the people were successful.

All bills permitting spring shooting were defeated. The non-sale law was passed by large majorites and Governor Foss approved it. In thus following the lead of New York which passed a similar law last year, Massachusetts has closed another of the great northern markets, only a few of which are now open to the sale of wild game. This great movement extending from State to State, must soon result in the closing of all the great markets, for which, at least 50 per cent. of our game birds are killed annually. In stopping the sale of game we eliminate the market hunter and save millions of game birds, shore birds and wild fowl from the annual slaughter, both north and south. This movement, however, will not stop the sale of artificallypropagated game in the market, but will encourage the raising of certain kinds of game on the farms of the country and the sale of hand-reared game in the markets under restrictions imposed by the Commissioners on Fisheries and Game.

The rearing of game for the market is a new industry in this country which will develop eventually to tremendous proportions, because the demand is unlimited.

There are farms now in England on each of which eight to ten thousand Pheasant or Wild Duck are reared annually.

There are many thouands of game farmers there and more than twenty thousand gamekeepers. There is a great demand here for eggs for hatching, birds for propagating purposes, and young birds for game preserves, and all the surplus birds are taken by the market demand. Those who can raise game birds here will soon find it a remunerative industry. Wood ducks and some species of Pheasants are selling for twenty-five to thirty-five dollars per pair for propagating purposes. Pheasants' eggs sell at from three to six dollars per dozen. The demand for Mallard is increating. The man who can solve the problem of producing Quail or Grouse in large numbers has a fortune within his grasp. There is a good demand for Guinea Hens, Belgian Hare and deer. The task is not easy, but success will be well rewarded, and the time will come when private enterprise will produce more game in this country than nature ever could supply.

The Servant Problem

"Wear-Ever" Aluminum Utensils

help to solve it.

In three ways a careless cook destroys cooking utensils.

1. She allows them to rust;
2. She strikes them against the stove and they chip and scale; and
3. She ruins them by burning food in them.

Now, a "Wear-Ever" utensil cannot rust, it cannot chip or scale, and burning food in it—which does not happen as readily as in other utensils—has no effect whatever upon the utensil. How, then, can a servant destroy it? She may burn it or pound it with a hammer, but even then it can be restored to its original shape and worth.

Since "Wear-Ever" utensils are bright and cleanly, are made without seams, and because food cooked in them requires less stirring than when cooked in other utensils, they are favorites with the cook. Don't blame the servant for the fault of the utensil.

THE SUFFRAGIST PARADE

In New York, on May 4th has received such meagre notice from our Boston daily papers that a part of the account given in the Woman's Journal will, we think, interest many of the readers of the STAR. "More than fifteen thousand women showed their allegiance to the great suffrage movement in the most impressive parade ever held in New York. Never before has organized womanhood so awed and inspired the critical New Yorker. Beautiful to look at with the fire of a great mission in their eyes, they marched amidst thousands of cheering spectators, up Fifth avenue from Washington Square to Carnegie Hall, a distance of two and a half miles. There were pioneer women who had mothered the suffrage cause in its infancy—some marching, some in bedecked carriages—women who began their work in the days of less responsive receptions and who now looked young again with the glory of the conqueror. There were young college girls, rich with youth and enthusiasm, and girls stamped with the factory pallor; and others who might not know the meaning of the sweat shop, yet who felt they too belong to this great sisterhood that asked for better things for all. This great body of women held out to all a prophecy of a better America soon to come, where equal opportunity for all will take the place of special privilege. There were women of all ranks and vocations—carpenters, lawyers, artists, actresses, writers, laundry workers, teachers, dressmakers, those in domestic service and workers in shops, etc., etc, coming from Maine to Louisiana, from California and China, from Australia and Greece. Promptly at 5 o'clock Miss Beiderhase mounted her fine bay horse and sounded her bugle and her fifty-four horse-women responded and the cavalry brigade began the march. Every one was an accomplished horsewoman. Then followed the Executive Board of the Women's Political Union, who had planned the whole parade, headed by its President, Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, in Vassar cap and gown. After these came the teachers and students, with their suggestive banners. One read "All this is the natural consequence of teaching girls to read." Another, "There are 579,947 Illiterate Children in this Country." A third, "Out of the States with the least percentage of illiteracy, those where women vote are leaders."

Dr. Anna Shaw led the Nat. Woman Suffrage Association, of which she is president. She is well-known and well beloved by boys and girls alike and, as she moved forward there was first a personal recognition and every boy's hat came off. She carried a banner with the inscription, "Catching up with China"—which elicted laughter and cries of "Hurrah for Dr. Shaw!" Mrs. Stanley McCormick of Boston carried the beautiful new national banner with two assistants and in spite of its weight said, when asked if she needed assistance, "I could go on like this forever: there is something wondertully inspiring in this march." When Mrs. Cyrus Field drove with the first of the pioneer carriages, the men along the line uncovered their heads. This carriage bore Rev. Antoinette Brown Blackwell, 87 years old this month, who began her fight for Suffrage in 1846 and is the first ordained woman minister in the country. The carriage was beautifully decorated and surrounded by a body-guard of twenty girls dressed in white, Therewas loud cheering when the delegation from the Enfranchised states and countries passed along. The Norwegian and Finnish Suffragists were dressed in native costume. The six voting states were well represented and carried many and suggestive banners. The Colorado flag bore the inscription, "We have voted for President and we lead in laws for the preservation of health." A thousand men were in line and applause greeted them from all sides. The marshall of the division said, "We got some good-natured chaffing but applause was in the preponderance." There were many prominent men in this division and undergraduates from Princeton, Yale, Harvard, Columbia and Williams, New York University and the City College of New York, many in cap and gowns; among those was Lowell Eliot, grandson of the former President of Harvard College. At the head of a contingent of shop girls came Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont. The wage-earners League and the Social Division brought up the rear.

Various New York papers gave fine accounts of the occasion. The New York World said, in part, "The most glorious moment of the parade was when it entered the last block of its journey. Every window and door was draped with people, smiling, cheering and waving hundreds of little flags. The pretty girl marshalls in white frocks dressed by their ribbons of office with buttons and whistles, left their delegations at the door of the hall and turning back formed a double line through which in due time the Men's League passed. Such a sight as it was the girls in their uniforms, the varsity men, some in cap and gowns, some in ordinary dress, but every man of them baring his head. A shout arose then another—those men had the most resounding welcome of the day. The New York Herald writes "No parade in New York, other than hardened troops, ever covered the route in a steadier, raid gait than did the women. The number who dropped out was microscopic compared with those who faller in an ordinary civic parade of men." Carnegie Hall where the parade ended was beautifully decorated and crowded to the roof. Mrs. Blatch, Mrs. Spencer and Dr. Shaw were the speakers and Rev. Antoinette Brown Blackwell said a few words.

BOSTON THEATRE.

Theatre goers will have to hurry!

Julian Eltinge, the famous feminine impersonator who is at present creating a positive sensation at the Boston Theatre as the star of "The Fascinating Widow," is going to close his season in two weeks and amusement-seekers who have not yet seen this play and player should take advantage of these remaining preformances without fail. The closing date has been set for Saturday night, June 8th.

"The Fascinating Widow" is easily the reigning triumph of music and mirth in Boston at the present time and all who visit the city should not fail to include a visit to the Boston Theatre in their schedule. The Wednesday and Saturday matinees at popular prices are admirably suited to convenience of out of town patrons.

LOCAL PEOPLE IN 1912 BOSTON ELECTRIC SHOW.

The secretary of the Boston Edison Co-operative Development committee has recently sent out a letter asking for the names of all the manufacturers of various products in the territory using the Edison service.

The management of the 1912 Boston Electric show, which will occupy the entire Mechanics building in Boston from September 28 to October 26, inclusive, wants to get in touch with these manufacturers, especially those who are doing business on a moderate scale, in order to inform them of what this Electric show is going to mean to commercial business in Greater Boston.

It goes without saying that a big enterprise of this kind must be a great stimulus to the commercial activity of our locality, and will bring a great deal of good advertising to us because of the attention it will attract everywhere.

Herewith is a copy of the letter sent to the members of the Co-operative Development committee:

Boston, Mass., May 10, 1912.

Dear Sir:

We have been at work since the first of September, 1910, preparing for the biggest Electric Show ever held in the world.

This Show will be held in Boston, September 28 to October 26, inclusive, this next fall. It will occupy the entire Mechanics building.

The Biggest Space in the Biggest Building for the Biggest Electric Show ever held in the World.

There will be 105,000 square feet of exhibit floor space in this building, and a large proportion of it has already been taken by exhibitors who will show moving plants operated by electric power.

A large number of these exhibitors are manufacturers, large and small, in the vicinity of Boston. They have gone into the Show because they believe it will be one of the greatest opportunities they have ever had to get advertising value, and also that it will be a great opportunity for them, to co operate, while making a profit for themselves, in boosting Boston and New England.

Naturally we want New England manufacturers, big and little, as fully represented as possible.

Will you, as a member of our Edison Co-operative Development committee, be kind enough to send in a list of all the manufacturing enterprises in your city or town?

It is easy to pick out the big ones—we can do that here in our office; but there must be hundreds of enterprising manufacturers who may be just beginning a growing business in some new commodity who will appreciate having the opportunities of this big Show called to their attention.

Here is an excellent opportunity for all of us to co-operate.

Please let us hear from you as soon as convenient.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) L. D. Gibbs,
Superintendent of Advertising.

MASSACHUSETTS AT WASHINGTON

Senator Crane Recognized as a Strong Influence For Good.

RE-ELECTION SEEMS SURE

Legislature is Curtailing Its Appropriation to Reduce State Tax—Likely to Keep It Down to Last Year's Figures.

The unusual contest in Massachusetts over the delegates to the Republican national convention at Chicago seemed to develop some antagonism to the leaders of the party, among whom is included Senator Crane. In the heat of the canvass many things were said which should have been left unsaid and a disposition was shown to oppose the re-election of Mr. Crane to the Senate. (5-20)

After the primaries, however, this feeling apparently died away and better counsels prevailed. Observers at Washington were greatly surprised at this manifestation of feeling against a senator who has been such an indefatigable worker for the interests of Massachusetts. They declare that no senator from any state has a higher standing at the national capitol than our own junior senator, Winthrop Murry Crane, and that his power as a promotor of the well being of this state can hardly be overestimated. Ever since his election to the Senate he has been unsparing of his strength and his abilities in the service of his constituents and of the country. In all the great measures which have come before the Senate for consideration he has been a leader and his counsels have always been marked by wisdom based on the ripe experience of his public and private career.

Thoughtful men in Massachusetts believe there was never a time in the history of the Commonwealth when the services of a man like Senator Crane were so needed at Washington as at the present moment. They look with a great deal of concern upon the present situation in which an attempt seems to be making all over the country to retire to private life public men who have given years of unselfish, faithful service to the public and to put in their places men of little or no experience in public affairs. It is considered fortunate by thoughtful men that no such movement seems to have any possibility of success here. The popularity of Senator Crane when he was in the executive chair was abundantly proven by the large vote he received each year he was a candidate for that office. Those who have made a study of the situation fail to see where he has lost in his popularity during his service in the Senate and they believe he will receive a re-election by an emphatic majority.

Cutting the Appropriations.

The Legislature is making fair progress toward prorogation. So far as one may judge today, however, it is not likely to come much before the middle of June. A number of the members will probably wish to attend the national conventions, and in order to do so the Republicans would have to leave Boston as early as June 16th. That may have something to do with shortening the length of the session although it would not be likely to be a strong element.

The discovery that the Legislature was going strong on appropriations and that the state tax might be the largest in the history of the Commonwealth has aroused a good many members of the Legislature and started a policy of retrenchment. Both bodies of the Great and General Court are apparently determined not to invite criticism by reason of an unusual state tax if such a result can be avoided. There are those who now believe the tax will not be any larger than last year, which would be $5,600,000. For the last year or two many expenditures upon state institutions in the way of repairs and extensions have been refused by the Legislature although the necessity seemed fairly apparent. The longer they are delayed the more it will cost the Commonwealth to make them. Probably they will have to be postponed this year if the state tax is to be kept down to the limit of last year.

Some of the members are inclined to think it would be better to face the situation now without regard to what the state tax may be. It is understood that Governor Foss is fearful of a large state tax by reason of its possible effect upon his political future. Of course, none of the members like to see an unusually large state tax but some of them do believe that repairs and extensions on the buildings used for state institutions should not be longer delayed, since they must inevitably be taken up in the very near future and it would cost much less to make them now than later on.

Unemployment in Massachusetts.

The quarterly report of the Bureau of Statistics relative to the state of unemployment in the Commonwealth on March 30 give some interesting figures. This report gives the number and membership of labor organizations unemployed as 22,738, or 14.1 percent. While this is a higher percentage than any corresponding one since June, 1908, the report states that of this total number of unemployed over nine thousand were involved in a strike at that time going on in Lowell. The percentage of unemployed owing to lack of work or material represents, according to the bureau, more accurately the general state of unemployment prevailing throughout the Commonwealth, particularly in this instance where the inclusion of such a large number of strikers so greatly increases the percentage. In this case the percentage of unemployment was only 5.1 percent, the smallest for many years.

The percentage of unemployment from all causes in Taunton was 4.8; Springueld, 4.3; Quincy 4.1; Lawrence 3.1. The conclusion is reached that in Lawrence, following the long textile strike there, lasting from early in January until the middle of March, there was a prompt and almost complete resumption of work in the mills and in other lines of work which had been indirectly affected thereby, for which reason there was even less unemployment there than is ordinarily the case.

The percentage of unemployment in the transportation business on March 30 was unusually small, only 1.9 being out of work. In boot and shoe manufacturing 13.9 percent were out of work. In Brockton 21.3 percent of the shoe workers were unemployed; in Lynn 13.8 percent were unemployed.

In some other cities the unemployment showed the following percentages: Fall River, 9.7; New Bedford, 8.5; Fitchburg, 7.7; Boston, 7.5; Salem, 5.6; Haverhill, 5.1.

American Securities in Switzerland.

The better feeling among Swiss investors in general in regard to American industrial shares and bonds has been apparent within the past year. A Zurich firm has issued an attractive Manual of American Railway and Industrial Securities. The character of the publication which contains maps of the territory covered by the different railways and detailed statements of the various companies whose securities are offered is evidence of the interest prevailing in Switzerland concerning American securities.

Swiss investors, who are as a rule very conservative, have been imposed upon in a great many instances, especially in the shares and bonds of new industrial concerns and mining companies, offered by clever promoters, which resulted in a prejudice against foreign securities in general and American securities in particular. But in the past few years the business has assumed a more conservative form, and investors now have an opportunity to obtain desirable securities through reliable local bankers and brokers, who offer to their customers every facility for investigation and obtaining reliable information concerning the properties back of the bonds and shares they are offering. The result has been a general improvement in the market, and a decided increase in the sale of the better class of American securities in Switzerland.

Gold Mining Not Encouraging in Bolivia.

Many American citizens are coming to Bolivia in search of gold, being misled by what is now stated to be a fake letter signed by one Ferguson. Unfavorable reports are brought by miners who have returned from Tipuani and the outlook is not encouraging.

According to advices received at this legation numerous Americans in the western part of the United States are preparing to go to Bolivia on the strength of these false reports. This warning should deter them from embarking on such hazardous undertakings. A further report will be made in the event that any of the prospectors whom the Bolivian Government has sent to various districts are successful in their search for gold.

Wireless Telegraph in Central America.

The National Electric Signal Co., of Pittsburgh, Pa., has corresponded directly with Minister Canton relative to establishing in Nicaragua, at their risk, several wireless stations. This company is the one which put in the stations of the United Fruit Co. and is now taking up the matter of establishing a number of others along the Atlantic coast of Mexico and Central America with the purpose of obtaining constant communication between these countries and the United States. The company also offers to put in at Managua a wireless tower of sufficien power to communicate with Salvador. It is probable that within a month the engineers will leave for Nicaragua to carry out the work.

Automobile Race in Italy.

An international automobile race is contemplated for May 26 and 27, 1912, under the auspices of the daily paper L'Ora, of Palermo, and the Gazzetta dello Sport, of Turin. The race, starting at Palermo, will go through Messina, Catania, Syracuse, Terranova, Girgenti, Marsala, and Trapani, finishing at Palermo, the total distance being 652 miles.

All types of automobiles are admitted, but must have at least two seats. The maximum time prescribed to cover the distance is 48 hours.

Technically Explained.

A Rockford (Ill) boy, while at the table the other day asked what a spinster was. Before anyone else had time to explain his ten-year-old brother condescendingly said: "Huh! Don't you know? A spinster is a woman who ain't married to her husband."

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

Whereas, public sentiment, manifested in community co-operation, is an invincible force;

Whereas, individual indifference forbids healthy public sentiment and when in control depresses;

Whereas, the community is the body of which individual citizens are members and the body can not be strong if the members be atrophied, and

Whereas, without action life is impossible, death inevitably ensuing; therefore be it

Resolved, that from now henceforth I shall believe in my fellow townsmen and shall make known my belief and faith in season and out of season by all my public and private acts and utterances;

Whereas, all that I have and all that I can hope for in a material, moral and social way, are inseparably united with my community's fate; be it further and finally

Resolved, that I shall supplement my faith in my fellows and my belief in Winchester by giving freely of my time and my money in promoting my community's - therefore my own—interests.

The above resolution if incorporated as a part of our daily living will make Winchester the best town on earth. The Spectator is for it. Are you?

That school children, both boys and girls, should wear a uniform is the proposal of a club woman, who wants to discourage and if possible do away with the over-dressing of children. While believing that they, end i' worth. The Spectator doubts if it is the proper way to accomplish it. Simplicity need not mean uniformity, and the reform which is desirable will not be best accomplished by reducing all children, of different builds and complexions, to the same monotonous type. A uniform, except in military schools and the like, is not in accord with American traditions, and would not be popular here in Winchester or elsewhere. That young girls are often overdressed, The Spectator freely admits. Some of the dresses worn to school are entirely out of place. But the reason is found in the ignorance of parents and pupils. They have never learned what is fitting and proper for different places. And the remedy will not be found in legislation, but in education. Possibly the parents are hopeless so far as taste is concerned. But there is a possibility of developing some taste in the children. How this can be done is not for The Spectator to say. Doubtless the personality of teachers may have considerable to do with it. Or it may be that some day we shall teach taste in dress and hair-dressing just as we teach arithmetic. The evil is recognized, and the near future will in all probability bring a remedy.

A valued reader of The STAR gets in touch with The Spectator regarding the new temperance doctrine, namely, that alcohol even in the smallest amount impairs efficiency. This new doctrine eminates from those who make a special study of diet and its effects. While some Winchesterites concede scientifically that alcohol is a food, nevertheless, careful study on the part of The Spectator convinces him that alcohol is food of such rare utility as to be in scientific terms almost negligible in value. These diet specialists maintain that even a small amount of alcohol does clog the physical powers and does decrease the efficency. The Spectator once knew a couple in the old days of popularity of bicycling who used to take tandem trips. They were accustomed when thirsty to stop at some wayside inn and indulge in a glass of beer each; after leaving the inn each would complain to the other that that other was not doing the proper share of the tandem work; each thought the other loafing on the job. This never occurred when a temperance drink was substituted for beer, and yet beer has about the smallest percent of alcohol in it of any so called alcoholic drinks. The Spectator really believes that the efficient man of the future will not take a drop of alcohol except as a medicine; not on moral grounds, but that he may make the most of himself, may be fitted to do the greatest amount of work in his line possible to him. Such a doctrine may be an exaggeration, but it is likely to have more influence on the future than some people here in Winchester and elsewhere at present think.

Sometimes even a clergyman goes wrong. That is sensational news because it is so very unusual. It is out of the humdrum of every day happenings and that makes it what reporters call "good stuff" But it is a tremendous civic misfortune to have a clergyman fall. It hurts every decent interest of society. No upright man, no true patriot, no merchant who values credit among men, but hopes the story is not true. To gloat over it is to be careless of the welfare of the little growing children, our young sons and daughters, whom we send to Sunday school and urge to attend church. To people of pure thought and real high-mindedness a rumor long ago that a President got drunk at a dinner was a cringing sorrow. They refused to believe it as long as they could. They covered it, hid it, and spoke of every circumstance that proved it untrue. This they did because we love our country, because a drunken president would be a calamity worse than famine. Heaven knows that, in this nervous age of ours we need every steadying prop and stay. We need a pure church. We need clean public servants. We stand desperately in need of strength in the charatcer of all teachers of righteousness—men who are professionally not "on the make," but who profess to serve for the love of their fellowmen. And The Spectator wants to emphasize that he is the baser criminal who laughs in derision over the fall of any such man.

Several times recently The Spectator has seen men who would presumably call themselves gentlemen enter a trolley car, filled with members of the gentle sex, carrying with them an insignificant butt of a cigar which they had been smoking. They were not puffing it, to be sure, but a little thread of smoke was slowly trailing itself upward from behind the newspaper, where the smoker made an attempt at concealment and in a moment or two the air in the neighborhood was permeated with it, so that it must have been decidedly offensive to the ladies. Of course the butt was allowed to go out slowly but that was a great deal worse than if it had been kept alight.

Registration.

Section 1. All persons who desire to engage in, carry on or work at the business of plumbing within the town of Winchester shall be registered by the State Examiners of Plumbers, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 536, Acts of 1909, and chapter 597, Acts of 1910.

Plumbers shall at all times be prepared to exhibit or produce their license or certificate cards, whenever called upon by the Inspector of Plumbing.

Permits.

Section 2. Upon application of a registered master plumber, on form furnished by the Board of Health, said Board shall grant written permit to do certain plumbing described therein, when in conformity with the law. Drawings of proposed work shall be filed if required. Permits may be revoked by the Board of Health if conditions are violated. Permits for all plumbing, except repair of leaks, must be in the hands of the plumber before beginning any plumbing work.

Sewage Disposal.

Section 3. Every building in the town of Winchester, used as a dwelling, tenement or lodging house, or where persons are employed, shall be separately connected with the public sewer when such sewer is provided; or if such sewer is not provided, with a cesspool constructed of such material and capacity as the Board of Health shall direct.

No plumbing shall be connected with the town sewer without the approval of the Board of Health, and all plumbing work required must conform to the regulations relating thereto.

No rain conductors, surface or ground water drainage shall be connected with plumbing or drainage pipes which discharge into the public sewer or into cesspools.

Wherever there is a public sewer with which the sewage system of a building is to be connected, the owner or agent shall before determining the position of the main house sewer, obtain from the Water and Sewer Board the location of the sewer branch which is to serve that building and said connection made in conformity to the rules of said Board.

No sewer from any building shall pass under another building; neither shall said sewer pass within five feet of the outside wall of any building, unless it be of extra heavy cast iron pipe, having its joints made with lead, thoroughly calked and tested.

Every building in which gasolene, naptha or other inflammable compounds are used for business purposes shall be provided with a special trap or separator, so designed as to prevent the passage of oils into the sewer, and shall be ventilated with a separate pipe to a point 7 feet above the roof. The waste of every washstand for vehicles shall be provided with catch basin so designed that sand cannot pass into the drain. The waste pipe from the sink of every hotel, restaurant or other public cooking establishment shall be provided with a grease trap. The waste from every fixture, except refrigerators and other receptacles in which provisions are stored, shall be connected directly with the drain pipe.

Drainage System.

Section 4. The drain from a point 10 feet outwardly from inside of wall, shall be of cast iron and not less than 4 inches in diameter, shall continue with at least 1-4 inch rise per foot to and through roof or side of house to a height of at least 8 feet where roof is used for clothes drying or other purposes, at least 18 inches in any case, and 18 inches above the top of any window or opening within 12 feet. The connection between said drain and the earthen sewer pipe shall be made with Portland cement and shall be approved by the plumbing inspector before being covered. Lateral branches of soil or waste pipes, if more than 20 feet in length, shall be extended undiminished in size, and in no case less than 4 inches in diameter where they pass to the outer air.

The drain shall when connected with a cesspool be provided with a running trap; but when connected with the public sewer a running trap may at the option of the owner be omitted; except that in all cases where a running trap has been installed it shall not be removed without the written consent of the Board of Health. Said running trap shall be of the same size as the house sewer, located either outside or inside the foundation walls of the building, beyond all house connections, and provided with an accessible cleanout.

Soil pipes from water closets shall be not less than 4 inches internal diameter, except that by permission of the Board of Health a 3-inch soil pipe may be used for one set of bath fixtures (viz., 1 water closet, 1 basin, 1 bathtub) where it is not practicable to use 2 inch pipe. Waste pipes from the traps of fixtures such as sinks, basins, baths or wash trays shall be of 2-inch cast iron with short connection of lead. Such connections shall be of not less than one and one-quarter inch bore and must not be branched into each other, but shall be separately connected with the iron pipe.

Connections and changes in direction shall be made with long angle and long sweep bends and Y branches.

Material of Drainage System.

Section 5. Drain, soil, waste and vent pipes and connections, which collectively make up the drainage system within the building, shall be constructed of the following material: extra heavy cast iron, galvanized wrought iron, lead and annealed "iron size" brass pipe. Cast-iron pipe and fittings shall be of a grade known to the trade as extra heavy, plain (uncoated), until approved by the Inspector. All joints in cast-iron pipe shall be made with oakum and lead, run full, calked gas and water tight, and left clean without paint, putty or cement, until approved by the Inspector.

Sizes and Weights, Extra Heavy Cast-iron Pipe.

	Pounds per foot.
2 inches	5 1 2
3 inches	9 1-2
4 inches	13
5 inches	17
6 inches	20
8 inches	33 1-2
10 inches	45

Wrought iron soil or waste pipes can only be used by written permission from the Board of Health and under such conditions as that Board may direct.

If wrought iron vent pipes be used, they must be galvanized. No slip joints, unions, or flanges shall be used on threaded wastes or vents, except that slip joints may be used on house side of trap to connect fixtures.

Lead pipe shall be of the following diameters and weights:

Diameter (inches)	Weight (pounds per foot)
1 1-4	2 1-2
1 1-2	3

No lead waste up to and including 2 inches in diameter, unless exposed, shall be more than 8 feet in length, including inlet and outlet of trap; a 3-inch or 4 inch diameter waste shall not be more than 2 feet in length.

Lead bends and traps shall correspond to the above weights.

Brass sleeves for connecting lead and cast-iron pipes shall be extra heavy, at least 1-8 of an inch thick. Brass solder nipples for connecting lead and threaded pipes shall be either cast metal or seamless drawn tubing, size and weight corresponding with pipe to be connected. In connecting lead pipe together, or to brass calking or soldering nipples, full-sized wiped joints shall be used. Cleanouts, plugs, stoppers or any other fittings used in drainage system shall correspond in weight and material with above description.

Fastening Pipes.

Section 6. Drain, soil, waste and vent pipes shall be supported every 5 feet on horizontal runs, and at least once to each story on vertical lines; horizontal runs by supports under, or hung from overhead by iron "stirrup" hangers, not less than 5-16 inch in diameter. Vertical stacks shall be fastened by pipe rest at floor, or clamps, drive hooks or hangers to adjacent walls.

Traps.

Section 7. The waste pipe of every independent fixture shall be furnished with a separate trap, which shall be placed as near as practicable to the fixture which it serves. A sink and set of not more than three wash trays, or bathtub and basin, or any two similar fixtures, when they adjoin, may be connected with the house drain through one round trap not less than 4 inches in diameter when waste pipes are not more than 3 feet in length from floor line to trap on bathtub and basin and waste centres are not more than 5 feet apart on sink and trays. The waste pipe of each fixture shall enter the trap separately, and the waste from said trap must be one size larger than inlet pipes. Four washbowls or sinks in a continuous line may be connected to the house drain through one 4-inch round trap. Lead bends for water-closets or slop sinks shall not be used to connect waste from other fixtures. Earthern-ware traps shall have heavy brass floor plates soldered to the lead bends and bolted to the trap flange, and the joint made tight with grafting wax or other substance satisfactory to the Board of Health. All traps depending upon concealed partitions to retain their seal will not be approved, except for earthen ware fixtures, where the trap seal is plainly visible. Trap screws for cleaning purposes shall be placed in all metal traps and at all times shall be accessible. All fixture traps shall be so installed that the water seal will protect the trap screw from sewer air. When side clean out traps are placed between ceilings and floors they must be provided with an accessible proper sate.

Stables, Garages, Laboratories, etc.

Section 8. Drainage of stalls, stable fixtures, garages and laboratories shall be installed in accordance with plans approved by the Board of Health.

Cleanouts.

Section 9. Every house sewer, soil or waste pipe shall have accessible heavy brass plug cleanouts with iron or brass bodies and taper threads, at such points as the Inspector shall deem necessary. A main cleanout shall be provided at every building below all connections and in as direct line as possible with the street sewer connections

Vents, Back air Pipes, etc.

Section 10. Traps shall be protected from siphonage and back pressure by special iron or brass air pipes of same size as waste; continuous system of venting shall be used, and back air pipes shall not be connected to the trap or branched into the waste pipe except where a continuous vent is not practicable. Traps of S form shall not have more than 24 inches of waste pipe from trap to vent. Round traps not less than 9 inches long and 4 inches in diameter may be placed 5 feet from vent pipe. Two water-closets or two other traps on the same level, with not more than 2 feet of waste pipe, and which connect with soil or waste pipe not more than 18 inches below the top water line of the trap, shall not require other vent than the continuation of the soil or waste pipe full size for its whole length. Lead air pipes may be used for short connections only, and where exposed to view.

Schedule of Back air Pipes and Vents for Fixtures.

Fixtures	Size of Pipe (inches)	Greatest length allowed (feet)	Maximum Number of Fixtures
Baths, basins, sinks, urinals or similar fixtures	1 1-2	30	3
	2	70	9
	3	70	21
Water-closets, or slop sinks	2	35	3
	3	70	9

Two or more air pipes may be connected together, but such connection must be made above top of fixture. All vent pipes shall be at least 4 inches in diameter where they pass through the roof. Vent lines shall be so graded that no condensation will remain in pipes. In case of batteries of water closets, the special air pipe from each trap may be omitted, provided the soil or waste pipe, undiminished in size, is continued to a point above the roof, or connected into the main system above all fixtures.

"Bow" venting will not be allowed except by special permission of the Board of Health, in which case the "bow" must be run full size of pipe as high as the top of the fixture and returned without being trapped.

In buildings where there is only one water-closet and not more than two other traps, and said closet is connected below the traps and all traps are not more than 3 feet from main sewer pipe, no back venting shall be required.

When old fixtures are replaced by new ones in plumbing constructed prior to the adoption of these rules, and the traps attached to bath tubs, basins, sinks and wash trays are round traps not less than 4 inches in diameter and the waste pipe is not over 5 feet in length between such traps and the main soil pipe or drain, and provided also that such main soil pipe extends full size through the roof, a separate air pipe shall not be required. No connection of old plumbing with the public sewer shall be made that does not conform to the above.

Testing and Inspection.

Section 11. Pipes or other fixtures shall not be covered or concealed from view until approved by the Inspector of Plumbing. The work shall be examined and tested within two working days after notice that it is ready for inspection. Plumbing shall not be used unless, when roughed in, the wastes, vents, back air pipes and all calked joints are first tested in the presence of the Inspector, by water or sufficient air pressure, as the Inspector may require.

When the work in a building is sufficiently advanced that the water may be turned on to all of the fixtures, the plumber doing such work shall, within five days, notify the Inspector in writing. The Inspector shall within two working days after receipt of such notice examine the work. Should the examination disclose any defects, the plumber shall be notified in writing and required to remedy the same without delay, and again notify the Inspector as before. Should a plumber holding a permit neglect to send the notification as required, or neglect to remedy said defects for a period of over five days, he shall not be granted any further permits until he shall have complied with these rules, or till action is taken by the Board; and should such neglect be continued ten days longer, the Inspector shall file a complaint with the Board reciting all the facts of the case The Board will then take such action as it may deem advisable.

Water-Closets.

Section 12. Every building for habitation shall have such number of water-closets as the Board of Health may require, but in no case less than one for each tenement. Every building where persons are employed shall have at least one water-closet for every 15 persons employed therein; and in any building where persons of both sexes are employed, separate accommodations shall be furnished for both men and women. Every enclosure containing one or more water closets shall be provided with adequate ventilation to the outer air, either by window or suitable light shaft. No water-closet shall be set in any room or apartment that has not a window having an area of at least 2 square feet opening directly to the external air, unless there is a pipe not less than 3 inches in diameter leading to a heated flue or other vent pipe. Water-closets shall be supplied with water from tank above, or by flush valves set just above the seat, which in turn are supplied from tank or other adequate supply, capable of delivering five gallons of water to the closet in ten seconds. In all cases the flush pipe shall not be less than 1 1-4 inches in diameter. Where local vents are used they shall connect with heated flue when possible, and must be not less than 2 inches for each fixture. All local vents must be so constructed as not to act as a soil or waste pipe should fixture become stopped. Connection to flue shall be made by wrought or cast-iron pipe, properly cemented; other piping may be of galvanized iron.

Drip and Overflow wastes.

Section 13. All drip or overflow pipes from tanks, coolers, safes or fixtures, or waste pipes from refrigerators or other receptacles for the storage of food or provisions, shall be carried to some open sink or place where they may be at all times visible.

No steam exhaust, blow off or drip, pipe shall connect with the house sewer, soil, waste or vent pipe. Such pipes shall discharge into a suitable tank or condenser from which a proper outlet shall be provided.

Defective Plumbing, etc.

Section 14. Alterations made in plumbing already in use, except as provided in Section 10, must, in the future, be in accord with these regulations, and such alterations will be ordered by the Board of Health whenever in their opinion they judge it necessary for the public health and safety. It will be so judged when after examination by the Inspector any old plumbing work is found to be defective.

In such case the Inspector shall report to the Board of Health the nature of the defects, and furnish the owner with a copy of the same. Should the owner neglect to remedy the defect pointed out in such report within the time specified, the Board shall set time for a hearing, and give the owner at least three days notice thereof, that he may attend and show cause why he should not be required to make the alterations. After such hearing the Board will take definite action in the matter.

When buildings which formerly connected with vaults or cesspools, are connected with the sewer, the old connection shall be uncovered outside of the building, a section of the same removed and the ends solidly cemented by the plumber.

The vaults and cesspools shall also be discontinued and filled by the owner with proper materials within three months after the sewer connection is made

Penalty.

Section 15. Whoever violates any of the foregoing rules shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Fifty Dollars for each and every violation thereof.

Adopted in town meeting March 25, 1912.

Approved by Attorney General May 11th, 1912.

Sylvester H. Taylor's Views on Woman Suffrage.

The Winchester Anti-Suffrage Association was most hospitably entertained Friday afternoon, May 24th, by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dwinell at their home on Main street, about fifty ladies being present.

This was the first annual meeting of an Association formed last May, at the house of Dr. H. L. Houghton. At that meeting, eighteen women, whose reason and judgement told them that evil rather than good would be the result of thrusting woman into politics, and that, unless some protest were made, the voice of a small minority of Massachusetts women would be taken as the voice of the majority organized and have done what they could to carry out the main idea of the Massachusetts Association of which they have become a branch. This main idea is that intellectual conviction—not self-assertion nor any form of unwomanliness—should be the weapon with which they should win adherents. That, within a year a membership of eighteen should have increased to eighty, speaks for itself as to the force of their arguments.

At the close of the business meeting, Mr. Sylvester H. Taylor read a paper that was listened to with great interest. He is one of the men of Winchester who has the courage of his convictions, and he spoke warmly in behalf of our cause, paying a beautiful tribute to true womanliness and to motherhood. He closed by repeating with much feeling part of the touching little poem, "The Knight's Toast."

Mr. Taylor's paper is printed in full below and we commend it to the careful perusal of every reader of the STAR.

An Anti-Suffragist.

When I was a boy in the days when Woman's Movement was known as Woman's Rights instead of Woman's Suffrage, when Belva Lockwood rode to her office or to the Supreme Court on a tricycle, and Dr. Mary Walker appeared in public in trousers over-draped with a scant petticoat that fell just above the knee,—a man's coat over a lingerie waist,—the whole surmounted by a silk hat,—a sort of female Ajax defying the lightning; in those days a well known writer and journalist, a friend of my family, was importuned by some of her strongminded sisters to join their cause and wield her virile pen in behalf of their movement. After listening to their pleas, all of which were strenuous and some of which were almost reasonable, she replied, "No, I can't join this movement, because I don't believe you are working in the right way to accomplish the reforms you so much desire. We have enough female lawyers, female doctors, female business managers, without adding female legislators. What the country needs is more female women."

While this remark, made half in jest, was most apropos at that time, it has even a stronger bearing on the situation today, for it seems to me that with the growth of the Woman's Suffrage Movement and the increasing liability of its ultimate success, the female woman will become an extinct species.

Why a movement of this kind should have grown so rapidly and gained such strength in the last few years, must be a mystery to many.

One woman of my acquaintance, smiling at my masculine obtuseness, says "That's no mystery. The Suffrage Movement has become fashionable; of course it has spread rapidly. If society leaders in London and New York hadn't taken it up it would still be in the safe keeping of the Susan B. Anthonys and the Dr. Mary Walkers," especially to a man who has been fortunate enough to have been born of a noble, unselfish mother, to have known the affection of a gentle sister, and the devotion of a tender loving wife. "What," he may well ask, "can our women gain through the ballot that they cannot have as a free gift from their men folk for the asking." But how about the other women who may not have fathers, brothers, husbands, to serve them,—to be guided by their superior ideals and influenced by their high-minded policies. Can't they gain something as voters that they cannot obtain as women? I don't believe so."

The Suffragist argues, "Revolution in woman's work makes 'votes for women' a necessity. Women need votes now in order to do the work which women have always done." Why? Can women not, and have they not, succeeded, as women, in bringing about better tenement laws, better child labor laws, more stringent pure food laws? Have they not helped to combat contagious diseases, and to suppress the white slave traffic without the aid of the ballot, and will not woman always fight and fight successfully for any reform which she believes is for the benefit of the State, the family, the home?

Not only that but woman as woman has been more successful in bringing about great social reforms than woman as a voter.

Despite the boasts of the enthusiasts as to the great reforms brought about by woman's vote in States where it has been tried, an unbiased view of the situation shows that woman suffrage has not only failed to accomplish much that was promised for it, but as one writer expresses it, "This onward march of democracy which has crowded our statute book with interesting and sometimes valuable experiments, has been accompanied by a lowering of the standards of public life, a sapping of individual independence, and a weakening of the sense of public duty."

Reforms do not originate, nor are they furthered by the mass of voters. They begin in the minds of a few observant and public spirited persons, men and women, who form themselves into self-appointed committees. By these few organized reformers questions are presented to the public, and when public opinion has been aroused these questions are presented, nay they are forced, upon the notice of the governing bodies. It is by educating public opinion that social and political reforms are brought about.

Since woman influences the character of man by moulding him during the plastic years of infancy and childhood is it not education rather than suffrage which women should seek? "But" says our fair friend on the other side "We need the ballot to make it necessary for government to consult woman's point of view in making and enforcing the laws." (Nay, nay Pauline.) You are blindly ignoring the true source of power. You should be striving for the best education and training for women in order that their standards may be kept ideally high. You should strive that through them the greatest power of all government that last and highest authority—public opinion—may be intelligently moulded. Public opinion which in all great issues sweeps the ballot aside with its mighty breath. Government will then see woman's point of view much more clearly than if it were presented through the ballot box.

Woman is not deprived of any right because she cannot vote on election day. Suffrage is not a natural or inherent right of an individual, but as Chief Justice Marshall says, in ruling on the point—"Has always been regarded in the practice of nations as a matter of expediency and not as an inherent right." But even if the suffrage were woman's inherent right, would it be wise to grant women unlimited suffrage? Permit me to quote from Professor Cope's very able article. "The relation of the sexes to Government"—"The sexual mental characteristics of men and women," he says "have been described by Lecky, Delaunay, Ladd, Hammerton and others, and with a unanimity that would of itself be authorative if they did not confirm the belief of thoughtful observers generally. Woman is not only restrained by her reproductive functions from taking the same active part in the world's life as does man, but what is more important, she inherits a greater disability from thousands of ages of equal and in some cases greater disability in the countless generations of man's animal ancestors. This nature is thoroughly ingrained and is as permanent as any other part of her organism. In considering these mental peculiarities it must be borne in mind that she inherits from her father as well as from her mother, so that she is benefited by the general progress of the race, but her relation to the male remains the same in each family taken by itself. Thus it has resulted that the women of a higher race or family will display superior traits to men of a lower race or family, even in some of the endowments which are the especial field of the male. And it is comparisons of this sort which frequently cause the question to be braised, whether the superior rationality with which men are credited is ascribed to them justly In the great variety of history and origin, possessed by the people who are thrown together by our modern civilization, it must often happen that women of a superior lineage provoke favorable comparison with men whose ancestors have emerged from semi savagery within a comparatively recent period. Nevertheless, in these cases also, sex qualities of mind are well marked, though more or less limited on the part of the inferior type.

In women we find that the deficiency of endurance of the rational faculty is associated with general incapacity for mental strain, and, as her emotional nature is stronger, that strain is more severe than it is in men under similar circumstances. Hence, the easy breakdown under stress, which is probably the most distinctive feature of the female mind. This peculiarity when pronounced becomes the hysterical department. But in all departments of mental action that depend on affection or emotion for their excellence woman is vastly man's superior.—Beginning with the maternal instinct, woman has become by constant exercise a being of affections. Her long protection by the male has reduced her capacity for defence, while the mastery by him has accustomed her to yield, and to the use of methods other than force of accomplishing her desires. There are apparent exceptions to these definitions, but they are generally more apparent than real, for one of the characteristics of the female of man, acquired by long practice, is a capacity for keeping up the appearance of possessing qualities in which she is more or less deficient.

It would seem then, that nature has marked out very clearly the relative positions of the sexes of man This relation is beneficial not only from a natural, but also from a social standpoint. The functions of the sexes being then different in society, as in nature, the queston arises to what extent should they perform identical functions. This question is pressed upon us today and demands have arisen that woman should compete with man in all forms of human activity, and should have a hand in governments, whether constitutional or monarchial. So far as regards cultivation of the mind, there can be no doubt that woman should have all the facilities that are open to men. As mothers of the human race they should be deprived of no opportunity for development. Had the education of women been encouraged earlier in human history, the general intelligence of the human race would have been at a higher point today.

When it comes to the question of Government, we reach a field in which the acts of men do not concern themselves alone, but exercise an important influence on the lives of others. Is woman by physical and mental constitution adapted to engage in the various duties and services required in the making and execution of laws, and in the enterprises which nations find necessary in order to carry on their functions and preserve themselves from internal and external enemies? It must here be premised that the progress of civilization has thus far emphasized and not diminished the peculiarities of sex. The civilized woman is more refined, more tender, more intelligent, and more hysterical, than her savage representative. Her form is more different from that of the male, and her face more expressive of her distinctive character. There is good reason to believe that this development has been due to the increased immunity from the severity of the "struggle for existence," which women enjoy in civilized communities, and the greater opportunity given her to develop her especial excellencies. And the first thought that strikes us in considering the Woman's Suffrage Movement, is, that it is a proposition to engage women once more in that struggle from which civilization has enabled them in a great measure to escape, and that its effect if long continued, will be to check the development of women as such, and to bring to bear on her influences of a kind different from those which have hitherto been active.

In endeavoring to answer the questions is Government a function adapted to the female character, or within the scope of her natural powers, we are at once met by the undoubted fact that woman is physically incapable of carrying into execution any law she may enact. She cannot, therefore, be called on to serve in any executive capacity where law is to be executed on adults. This is a common necessity to which all of the male sex are liable to be called on to sustain. This consideration alone seems to put the propriety of female suffrage out of the question. The situation is such that the sexes cannot take an equal share of governmental responsibilies, even if they should desire to do so. Woman's Suffrage becomes government by women alone in every case where a measure is carried by the aid of woman's votes. If such a measure is obnoxious to a majority of men, they can successfully defy it. That this would be done there can be no question. We know history too well. Intimidation, deception, and manipulation of the count would be rampant. We do not want to increase possibilities of such evil portent.

Immunity from service in executing the law would make most women irresponsible voters, but there are other reasons why questions involved in Government are foreign to the thoughts of most women. The characteristics of the female mind have already been described. Most men who have associated much with girls and women remember how many needed lessons they have learned from them in refinement and benevolence, and yet from youth to later years they observe one peculiarity for which no remedy has yet been found, that is a pronounced frailty of the rational faculty in thought or action. This characteristic is offset, nay, is overbalanced, by a strength and elevation of the emotional nature which shines with inextinguishable lustre in the wife and mother. It is to this that men render the homage of respect, admiration, and such devotion as he is capable of. But are these the qualities for our governors? Men who display personal bias in ever so small a degree, unless accompanied by unusual merit of another kind, are not selected by their fellows for positions of responsibility and trust."

But turning from the academic to the practical, let us consider a few phases of the Woman's Suffrage movement, as it works out in every day life. Speaking of some of the effects of Suffrage in New Zealand, one woman physician writes—"the high death rate among children is a disgrace to the women of New Zealand. In the opinion of many school masters and doctors who are in a position

LADIES' NIGHT OF THE BROTHERHOOD.

The Brotherhood of the Baptist Church had a very pleasant and profitable evening last Friday, May 24th. The occasion was all the more enjoyable because of the presence of the ladies, this being the first Ladies' Night of the Brotherhood.

The committee on Social Service, of which Mr. Hermann Haskins is chairman, had all arrangements in hand, and great credit is due to the committee for the program of the evening. The committee were fortunate in securing as lecturer, a man of almost national reputation for his successful work among tramps, he being known as "Tramp Chaplain Day" of Hartford, Conn.

The lecture entitled "The Trail of the Tramp" was illustrated with the stereopticon and those present were given a true and strange account of Tramp life. It showed the Trail to start as a rule, in one of three ways—Birth, circumstances partically beyond ones control, and choice. It also showed that the Trail was a hard one to follow, pictures being shown of the tramp on the brake beams of freight cars, sleeping on stones, and stories told of the not uncommon necessity which drove the tramp to the garbage pail for his meal.

Tramps are divided into classes, and are organized for mutual protection and benefit. A great many signs were shown and their meanings given. These signs being placed along the road and near buildings to convey information for the tramp who comes after. The end of the Trail is as a rule, very dark, generally ending in an unknown grave.

Although the Tramp Problem is not a burning problem for Winchester at the present time, yet the information which was given was instructive and profitable for residents of Winchester, and it is to be regretted that more of our towns people could not have heard this lecture, which was given from a christian point of view with a christian love for the five hundred thousand and more tramps of our land.

Following the lecture those present adjourned to the vestry where a bountiful collation, served by Hardy, was enjoyed.

MRS. CAROLINE E. FULLAM.

Mrs. Caroline E. Fullam, one of the oldest inmates of the Home for Aged People died at that institution on Monday in her 85th year. Her death was due to infirmities of her age. She had been in failing health for several years and had required constant attention during the year past.

Mrs. Fullam was one of the first inmates of the Home, going there at its opening 18 years ago. She was also a member of long standing in the First Baptist Church.

The funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock at the Home, Rev. Henry E. Hodge officiating. The burial was in Wildwood cemetery.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

Minimum Wage and Saturday Half Holidays Discussed.

SPECIAL MEETING

May 24, 1912.

Called to order in executive session at 7.15 p. m., all being present.

Recess taken at 8.10 for meeting of the Joint Boards on the Wages of Town Laborers.

Meeting of Joint Town Boards, May 24, 1912.

All the Boards except the Board of Health were represented.

Meeting called to order at 8.10 p. m. Mr. Belcher of the Selectmen, acting as Chairman, submitted figures in behalf of the sub-committee of the Joint Boards, showing the indicated increase of pay rolls on 1911 basis if wages were increased to $2.25 per day rate.

The Committee submitted the following report for presentation at the town meeting.

"This Committee appointed by the several town boards, has carefully considered the vote of the town meeting in regard to a proposed minimum wage and a Saturday half holiday for the town laborers; and is of the opinion that in case the said vote was effective it would be necessary to discharge all those employees who cannot measure to the standard of able-bodied men; because the minimum wage of $2.25 per day should provide nothing less, and our departments are supposed by the citizens to obtain as near as possible a dollar's worth of work for each dollar expended. As a man's usefulness declines, it would seem to be a more just policy to keep him employed at a fair return for what he is able to do.

We recommend that a wage at the rate of $2.25 per day of eight hours be recognized by the town as the standard of pay to able bodied men, and that divergencies from said standard be left to the judgment of each department.

The committee consider that a working week of 48 hours is not excessive, and that the granting of Saturday half-holidays during the summer would be justified only by the employees working the 48 hours between Monday morning and Saturday noon, and would recommend that this matter be left to each department to arrange through its superintendents with its employees."

It was voted to approve the report of the committee and its presenation to the town meeting.

Adjourned at 9 30 p. m.

Frank R. Miller,

Re-assembled at 9.30 p. m.

The clerk offered the following which was Voted:—That in matters of established routine, the clerk be and is hereby authorized to refer applications to the proper Committee of the Board, to the Town Engineer or to the Chief of Police for their reports; to the end that such reports may so far as possible accompany the applications when first considered by the board.

An invitation was received and accepted from John T. Wilson, Commander, A. D. Weld Post, G. A. R., that the Board join the Post in the observance of Memorial Day, May 30, 1912.

It was voted that the Selectmen ask the town at the next town meeting for an appropriation for expenses attendant upon the abolition of the grade crossing at the center, and that the warrant committee insert a proper article in the warrant to cover the same.

An application from Fred B. Jordan, for building permit for a frame building to be situated at 36 Glen road, was referred to the town engineer.

A circular letter was received from Mayor of Boston, calling attention to the threatened increase of the State tax, and was placed on file.

Mr. Pike reported that he had seen Mr. Goff of the Bay State Street Railway Co., in regard to work necessary to be done on Main street, Church street and Cambridge street.

BOY BADLY INJURED.

Samuel Collins, colored, about sixteen years of age, lost control of his bicyle while riding down Lebanon street last Saturday afternoon and ran across Washington street and into a granite driveway pillar. The boy was badly injured and his wheel smashed to pieces. Residents living in the vicinity went to his assistance and Dr. Brown was summoned, who found that he had a depressed fracture of the skull besides bad bruises and cuts. He was taken to the Mass. Gen. Hospital and operated upon immediately, and latest reports were that he was expected to recover although still in a dangerous condition.

Lebanon street is particularly steep, and the granite pillar which the boy struck was a part of the fence in front of the old Joseph Stone estate. It is a marvel that he was not killed outright.

ABIJAH THOMPSON.

Mr. Abijah Thompson died at the residence of Mrs. M. E. Manson, High street, West Medford, Wednesday morning. He was almost 85 years of age. He had been in failing health for several months and had declined rapidly during the two weeks previous to his death. During previous winters it had been his custom to stop with his wife at the Adams House, Boston, but owing to his poor health he had of late remained in West Medford. He was prominently known in Winchester, where he passed most of his life, and was a brother of Mr. Stephen Thompson of Pine street.

The funeral services will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the residence, No. 381 High street, West Medford, and will be conducted by a former pastor, Rev. D. Augustine Newton of Reading. The burial will be in Wildwood cemetery.

ABIJAH THOMPSON.

Abijah Thompson was born in Woburn, July 29, 1827. His father was Benjamin F. and his mother Hannah (Walker) Thompson, he being one of four children, one of which, Stephen Thompson of 18 Pine street, this, town now being alive. A brother, Chandler, died previous to his birth, and his sister, Martha Ann, died in 1841.

His early education was received in the public schools, the well remembered Warren Academy of Woburn and a private school at Berlin, Mass. In 1838 his father moved to this town, then South Woburn, Abijah at that time being eleven years of age. His father built the tannery which once stood opposite the railroad station on what is now Manchester Field, and Abijah and his brother Stephen entered the leather business with him. On July 31, 1863, the father died, the two sons continuing with the business. In 1870 the tannery was sold to P. Waldmyer & Co., and the manufacturing part of the business moved to western New York and Pennsylvania, the headquarters still being in Boston. In 1899 the business was merged with the American Hide & Leather Co., and the brothers retired. His mother died Nov. 8, 1882.

Mr. Thompson was married April 27, 1848, to Miss Maria S. Swan of Arlington, now Winchester. They had two children, Annie Mabel, born in 1868, who died in 1873, and Martha Lillian, born in 1871, who died in 1899. In April Mr. and Mrs. Thompson observed their 64th anniversary of their marriage.

Mr. Thompson made his home in this town until 1903, when he sold his estate on Church street, and for eight years passed his summers at his beautiful home in Yarmouth, Me., and his winters at the Adams House, Boston. The last two years he had resided in West Medford.

He was a young man who grew up in a growng place and he passed a very active life. His name is prominently associated with the history and genealogy of this section, to which he devoted much time and large sums of money, and the libraries of the state and most of the surrounding towns contain many records furnished by him of historical nature. He was instrumental in the formation of the Winchester Historical Society, and to him the town owes the preservation and collection of many important historical documents, etc. He also was back of the publishing of the Winchester Record.

Mr. Thompson was a long time member of the First Congregational Church, joining shortly after its formation. He was also an active member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company o Boston. He was active in Masonry being the last surviving charter member of William Parkman Lodge, of which he was an honorary member, and a member of Boston Commandry, K. T.

TEACHERS ENJOYED OUTING.

The members of the Winchester Teachers' Club enjoyed an outing and picnic on Monday afternoon at Marblehead Neck and Revere Beach, it being the annual affair held each spring by the teaching staff of the Winchester schools. The party of thirty-six left the High school shortly before three o'clock, thirty going in a large motor truck and six others in Mr. Nathaniel M. Nichol's automobile. It took the party an hour and a half to reach the Neck, where a basket lunch was enjoyed on the rocks. After enjoying games and the beauties of the place the party left at seven for the return, stopping an hour on the way at Revere Beach, where various places of amusement were visited. The committee in charge consisted of Miss Helen Lyman, Miss Laura M. Sanborn, Miss Leila M. Whittemore and Miss Ella M. Emerson.

MRS. ELLEN M. MEAD.

Mrs. Ellen M. Mead, widow of the late Samuel H. Mead, died at her home on Locke's hill Wednesday. She was in the 78th year of her age and was a native of Woburn. The funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2.30 from the residence. The burial will be in Wildwood cemetery.

MRS. FRANCIS J. O'HARA.

Mrs. Jane J. O'Hara, wife of Francis J. O'Hara, passed away Saturday at her home, 20 Mystic avenue. The deceased is survived by her husband and seven children, Mrs. Joseph Donahue, Hannah, Agnes, Jennie, Frank, William, and John O'Hara.

The funeral of Mrs. O'Hara took place on Monday morning. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated in St. Mary's Church at 9, the officers of the mass being Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt, rector of St. Mary's Church, celebrant, Rev. Francis E. Rogers, deacon, and Rev. John H. W. Corbett, subdeacon. Seated within the sanctuary rail were Rev. Henry K. Lyons of South Boston and Rev. Francis Cronin of Newton.

The musical part of the mass was under the direction of Miss Margaret Merritt and was sung by a quartet consisting of James J. Murray, Mrs. J. Roy McGrath, Miss Agnes McCarthy and Miss Bertha O'Connell. At the close of the service "Calvary" was sung by Mr. Murray.

The pallbearers were Dr. Frank Andrews, Patrick O'Hara, Thomas Andrews, Thomas O'Hara, Louis Delahoyde, Frank Delahoyde, Charles Andrews and John O'Hara. There were floral pieces in great profusion from the various societies, friends and business associates of Mr. O'Hara.

Before and after the service the bell on the church, which was a gift from Mr. O'Hara, was tolled. Burial was in the family lot in St. Paul's Cemetery, Arlington.

CALUMET WON FROM MELROSE.

By invitation of the local organization, the Melrose Club visited the Calumet Club on Tuesday evening and rolled a two team bowling match. The Calumet teams were victorious by two points, winning 5 to 3. The first team split even with the visitors, the third string being a tie, which was won by Melrose on the roll-off. The second team won three out of four. S. E. Newman was high for the bowling with a single of 129 and a total of 311. J. E. Gendron made a fine single of 118, and Hay of the visiting team made one of 129. Following the bowling refreshments were served. About fifty clubmen witnessed the match.

BASE BALL.

The Citizens of Winchester:—

The baseball team has opened what looks to be a successful season, having already won the four games played, and while the citizens seem to enjoy the game and want the team to win all the time they do not seem to come foward with the financial backing to assure a good permanent team. Now the management feel as though the citizens at large should have enough local pride to support the team. Therefore we take this means of appeal for help. Any subscription may be left at the "STAR" or with Mr. Geo. LeDuc, while Edward McKenzie will circulate a paper through the town.

Yours respectfully,
Geo. LeDuc, Manager.
Edw. McKenzie, Ass't Manager.

MRS. BETSY SQUIRES.

Mrs. Betsy Squires, aged 75 years, died at her home on Raymond place yesterday. She had long made her residence in this town, having been employed as domestic by many families. She way born in Virginia. The funeral services will be held from the New Hope Baptist church on Sunday at 3 p.m.

Parents' day was observed in the Highland and Wadleigh schools Wednesday. Special exercises were given by the pupils in drawing, sewing and sloyd, and the boys of Miss Lewis' room at the Wadleigh, 8th grade, about thirty in number, presented a play entitled "Every-boy."

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

A little Miss of The Spectator's acquaintance, has a relative who carries on a very profitable drug business in a town less than five miles from Winchester. She and her grandfather visited the drug store last week, spending a pleasant day. On th ir return to Winchester the little girl was quizzed about her visit.

"Did you like the store?" she was asked.

"Yes, its a bigger one than any in Winchester," she answered.

"And did Mr.——" (meaning the boss), "treat you well?"

"Fine!" was the child's response smacking her lips at the recollection of it.' "I had soda and grandpa had brandy."

After close study of conditions here in Winchester and elsewhere The Spectator is impelled to insist that mothers should allow their children to romp under proper conditions. The mother who wishes her boy or girl to be a pink of propriety, who rates good clothes and repressed manners above healthful, romping and rational noisiness of childhood, is laying up for herself disappointment. An old medical friend of The Spectator's who lived next to a primary school was asked if the noise and romping of the children at recess did not annoy him. "Not half so annoying as if they were a set of silent little prigs, for I would know that the parents of those children would be bothering me with their ailments. Youth needs to romp to keep well. There is an old saying, "It is better to wear clothes than blankets," If, you do not hanker after nursing, let your boy or girl rough-house it to their heart's content. What if it does tear their clothes to wrestle, to roll down hill or jump in the haymow? Bodies cost more to repair than trocks, and doctor's bills come higher than worn-out shoes and stockings. In the opinion of The Spectator there is nothing more pitiable than the child who is under constant restraint. As one Winchester woman said recently to the mother of an active and naughty child: "It is refreshing to hear of her pranks. Most children nowadays are so repressed with constant 'don't' that they have had all originality destroyed." Let your children romp all they will. Choose places for their roug-hhousing. Let the children understand that romping in the drawing room or in the presence of company is not to be tolerated, but the rest of the time permit play, though it verges on boisterousness. What if rough-housing is hard on the nerves of older people. It is excellent to prevent nerves in the children themselves. Less restraint of children is needed than most mothers will believe. The old cat can teach a lesson to many a human parent when she limbers herself to play with her kittens' string.

A certain boy who has been endeavoring to master the art of hypnotism and though he was succeeding, was given a jolt the other night that effectually cured him of any ambition in that direction. He was attending a social gathering at the home of a friend when it was proposed that he give a demonstration of his ability in mesmerism. Another young man was selected for him to practise on, and the work proceeded. The subject was a willing victim and soon his eyes assumed a glassy stare. The hypnotist told him to clasp his hands and then informed him he could not get them apart, which appeared to be the case. He was put through several other peculiar stunts successfully until told to take off his coat. Here he balked, came suddenly out of his trance, and refused to do it, declaring he had on only a bosom front. Since then several friendships have been broken between the supposed hypnotist and acquaintances by apparently innocent queries about the incident.

The Spectator happened in a home near here the other day and the freshness and fragrance of the reception room caused him to make an inqury. His attention was called to a "violet hanger," which consisted of a group of little wicker baskets filled with pot pourri of violets and covered with silks. These were strung together on long hanging ribbons which were hung in front of a door where they could catch the breeze, so that the sweet perfume emitted through the wicker work was wafted about the room.

A well known gentleman who holds a position in the office of a big mercantile establishment in Boston walked with a greater stoop than usual the other day and seemed very worried and tired. The Spectator asked him what the matter was. "They have got some Young Blood in the office," he said, "and I am working overtime correcting their mistakes."

Occasionally you may see a girl on the street here in Winchester with a toothpick in her mouth. She looks a great deal worse than if her hair were in paper curls.

One woman is insisting that her eighteen year-old daughter go baretooted from May until October. Well, the young woman's health will be the gainer in the long run. A friend of The Spectator breaks up a cold by walking bare tooted (in winter) in the snow in the back yard!

President, Gladys Polley; Vice-Pres., Ruth Winn; Secretary, Edith Reebenacker; Treasurer, Edith DeLoriea; Work Committee, Irene DeLoriea and Mabel Romkey. They have met frequently and have done much good. A few months ago they visited the Children's Hospital in Boston, carrying to the sick some beautiful scrapbooks which they had made. Recently they visited the same Hospital again and carried fruit and flowers and remembered every one in the Hospital. They also remembered the "shut-ins" with May baskets, a service of love which was deeply appreciated. Their record for faithful attendance during the winter was very exceptional, for they had perfect attendance every Sunday for months.

The drinking fountain in the square has proved to be considerable of a nuisance this season. Children are able to squirt the water for a considerable distance, much to the annoyance of passers-by, and the police have been obliged to drive them away constantly. A sudden pressure on the release button will cause the water to spout high in the air, and many persons have received a ducking when bending over to get a drink.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Murphy of Swanton street are the parents of a daughter, born last Friday.

Joseph Donaghey of Sheridan circle had his back injured last Friday by falling from a team at Billerica. He was brought to his home and attended by a physician.

Mr. and Mrs. Eliott Fowle of Cabot street left this morning for West Falmouth, where they will pass the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. George Neiley of Wolcott road left on Wednesday for Annapolis, where they will attend the graduating exercises at the U. S. Naval Academy, where their son, George F. Neiley, is a midshipman.

A SEVERE STORM.

One of the severest storms in years visited the town last Friday afternoon, coming in the form of a thunder shower, accompanied by much thunder and lightning and a great quantity of hail of unusual size. The afternoon developed several showers, the earlier of which appeared to pass around the town. The one which centered over the town gathered at about four-thirty, breaking shortly after five o'clock. The hail which fell was in many instances as large as pigeons eggs and beat against the windows as though it would break them. In many instances glass was broken.

The lightning struck the residence of Mr. Wadsworth Hight on Cambridge street, doing considerable damage. Fortunately no one was injured. The bolt entered the roof and visited most of the rooms, running around on the picture moulding and tearing pieces of plaster from the ceiling and walls from a half dollar to several feet in size. The house was filled with dust and smoke and the inmates telephoned to the fire department that the house had been struck, and while they did not think it was on fire, there was so much smoke that the department had better send the hose wagon. This was done. The same bolt put the fire alarm out of commission and it was almost eleven o'clock before it was in working order again. The ringing of the bell on the center house to call men for the run to the Hight house caused considerable excitement.

The lightning struck the residence of Mr. Charles E. Corey on the Parkway, shaving off the top of one of the tower roofs, but doing no other damage. It also entered the barn of W. J. Fallon on Forest street, killing one of his best cows instantly. Here too, no other damage was done.

The town has had an unusual number of thunder storms for so early in the season, and that of Friday evening followed the hottest day for the 24th of May yet recorded by the weather bureau. During the night there was another storm, but not as severe as the earlier one.

THE SOCIAL PROBLEM.

This question (woman suffrage) is intimately connected with the great social problem—the vices of cities. You who hang your heads in terror and shame in view of the advancing demoralization of modern civilizated life and turn away with horror-struck faces, look back now to these social prejudices which have made you close the avenues of profitable employment in the face of woman and reconsider your conclusions.

Facts will jostle theories aside. Whether we choose to acknowledge it or not, there are many women, earning two or three dollars a week, who feel that they are as capable as their brothers of earning hundreds. Fretting to see the coveted rewards of life forever forbidden them, they are tempted to shut their eyes to the character of the means by which a taste, however short, may be gained o, the wealth and luxury they sigh for. Open to man a fair field for his industry and secure to him its gains, and nine hundred and ninety-nine men out of every one thousand will disdain to steal. Open to woman a fair field for her industry, let her do anything her hands find to do and enjoy her gains and nine hundred and ninety-nine women out of every one thousand will disdain to debase themselves for dress or ease.

Of this great social problem—to cure or lessen the vice of cities—there is no other solution except what this movement offers.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wikoff, Thursday evening of last week entertained the members of the faculty of William Jewell College and a few other friends, at a most enjoyable forty-two party.

The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion, with apple blossoms and other spring products.

Mrs. Wikoff was assised in receiving by Mrs. J. P. Greene, Miss Nannie Wikoff and Miss Daisy Childs.

A surprise feature of this delightful evening was the announcement of the approaching marriage of Mrs. Wikoff's sister, Miss Daisy Childs, to Mr. Chester Underhill, which will take place next month. When the refreshments were served each plate bore a daisy tied to a dainty card, bearing the words "and Chester, June." The marriage of these two popular young people will be an event of much interest in Liberty social circles.

Miss Childs is librarian at William Jewell College, and is an accomplished and cultured young lady, with a host of friends.

Mr. Underhill is a graduate of William Jewell College of the class of 1911, and is at present attending the Baptist Seminary, at Newton Centre, Mass. He is a young man of sterling worth and great promise as a minister. He was popular as a student, and is a member of the "Sigma Nu" fraternity.—[Copied from the "Kansas City Star," May 17.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Underhill of Melrose, formerly of Winchester.

FOR ASSAULT AND LARCENY.

Four Winchester young men were fined $5 each by Judge Maguire in Court, last week, three on assault complaints, and the other for larceny. Austin Doherty, Philip and Gordon Clark, were charged with assault, and Henry Kelley was arraigned on the larceny complaint. All pleaded not guilty.

The trouble occurred, according to government witnesses, last Sunday evening in the bakery of Charles Cogswell on Main street. Stephen Friel, the baker, was in the kitchen talking with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Richards of Swanton street, at whose home he is a boarder, when seven young men came to the back door and knocked. They were admitted and some one in the party ordered four pies, which were served and eaten on the premises. Friel had occasion to leave the room for a moment and requested Mrs. Richards to look out for things in the kitchen. According to the story told by Mrs. Richards the men then opened the door and Kelley grabbed a pie and rushed out. She notified Friel and he with Mr. Richards went after the men, and a row followed in the street during which Richards and Friel were handled pretty roughly, Richards getting a black eye, and Friel's lip being cut. Mr. and Mrs. Richards, and Mr. Friel told practically the same story and the defense was that the pie which was alleged to have been stolen was one of the four which had been purchased and paid for and that no assault had been committed by either of the young men under arrest.—[Woburn News.

AVIATION.

It is evident that Aviation is becoming very popular, since the General Aviation Co., have reopened the Old Saugus Race Track and have converted it into a modern Aviation Field

We who enjoy this exciting sport, can on any suitable day see interesting flights by Atwood also by students of his new company. On the last three days of this week, interesting exhibitions by Atwood and Bleachy will be given, also other flying and motor cycle races.

The General Aviation Company at present holds the largest enrollment of pupils of any school in the United States. To show the progress which aviation is making towards practical uses, there is at present a student from Honduras who desires to perfect himself in the art so that he may interest the Honduras Government.

McCall owes his leadership in the National House of Representatives to ability and honesty.—Woburn Journal.

IN OPPOSITION.

to make comparisons with the old country, the proportion of nervous children is very large, particularly among boys. The standard of education is low; the public code sets a high ideal, but one that most of the schools fall far short of, except in large centers. Divorce is thought much less of here than at home, but what is grievously common is separation by mutual consent, and wife desertion, matters which frequently cannot appear in statistics, as many cases never come before the courts. Wife desertion is so serious in extent that special legal arrangements have had to be made with the authorities of Sydney, which is the nearest port for anyone in a hurry to leave New Zealand." Another writer says,—"I do not find that the 'red ruin' and 'breaking up of families' which was so freely prophesied as inevitable, has come about, but if domestic life has not been poisoned, it cannot be said that public life has received the moral stimulus which was expected," and again "even in the discharge of that elementary, but fundamental duty which has been entrusted to her, woman has contributed little, if anything to the raising of a standard which was not previously very high. Character is the first essential in public life; we expected women to take that view, but we have been disappointed."

In Australia, complaints of a like nature are heard on all sides. In Finland and Norway the Suffrage Movement seems to have worked out not quite so disadvantageously, at least, we do not yet hear the adverse criticisms that come from the newer countries, and possibly it is because Finland and Norway are old countries which have seen their best days, countries whose politics are concerned with increasing emigration rather than imigration, countries whose population is small and whose area is contracted. But who can say that because Woman's Suffrage has not proved detrimental to Norway and Finland, it will be advantageous to Massachusetts and New York. Let us judge by results where Suffrage has been tried nearer home.

Miss Sumner, who was sent by the New York Suffrage League to Colorado, and who spent two years in studying the life of women and women voters, in order to get convincing evidence of their success, after twelve years' trial of suffrage, writes—"Politics in Colorado are at least as corrupt as in other States, and the woman of ideals who goes into public life for reform soon finds not merely that she is working in a mire, but that she is persona non grata with the habitual denizens of the mire and with those persons who profit by its existence. Sometimes she becomes unutterably disgusted, and ceases her political activity. Sometimes her grit arouses antagonism and she is more or less politely shoved out by experts at the business, and sometimes she stays and is taught the tricks of the trade. The last illustrates one direct evil of equal suffrage."

What Colorado and other sparsely settled western states may do, the rest of the country may disregard. But what New York and Massachusetts do, the rest of the States must at least consider, and most probably would imitate. You must think of the tens of thousands of illiterate women in our large cities, and of the scores of thousands of ignorant negresses in the south. Think of the enormous burden of responsibility for the whole welfare of the country which you are asked to assume. Ought you not to raise your voices against this menace? Silence will be cited as consent. Every new recruit for the movement is counted, and all the rest of you are pronounced merely weak, cowardly, indifferent, or as yet unawakened.

Speaking as a mere man, I believe that the surest and quickest way to kill the Woman's Suffrage Movement is for men to relinquish the franchise and surrender it entirely to the women. Poor downtrodden woman will then have her opportunity to right her wrongs without let or hindrance. Her would-be leaders tell her she has the brains, the capacity, the right to govern. Let her try it, but let her take the full responsibilty for all her actions. The somewhat frequent tempests nowadays escaping from the teapot of female patriotic societies and woman's clubs, give no very strong gaurantee that all would go well with the State, or that its future generation of rulers would possess that strong understanding, vigorous judgment and mind "without fear, favor or affection," through which charateristics alone justice can be obtained.

The days of chivalry are past, but need the spirit of chivalry pass with them? It is for woman to say. It is for her to choose. Let her not be carried away by selfish ambition, political intrigue, and noisy notoriety, under a mistaken sense of duty; let her not descend to man's level, leaving "the mighty space of her large honors for such trash as may be grasped thus." She is the mother of the race, and her influence on future generations is paramount for good or evil. Noble men are born of noble women. Do you think the militant Suffragette smashing windows in London, or parading in New York, or even her more conservative sister wasting her God given powers, her strength, her serenity, her sweetness and light on political activities, with their attendant strife and mental and physical weariness, do you think she will ever inspire the sentiment set forth in the following lines:—

"Then came St. Leon's turn to rise
On him are fixed those countless eyes
A goodly knight is he,
Envied by some, admired by all,
The flower of chivalry.
I drink to one, he said, whose image
never will depart,
Deep graven on this grateful heart,
Till memory be dead.
To one whose love for me shall last
Till lighter passions long are passed,
So holy 'tis and true.
To one whose love for me hath dwelt,
More keenly fixed, more deeply felt,
Than any pledged by you.
Each knight upstarted at the word, and laid his hand
Upon his sword, with fury flashing eye;
Then Stanley said, we crave the name,
proud knight,
Of this most peerless dame,
Whose love you deem so high.
St. Leon paused as if he would not men tion it
In careless mood thus lightly to another,
Then bowed his noble head, as if to give the word
Its reverence due, and gently said"
"My mother."

SINGLE COPIES, FIVE CENTS.

Two weeks from tomorrow the Republican National convention will convene at Chicago.

The net profits of the Pullman Company the past year was $12,000,000. This fact has removed a great deal of worry.

Notwithstanding that the chief engineer of the Hingham fire department and firemen declared that an auto fire truck and automobile for the chief were not needed, the citizens of that town last week voted $12,000 for these two pieces of apparatus. This was a case where the firemen were more conservative than the citizens.

Acceptance of the new wage agreement by the miners ends the anthracite coal strike and before long normal conditions may prevail again in the mines. Last week one of the local dealers was offered a chance to buy a barge load of coal for $8 75 a ton. He did not purchase. Some persons have made a great deal of money from this strike, but not the retail dealers who have lost money.

Senator Crane has been loyal to Massachusetts first, last and all the time, and his retirement is a distinct loss to the State and nation. As his successor the STAR would bring forward the name of Congressman McCall. He is as well equipped, and perhaps more so, than any man in the State. Perhaps if he was more of a politician and less of a statesman, his chances of advancement would be better.

By the new congregressional redistricting plan Winchester is placed in the eighth district with Cambridge, Watertown, Belmont, Arlington, Lexington, Medford, Stoneham, Melrose and Wakefield. It is calculated that the district has a good Republican majority, and that Congressman McCall will be fully as safe as in the old district. Somerville, which was in the old district, because of its many congressional aspirants, was in a constant state of unrest.

It is not unlikely that the action of the town in voting a minimum wage of $2.25 per day for the town laborers may result in hardship to some of them. The several town departments who have to do with this matter, stipulate that this amount be given only to able-bodied men. As there are men now working who are said not to be able-bodied, and who cannot do a good day's work, it is not at all unlikely that such discrimination, if strictly adhered to, may prove a hardship to these men who have long been working for the town.

BANDANA PARTY.

A very pleasant party in aid of St. Mary's Parochial School Fund was held in the old rectory Wednesday evening. Whist was directed by Mrs. Wm. J. Smith and Mrs. John O'Connor, assisted by Miss Margaret Maguire, Miss Josephine Brine, Miss Kittie Kenney. The refreshment table was presided over by Mrs. Corcoran, Mrs. M. Noonan, Mrs. B. McFeeley and Mrs. E. Flaherty. Outdoor dancing was enjoyed. Miss May Kenney was floor directress with aids as follows: Miss Annie Noonan, Miss May O'Leary, Miss Catherine Fallon, Miss Lillian Kane, Miss May Cosgrove, Miss Julia Fitzgerald, Miss Rose Ryan, Miss May McManus, Miss May Ray, Miss May Harrold. Prizes were awarded the following: Miss M. Kenney, Miss Anna Sullivan, Mrs. M. O'Brine, James Brine, Mr. Cummings, Mr. Morrissey.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"The Climax," which John Craig will produce at the Castle Square next week for the first time at popular prices, is a play with an original plot and new and original characters.

The music and the songs are no small part of the entertaining qualities of "The Climax." In fact, "The Song of the Soul" would be sufficient to make the success of any play. The part of Adelina Von Hagan will be played in Mr. Craig's production by Miss Florence Webber, while Thomas Fallon will be the Dr. Raymond, and Carney Christice will appear as Pietre Golfanti. These three players were in the original cast of "The Climax," Mr. Christie, is also well known. In the cast will be Donald Meek, who as Luigi Golfanti will show what he can do with a character role that is worth his while. If "The Climax" does not make a tremendous hit at the Castle Square, then all signs fail.

THE PLEASURE OF DEFEAT.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

To say say that the Winchester High School Base Ball team of the spring of '95 did not try to win yesterday morning's game would be far from stating the fact.

Men seventeen years out of school have learned to appreciate the mighty power there exists in having confidence in one another. They known what that confidence coupled with a spirit of determination can do. At no time were they able to assemble their entire membership for practice, therefore, relying upon determination, and confidence that each man would do his best whatever mistake he might make, they went in to win the game.

Upon taking their positions in the field memories of many games played together surged through each man's mind. It seemed but yesterday that they rejoiced in the ten games won and commiserated with each other over the five defeats of the spring of '95.

To burden your readers with all that these memories mean to them, and what part they played in yesterdays game, is not the object of this communication. Deep down in their hearts in spite of the fact that they would have dearly prized a win, they did not entirely regret their defeat. They met a worthy opponent. A team playing together. Each player seemed to have that confidence in his team mate which is absolutely necessary, if individual skill is to count. The criticism and fault finding which has been so noticable among the members of the High School teams of the past few years was conspicuous for its absence. Instead, determination on the part of Meincke, made him make that difficult catch at the most critical moment in the game. Determination, and knowledge that his team was back of him helped Goldsmith to make the hit that won the game. It was found that the '95 team with determination, confidence in each other, and a good spirit, could not win over a team that had all these qualities plus a good training and constant practice.

We congratulate Mr. Gillow their coach. We appreciate the work he has done. We know this spirit which he has instilled into the team will help each boy as he goes out into the world. Win or lose the town will be proud of such a team as represented our school yesterday. We are all interested, and it will be our joy to support them.

W. H. S., '95.

WINCHESTER ADDS ANOTHER.

The Winchester A. A. defeated the strong Prospect Union team of Cambridge Saturday afternoon by a score of 12 to 5 making 11 of the twelve runs in the seventh inning and getting 9 of the sixteen hits in the same inning. Up to the seventh inning the visitors had everything their own way with a score of 5 to 1. In this inning, every man on the Winchester team with the exception of Norton, scored a run, and three of them, Kenney, Follis and Murphy scored two hits each in the inning, getting a safety both times they came to the bat.

The 11 runs were made with only one out.

With the exception of this fatal inning, it was a well played and interesting game, fast and clean on both sides.

AN EARLY OUTING.

Through the kindness of Mrs. Arthur L. Winn of Fairmount street, seven girls, - Mildred Bartlett, Enid Bennett, Viola Biswanger, Helena Crawford, Edith Foss, Clarissa Kidder, and Ruth McElhiney, gave an outing last Saturday to seven little Syrian girls and their teacher from Boston.

The day was spent happily in playing games and eating lunch upon the lawn, swinging in the hammock, picking flowers, a ride in an auto to the Middlesex Fells Zoo, and walk back over Bear Hill.

This was a gala day for these little city children as they have far from an easy and pleasant time at home, one being the daughter of a woman who is a pedler, and away sometimes for three days at a time leaving the child, eleven years old, to shift for herself; another being kicked and cuffed, by the mother, simply because she was going on an outing, instead of staying at home and caring for the younger children as usual; and another saying that she didn't think her mother would whip her this time when she went home, as she had a big bunch of violets and her mother liked violets.

At five o'clock the children left for their return trip each laden with a bouquet of flowers, large bunch of violets, lunch, and last but not least, in the estimation of most of the girls a "fat" stick of rhubarb.

It is the purpose of this group of Winchester girls to give other outings to needy ones during the summer. This one was given early on account of the fine opportunity to gather violets which grow in large numbers upon some of our hills.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

It was voted to instruct the Superintendent of Streets to remove the hydrant stand-pipe on Washington street near the corner of Westley.

The Highway Committee reported a conference with the Edison Company and it was voted that the Town Engineer be asked to make a list of locations where long arm fixtures seemed to be necessary for street lights.

A letter was presented from Amasa Harrington asking for a granolithic sidewalk on Sanborn street and it was voted to reply that this work could not be taken up this season.

Voted, to authorize the town treasurer to borrow $30,000 in anticipation of taxes and to issue proper notes of the Town for that amount payable in December.

Voted, to subscribe to the "Engineering Record" for one year for the benefit of the Town.

Application from the Orchestral Society for regular use of the Town Hall for rehearsals was referred to the committee on Town Hall, with recommendation to postpone action until after the town meeting.

Voted, to insert an article in the Town Warrant to see if the town will revise its list of rates for the use of the Town Hall.

Committee on Police reported that Patrolman J. P. Hargrove had passed the civil service examination for advancement to the rank of sergeant in the police force at Winchester and it was voted, that patrolman James P. Hargrove be, and he is hereby promoted to the rank of sergeant in the Winchester police force, said appointment to take effect June 1, 1912.

Committee on Police also reported that the Civil Service Commission had certified to the board, Willam H. Rogers, 854 Main street, Winchester, for probationary appointment and it was voted that William H. Rogers be, and he is hereby appointed to the position of patrolman on the police force at Winchester for the probationary term of six months said probationary appointment to take effect on the first day of June, 1912.

Letter received from W. H. Yetter, asking that Sheridan Circle be accepted by the town as a public way, was referred to the town engineer.

Adjourned at 11.20.

Frank R. Miller,
Clerk of the Board.

Regular Meeting.

May 27, 1912.

The Board met at 7.30 p. m., all present.

The town treasurer reported the following bids for $30,000 loan in anticipation of taxes:

Loring, Tolman & Tupper	.0358 dis.
Estabrook & Co.	.0365 "
Shawmut National Bank	.0375 "
Old Colony Trust Co.	.0393 "

The Selectmen signed notes of the town, No. 6, 7 and 8 for $10,000 each, dated May 27, 1912, due December 15, 1912, interest at 3.58 per cent, as authorized by vote of the town meeting, March 4, 1912, to borrow $125,000 in anticipation of taxes. Notes previously issued on this account amount to $50,000.

On the petition of the Edison Electric Illuminating Co., for permission to erect and maintain 38 poles with the necessary fixtures and wires on High street, easterly from Ridge street, a hearing was appointed for June 11, 1912, at 8 p. m., and the Clerk directed to serve notice on the abuttors.

On the petition of the Edison Electric Illuminating Co., for permission to erect and maintain 51 poles with the necessary fixtures and wires on Ridge street, beginning at a point about 520 feet from the Arlington line and running northeasterly, a hearing was appointed for June 11, 1912, at 8 p. m., and the clerk instructed to notify the abutters.

A deed signed by Annie E. Gurney and William J. Stevenson, granting to the town of Winchester, the right to enter and occupy a right of way over the lands belonging to them on Hemingway street; also one signed by Frank J. Bartlett and Roland G. Hopkins, Trustees, releasing to the Boston Ice Co., their flowage rights on land of said company, situated on Hemingway street, such as would result from the placing of two or more drains, pipes or conduits to conduct the surface water from Hemingway street to said land; and from the Boston Ice Company to the Town of Winchester, conveying the same rights; together with a plan of the premises were received from the Town Engineer and ordered transmitted to the Town Counsel to be recorded. The Highway Committee reported that the Superintendent of Streets had been notified to put in the drain.

The petition of the Arlington Gas Light Co., for permission to lay a 6 inch cast-iron cement main on Mt. Vernon street, from Washington street to Highland avenue, an approximate distance of 1200 feet, was granted subject to the usual conditions and to the conditions prescribed by the Selectmen's letter to them dated May 22, 1912.

The matter of allowance to be made to abutters on the cost of concrete and granolithic sidewalks was discussed and referred to Messrs. Jewett and Pike for report.

A letter was received from the County Commissioners of Middlesex County, stating that it is their opinion that 25 per cent of the cost is the fair share for the County to bear towards the improvement ordered on Pond street.

On motion of Mr. Jewett of the Highway Committee, the clerk was requested to notify William H. Wentworth to so arrange the conductors from the block on Main street, corner of Thompson street, as to prevent the water from running over the sidewalk.

The Highway Committee reported receipt of complaints of the dust on Washington street and stated that the Superintendent of Streets intends to apply light oil as soon as it is received.

The Town Engineer submitted notes of conference with the County Commissioners held May 21, 1912, in regard to the apportionment of the cost of the Cambridge street alterations, at which the Commissioners stated their board would assume some part of the cost, and suggested that when work was satisfactorily completed, the Massachusetts Highway Commission be asked to take over and assume care and control of new part of the street. The engineer also reported that the Highway Commissioners would hear the Selectmen on the subject Wednesday, May 29, 1912, at 11.30 a. m.

The bond of James P. Hargrove as constable, was received and accepted.

Superintendent of Streets reported on the petitions of Catherine A. Folsom, presented May 13th, that he would not recommend any pipe or bridge across the south driveway, but that the town should do some repair work on the driveway as far as the line of Highland avenue, and the mattter was referred to the committee on Highways.

The Superintendent of Streets reported the cost of repairing streets, using gravel, from Mr. Brigham's land, of which 295 loads were used.

Warrants drawn for $1054 61 and $1726.34.

Adjourned at 11.30.

Frank R. Miller
Clerk of the Board.

The Board will open their session to the public each meeting night at 8 and 8.30 to hear any citizens who may desire to present matters in person.

Blank forms for petitions or other applications have been prepared by the Selectmen, and may be had at the Town Clerk's office; also at the STAR office, or will be mailed by the Clerk of the Selectmen on request.

DISFRANCHISED MEN.

The students of Yale were not allowed to vote by the New Haven selectmen. A number of them were very indignant, and a good deal was said in the New Haven papers. This led a suffragist to write the following lines of sympathy:

Gentlemen:—Since, for the moment, your temporary condition is somewhat like my chronic condition,—since you cannot vote because the selectmen wouldn't let you, and I cannot vote because the men of Connecticut won't let me,—our cases are remotely parallel, and I venture, as a sincere sympathizer in your undeserved affliction, to submit a few of the consolations for not having the ballot that have been offered me.

In the first place you probably think you have a right to vote. This is a mistake. Voting is a privilege not a right—a privilege at the disposal of the State. If this privilege is conferred upon you by the selectmen representing the State at this moment, with that impartial and unemotional justice found only in the bosom of men, well and good; if not, then you must go back and sit down in quiet resignation with minors, criminals, idiots and women—disfranchised. It would be extremely bad form to make a disturbance. You may occassionally murmur to each other under your breath that you would like to vote, but any outspoken protestation would be very ungentlemanly and conspicuous. Think how it would sound to say, "I want to vote!" in a loud unmanly voice! Who would get up to give you a seat in the car under the circumstances?

Secondly, if you should be allowed to vote, think of all the ignorant men that would vote, too! You may not immediately see the consolation in this fact. Many do not. That is a proof that you are emotional and easily influenced by your feelings, that you are lacking in the calm, dispassionate, even-handed justice naturally inherent in man of which we have such notable examples in the board of selectmen and therefore you are unqualified to vote.

Thirdly you have the great consolation of knowing that you possess on election day it not the ballot something far higher and greater—so immeasurably better that the unselfish founders of our government gave it to those whom they disfranchised and kept the inadequate ballot for themselves. I refer to "influence" the "influence of a good man."

Use your heaven-sent "influence," dear brothers. On election day take the butcher and baker gently by the hand, and earnestly entreat them to vote the way you would yourself if you could. Walk along with the postman. Tell him you are only a man, but you love your country and take a mild interest in her welfare and won't he please vote the way you want him to? It would be extremely nice of him. Then this wonderful "influence" will begin to work and the man will go off and vote just the way he pleases.

These are a few of the considerations I have always found eminently consoling and I hope they will have the same soothing effect on you as on your Disfranchised Sister.

THE JUNE BREAKFAST.

In last week's STAR a detailed announcement of the June Breakfast was given. To repeat it might seem to imply that every issue of this paper is not carefully read and would necessitate the omission of other items of general interest. Therefore, we will simply observe that the Breakfast will be served in the Town Hall tomorrow, Saturday morning, to the early birds at six o'clock, and, that later arrivals will be welcomed with equal cordiality till nine o'clock.

A good orchestra will help to make this a merry occasion. Tickets are twenty-five cents.

This is one of those occasions when all of us will do well to forget our own worries as we meet together to break bread and to manifest our interest and enthusiasm in the wise and gentle ministrations of the Visiting Nurse Association.

TENTH RECITAL.

The tenth annual violin recital of the Makechnie violin school will be held at Huntington Chambers Hall, 20 Huntington avenue, Boston, Tuesday evening June 11, at 8 o'clock. This annual event always draws a large attendance of Winchester people on account of the number of families in this town, some of whose members are studying or have studied with Mr. Makechnie. Last season the demand for tickets exceeded the supply, but this year, with a much larger hall at his command, Mr. Makechnie hopes to be able to accommodate all who wish to be present. Tickets may be obtained by application to Ernst Makechnie, 238 Elm street, West Somerville.

The recital programme will include several solos and numbers by the pupils' orchestra. Among the soloists will be Misses Sadie Lieb, Vivian Crosby, Beatrice Jones, Dorothy Collison, Selena Coburn, Rena Michelini and Masters Frank Gifford, James Armstrong, Roy Slocum and Merrill Wallace.

The orchestra will play the overture "Poet and Peasant" by Suppe, the first movement of Haydn's Second Symphony, Carvill's waltz "The Pink Lady" and Rollinson's march "The Skirmish Line."

FIRST GRAND BALL.

The Kelley & Hawes employees held their first grand ball in Lyceum Hall on Tuesday evening. The affair was largely attended and was under the direction of Joseph Moffett, treasurer; Fred Hibbard, floor director; Daniel Mahoney, assistant floor director; John Melaugh, chief of aids and the following aids: John Hanlon, Elias Walden, Owen Flaherty, Frank Ward and Edward Callahan.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The prevalence of measles in Winchester compelled the postponement or omission of the Loyal Temperance Legion meeting last week but it is hoped that the epidemic will have passed in time to permit the members of the Legion to enjoy the annual outing late in June, on the occasion of the entertainment of the classes from the Willard Settlement. This entertainment is to be in charge of Mrs. Daniel Kelley and if the weather is propitious promises to be very pleasant. The members of the Union and their friends who have gardens are reminded of the weekly collection and distribution of flowers by the Flower Mission. The current number of the Union Signal is devoted to this most attractive line of work, one in which it is most easy to enlist the interest of the general public.

As the end of the season approaches every white ribboner ought to plan to spread the temperance gospel in some way so that the summer season may not be wasted. A word fitly spoken may enlist a new recruit; certainly the standing by one's principles among strangers will awaken the respect of those not otherwise interested; or may keep up the courage of someone ready to fall. There are many ways to preach temperance and the most effective way is to practise it—in all things.

The treasurer of the Union might say that a very good way to show zeal for the cause would be to pay one's dues promptly and if any one is in doubt about other ways, the officers would be glad to tell how to exemplify the work of the Union.

BASE BALL.

Last Saturday's game with the M. M. M.'s of West Medford resulted in a defeat for the Winchester Highlands Athletic Club team by a score of 13 to 5. For the visitors Tyler pitched a great game. E. Getchell and M. Getchell also put up a good game.

For the home team Cooper excelled. A spectacular catch by Murphy featured the game. Freeman pitched the last inning in top-notch form.

The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	Total

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

As the summer time is the popular period for relaxation, Mr. B. F. Keith has attemped to follow out his idea in the selection of his warm weather attractions. This policy has been followed out in arranging next week's bill at his popular amusement resort, with the result that the opening week of the summer will find one of the strongest and most pleasing programs offered at B. F. Keith's Theatre in months. The two principal features are Trixie Friganza, and Dorothy Rogers & Co., both of whom are new to Boston vaudeville patrons. Another strong laughing feature will be the first appearance of Dorothy Rogers and her company in a screamingly funny farce-comedy entitled "Babies a la Carte." Still another feature will be Chick Sale, the impersonator, in his Country School Entertainment. Others will be the 3 Lyres, liveliest of musical acts; Klutings' Animals, with his trained cats, dogs, rabbits, and pigeons; Cummings and Gladymgs, novelty entertainers; the Flying Russells, two daring aerial wonders; and others yet be announced

EQUAL SUFFRAGE.

A Men's Association against extension of woman suffrage has just been organized in Massachusetts. The Woman's Journal says:—"We hail the organization of a Men's Anti Woman Suffrage Society, as a sign of the growth of our movement. Men's Leagues for woman suffrage already exist in 25 states and more are constantly forming. It is natural that men opposed to equal rights should organize also. These men have sent out a manifesto highly Toryistic in tone" The following is, in part, a reply that has been prepared. "These men object,

1. That suffrage is not a natural right. Dr James Freeman Clarke said: "In a state of nature there is very little voting. A great many rights are given by society, of which, however, it would be manifestly unjust to deprive either sex. If all women were forbidden to use the sidewalk, and they complained of the injustice, it would be no answer to tell them it was not a natural right"

2. That taxation without representation is not tyranny in women's case. If both men and women were taxed, but women alone were allowed to vote on the expenditure of the tax money, men would see a new light on this point.

3. That fewer men than women pay taxes. All citizens pay indirect taxes and revenues

4. That the Socialist party advocates woman suffrage. It also advocates international peace. Ought we therefore to fight the peace societies? As it happens every conspicuous triumph that socialism has thus far won in the United States has been won where women did not vote.

5. That suffrage will make homes unhappy. If so the clergy would find it out. Julia Ward Howe sent a circular letter to all the ministers of four leading denominations in the suffrage state, asking if the results were good or bad. Out of 624 answers received, only 62 were unfavorable. . . .

6. That the ballot cannot affect wages. Hon. Carroll D. Wright, Nat'l Commissioner of Labor said: "The lack of direct political influence constitutes a powerful reason why women's wages have been kept at a minimum. If all the working men were disfranchised tomorrow, does anyone doubt that it would affect their industrial position for the worse?

7. That it would hurt women's influence. Every vicious interest in Massachusetts would rather contend against the influence of women unenfranchised than of women enfranchised.

8. That city business would be badly managed because women lack business experience. Women have municipal suffrage in England, Scotland, Ireland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and several other countries City government in all these places is better than in America. The requisites for a good vote are not a detailed knowledge of city business, but common sense and conscience enough to elect honest men to attend to it. Women have twice defeated Mayor Gill of Seattle. The corrupt politician everywhere opposes woman suffrage.

9. That civilization advances through division of labor. Its advance has been marked by a growing diversion of labor among individuals, but not by a growing restriction of the suffrage. That has been steadily extended.

10. That the ballot would add unduly to women's burdens. On the contrary, it would lighten them. It would cost a woman less time to vote once a year for a city government that would keep the streets clean than to have the children tracking dirt into the house every day.

11. That women ough not to vote because they do not fight. Not one of our 48 states makes a man's right to vote, depend on his power to bear arms. . . . Either the ability to fight is a necessary qualification for suffrage or it is not. If it is, men who lack it should be excluded. If it is not the lack of it is no ground for excluding women.

As a matter of practical experience the laws are as well enforced in States and countries where women vote as in those where they do not. The ballot should be granted to women on grounds of both equity and expediency. There are no objections to it except such as have been urged against every previous enlargement of woman's opportunities."

" 9. Cleanouts.
" 10. Vents, Back Air pipes, etc.
" 11. Testing and Inspection.
" 12. Water Closets.
" 13. Drip and Overflow Wastes.
" 14. Defective Plumbing.
" 15. Penalty.

Registration.

Section 1. All persons who desire to engage in, carry on or work at the business of plumbing within the town of Winchester shall be registered by the State Examiners of Plumbers, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 536, Acts of 1909, and chapter 597, Acts of 1910.

Plumbers shall at all times be prepared to exhibit or produce their license or certificate cards, whenever called upon by the Inspector of Plumbing.

Permits.

Section 2. Upon application of a registered master plumber, on form furnished by the Board of Health, said Board shall grant written permit to do certain plumbing described therein, when in conformity with the law. Drawings of proposed work shall be filed if required. Permits may be revoked by the Board of Health if conditions are violated. Permits for all plumbing, except repair of leaks, must be in the hands of the plumber before beginning any plumbing work.

Sewage Disposal.

Section 3. Every building in the town of Winchester, used as a dwelling, tenement or lodging house, or where persons are employed, shall be separately connected with the public sewer when such sewer is provided; or if such sewer is not provided, with a cesspool constructed of such material and capacity as the Board of Health shall direct.

No plumbing shall be connected with the town sewer without the approval of the Board of Health, and all plumbing work required must conform to the regulations relating thereto.

No rain conductors, surface or ground water drainage shall be connected with plumbing or drainage pipes which discharge into the public sewer or into cesspools.

Wherever there is a public sewer with which the sewage system of a building is to be connected, the owner or agent shall before determining the position of the main house sewer, obtain from the Water and Sewer Board the location of the sewer branch which is to serve that building and said connection made in conformity to the rules of said Board.

No sewer from any building shall pass under another building; neither shall said sewer pass within five feet of the outside wall of any building, unless it be of extra heavy cast iron pipe, having its joints made with lead, thoroughly calked and tested.

Every building in which gasolene, naptha or other inflammable compounds are used for business purposes shall be provided with a special trap or separator, so designed as to prevent the passage of oils into the sewer, and shall be ventilated with a separate pipe to a point 3 feet above the roof. The waste of every washstand for vehicles shall be provided with catch basin so designed that sand cannot pass into the drain. The waste pipe from the sink of every hotel, restaurant or other public cooking establishment shall be provided with a grease trap. The waste from every fixture, except refrigerators and other receptacles in which provisions are stored, shall be connected directly with the drain pipe.

Drainage System.

Section 4. The drain from a point 10 feet outwardly from inside of wall, shall be of cast iron and not less than 4 inches in diameter, shall continue with at least 1-4 inch rise per foot to and through roof or side of house to a height of at least 8 feet where roof is used for clothes drying or other purposes, at least 18 inches in any case, and 18 inches above the top of any window or opening within 12 feet. The connection between said drain and the earthen sewer pipe shall be made with Portland cement and shall be approved by the plumbing inspector before being covered. Lateral branches of soil or waste pipes, if more than 20 feet in length, shall be extended undiminished in size, and in no case less than 4 inches in diameter where they pass to the outer air.

The drain shall when connected with a cesspool be provided with a running trap; but when connected with the public sewer a running trap may at the option of the owner be omitted; except that in all cases where a running trap has been installed it shall not be removed without the written consent of the Board of Health. Said running trap shall be of the same size as the house sewer, located either outside or inside the foundation walls of the building, beyond all house connections, and provided with an accessible cleanout.

Soil pipes from water closets shall be not less than 4 inches internal diameter, except that by permission of the Board of Health a 3-inch soil pipe may be used for one set of bath fixtures (viz., 1 water closet, 1 basin, 1 bathtub) where it is not practicable to use 2 inch pipe. Waste pipes from the traps of fixtures such as sinks, basins, baths or wash trays shall be of 2-inch cast iron with short connection of lead. Such connections shall be of not less than one and one-quarter inch bore and must not be branched into each other, but shall be separately connected with the iron pipe.

Connections and changes in direction shall be made with long angle and long sweep bends and Y branches.

Material of Drainage System.

Section 5. Drain, soil, waste and vent pipes and connections, which collectively make up the drainage system within the building, shall be constructed of the following material: extra heavy cast iron, galvanized wrought iron, lead and annealed "iron size" brass pipe. Cast-iron pipe and fittings shall be of a grade known to the trade as extra heavy, plain (uncoated), until approved by the Inspector. All joints in cast-iron pipe shall be made with oakum and lead, run full, calked gas and water tight, and left clean without paint, putty or cement, until approved by the Inspector.

Sizes and Weights, Extra Heavy Cast-iron Pipe.

	Pounds per foot.
2 inches	5 1-2
3 inches	9 1-2
4 inches	13
5 inches	17
6 inches	20
8 inches	33 1-2
10 inches	45

Wrought iron soil or waste pipes can only be used by written permission from the Board of Health and under such conditions as that Board may direct.

If wrought iron vent pipes be used, they must be galvanized. No slip joints, unions, or flanges shall be used on threaded wastes or vents, except that slip joints may be used on house side of trap to connect fixtures.

Lead pipe shall be of the following diameters and weights:

Diameter (inches)	Weight (pounds per foot)
1 1-4	2 1-2
1 1-2	3
4	8

No lead waste up to and including 2 inches in diameter, unless exposed, shall be more than 8 feet in length, including inlet and outlet of trap; a 3-inch or 4 inch diameter waste shall not be more than 2 feet in length.

Lead bends and traps shall correspond to the above weights.

Brass sleeves for connecting lead and cast iron pipes shall be extra heavy, at least 1-8 of an inch thick. Brass solder nipples for connecting lead and threaded pipes shall be either cast metal or seamless drawn tubing, size and weight corresponding with pipe to be connected. In connecting lead pipe together, or to brass calking or soldering nipples, full-sized wiped joints shall be used. Cleanouts, plugs, stoppers or any other fittings used in drainage system shall correspond in weight and material with above description.

Fastening Pipes.

Section 6. Drain, soil, waste and vent pipes shall be supported every 5 feet on horizontal runs, and at least once to each story on vertical lines; horizontal runs by supports under, or hung from overhead by iron "stirrup" hangers, not less than 5-16 inch in diameter. Vertical stacks shall be fastened by pipe rest at floor, or clamps, drive hooks or hangers to adjacent walls.

Traps.

Section 7. The waste pipe of every independent fixture shall be furnished with a separate trap, which shall be placed as near as practicable to the fixture which it serves. A sink and set of not more than three wash trays, or bathtub and basin, or any two similar fixtures, when they adjoin, may be connected with the house drain through one round trap not less than 4 inches in diameter when waste pipes are not more than 3 feet in length from floor line to trap on bathtub and basin and waste centres are not more than 5 feet apart on sink and trays. The waste pipe of each fixture shall enter the trap separately, and the waste from said trap must be one size larger than inlet pipes. Four washbowls or sinks in a continuous line may be connected to the house drain through one 4-inch round trap. Lead bends for water-closets or slop sinks shall not be used to connect waste from other fixtures. Earthern-ware traps shall have heavy brass floor plates soldered to the lead bends and bolted to the trap flange, and the joint made tight with grafting wax or other substance satisfactory to the Board of Health. All traps depending upon concealed partitions to retain their seal will not be approved, except for earthen ware fixtures, where the trap seal is plainly visible. Trap screws for cleaning purposes shall be placed in all metal traps and at all times shall be accessible. All fixture traps shall be so installed that the water seal will protect the trap screw from sewer air. When side clean out traps are placed between ceilings and floors they must be provided with an accessible proper sate.

Stables, Garages, Laboratories, etc.

Section 8. Drainage of stalls, stable fixtures, garages and laboratories shall be installed in accordance with plans approved by the Board of Health.

Cleanouts.

Section 9. Every house sewer, soil or waste pipe shall have accessible heavy brass plug cleanouts with iron or brass bodies and taper threads, at such points as the Inspector shall deem necessary. A main cleanout shall be provided at every building below all connections and in as direct line as possible with the street sewer connections.

Vents, Back air Pipes, etc.

Section 10. Traps shall be protected from siphonage and back pressure by special iron or brass air pipes of same size as waste; continuous system of venting shall be used, and back air pipes shall not be connected to the trap or branched into the waste pipe except where a continuous vent is not practicable. Traps of S form shall not have more than 24 inches of waste pipe from trap to vent. Round traps not less than 9 inches long and 4 inches in diameter may be placed 5 feet from vent pipe. Two water-closets or two other traps on the same level, with not more than 2 feet of waste pipe, and which connect with soil or waste pipe not more than 18 inches below the top water line of the trap, shall not require other vent than the continuation of the soil or waste pipe full size for its whole length. Lead air pipes may be used for short connections only, and where exposed to view.

Schedule of Back air Pipes and Vents for Fixtures.

Fixtures	Size of Pipe (inches)	Greatest length allowed (feet)	Maximum Number of Fixtures
Baths, basins, sinks, urinals or similar fixtures	1 1-2	30	3
	2	70	9
	3	70	21
Water-closets, or slop sinks	2	25	3
	3	70	9

Two or more air pipes may be connected together, but such connection must be made above top of fixture. Air vent pipes shall be at least 4 inches in diameter where they pass through the roof. Vent lines shall be so graded that no condensation will remain in pipes. In case of batteries of water closets, the special air pipe from each trap may be omitted, provided the soil or waste pipe, undiminished in size, is continued to a point above the roof, or connected into the main system above all fixtures.

"Bow" venting will not be allowed except by special permission of the Board of Health, in which case the "bow" must be run full size of pipe as high as the top of the fixture and returned without being trapped.

In buildings where there is only one water-closet and not more than two other traps, and said closet is connected below the traps and all traps are not more than 3 feet from main sewer pipe, no back venting shall be required.

When old fixtures are replaced by new ones in plumbing constructed prior to the adoption of these rules, and the traps attached to bath tubs, basins, sinks and wash trays are round traps not less than 4 inches in diameter and the waste pipe is not over 5 feet in length between such traps and the main soil pipe or drain, and provided also that such main soil pipe extends full size through the roof, a separate air pipe shall not be required. No connection of old plumbing with the public sewer shall be made that does not conform to the above.

Testing and Inspection.

Section 11. Pipes or other fixtures shall not be covered or concealed from view until approved by the Inspector of Plumbing. The work shall be examined and tested within two working days after notice that it is ready for inspection. Plumbing shall not be used unless, when roughed in, the wastes, vents, back air pipes and all calked joints are first tested in the presence of the Inspector, by water or sufficient air pressure, as the Inspector may require.

When the work in a building is sufficiently advanced that the water may be turned on to all of the fixtures, the plumber doing such work shall, within five days, notify the Inspector in writing. The Inspector shall within two working days after receipt of such notice examine the work. Should the examination disclose any defects, the plumber shall be notified in writing and required to remedy the same without delay, and again notify the Inspector as before. Should a plumber holding a permit neglect to send the notification as required, or neglect to remedy said defects for a period of over five days, he shall not be granted any further permits until he shall have complied with these rules, or till action is taken by the Board; and should such neglect be continued ten days longer, the Inspector shall file a complaint with the Board reciting all the facts of the case. The Board will then take such action as it may deem advisable.

Water-Closets.

Section 12. Every building for habitation shall have such number of water-closets as the Board of Health may require, but in no case less than one for each tenement. Every building where persons are employed shall have at least one water-closet for every 15 persons employed therein; and in any building where persons of both sexes are employed, separate accommodations shall be furnished for both men and women. Every enclosure containing one or more water closets shall be provided with adequate ventilation to the outer air, either by window or suitable light shaft. No water-close shall be set in any room or apartment that has not a window having an area of at least 2 square feet opening directly to the external air, unless there is a pipe not less than 3 inches in diameter leading to a heated flue or other vent pipe. Water-closets shall be supplied with water from tank above, or by flush valves set just above the seat, which in turn are supplied from tank or other adequate supply, capable of delivering five gallons of water to the closet in ten seconds. In all cases the flush pipe shall not be less than 1 1-4 inches in diameter. Where local vents are used they shall connect with heated flue when possible, and must be not less than 2 inches for each fixture. All local vents must be so constructed as not to act as a soil or waste pipe should fixture become stopped. Connection to flue shall be made by wrought or cast-iron pipe, properly cemented; other piping may be of galvanized iron.

Drip and Overflow wastes.

Section 13. All drip or overflow pipes from tanks, coolers, safes or fixtures, or waste pipes from refrigerators or other receptacles for the storage of food or provisions, shall be carried to some open sink or place where they may be at all times visible.

No steam exhaust, blow off or drip, pipe shall connect with the house sewer, soil, waste or vent pipe. Such pipes shall discharge into a suitable tank or condenser from which a proper outlet shall be provided.

Defective Plumbing, etc.

Section 14. Alterations made in plumbing already in use, except as provided in Section 10, must, in the future, be in accord with these regulations, and such alterations will be ordered by the Board of Health whenever in their opinion they judge it necessary for the public health and safety. It will be so judged when after examination by the Inspector any old plumbing work is found to be defective.

In such case the Inspector shall report to the Board of Health the nature of the defects, and furnish the owner with a copy of the same. Should the owner neglect to remedy the defect pointed out in such report within the time specified, the Board shall set time for a hearing, and give the owner at least three days notice thereof, that he may attend and show cause why he should not be required to make the alterations. After such hearing the Board will take definite action in the matter.

When buildings which formerly connected with vaults or cesspools, are connected with the sewer, the old connection shall be uncovered outside of the building, a section of the same removed and the ends solidly cemented by the plumber.

The vaults and cesspools shall also be discontinued and filled by the owner with proper materials within three months after the sewer connection is made.

Penalty.

Section 15. Whoever violates any of the foregoing rules shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Fifty Dollars for each and every violation thereof.

Adopted in town meeting March 25, 1912.

BEAU BRUMMEL'S COLLARS

Of a Century ago were marvels of Extravagance compared with the Simple, Well Laundered Men's Collars of Today.

They were "always fixed to his shirt and so large that before being folded down they completely hid his face and head; the neck cloth was almost a foot in height: the collar was fastened down to its proper size and Brummel, standing before the glass, by the gradual declension of his lower jaw creased the cravat to reasonable dimensions."

Even the Beau's collars could have been taken care of by the apparatus and methods of the modern laundry.

In designing and producing the 1912 Spring and Summer Clothes, Messrs. A. Shuman & Co. of Boston were careful not to follow precedents but rather to make precedents. This must surely create in allovers of clever, correct, well-mannered suits, a desire to inspect their latest models. There now awaits your consideration, many new and interesting designs, some quite, some otherwise, but all fascinating in that they embody the very best clothing, thought and construction to date. There is as wide a difference in clothes as anything else and their models show that correctness in designs which at once distinguishes them. The clever originality, proper effects, correct fitments, superb finish show the result of years service to a large clientelle. Note their large advertisement in this issue.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

Action Taken by Board on Matters of Interest.

June 3, 1912.

The board met at 7.45; all present.

The Town Auditor submitted a report showing the balance to the credit of the regular appropriations, May 31, 1912; and the report was ordered filed.

The records of previous meeting were read and approved.

The report of Chief of Police for the month of May was received and ordered filed, with supplementary reports of work done by the department for the month of May in enforcing the law and investigating matters reported by various citizens for attention; also covering the strike of the town contractors' laborers, and reporting conditions in regard to persons arrested for drunkenness.

The Chief also reported that Sergt. Hargrove had been inducted into office and would have charge of the station at night; also that Patrolman William H. Rogers had been assigned to duty at the north part of the town; and that Officer Dotten began day duty at the station June 1st.

The Chief also reported completion of the repairs at the station and invited inspection of the same by the board.

On the petition of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co., for wire attachment to pole No. 1173 on Highland avenue, second southerly from Herrick street, the location having been approved by the Town Engineer, it was granted, and the usual location order passed.

The Town Engineer reported on the application of Fred B. Jordan for covering the town's right of way for drainage purposes, though his premises, that he had visited the ground and found that the brook was an open waterway practically its whole length, that flood conditions produce a stream which covers an area approximately 3 1-2 ft. by 2 ft. in depth, or perhaps 7 sq. ft. in area and that if the brook is to be enclosed it will be necessary to provide facilities for carrying water at least equivalent to the present channel; and recommended that if the brook be covered as Mr. Jordan desired two 30 inch drain pipes be laid side by side to provide a substitute for the present drain, and estimated the cost of same. The matter was referred to the Town Engineer to confer with the Town Counsel and report at its next meeting a legal opinion as to what action the town can take.

On the application of Ernesto Borrelli, 6 Holland street, for a location to manufacture fire works, referred to the High way Committee, May 20th, the committee reported that they had viewed the premises and recommended the location which appeared to be remote from any buildings or proposed buildings or likely development, and it was Voted:—That Ernesto Borrelli is hereby granted permission to erect a small building for the storage and manufacture of fire works material, said building to be erected on land owned by Michael S. Nelson on the northerly side of Cross street; said permit to be subject to compliance with rules and laws governing the regulations of such business, under the supervision of the State Police.

A letter was received from W. H. Wentworth, in regard to the water running across the sidewalk from the gutters of the Wentworth block on Main street; and the clerk was instructed to write Mr. Wentworth that the Town Engineer and Mr. Jewett would meet him to consider the matter.

A petition was received from J. A. Laraway for permission to build a curbing in front of his new house on Forest street; for correct sidewalk lines and for the removal of stumps in the sidewalk space; with report of the Town Engineer, and was granted as to the curbing and sidewalk, the same to be constructed subject to the approval of the Town Engineer. The matter of the removal of stumps was referred to the Town Engineer for further investigation and recommendation.

A petition was received from the Edison Electric Illuminating Co., for location of 11 poles on Ridge street, southerly from the Woburn line. A date for a hearing was appointed to be held at the Selectmen's room, June 18th at 7.30 p. m., and the clerk instructed to notify the abutters; the petition being referred to the Town Engineer for his report.

A bill was received from Middlesex County for support of Martin Flaherty at Middlesex County Training School May 20th to June 1st, 1912, and referred of committee on State Aid, who approved same, and it was ordered paid.

On motion of Mr. Jewett it was voted that the Board request the Water and Sewer Department to send written notice to the Superintendent of Streets of the location of each trench made by them and the date on which they considered their work completed.

The Highway Committee reported that at the corner of Shetfield road and Sheffield West, a catch basin interferred with a proposed driveway to be located by Capt. Nickerson and it was voted to move the inlet opening about 10 feet towards Church street and connect it with the old catch basin by means of a drain pipe.

The Highway Committee reported that a carload of oil is promised to arrive in Winchester the middle of this week and that Washington street would be treated with a coat of oil on the arrival of the car.

The matter of oiling Main street from Symmes corner to the Medford line was brought up and recommended to the Highway Committee for attention.

Attention was directed to the lighting of Pickering street at the corner of Sheridan Circle. The matter was referred to the Town Engineer for recommendation.

On petition of Catherine A. and Anna A. Folsom, for the heirs of S. H. Folsom, for certain repairs to driveway on Highland avenue, the Highway Committee reported that conditions did not seem to warrant the town entering upon the premises and doing the work asked for. Report was accepted and the clerk instructed to notify the petitioners.

The Highway Committee reported that about 245 ft. of gutter would be required at the town stable for which they had an estimate, to cover a soft galvanized iron gutter on that part of the stable facing on Middlesex street with outlets connected by three inch conductors dropping to the level of the sidewalk and recommended that the work be done. Voted to accept the recommendations of the committee and approve the work.

The chairman appointed Messrs. Jewett and Pike to act as committee of the board for the celebration of Independence Day.

On petition of John McCarron and others that White street be laid out and accepted as a public highway, the highway committee recommended referring the matter to the Town engineer for a layout of the section comprising Loring avenue, Hill street, and White street, with an estimated cost.

Committee on highways reported that they had received bids on granolithic sidewalks, as per specifications, and it was voted that the contract for granolithic sidewalks be awarded to Warren Bros. Co., on the figures submitted on condition that they furnish a bond of a responsible Surety Company to guarantee the faithful performance of their contract and the maintenance of the work done for a period of five years after completion.

A petition was received from P. B. Metcalf for permission to extend his granolithic sidewalk to the tar-concrete sidewalk at No. 8 and No. 12 Glen road, with recommendation of the Highway Committee that the permission be granted; the matter of allowance to be made by the town to depend upon any subsequent action the board may take and it was so voted by the board.

On the Cambridge street alterations, the Highway Committee reported that they had met the Massachusetts Highway Commission, May 29th, 1912, who agreed to pay for the macadamizing of the whole street; the Town of Winchester to do the work and charge the same to the Highway Commission.

The Highway Committee presented the decree of the County Commissioners in the matter of Pond street, as follows:

"A grade shall be established by the Town Engineer under the direction of the Selectmen and satisfactory to the Commissioners.

Before the surfacing material is applied the foundation shall be prepared with suitable gravely material, thoroughly drained, rolled and compacted, so that when the surfacing material is applied the finished road-bed shall be at the established grade.

Substantially in the center of the location of said Cross street a roadway shall be constructed at least twenty-one (21) feet in width 15 feet of which in the center shall be broken stone or selected gravel averaging about 5 inches in thickness with binder rolled and compacted in the most thorough manner. Three feet on each side of said broken stone or selected gravel shall be gravelled so that when the roadway is finshed it shall present a smooth continuous surface 21 feet wide, crowned three quarters of an inch to the foot. Adequate drainage shall be provided to prevent washing out at the edges of said roadway, culverts repaired or rebuilt, guardrails erected where in the judgment of the Selectmen it is necessary to prevent accidents to travellers on the highway and the whole shall be done in a workmanlike manner to the acceptance of the commissioners.

And said commissioners determine and order that said specific repairs shall be completed before November 1, 1912."

The committee on Town Hall reported on the matter of charges for lights with a partial report from L. R. Wallis, which was received and placed on file.

Warrants drawn for $927.65 and $8334.54

Adjourned at 11.20.

Frank R. Miller
Clerk of the Board.

The next regular meeting of the Selectmen will be held Tuesday evening, June 11th.

The Board will open their session to the public each meeting night at 8 and 8.30 to hear any citizens who may desire to present matters in person.

Blank forms for petitions or other applications have been prepared by the Selectmen, and may be had at the Town Clerk's office; also at the STAR office, or will be mailed by the Clerk of the Selectmen on request.

"THE TRIUMPH OF DAVID."

The Cantata "The Triumph of David" by Dudley Buck will be given by the choir of the First Congregational Church on Sunday evening, June 9, at 7 o'clock.

Mr. John E. Daniels, tenor, will sing the part of David; Mr. Arthur Gould, Saul; Mrs. Margaret Lovejoy-Weber, the Witch of Endor and Miss Margaret Patterson Weber, the maiden of the Tribe of Judah.

The male choruses are strong, dramatic and war-like. The choruses of women sing naratives and accompany David's lament.

The great choruses are wonderfully picturesque and stirring. This cantata is one of the most brilliant of Buck's works.

Mrs. Irene Osborne Grant will preside at the organ.

All seats free. The public is cordially invited.

Following is the program:

Organ, "Offertoire" MacMaster
Soprano and chorus of women, "In Camp near Mount Gilboa"
Chorus of Men, "War Song of the Israelites"
Soprano Solo, "A Meditation in the Night"
Chorus, "Song of the Hosts of Israel at Dawn"
Tenor Solo, "David's Heroic Confidence"
Chorus of Women, Bass Solo and Chorus of Men "Saul's Craven Fear and Godless Superstition"
Contralto Solo and Chorus of women "The Witch of Endor"
Bass and Contralto Solos and Duetts, "Saul at Endor. The Witch and the Shade of Samuel"
Chorus, "The Battle Alarm in Early Morning"
Chorus, "The Death of Saul"
Tenor Solo and Chorus of women, "After the Battle"
Chorus, "The Coronation of David in Hebron"
Organ, "Grand Choeur in E flat" Guilmant

Mr. Howard D. Nash left this week for Nova Scotia, where he will try his luck at fishing.

WINCHESTER ORCHESTRAL ASSOCIATION.

Deficit Fully Subscribed and a Season of Enjoyment Assured.

The Orchestral Association's deficit of $150 has been fully subscribed and most of it paid in; in fact the amount has been slightly over subscribed. For this happy state of affairs the thanks of the Association are due to Messrs. J. H. Dwinell, William D. Richards, Preston Pond, Rufus Herrick, Harry Sanborn, Francis D. Cleveland, Stanley Redding, D. P. Blaikie, Albert P. Smith, Geo. O. Fogg, F. J. and J. B. Wills, Dr. J. C. Hindes, S. H. Taylor, Vincent Farnsworth, Alfred Higgins, Wm. B. French, Creighton Lee, Marcus May, Peter Walling, E. K. Jewett, D. N. Skillings, Wm. H. Forbes, C. H. Bartlett, Lewis Parkhurst, Anthony Kelley, Chas. T. Main, Frank L. Hunt, Ralph E. Joslin, Fred S. Snyder, Will I. Palmer, Harrison Parker, Joseph Remick, Alfred Hall, E. H. Stone, Allen E. Boone, Everett D. Chadwick, Chas. A. Baldwin and Mrs. A. W. Moore, Mrs. Sarah F. Cutter and Mrs. Sylvester H. Taylor. This fully insures the continuation of the orchestra which is now doing so well "And the best part of it" says the treasurer "is, that everybody contributed with a smile and said they were glad to do so."

The music committee is at work on the programes for next season's concerts which will be three in number and will take place in December, February and April as usual. Rehearsals will begin in October and all amateur players of stringed or wind instruments desiring to become members of the orchestra will be welcomed by the committee on admissions and given a thorough tryout. Application should be made to Mr. W. H. W. Bicknell.

THE FETE AT AIGREMONT.

At 8.30 on the evening of June 20th a Fete arranged and managed by Miss Mary G. Kellogg, will take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Cheney Sanborn.

The first number "The Dance of the Playmates" from "Pandora's Box" will begin at 8.45. This it will be remembered, is one of the Episodes of the Fete given by Miss Kellogg last year and she repeats it upon many requests. The leading characters are taken by Misses Margaret French, Pauline Chamberlain and Mrs. Edna Johnson.

The second number is a Story Dance written and arranged by Miss Kellogg, entitled "A Triptych" and consists of the three pictures "Dawn, Noon and Twilight." This is danced by Miss Kellogg, who has three solos, and several groups of chorus dancers. A special feature of "The Triptych" originated by Miss Kellogg is a Ballad Dance, the soloists being Miss Kellogg and Miss Amelia Wulkop, lyric soprano.

Number three on the programme is Strauss' famous waltz "The Beautiful Blue Danube." Forty-five dancers take part in this, the soloists being Miss Kellogg, Miss Chamberlain and Miss Caroline Baxter of Brookline and Miss Lilian Harrington of Newton Center. The color scheme has been chosen by Mr. Hermann Dudley Murphy. The orchestra which is under the management of Mr. W. H. W. Bicknell, will be conducted by Mr. Joshua Phippen. Mr. C. C. Miller is property manager, and Mr. Sylvester Taylor will assist Miss Kellogg as stage director.

Mr. E. C. Smith, Chief electrician of The Boston Opera House is in charge of the lighting.

The refreshment tables will be in charge of the Winton Club.

In case of rain the Fete will be given on the first pleasant night thereafter.

A CORRECTION.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

In a recent issue of a Boston paper there appeared the statement that "Chief Engineer David H. DeCourcey has been made permanent chief of the Fire Department in accordance with the provisions of the bill passed by the Legislature of this year."

As the Act of the Legislature referred to does not become effective until accepted by the voters in town meeting, those who read the statement may have formed the opinion that the Fire Engineers were taking a good deal for granted.

Under the present system the Fire Engineers are appointed annually in April and this year the Board of Selectmen appointed the undersigned members of its own board to act temporarily and study the conditions under which the Department operates with a view to making any recommendations which might, if adopted, increase the efficiency of the Fire Department.

At their meeting held May 10th the Engineers decided that the appointment of a Chief who should give his entire time to the department was a necessity and the first step to be taken in any plan for increasing the efficiency of the Department. At that meeting Mr. DeCourcey was appointed Chief Engineer to give his full time to the department after June 1st, that date being set in order that Mr. DeCourcey might have time to arrange his private affairs. The petition to the Legislature for the Special Act which is to be presented at the town meeting next Monday evening was not prepared and presented to the Legislature until a later date. Thus it will be seen that the appointment referred to was made prior to and independent of the act just passed.

Respectfully,
Eibridge K. Jewett,
Addison K. Pike.

WILL ATTEND A. C. A. MEET.

A number of the Winchester Boat Club members will attend the annual Eastern Division meet of the American Canoe Association at Long Pond, Middleboro, on June 15, 16, 17. The Winchester men will participate in the races, and will no doubt make a good showing, especially in the fours and tandem events. The trip to Middleboro will be made exceptionally convenient for the Winchester men, their canoes, tents, etc., being transported by one of the large Gerlach Company's auto trucks. Mr. James H. Gerlach is president of the local club, and his son Frank H., who is in business with him, is the club's Fleet Captain. Among those who will attend are F. H. Gerlach, Ernest Evans, Fred M. Bates, Philip Sheridan, Marshall Berry, John Sheridan, J. Earl Frasier, Carl Elliott, George Proctor, Andrew Hanson, James A. Newman, J. Cummings, James Smith and E. O'Brien.

THE JUNE BREAKFAST.

Once more the first Saturday in June has come and gone, leaving the Visiting Nurse Association richer not only in funds, but also in the good will of Winchester people. For the June Breakfast is more than a money-raising device, it has become an annual festival, looked forward to with enthusiasm by everyone who has a share in it.

Last Saturday morning—like all June Breakfast mornings so far—was bright and clear and not too hot. By half past five the Town Hall was alive with white figures hurrying this way and that, the cereals were boiling on the gas stoves, the Dwinell-Wright coffee was steaming in the basement and the meat-cutters were sharpening their knives, ready to continue their work on the twenty-three hams and twenty seven tongues. By six o'clock the orchestra was playing in the north gallery and the tables near the door were half-filled with early breakfasters. These proved to be the most prudent guests, for an hour later it was hard to find two seats together out of the whole five hundred, and from half-past seven to half-past eight the girls and boys had to balance their trays carefully between the rows of good natured people waiting for an empty place.

Perhaps the best way to see the June Breakfast as a whole was to take a bird's-eye view from the gallery. From there it was easy to look down on the tables—nineteen in all—gay with fleur de lis, and decorated at each end with shining chafing-dishes where two thousand eggs were being scrambled. In the south gallery were two more tables, chiefly patronized by little boys, the proud earners of their own tickets, and determined to get their money's worth. On the stage an alluring sign invited business men to an especially quickly-served breakfast; and by the entrance-door, under the gallery, the cake and candy table did a flourishing business. But the most interesting sights of the Breakfast were lost unless one made a tour of the Little Town Hall where were marshalled the dish-washers, the strawberry-hullers, and the dispensers (in unbelieveable quantities) of cold meats, beans, brown-bread, rolls, eggs, and bananas. And the spectators who persued his investigation further would have discovered in the back hall a constant crowd of boys and pitchers around the gallons of cream and milk. He would have smelled the savour of delicious hot coffee rising up from the stairway, and felt that he had reached the hidden mysteries of the great undertaking. For the breakfast 40 gallons of cream and 65 gallons of coffee were used. For it is a great undertaking to serve breakfast to one fifth of the town,—but it is an undertaking worth many times over the trouble and cost which it involves. The Visiting Nurse Association not only should be congratulated upon its ability to secure so readily its necessary funds, but above all should be thanked most heartily by the people of this town for providing a means through which so many Winchester people learn to know each other better and to enjoy each other more.

Woburn High defeated Winchester High on Wednesday at Woburn in the Mystic Valley League by the score of 10 to 1. Winchester was weak at the bat, getting only three hits to its opponent's eleven. The local team had but two errors, while Woburn made four.

The pupils of Miss Hattie Snow will give two piano recitals in the Assembly Hall of the High School on June 13 and June 20 at 7.30 o'clock.

LAWN PARTY.

Equal Suffrage League Entertained by the President, Miss Elder.

The June meeting of the Winchester Equal Suffrage League was a lawn party at the beautiful home of the President, Miss Elder, on Myopia Hill. The day was exquisite and a hundred and sixty responded to the cordial invitation which had been extended not only to members of the league but to any of their friends who were interested to know more of so absorbing a subject. The business meeting with its reports of standing committees, or working committees, was interesting. The chairman of the membership committee reported a growth during the year from 107 last June to 203 members now. The chairman of the study group reported bi-monthly meetings which had averaged an attendance of thirty. Many good speakers had addressed these meetings and the results had shown large increase in intelligent interest in the cause advocated. A novel event of the afternoon was a presentation of a report by its President, Dorothy Farrow, of the formation of a "Junior League" for equal suffrage, which was organized a few weeks ago, by original initiative, with eight members. These have now increased to fifteen. This is the natural result of our system of education where boys and girls study side by side and learn each other's mental capacities, and of the custom in many families of discussing the great questions of the day in their presence. Children dearly love "fair play" and naturally can see no reason why a sex-line should be drawn where only large human interests are concerned.

The President made an earnest appeal to the members to keep in mind the object of the league and to remember in presenting the subject to their friends or acquaintances that, only those were expected to join the league who did so from a conscientious belief in the cause and from the highest faith in the influence for good of the ballot on the condition of women. Ability to do active work was not a necessary qualification, but a willingness to "stand up and be counted."

Mr. Charles Zueblin's address was in his usual impassioned, out-spoken and inspiring style, replete with logic and a sound common sense. His subject was "Man and Woman" and his presentation of it, though most radical, holding each to his highest ideal, appealed to the sympathies of his audience and was listened to with the most intense interest. We hope to present an extended review later. Refreshments were served on the lovely lawn behind the house and many lingered long in social enjoyment.

MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT.

One of the finest entertainments ever given by a Highland Club was held last Monday evening at the Second Congregational Church by the Winchester Highlands Athletic Club. It was a benefit for the building fund, and a large sum was raised. The entertainment was a huge success and was given before a crowded house.

The program for the evening was:

Orchestra Selection, "Battleship No. Dakota"
A Few Words from our President
Piano Solo, "Albums" E. Langworthy Burwell
Reading, Selected
Miss Agnes M. Murphy
Solo, Mr. R. L. Van Buskirk
Solo, "Creole Love Song"
Miss Jean MacLellan
Orchestra selection, "Spirit of the Winds"
Piano solo, Selected
Miss Anita Bagge
Monologue, Mr. Van Buskirk
Solo, a "Three for a Jack"
b "Dumbledum Day"
Mr. Wilson
"All About Goldstein"
Mr. Burleigh Cooper
Orchestra Selection Selected
Piano Duet "Brocken Revels"
Burwell and Cooper
Solo Selected
Miss MacLellan
Piano Solo "The Huguenots"
Miss Bagge
Orchestra Selection "Hunter's March"

The commitee in charge of the entertainment consisted of: Mr. Roland A. Davies, chairman, Mr. Walter L. Claflin and Mr. Kenneth B. Park. The ushers for the night were: Mr. Walter L. Claflin, Mr. Roland A. Davies, Mr. A. Stanwood Dearborn, and Mr. Kenneth B. Park.

The club especially desires to thank Miss Agnes Murphy, Miss Jean McLellan, Miss Anita Bagge, Mr. R. L. Van Buskirk, Mr. Wilson, Mr. Thomas Fallon, Mr. Steve Cahalin, Mr. Harold Bugbee and Mr. Eben Ramsdell, for their assistance in making this the red letter day of the club year.

GET-TOGETHER PICNIC.

A union, or what will be called a "get-together," picnic of all protestant churches and Sunday schools of Winchester will be held June 17th at Nantasket Beach. A special train will leave Winchester Highlands at 8.21, Winchester 8.23 and Wedgemere at 8.25. Cars on the Elevated (South Station shuttle) will be waiting, on arrival of special train, to carry the picnicers to Rowes Wharf. Steamer will leave at 9.20. Returning, steamer will leave at 4.40 and via the elevated again, the special train will leave Boston at 6.25 for Wedgemere, Winchester and Winchester Highlands. Tickets for all 12 years of age and over 60 cent for round trip, and for all age 5 and under 12 years, 30 cents for round trip. A good time is anticipated. Plenty of good wholesome fun will be provided. All sorts of sports, including base ball, running races and possibly swimming races will be arranged for by the committee on athletics and entertainment. Tickets will be distributed among the various churches and Sunday Schools on Sunday. On Monday and thereafter tickets can be secured at Parker and Lane's Coal Office, Main street.

Everyone should plan to go to this picnic. The commitee in charge have planned for a big crowd, and transportation arrangements are ample. There will be further announcements in next week's STAR.

COMING EVENTS.

ANNUAL MEETING OF CRADLE ROLL.

The annual meeting of the Cradle Roll of the First Congregational Church was held on Wednesday afternoon from three to five o'clock at Mrs. Harrison Parker's barn. The whole Parker estate on Main street was thrown open to the visitors and a most pleasant afternoon was enjoyed. About 150 were present. Rev. and Mrs. Frank W. Hodgdon and Mrs. Parker received. Games and refreshments were enjoyed by the younger children, the committee in charge being Mrs. F. Patterson Smith, Mrs. Clarence E. Ordway, Mrs. Horace Ash, Mrs. Howard P. Wright, Mrs. George Coit, Mrs. William Adriance, Mrs. Franklin E. Barnes, Mrs. Chauncey Mitchell, Mrs. D. W. Thomas, Mrs. Alfred T. Sherman, Mrs H. S. Bridge, Mrs. James E. Corey, Mrs. D. W. Guerney, Mrs. Evarts W. Pond, Mrs. Margaret Lovejoy Webet. The Cradle Roll and Game committee consisted of Miss Esther Parker, Miss Helen Ordway, Miss Hester Noyes, Miss Christiana Hodgdon and Miss Catherine Hale.

LAKE WATER LOW.

Many expressions of complaint are being made on the low water at Mystic Lake, lower now than for a long time. The slime and mud exposed furnish breeding ground for millions of mosquitos, and residents in the vicinity are joining the canoeists in the general complaint. The Winchester Boat Club voted several weeks ago to make request to the Metropolitan Park Commission, which controls the matter, to raise the water, but it has not been done. It seems a pity that with this beautiful sheet of water within its borders the town is not able to enjoy it and must look upon unsighly shores and endure the vermin bred thereon, when a rise of two feet would eliminate it.

CONCERT AND DANCING PARTY

A very pleasing concert and dancing party in aid of the Cardinal Booth for St. Mary's Lawn Party was held at the old rectory Wednesday evening. The program was as follows. Singing by Mrs. Jas. R. McGrath and Mr. Harold Budreau of Winchester, piano solos by Miss Mildred Roco of Wakefield and readings by Miss Teresa Fallon of Stoneham.

AN OPEN LETTER.

"To the Selectmen of Winchester:"

In behalf of the horses of Winchester I appeal to you to have a watering trough put up on Church street, where there is a spring, as there is none now, and many have asked me to help them in having one put up.

Mrs. Bridget Mulligan, widow of the late James Mulligan, died Thursday, May 30, at her home on Main street. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Edward Russell and Miss Margaret Mulligan. Funeral services were held last Saturday morning with high mass at St Mary's Church at 10. The bearers were John McNally, Irving Murray and Joseph Golden of Winchester, James F. Dowd of Woburn, Michael Doyle of Wilmington and John Farley of Dover, N. H.

Donato Vespuce pleaded guilty in court last Friday morning when arraigned for assault with a dangerous weapon, and Judge Maguire, imposed a fine of $50. Vespuce during a row last week among Italians living on Florence street, inflicted a severe cut in the abdomen of a fellow countryman, and when the case was first called a few days ago Chief McIntosh asked that it be continued, as it was feared that blood poisoning had developed in the wound and the mans life was in danger. The chief stated that the injured man was all right, and requested the court to order the payment of a substantial fine.

James E. Veno of Lowell, arrested in Winchester for not sounding a signal when passing intersecting streets, was fined $10 in court last Friday.

When completed and in commission about a year and a half from now, the new battleship Texas will cost about $10,000,000 or more than half the valuation of Winchester. And when she is 18 or 20 years old, if not previously lost, she will be sold for old junk.

The late Mrs. Carrie E. Fullam had been a member of the First Baptist Church for 29 years.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Wallace P. Palmer was the hostess at a meeting of the Baptist Woman's Missionary Society at her home on Forest street. The speaker was Rev. Marinus James, of Brookline, assistant pastor of Brookline Baptist Church. For many years he was a mariner and sailed many seas. Since his conversion he has tried to alleviate the conditions of travel in the steerage. He has made several trips across the Atlantic for that purpose. Out of a large and rare experience he spoke on "The Educated Immigrant."

Mr. Henry C. Ordway has been elected to the Congregational Church Committee to take the place of Mr. Alpheus Bowers, resigned because of continued absence from town. Mr. G Dwight Cabot has been elected Assistant Treasurer to the Sunday school.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The June meeting of the Winchester Union, the last for the season, will be held Friday, June 14, 3 p. m. at the home of the president, Mrs. Geo. H. Hamilton, 50 Lincoln street. The work of the Flower Mission will be the subject considered. Mrs. J. C. Adams, local superintendent of that work has some plans for the summer in which she desires the assistance of members and friends and hopes for a good attendance. Outsiders are always welcome. As this will be the last meeting at which to arrange for the entertainment of the County Convention in September it is desirable that the members should be on hand to help in the plans so that no one may be over burdened during the coming summer when all work seems to be a burden.

Speaking of the summer, there can be no doubt in the minds of the careful observer that the reason the liquor forces are so much stronger than the opposition is that the former take no summer vacation but push their campaign even more strenuously than ever. Have you ever noticed that the city saloons are not closed when the churches are, even if there are others opened at the amusement resorts at the shore or elsewhere. It is to be feared that the temperance folk are like the snail that climbs two inches by day and slips back one inch at night. This is not an argument against a physical vacation but a protest against thinking one can strengthen one's moral fiber by taking a vacation. Different tissues have different qualities and moral tissues need to be in use to keep them from spoiling. A summer of laissez faire usually means a winter half wasted in getting into condition. Vary the work if you will but do not think an absolutely selfish summer will strengthen you for a winter of altruistic effort.

PHILOMATHEAN SOCIETY.

At the last meeting of the Philomathean Society, the debating club of Winchester High School, held in the assembly hall of the High School, an interesting debate was held on the question: Resolved, that explosives for patriotic celebrations should be abolished. Preceding this, however, there was a short business meeting in the library. The meeting adjourned to the assembly hall, and Messrs. Kenneth Hilton and Edward Murphy were initiated as members of the society.

Mr. Hilton spoke of the "Forgotten Ruins of Hindu, China," and Mr. Murphy discussed the "Origin and History of Political Parties."

The debate was then called, with Mr. Watson as chairman, Miss Weeks, Mr. Wixom and Mr. Thompson as judges. The speakers for the affirmative were, Messrs. Swett, Rohrman and Noyes. For the negative, Messrs. Getty, Coit and Strawbridge.

Mr. Swett for the affirmative gave a brief history of explosive fire-works and brought out the great danger to life.

Mr. Getty for the negative, discussed patriotism and the annual celebrations, showing that explosives are necessary to patriotism. He stated that dangerous explosives are now prohibited by the government, and that those which are left are not sufficently dangerous to warrant their being similarly treated.

Mr. Rohrman outlined the position of the manufacturer, showing how great loss of life is entailed by the production of explosives. From the stand-point of the people of today, he said, they are not considered necessary to either pleasure or patriotism. He showed how vast sums of money are spent yearly which might be better invested than in a few hours smoke and flame. He illustrated the latter by showing figures from some of the large cities, and ended by bringing out the fact that parents are advocating a safe and sane fourth.

Mr. Coit discussed dangerous and harmless explosives in regard to size and destructiveness.

Mr. Noyes admitted that the question on hand was a "serious one" and said that great vigilance is necessary on account of numerous fires and accidents. He showed statistics of past years giving the numbers killed and wounded. He believed that celebration is an evil, and that the noisy fourth should be prohibited. He suggested in its place that something similar to the celebrations of France and Germany be held.

Mr. Strawbridge spoke eloquently on the question and refuted a former speaker's suggestion that many men would be thrown out of work if explosives were not manufactured.

Mr. Gettty closing for the negative said that it is vitally important to put before the growing children the ideals of the country and to instill patriotism into them. He said that money was not wasted which was spent on fireworks, as it went back into the pockets of the workmen at the factories, and that there is no trust or graft of any kind about fireworks. He argued that restrictions could be placed so that the casualties would grow less, and ended by stating that the harm to our bodies is more than made up by the good to our minds.

Mr Swett closing for the affirmative, said that patriotism is not making noise. He discussed the size of crackers in regard to danger, and said that the present restrictions of explosives are in favor of the affirmative's argument. It is better, he said, to throw men out of employment than to kill a number. They could get along without selling fireworks, as it is nothing but a side line. He showed the dangerous results of explosives, and dwelt especially on the phase of lockjaw.

He said that these dangerous explosives do not pay because many are injured and it is moreover a waste of money which could be used in a better way.

The judges retired and returned a unanimous verdict for the affirmative, which was announced by Mr. Wixom in a most interesting talk.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. MR. ELDER FOR TAFT'S COUNSEL.

Ex-Senator Charles Dick of Ohio was to have been the counsel for the President before the National committee and was to have presented all the evidence and the arguments for that side in the contests. But the Taft campaign managers concluded that greater legal weight was required, and a hurry call was sent to Boston to Samuel J Elder.

Mr. Elder left Sunday for Chicago where he will endeavor to procure the recognition by the National committee of every delegate elected under a pledge or instruction to vote for the renomination of the President.

Mr. Elder is thoroughly familiar with election contests and is considered to be especially well equipped to deal with the complicated cases that are to come before the National Committee. He has appeared before the Massachusetts Ballot Law Commission in a number of instances wherein the regularity of convention nominations was the issue. He has had experience differentiating between the nominations of proper constituted bodies of delegates and those of bolters.

Probably the President advised the retaining of Mr. Elder, since Mr. Taft has a high opinion of the attainments of the Boston attorney, whom he appointed as one of the counsel for the United States in the fishery arbitration at The Hague two years ago. Mr. Elder, a fellow Yale man, has been an earnest supporter of the President and he takes up the task in Chicago with sympathetic zeal.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

"There is no better way to teach a moral lesson to children than through a story, which emphasizes a simple truth or shows the unloveliness of a childish fault," said one mother to The Spectator the other day. "It is well to talk over with the child the meaning of such a story, though wiser to leave the personal application to his conscience, after a well pointed story, told at the time of wrong-doing it will help a child more than a lecture. Many of the old fairy tales and some of Aesop's Fables teach valuable lessons. For example, to the self-satisfied child, who is critical of other's faults, tell the tale of 'Dr. Frog,' who summoned the animals to offer to cure them all and make them beautiful. The fox said: 'If you are so clever, why don't you cure yourself of your ugly spots and bulging eyes?" A child whose word is unreliable may be helped by 'The Boy who cried Wolf.' A mischievous shepherd boy, in fun, often cried 'Wolf' and so made the men working nearby run to protect the sheep. When a wolf really came, and the boy cried 'wolf,' the men, thinking him joking paid no attention. This shows that 'a liar will not be believed even when he speaks the truth.' The result of greediness shown in the fable of the dog, who, when crossing a stream tried to eat the shadow of the piece of meat he carried in his mouth, and so lost what he had. In the contest between the 'Wind and Sun,' to see which could make the man take off his coat, the success of the sun shows that 'Kindness is more powerful than anger.'"

The years have done considerable in the direction of changing the attitude and the temper of the public toward the question of woman suffrage. The movement in behalf of a government representative in fact as well as in name, has enlisted not "old maids and disgruntled wives," but the very flower of womanhood. Youth and age are interested in this question. Class, and the great mass represented by working girls and women, are interested in woman suffrage. The women with millions at their command, women who have the entree into homes where cultrue and refinement are dominant, and others with not a cent to their names, are interested. Women professors, physcians, lawyers, sculptors, musicians, actresses, artists, just women who believe that a tide of change should set in to meet new working and living conditions—are interested in this question which vitally does interest every thinking man and woman in Winchester and elsewhere. The Spectator is one of the most ardent suffrage advocates to be found anywhere. Woman should have the ballot and that speedily.

The Spectator feels that the public schools should pay more attention than they do to a certain branch of physiology. The Spectator refers to gastronomy. Under the caption "The Crime of Gastronomy." Henry T. Finck, in the Century Magazine, has this to say:—

"Nor is it enough that school girls and boys should be taught to cook; they should also learn how to eat. Few learn this at home. They are usually taught to eat silently, and not to take soup off the end of a spoon or to put the knife into the mouth; but the more important art of mastication is ignored. It is a branch of physiology, and should be taught by experts in the schools.

If it were, the next generation of mothers and fathers would know that it is a crime to let their children swallow food, particularly milk and cereals and vegetables, before it has been kept for a while in the mouth to be mixed with saliva and made digestible.

If it were indelibly impressed on school children that gluttony is a vice which defeats its own end, that by eating slowly much more pleasure can be got from one mouthful than by bolting a whole plateful, that this pleasure can be vastly increased by consciously exhaling through the nose while eating, and that those who eat in this way will escape the pangs of indigestion—if these truths were impressed on every child mind, two-thirds of the minor ills of mankind would disappear in two generations, and most of the major maladies also; for the stomach is the source of most diseases. As Thomas Walker wrote nearly a century ago. 'Content the stomach, and the stomach will content you.'"

A father, one morning—according to the story narrated to The Spectator—showed his little son a history of New England. "Here is a picture of the Puritans going to church," he said. "What good and pious men! Notice their sugar loaf hats. They walk in single file through the deep snow and each man carries a gun." "What do they carry guns to church for?" the boy asked, with sudden interest. "For fear of the Indians," was the reply. "The Indians were apt to lie in wait for them at every turning. Oh, what pious men they were, to be sure! Think of them the next time you want to shirk your religious duties. Through snow and sleet, through bitter cold, through the perilous ambuscades of the savage Indians, they wended their way to church Sunday after Sunday, with pious, thankful hearts. Yet you—." Said the lad: "I'd go to church every day in the week if I could get a shot at an Indian on the way."

How many are "flyswatting?" A townsman suggested that the town offer a bonus of one cent for every ten dead flies delivered at the Town Hall. If every city and town should agree to such energetic alertness The Spectator believes there would be a perceptible abatement of the fly pest.

A former resident weighing 200 pounds jumped from a second story window during a fire in a near by town recently and alighted upon his feet with sufficient force to detach the flesh from the bones of one of his legs. Surgeons replaced the loosened flesh and are in hopes of having it reunite. If the marvels of modern surgery continue to advance The Spectator believes the time may come when it will be possible to realize Charles Lamb's hot-weather longing to take off his flesh and sit in his bones.

There is no such thing as race suicide among flies. A female housefly which has hibernated in any house in Winchester or elsewhere may produce in the spring, at the lowest estimate 120 eggs. Assuming that one-half of these hatch as females, and allowing that the breeding goes on without check for four months, we have, as the descendants of a single hibernating individual 214,557,844,320,000,000,000,000 flies! Now a house fly measures exactly one-fourth of an inch in length, and the distance around the earth at the equator is said to be 24,800 miles. It would take, therefore, 3,688,312,000 flies placed end to end to go around the earth once. Using this number as a demonstration, and the number of flies produced in four months from one another as a numerator, we find she will give rise, in the course of a summer, to enough flies to encircle the globe at the equator 5000 times, and have plenty of progeny to spare. Therefore every Winchesterite should engage in a vigorous fly swatting campaign.

Here is a new "missing word" contest open to all readers of the STAR. It is as follows:—

A good church deacon sat down on the pointed end of a tack. He at once sprang up, and said only two words. The last was "it." Anyone guessing the first word and sending two dollars in cash will be entitled to the STAR for a year.

A gentleman who has travelled extensively gives The Spectator to understand that in Japan ladies wear hats only when it rains. It never rains in church.

BASE BALL.

In one of the best games of the year at Forest Field, the Winchester Highlands Athletic Club Baseball team was defeated by the West Everett Athletics by a score of 13 to 8 Memorial Day morning. For the home team Obregon and Murphy played the best all round game, while Melvin and McNulty excelled for the visitors. The home team, barring the first two innings, played the best game of the season and deserved to win. They made three fast double plays.

Afternoon Game.

Starting out with everything, speed, control and curves, and allowing but one unearned run in three innings (something which has not occurred before this year, (McElhiney blew up, and could not locate the plate in the fourth, and ten runs were scored in that chapter. Up to that time the team had played brilliant ball, but became demoralized and as a result the Winchester A. C. team was defeated in the afternoon game at Forest Field by a score of 23 to 5. Obregon and Murhpy were the stars of this contest also. McEwen caught a great game behind the bat.

MUSICAL.

An interesting program consisting of piano solos and duets, was presented by some of the pupils of Miss Caroline L. Pond at her residence on Prospect street last Saturday afternoon. The young players showed remarkable self possession in the rendition of the various numbers and reflected great credit to their instructor. Among those who took part were Miss Helen Rowe, Miss Alice Hamilton, Miss Virginia Farmer, Miss Beulah Foss, Miss Alice Cutting, Miss Almena Coswell, Miss Evelyn Prime, Mr. Harold Lutes and Miss Florence McCarthy.

The so-called reduction in the price of coal is not satisfactory to householders. And why would it be—50 cents more a ton than one year ago.

The longest day is almost here, and with it comes the shortest night with preparations for the shortest day. Is your coal bin full to overflowing?

It is said that 3,986,500 pounds of dynamite will be used on the Panama Canal for the year beginning July 1. It is not known whether the workmen will really enjoy this continuous Fourth of July.

Gov. Foss having signed the $1,000,000 boulevard bill, the Woburn Horn Pond boulevard appropriation is now assured. It will connect with the Mystic Valley parkway and pass through the west side of Winchester and thence to Woburn.

Was it just mere luck that brought Ambassador Guild home from Russia just as Senator Crane announced his retirement? But he says that it will be time to consider candidates in state politics after the national conventions have made their nominations.

The official vote of Charles S. Baxter, leading delegate at large in the recent primaries was 85,685. W. Murray Crane, the first Taft delegate, received 76,134 votes. John L. Bates, however, received the largest vote of the Taft men, 76,239.

Captain Smith of the Titanic is credited with causing the disaster to his ship, Capt. Lord of the California disgraced for his brutal neglect in not going to the rescue of the passengers, while Capt. Rostron of the Carpathia for his prompt call for assistance has been given a $1000 gold medal by Congress and is being feted and dined.

Apparently the Boston editors who live in Winchester don't care a red cent whether Citizen Lawson of Winchester and Cohasset is elected to the United States senate. They are making him pay for his political announcements, while Curtis Guild has had to hide behind a Russian dialect in order to escape from the reporters who want to know whether he intends to run. That is discrimination.—[Charlestown Enterprise.

The Winchester base ball team has thus far played good ball and given the numerous spectators a rare treat. It costs money to do this as the players who come here require that their expenses be paid and that they be given a bonus. The expense of each game is nearly twenty dollars and to meet this the home players depend upon the generosity of the citizens. Without this support there would be no games here. Manager LeDuc has sent out a request for subscriptions and it is to be hoped they will be generous. Hundreds of people, who cannot afford to leave town on vacations, derive much healthy enjoyment from the games.

The automobilist who thinks that he has done his whole duty to the man in the road when he has blown the horn on his car is mistaken, says an exchange. It has been decreed by the Supreme court of Massachusetts that even the loud blowing of the horn does not give to the motor vehicle any exclusive right of way, or relieve the driver from the duty of proceeding at a reasonable rate of speed and of keeping his car in control when approaching a busy thoroughfare.

A small group of officials from the lesser municipalities of the Boston metropolitan district has finally secured the defeat in the legislature of the bill reported by the Metropolitan Plan Committee, providing for the creation of a permanent board to plan systematically and sensibly for the best development of the district and for harmonious co operation among the cities and towns, and also of all other bills providing in any way for metropolitan unification or the creation of a "Greater Boston," says the Chamber of Commerce News. The district must stirell main a group of "disjointed parts.'. The News should be reminded that the "lesser municipalities" included about all the cities and towns outside of Boston.

NEW FIRE DEPARTMENT LAW.

(The following is a copy of the special act of the legislature relating to the fire department of Winchester which comes up for acceptance at the town meeting next Monday night and is printed in full in order that the voters may have an opportunity to become familar with its provisions before the meeting :)

Chapter 692

An Act Relative to the Fire Department of the Town of Winchester.

Be it Enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court Assembled, and by the Authority of the Same, as Follows:

Section 1. The Fire department of the town of Winchester shall consist of a chief engineer and as many assistant engineers, enginemen, hosemen, hook and ladder men and assistants as the selectmen shall from time to time prescribe; and the selectmen shall have authority to supervise and define the duties of said engineers and in general to make such regulations concerning the payment, conduct and government of the deparment as they may deem expedient.

Section 2. The chief engineer and assistant engineers shall be appointed by the selectmen and may be removed by them at any time for such cause as they may deem sufficient. The other members of the department shall be appointed by the chief engineer, subject to the approval of the selectmen, and may at any time after a hearing be removed by him for such cause as he may deem sufficient.

Section 3. The chief engineer shall, subject to the approval of the selectmen, make such regulations concerning the management of fires and the conduct of persons attending fires, and fix such penalties for violation of said regulations, as he shall deem necessary, and all the provisions of law relative to the powers, duties, and liabilities of fire engineers and firewards, in towns shall hereafter apply, so far as the same are not inconsistent herewith, to the chief engineer of the fire deparment in Winchester.

Section 4. On the appointment of a chief engineer and one or more assistants as hereinbefore provided, the board of fire engineers of the town of Winchester shall cease to exist and the offices held by the members thereof shall become vacant. All other members of the fire department of the town at the time when this act takes effect, shall, notwithstanding the passage and acceptance hereof, continue as such members unless removed as provided in section two of this act.

Section 5. The provisions of law providing for the appointment of fire engineers in towns and such provisions of law relative to the powers, duties and liabilities of fire engineers as are inconsisent herewith shall not apply to the town of Winchester.

Section 6. This act shall take effect upon its acceptance by two-thirds of the voters of the town present and voting thereon at a meeting duly called for the purpose.

MR. BARR RESIGNS FROM B. & M.

Frank Barr, vice president and general manager of the Boston & Maine, has resigned and will retire on a pension July 1. His resignation is due to poor health.

Mr. Barr began his railroad career in 1868, when he entered the service of the Worcester, Nashua & Portland and was considered one of the best equipped railroad men in the country. He remained with that road as freight clerk, telegraph operator and ticket agent until June 11, 1873, when he was appointed general agent of the Worcester & Nashua at Nashua. This position, he occupied until Nov. 1, 1892, when he was made general superintendent of the Worcester division of the Boston & Maine. Here he continued until Dec. 1, 1896, when he was called to Boston and made assistant general manager of the entire Boston & Maine system to succeed George M. Evans who became general manager of the Maine Central railroad.

Mr. Barr was born in Nashua, N. H., 60 years ago, and was graduated from the high school there. For the last 16 years he has resided in Winchester. He is a member of the Calumet and the Winchester Country clubs.

Henry J. Horn, vice president of the New Haven road, has been elected to succeed Mr. Barr.

Fred Collins of Montana is visiting his mother, Mrs. George Potter of Canal street.

A FITTING REQUIEM.

When the programme of popular songs and waltzes was exhausted and the upper deck of the stricken liner was very near the ocean surface, sixteen hundred people, the vast majority of them men, stood in the presence of death in violent form. The last lifeboat was being pushed off and Captain Smith gave the final order of "Every man for himself." Then the strains of "Autumn" sounded under as impressive circumstances as ever existed. Harold Bride, the Titanic's wireless operator, who was among the sixteen hundred, is authority for this. The hymn contains the significant line, "Hold me up in mighty waters," and runs as follows :—

God of mercy and compassion !
Look with pity on my pain,
Hear a mournful broken spirit
Prostrate at Thy feet complain :
Many are my foes, and mighty ;
Strength to conquer I have none ;
Nothing can uphold my goings,
But Thy blessed Self alone.
Saviour, look on Thy beloved,
Triumph over all my foes;
Turn to heavenly joy my mourning,
Turn to gladness all my woes ;
Live or die, work or suffer,
Let my weary soul abide,
In all changes whatsoever,
Sure and steadfast by Thy side.
When temptations fierce assault me,
When my enemies I find,
Sin and guilt, and death and Satan,
All against my soul combined;
Hold me up in mighty waters,
Keep my eyes on things above,
Righteousness, divine Atonement,
Peace and everlasting Love.

A fitting requiem for the brave spirits over whose bodies the Atlantic's icy waters a few seconds later closed.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

What tax rate will you stand for? I understand that at the town meeting Monday night a large increase over the appropriation made at the March meeting will be asked for street work. In 1907 we appropriated $19,500, this year we have already voted $39,000, this is 100 per cent increase; in the same time our population has increased 20 per cent and our valuation 30 per cent. The increased state tax will add twenty-five cents to our tax rate and with what we have already voted our rate will be increased more than a dollar a thousand over last year and on the Ap. Coms own figures carried out to their logical conclusion we will be in the twenty dollar tax rate class in two years. If you believe in that all right, if not it is time to stop for this year. It is up to the voters, they cannot blame the trusts or corporations, or congress or the legislature for here we have direct legislation by the people.

This legislature which began so well has fallen down badly the past two or three weeks largely because of the craze of the two presiding officers to make a record on an early adjournment, a silly and boyish performance. At this writing it looks as if the Governor will get his new railroad commission; if he does not the session will end in a grand row. If the people could get publicity on the doings of their legislators the work would be much better done, but as the press is subsidized by the corporations and big interests they do not get information they should have and that's the trouble.

Won't the Selectmen take a look at the Town Hall building clock faces and then do something to have them properly lighted. As they are now they look nothing like what illuminated clock faces should.

So we are to have another Metropolitan boulevard through town, from Mystic pond through the West side, and we got it without asking for it, Woburn doing all of the work for it over a period of many years. Things, in the end, usually come our way.

The Selectmen's fire engineers control act may be all right, but it should have full explanation before we vote on it. The act is for Winchester only and is not general.

A state tax of six and one-half milions! A few years ago it was a million and a half. While Massachusetts may have the best government in the Union, she certainly has the most expensive by far. What has become of that Yankee thrift and care, is it entirely dead? And the worst of it is the expense is not only not going down but is bound to increase.

If the New Haven cannot afford it, we ought to pass a vote at the town meeting Monday night offering to paint the wretched looking crossing house in the centre.

Newsy Paragraphs.

The Horn Pond Ice Company was fined $25 Tuesday morning in the Woburn Court for failure to provide three of its wagons with scales. The complaint was brought by Sealer of Weights and Measures Maurice Dineen. It was stated that three of the company's teams were without scales the same afternoon. Mr. Fredericks for the company and George Hicks, driver, of one of the teams, admitted that the teams were without scales, but claimed there was not intentional violation of the law, and the mistake was attributed to carelessness. Attorney McIntyre asked to have the case placed on file. Chief McIntosh said that if but one team was found without scales he would not object to the case going on file, but he believed that the fact of three of the teams being without scales on the same day could hardly be due to carelessness altogether. Judge Maguire took the same view of the offenses and ordered a fine of $25.

An exciting accident occurred on Main street at Symmes' Corner Wednesday afternoon when a two horse market team, piled high with empty boxes, tipped over the stone wall at the side of the road. The team was returning from Boston, and was owned by Ellis Marshall of Woburn, being driven by his son, Walter. According to his story one of the reins dropped and he walked out on the wagon pole between the horses to recover it. The horses started while he was between them and ran to the side of the road striking the fence and going over the wall. The drop is about four feet. The wagon was turned completely over and one horse went down with the wreck. The other horse hung partly over the wall helpless, until he too fell over. The sight presented a tangle of horses, wagon and boxes. After considerable labor on the part of farm hands and passers-by things were finally cleaned up, and very fortunately no harm was done to speak of. Neither horse was injured, and the driver was unhurt.

People Tell Each Other About Good Things.

Twenty years ago few people in the world knew of such a preparation as a Powder for the Feet. To-day after the genuine merit of Allen's Foot-Ease has been told year after year by one gratified person to another, there are millions abroad and in this country who would as soon go without a dentifrice as without the daily use of Allen's Foot-Ease. It is a cleanly, wholesome, healing, antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes, which has given rest and comfort to tired and aching feet in all parts of the world. It cures while you walk. Over 30,000 testimonials of cures of smarting, swollen, tender, perspiring feet. It prevents friction and wear of the stocking bill ten times its cost each year. Imitations pay the dealer a larger profit, otherwise you would never be offered a substitute when you ask for Allen's Foot-Ease, the original antiseptic powder for the feet. It gives a restfulness and a springy feeling that makes you forget you have feet. Allen's Foot-Ease is the greatest comfort discovery of all age and so easy to use. It prevents soreness, blisters or puffing. Don't go on your vacation without a package of Allen's Foot-Ease. Sold everywhere, 25c. Don't accept any substitute. Sample free. Addre s, Allen S. Fine Job Printing AT STAR OFFICE

FOR YOUR EYES.

Governor Foss singed the optometry bill June 1st which takes effect Oct. 1st, 1912. After that date no person is permitted to fit glasses away from his regular place of business without delivering to the party so fitted a bill of sale of the glasses and their registered number.

All persons now examining eyes must prove their qualifications before Oct. 1st but those having been in practice for two years previous to June 1st, may be granted two years on request to the optometry board.

The passage of the bill will keep out many traveling optical venders—stop the taker from out of the state who pay high prices for a fair booth and charge exorbitant prices to the unsuspecting public who are drawn into the snare.

Gov. Foss deserves great credit for signing the bill in spite of the tremendous pressure brought upon him by medical men who specialize on the eye.

The standard of the Mass. optometry bill is higher than that of any of the twenty-six states now having such a law and will help to raise the standard in all the other states.

TREMONT THEATRE.

Alice Lloyd, easily the most deservedly popular of all the English singing comediennes to be imported to the country, will come to the Tremont Theatre, June 11th, when she will be seen for the first time in Boston as a full-fledged musical comedy star in "Little Miss Fix it."

Messrs. Werba and Leuscher, whose "Rose Maid" received such an enthusiastic welcome in Boston at the Colonial Theatre early in the year, and whose "Spring Maid" has already established a record for popularity have only just perfected arrangements by which this charming English star will make her debut in Boston at the head of her own organization.

During the course of the comedy, Miss Lloyd introduces her most recent song successes. Miss Lloyd has been surrounded with a most capable supporting company, headed by Lionel Walsh. There are also Grace Field, Annie Buckley, Grace Brown, Nellie Malcolm, Frederic Santley, Frank Shannon, and James C. Lane. The scenic equipment is an extremely attractive and tasteful one. In fact, the same extravagant though tasteful production accorded "The Rose Maid" and "The Spring Maid" has been accorded "Little Miss Fix-It."

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The second week of "The Climax" begins at the Castle Square on Monday. This special production made by John Craig has achieved an immediate success. It is proving one of the most unusual of entertainments, and its combination of drama and music brings to it no small measure of popularity. The leading role is played by Florence Webber, a soprano singer of marked ability. During the course of the play she sings "The Song of the Soul," "Youth's Appeal to Old Age," and "Even Song," and as these are brought into the plot they contribute not a little to the dramatic effect of the play.

The leading character of "The Climax" is an aspiring young singer, and Miss Webber acts her with skill and insight. As young Golfanti, Mr. Christie is as good a piano player as actor—which is saying a great deal, and as the elder Golfani Donald Meek has a notable character role. Thomas F. Fallon acts Dr. Raymond. All in all it would appear "The Climax" is starting on a run at the Castle Square.

BAY STATE BUSY POLITICS

Pelletier or Foss as Democratic Gubernatorial Candidate

LEGISLATURE OPPOSES FOSS

Building Inspection in Boston—Senatorial Situation Still Unsettled—Legislation Passed This Year

The Democratic party will be in some uncertainty over its gubernatorial candidate until after the Democratic national convention. Today Governor Foss is proclaiming vigorously that he is to be the Democratic nominee for president. His friends have some hopes that he may be nominated for the vice-presidency; they have no expectation whatever that he will receive any greater consideration than this. If he is not selected for vice president by the Democratic convention at Baltimore his friends expect to see him in the contest for governor this fall. It is probably true that he believes he stands some show for the vice presidential nomination, and he may really think he may be the dark horse when it comes to selecting the presidential candidate. His supporters however, do not believe the Democratic party would come so far east as Massachusetts for a presidential candidate; they have though it possible that he might be selected for second place under certain conditions.

If he should be nominated for any place on the national ticket it will then be up to the Democrats to find someone to run for governor this fall. Two or three men have been mentioned, among them Congressman Andrew J. Peters of Boston, District Attorney Pelletier of Suffolk County, and David I. Walsh of Fitchburg. It is suspected that Mr. Peters is quite willing to remain in Congress if he is allowed to do so. Several prominent Democrats, however, have been casting envious eyes at his district and it is quite possible that the desire to start him on another tack may have been responsible for his being mentioned in connection with the nomination to the governorship.

Boston's Poor Inspection

Mayor Fitzgerald has just waked up to the building situation in the City of Boston. In the last eight months there have been seven very serious accidents through the faulty construction of buildings or through lack of proper fire escapes. For many months some of the newspapers have been calling attention to the inadequate work being done by the office of the building commissioner and have urged that some action be taken to remedy conditions. Very likely nothing would have come of all this agitation had it not been that in the last two months four buildings in process of construction or already occupied, collapsed with a loss of four lives and ten persons injured. A few days ago the mayor asked Governor Foss to send a message to the legislature asking that body to enact a law giving the City of Boston greater power over the construction, alteration, removing or tearing down of structures.

This action was only taken after a number of influential organizations in Boston had strenously demanded that something be done to remedy the situation.

There was quite an exciting time in the legislature last week when an intimation was received in the House that unless the legislature enacted the bill creating a public utilities commission Governor Foss would veto the trolley merger bill and all other measures pending. The house resented the threat of the governor and showed its feeling by rejecting the public utilities bill. It was strenously claimed that it was a scandalous misuse of his executive powers by which Governor Foss attempted to have enacted his bill for a public utilities commission. It was felt by the members of the house that if the governor wished to disapprove of the trolley merger he should do so on the demerits of the bill or not at all, and that he should not undertake to log roll his pet measure through the legislature. In the constitution of Massachusetts, article 30, it is stated: "In the government of this commonwealth, the legislative department shall never exercise the executive and judicial powers, or either of them; the executive shall never exercise the legislative and judicial powers, or either of them; the judicial shall never exercise the legislative and executive powers, or either of them; to the end it may be a government of laws and not of men."

Senatorial Situation Mixed

The senatorial situation has not been cleared up during the last week. Former Governor Curtis Guild is willing to make the fight for the United States senate if all the factions of the party will unite upon his candidacy. It does not seem certain at the present time that this will come about. Congressman John W. Weeks of the Twelfth district is said to be a candidate and Ex-Governor Draper has stated that under certain circumstances he might be willing to be drafted. However, he wishes to know first what is to be the platform of the national Republican convention. Presumably if it is too radical he might not wish to be considered. Lieutenant Governor Robert Luce has also been mentioned in connection with the senatorship, and former Speaker Joseph Walker of Brookline has stated that it is an honor which no one would decline if it came to him. It is well understood, however, that Mr. Walker is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor and that his activities will be devoted to the campaign for this nomination, rather than to secure an endorsement for the senate.

Legislation Enacted This Year

The legislature has put the finishing touches to a bill creating a state finance commission to consist of three members, one of whom shall be the state auditor. Under this bill the commission is given jurisdiction over every officer or board having charge of any department, institution or undertaking which receives an annual appropriation from the commonwealth.

The legislature has enacted some very important measures during the present session. Among others it has ratified the proposed amendment to the national constitution for the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people; enacted a law to permit voters to express their preference for president and vice president and for direct election of delegates to national conventions of political parties; divided the state into sixteen congressional districts, two more than previously existed; provided a maximum penalty of $10,000 for the making of political contributions by business corporations.

It has also passed a law to prohibit, under penalties, untrue or misleading advertisements; regulated the cold storage of food products by limiting the time in which such articles can be kept in storage to one year; voted to submit to the people article of amendment to the constitution disqualifying from voting persons convicted of corrupt practices in elections; enacted nine-hour day bill for persons employed by street railway companies; authorized directors of the port of Boston to lease sites for warehouses and industrial locations and establish port of Boston fund into which all moneys received which are now paid into the commonwealth flats improvement fund, shall be placed to the credit of the port directors; provided one day off out of every five for members of fire departments of cities; provided that fruits, vegetables and nuts shall be sold only by weight or numerical count; authorized widening and extension of Avery street in Boston; authorized issue of bonds by city of Boston, outside the debt limit, of $5,000,0000, for the construction of new streets, this act to be referred to the voters of Boston for their approval.

4 WOMEN TO BE DELEGATES.

Will Occupy Seats at the Republican National Convention.

Four women will occupy seats as delegates at the Republican national convention in Chicago on June 18. Two will come from California and two from other western states

Sergeant-at-Arms William F. Stone has received scores of applications from women in western states for appointment as assistant sergeant-at-arms, doorkeepers and ushers at the convention; but, following a precedent established by the subcommittee on arrangements, none but men will be named for these positions this year.

The first credentials from delegates elected to the Republican national convention from the United States insular possessions were received by Secretary Hayward from Hawaii and the Philippines. No word has been received by the committee from Porto Rico and Alaska.

Maine Pennant Has Home.

The pennant of the old battleship Maine has a permanent home in Memorial hall, in Chicago. It was presented, with appropriate ceremonies, to the Grand Army Hall Memorial association recently by the United Spanish War Veterans.

57,000,000 NON-CHURCHGOERS

Presbyterians Give Figures and Condemn "a Number of Our Courts."

More than 57,000,000 persons in the United States are non-church members, and of the number 12,000,000 are children, according to a report of the committee on industrial conditions considered by the United Presbyterian assembly at Seattle, Wash.

The committee criticised the courts, saying they "seem too much engaged with legal forms and technicalities" and "not sufficiently concerned about the weightier matters of justice and mercy."

"There is a grave suspicion everywhere voiced," the report continues, "that corporate interests exert unwholesome influence over a considerable number of our courts and that they have displayed pernicious activity in the election and appointment of judges who would be in a large measure amenable to their control."

Rules and Regulations Relative to Plumbing and Drainage for the Town of Winchester.

To Replace Article 6 of Existing Town By-Laws.

Sec. 1. Registration.
" 2. Permits.
" 3. Sewage Disposal.
" 4 Drainage System.
" 5. Material of Drainage System.
" 6. Fastening Pipes.
" 7. Traps.
" 8. Stables, Garages, Laboratories, etc.
" 9. Cleanouts.
" 10. Vents, Back Air pipes, etc.
" 11. Testing and Inspection.
" 12. Water Closets.
" 13. Drip and Overflow Wastes.
" 14. Defective Plumbing.
" 15. Penalty.

Registration.

Section 1. All persons who desire to engage in, carry on or work at the business of plumbing within the town of Winchester shall be registered by the State Examiners of Plumbers, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 536, Acts of 1909, and chapter 597, Acts of 1910.

Plumbers shall at all times be prepared to exhibit or produce their license or certificate cards, whenever called upon by the Inspector of Plumbing.

Permits.

Section 2. Upon application of a registered master plumber, on form furnished by the Board of Health, said Board shall grant written permit to do certain plumbing described therein, when in conformity with the law. Drawings of proposed work shall be filed it required. Permits may be revoked by the Board of Health if conditions are violated. Permits for all plumbing, except repair of leaks, must be in the hands of the plumber before beginning any plumbing work.

Sewage Disposal.

Section 3. Every building in the town of Winchester, used as a dwelling, tenement or lodging house, or where persons are employed, shall be separately connected with the public sewer when such sewer is provided; or if such sewer is not provided, with a cesspool constructed of such material and capacity as the Board of Health shall direct.

No plumbing shall be connected with the town sewer without the approval of the Board of Health, and all plumbing work required must conform to the regulations relating thereto.

No rain conductors, surface or ground water drainage shall be connected with plumbing or drainage pipes which discharge into the public sewer or into cesspools.

Wherever there is a public sewer with which the sewage system of a building is to be connected, the owner or agent shall before determining the position of the main house sewer, obtain from the Water and Sewer Board the location of the sewer branch which is to serve that building and said connection made in conformity to the rules of said Board.

No sewer from any building shall pass under another building; neither shall said sewer pass within five feet of the outside wall of any building, unless it be of extra heavy cast iron pipe, having its joints made with lead, thoroughly calked and tested.

Every building in which gasolene, naptha or other inflammable compounds are used for business purposes shall be provided with a special trap or separator, so designed as to prevent the passage of oils into the sewer, and shall be ventilated with a separate pipe to a point 3 feet above the roof. The waste of every washstand for vehicles shall be provided with catch basin so designed that sand cannot pass into the drain. The waste pipe from the sink of every hotel, restaurant or other public cooking establishment shall be provided with a grease trap. The waste from every fixture, except refrigerators and other receptacles in which provisions are stored, shall be connected directly with the drain pipe.

Drainage System.

Section 4. The drain from a point 10 feet outwardly from inside of wall, shall be of cast iron and not less than 4 inches in diameter, shall continue with at least 1-4 inch rise per foot to and through roof or side of house to a height of at least 8 feet where roof is used for clothes drying or other purposes, at least 18 inches in any case, and 18 inches above the top of any window or opening within 12 feet. The connection between said drain and the earthen sewer pipe shall be made with Portland cement and shall be approved by the plumbing inspector before being covered. Lateral branches of soil or waste pipes, if more than 20 feet in length, shall be extended undiminished in size, and in no case less than 4 inches in diameter where they pass to the outer air.

The drain shall when connected with a cesspool be provided with a running trap; but when connected with the public sewer a running trap may at the option of the owner be omitted; except that in all cases where a running trap has been installed it shall not be removed without the written consent of the Board of Health. Said running trap shall be of the same size as the house sewer, located either outside or inside the foundation walls of the building, beyond all house connections, and provided with an accessible cleanout.

Soil pipes from water closets shall be not less than 4 inches internal diameter, except that by permission of the Board of Health a 3-inch soil pipe may be used for one set of bath fixtures (viz., 1 water closet, 1 basin, 1 bathtub) where it is not practicable to use 2 inch pipe. Waste pipes from the traps of fixtures such as sinks, basins, baths or wash trays shall be of 2-inch cast iron with short connection of lead. Such connections shall be of not less than one and one-quarter inch bore and must not be branched into each other, but shall be separately connected with the iron pipe.

Connections and changes in direction shall be made with long angle and long sweep bends and Y branches.

Material of Drainage System.

Section 5. Drain, soil, waste and vent pipes and connections, which collectively make up the drainage system within the building, shall be constructed of the following material: extra heavy cast iron, galvanized wrought iron, lead and annealed "iron size" brass pipe. Cast-iron pipe and fittings shall be of a grade known to the trade as extra heavy, plain (uncoated), until approved by the Inspector. All joints in cast-iron pipe shall be made with oakum and lead, run full, calked gas and water tight, and left clean without paint, putty or cement, until approved by the Inspector.

Sizes and Weights, Extra Heavy Cast-iron Pipe.

	Pounds per foot.
2 inches	5 1-2
3 inches	9 1-2
4 inches	13
5 inches	17
6 inches	20
8 inches	33 1-2
10 inches	45

Wrought iron soil or waste pipes can only be used by written permission from the Board of Health and under such conditions as that Board may direct.

If wrought iron vent pipes be used, they must be galvanized. No slip joints, unions, or flanges shall be used on threaded wastes or vents, except that slip joints may be used on house side of trap to connect fixtures.

Lead pipe shall be of the following diameters and weights:

Diameter (inches)	Weight (pounds per foot)
1 1-4	2 1-2
1 1-2	3
4	8

No lead waste up to and including 2 inches in diameter, unless exposed, shall be more than 8 feet in length, including inlet and outlet of trap; a 3-inch or 4 inch diameter waste shall not be more than 2 feet in length.

Lead bends and traps shall correspond to the above weights.

Brass sleeves for connecting lead and cast iron pipes shall be extra heavy, at least 1-8 of an inch thick. Brass solder nipples for connecting lead and threaded pipes shall be either cast metal or seamless drawn tubing, size and weight corresponding with pipe to be connected. In connecting lead pipe together, or to brass calking or soldering nipples, full-sized wiped joints shall be used. Cleanouts, plugs, stoppers or any other fittings used in drainage system shall correspond in weight and material with above description.

Fastening Pipes.

Section 6. Drain, soil, waste and vent pipes shall be supported every 5 feet on horizontal runs, and at least once to each story on vertical lines; horizontal runs by supports under, or hung from overhead by iron "stirrup" hangers, not less than 5-16 inch in diameter. Vertical stacks shall be fastened by pipe rest at floor, or clamps, drive hooks or hangers to adjacent walls.

Traps.

Section 7. The waste pipe of every independent fixture shall be furnished with a separate trap, which shall be placed as near as practicable to the fixture which it serves. A sink and set of not more than three wash trays, or bathtub and basin, or any two similar fixtures, when they adjoin, may be connected with the house drain through one round trap not less than 4 inches in diameter when waste pipes are not more than 3 feet in length from floor line to trap on bathtub and basin and waste centres are not more than 5 feet apart on sink and trays. The waste pipe of each fixture shall enter the trap separately, and the waste from said trap must be one size larger than inlet pipes. Four washbowls or sinks in a continuous line may be connected to the house drain through one 4-inch round trap. Lead bends for water-closets or slop sinks shall not be used to connect waste from other fixtures. Earthern-ware traps shall have heavy brass floor plates soldered to the lead bends and bolted to the trap flange, and the joint made tight with grafting wax or other substance satisfactory to the Board of Health. All traps depending upon concealed partitions to retain their seal will not be approved, except for earthen ware fixtures, where the trap seal is plainly visible. Trap screws for cleaning purposes shall be placed in all metal traps and at all times shall be accessible. All fixture traps shall be so installed that the water seal will protect the trap screw from sewer air. When side clean out traps are placed between ceilings and floors they must be provided with an accessible proper sate.

Stables, Garages, Laboratories, etc.

Section 8. Drainage of stalls, stable fixtures, garages and laboratories shall be installed in accordance with plans approved by the Board of Health.

Cleanouts.

Section 9. Every house sewer, soil or waste pipe shall have accessible heavy brass plug cleanouts with iron or brass bodies and taper threads, at such points as the Inspector shall deem necessary. A main cleanout shall be provided at every building below all connections and in as direct line as possible with the street sewer connections.

Vents, Back air Pipes, etc.

Section 10. Traps shall be protected from siphonage and back pressure by special iron or brass air pipes of same size as waste; continuous system of venting shall be used, and back air pipes shall not be connected to the trap or branched into the waste pipe except where a continuous vent is not practicable. Traps of S form shall not have more than 24 inches of waste pipe from trap to vent. Round traps not less than 9 inches long and 4 inches in diameter may be placed 5 feet from vent pipe. Two water-closets or two other traps on the same level, with not more than 2 feet of waste pipe, and which connect with soil or waste pipe not more than 18 inches below the top water line of the trap, shall not require other vent than the continuation of the soil or waste pipe full size for its whole length. Lead air pipes may be used for short connections only, and where exposed to view.

Schedule of Back air Pipes and Vents for Fixtures.

Fixtures	Size of Pipe (inches)	Greatest length allowed (feet)	Maximum Number of Fixtures
Baths, basins, sinks, urinals or similar fixtures	1 1-2	30	3
	2	70	9
	3	70	21
Water-closets, or slop sinks	2	35	3
	3	70	9

Two or more air pipes may be connected together, but such connection must be made above top of fixture. All vent pipes shall be at least 4 inches in diameter where they pass through the roof. Vent lines shall be so graded that no condensation will remain in pipes. In case of batteries of water closets, the special air pipe from each trap may be omitted, provided the soil or waste pipe, undiminished in size, is continued to a point above the roof, or connected into the main system above all fixtures.

"Bow" venting will not be allowed except by special permission of the Board of Health, in which case the "bow" must be run full size of pipe as high as the top of the fixture and returned without being trapped.

In buildings where there is only one water-closet and not more than two other traps, and said closet is connected below the traps and all traps are not more than 3 feet from main sewer pipe, no back venting shall be required.

When old fixtures are replaced by new ones in plumbing constructed prior to the adoption of these rules, and the traps attached to bath tubs, basins, sinks and wash trays are round traps not less than 4 inches in diameter and the waste pipe is not over 5 feet in length between such traps and the main soil pipe or drain, and provided also that such main soil pipe extends full size through the roof, a separate air pipe shall not be required. No connection of old plumbing with the public sewer shall be made that does not conform to the above.

Testing and Inspection.

Section 11. Pipes or other fixtures shall not be covered or concealed from view until approved by the Inspector of Plumbing. The work shall be examined and tested within two working days after notice that it is ready for inspection. Plumbing shall not be used unless, when roughed in, the wastes, vents, back air pipes and all calked joints are first tested in the presence of the Inspector, by water or sufficient air pressure, as the Inspector may require.

When the work in a building is sufficiently advanced that the water may be turned on to all of the fixtures, the plumber doing such work shall, within five days, notify the Inspector in writing. The Inspector shall within two working days after receipt of such notice examine the work. Should the examination disclose any defects, the plumber shall be notified in writing and required to remedy the same without delay, and again notify the Inspector as before. Should a plumber holding a permit neglect to send the notification as required, or neglect to remedy said defects for a period of over five days, he shall not be granted any further permits until he shall have complied with these rules, or till action is taken by the Board; and should such neglect be continued ten days longer, the Inspector shall file a complaint with the Board reciting all the facts of the case. The Board will then take such action as it may deem advisable.

Water-Closets.

Section 12. Every building for habitation shall have such number of water-closets as the Board of Health may require, but in no case less than one for each tenement. Every building where persons are employed shall have at least one water-closet for every 15 persons employed therein; and in any building where persons of both sexes are employed, separate accommodations shall be furnished for both men and women. Every enclosure containing one or more water closets shall be provided with adequate ventilation to the outer air, either by window or suitable light shaft. No water-close shall be set in any room or apartment that has not a window having an area of at least 2 square feet opening directly to the external air, unless there is a pipe not less than 3 inches in diameter leading to a heated flue or other vent pipe. Water-closets shall be supplied with water from tank above, or by flush valves set just above the seat, which in turn are supplied from tank or other adequate supply, capable of delivering five gallons of water to the closet in ten seconds. In all cases the flush pipe shall not be less than 1 1-4 inches in diameter. Where local vents are used they shall connect with heated flue when possible, and must be not less than 2 inches for each fixture. All local vents must be so constructed as not to act as a soil or waste pipe should fixture become stopped. Connection to flue shall be made by wrought or cast-iron pipe, properly cemented; other piping may be of galvanized iron.

Drip and Overflow wastes.

Section 13. All drip or overflow pipes from tanks, coolers, safes or fixtures, or waste pipes from refrigerators or other receptacles for the storage of food or provisions, shall be carried to some open sink or place where they may be at all times visible.

No steam exhaust, blow off or drip, pipe shall connect with the house sewer, soil, waste or vent pipe. Such pipes shall discharge into a suitable tank or condenser from which a proper outlet shall be provided.

Defective Plumbing, etc.

Section 14. Alterations made in plumbing already in use, except as provided in Section 10, must, in the future, be in accord with these regulations, and such alterations will be ordered by the Board of Health whenever in their opinion they judge it necessary for the public health and safety. It will be so judged when after examination by the Inspector any old plumbing work is found to be defective.

In such case the Inspector shall report to the Board of Health the nature of the defects, and furnish the owner with a copy of the same. Should the owner neglect to remedy the defect pointed out in such report within the time specified, the Board shall set time for a hearing, and give the owner at least three days notice thereof, that he may attend and show cause why he should not be required to make the alterations. After such hearing the Board will take definite action in the matter.

When buildings which formerly connected with vaults or cesspools, are connected with the sewer, the old connection shall be uncovered outside of the building, a section of the same removed and the ends solidly cemented by the plumber.

The vaults and cesspools shall also be discontinued and filled by the owner with proper materials within three months after the sewer connection is made.

Penalty.

Section 15. Whoever violates any of the foregoing rules shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Fifty Dollars for each and every violation thereof.

Adopted in town meeting March 25, 1912.

Approved by Attorney General May 11th, 1912.

A CONTRAST.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

In the "Woman's Journal" of April 27th, appeared a cartoon representing a large disabled vessel with passengers crowded on deck. In the water, around the vessel, are hideous monsters labeled as follows:—Consumption, gambling, impure food, scarlet fever, diphtheria, social diseases, small-pox, fire traps, sweat-shops, white slavery, child labor saloons, poverty, graft. There is in the water, a small boat of which some of these monsters have taken possession. Coming to the rescue, is a large, well-equipped vessel, sending out a search-light on which is written, "Votes for Women." Under the cartoon is written, "When women cannot vote the ship of state is like the steamship 'Titanic,' with only half enough life-boats."

As a matter of taste, it seems as if nothing could be worse while the implied assumption in it seems preposterous. In contrast we give a resolution that was passed at the annual meeting of the Massachusetts anti-suffrage association held in Boston, about the same time that this cartoon appeared:

"On behalf of the women of Massachusetts, this association offers its grateful tribute of admiration and reverence to the memory of those men, who, on the "Titanic," gave up their lives that the women and children might be saved. We honor alike the British seamen and the American passengers who testified the willingness of the men of the English-speaking race to sacrifice themselves, even unto death, for the protection and welfare of women.

"We offer this tribute not to these men only, but to the spirit of true manhood, on both sides of the ocean, which this act typifies, believing that while this spirit lives there can be no fear for the future, and that it will never die, unless we women prove ourselves unworthy of such sacrifice."

Dr. Edward Everett Hale never believed in woman suffrage. In the latter part of his life, some one who thought his views on the subject had changed, wrote to him asking him if that were the case. His reply was, "Forty years ago, I said the agitation for woman-suffrage was one of the greatest follies of the age, and I have never seen any reason for changing that opinion."

When we saw the cartoon mentioned above, we wondered whether if the good Doctor were with us now, he might not see something worse than folly in this agitation.

RESIGNS TO GET ADVANCEMENT.

The Holyoke Municipal Electric Light Plant has just furnished the most striking illustration of why municipally owned and operated public utilities are not successful; they can't keep their men.

W. H. Snow, who, for ten years, has been Manager of the Gas and Electric Deparment of the City of Holyoke, has tendered his resignation, to take effect June 15. He has accepted the offer to become General Manager of the New Bedford Gas & Electric Company of New Bedford, Mass. The Holyoke Daily Transcript says: "Though Mr. Snow filled the highest salaried position in the Holyoke city government, the new position commands a considerably larger salary, and the opportunities for advancement are greater with the New Bedford Company, which is privately owned. Mayor White has only words of praise for the retiring Manager. 'He got results and good ones, too. He has been a valuable man in a most responsible position.'"

TALKING TO THE PEOPLE WITH INK.

One reason for the busy advertising policy of Boston Merchants is no doubt that a steady trade is the most economical. When advertising is allowed to drop, or to be cut down, trade drops too.

The result is that the force of clerks is not profitably employed. Moreover, there is a loss of trade that will never be made up. People will wear their old clothes, and spend the money thus saved on amusements and travel, which otherwise would go to the home stores for new clothes for themselves and their children, new house furnishings and better food. But the Woburn merchants are slow in telling the people.

When Boston merchants throw out bait in the form of full page ads to the Woburn public, did it ever occur to the Woburn merchants that their store advertising might be the means of holding trade in Woburn.—[Woburn Times.

This hint is applicable to Winchester merchants.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

A number of splendid comedy features, with just a dash of novelty to spice the whole, will be offered at Keith's Theatre next week, the three principal features being new to Boston audiences. Sam Mann, the German comedian, will make his first appearance here in an original farce entitled "The New Leader."

"The New Leader" is described as a scream from start to finish. The big novelty will be the first appearance of the Brothers Mirano, the worlds' greatest equilibrists. Another new comer will be Belle Storey, a clever singer and comedienne, who has scored a tremendous success in New York. Charles and Fanny Van bring their amusing comedy, "A Case of Emergency," and other big features will be Mlle. Loretta and her wonderful posing dog, "Studies in Gold;" Crouch and Welch, liveliest of dancers, and others yet to be announced.

ASSESSORS' NOTICE

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 41, of Part 1 of Chapter 490 of the Acts of 1909, all persons, firms and corporations, domestic or foreign, subject to taxation in the Town of Winchester are hereby notified and required to bring in to the Assessors of said Town of Winchester, on or before the

20TH DAY OF MAY NEXT

in case of residents, true lists of all their polls and personal estates (not exempt by law from taxation,) of which they were possessed on the first day of April in the current year, and in case of non-residents and foreign corporations, true lists of all their personal estates, in said Town of Winchester (not exempt from taxation) which lists must be verified by oath as required by Section 43 of said Part 1.

Under the provisions of Section 42 of said Part 1, as amended by Chapter 515, Acts of 1909, the above-mentioned lists must be in form prescribed by the Tax Commissioner of the Commonwealth. These blank forms may be had at the Assessor's office, or will be mailed to any address upon application.

Section 45 of Part 1 of Chapter 490, Acts of 1909. A mortgagor or mortgagee of real estate may bring into the Assessors of the city or town in which it lies, within the time prescribed by the notice under section forty-one, a statement under oath of the amount secured thereon or on each separate parcel thereof, with the name and residence of every holder of an interest therein as mortgagor or mortgagee. If such property is situated in two or more places, or if a recorded mortgage includes two or more estates or parts of an estate as security for one debt, such statement shall include an estimate of the interest of the mortgagee in each estate or part of an estate. The Assessors shall, from such statement or otherwise, ascertain the proportionate interests of the mortgagor or mortgagee, respectively, in said estates, and shall assess the same accordingly. If, in any year, such statement is not brought in, the tax for that year on such real estate shall not be invalid merely for the reason that the interest of the mortgagee therein has not been assessed to him.

In accordance with Section 41 aforesaid, all persons and corporations are hereby required to bring into the Assessors, on or before the 20th day of May next, true lists of all real and personal estate held by such persons and corporations, respectively, for literary, temperance, benevolent, charitable, or scientific purposes on the first day of April, in the current year, together with statements of the amounts of all receipts and expenditures for said purposes during the year next preceding said first day of April; such lists and statements to be in accordance with blanks furnished by the Tax Commissioner.

He was allowed to lay on one of the benches outside the club, and as he did not appear to improve in his condition and as his appearance was rather poor, word was finally sent to the police. The police replied that it would be about an hour before they could call for the man, so Dr. Maynard was telephoned to. The doctor found the man apparently suffering from some form of colic, and took him to the Winchester Hospital. After eating four good meals at this institution he was discharged. The man had the appearance of a tramp and evidently was such, claiming to have come from Everett.

VOL. XXXI. NO. 50. WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, JUNE 14, 1912. PRICE FIVE CENTS

MINIMUM WAGE

And Saturday Half Holidays for Town Men.

The special town meeting of Monday evening was one of the liveliest in recent years and might justly be termed the "town men's night" for they and their friends were out in force to insist that the town departments live up to the "sense of the meeting" vote passed at the annual meeting that they be given a minimum wage and Saturday half holidays from June first to Labor Day. There was no great opposition to the minimum wage, but there was to the Saturday half holiday, it being claimed that the eight-hour day was sufficient. The town men's side was under the able leadership of Mr. Fred N. Kerr who offered the vote at the March meeting. He was assisted by many of the voters and the result was that the day was carried for the men by a vote of nearly three to one. On being asked what the wage increase would amount to by granting the requests of the men, chairman James W. Russell, jr., of the Warrant Committee, stated that it would be about $5000 a year. Mr. Russell also stated that this increase was made up of $3722.96 for minimum wage and 1203.56 for Saturday half holidays.

It was also disclosed during the discussion that the town was facing a $19 tax rate for this year. The sentiment was strong that the men should receive higher wages.

J. Manley Ives was the moderator and when he called the meeting to order Selectman Belcher offered the following as the opinion of the several town departments on the minimum wage and the Saturday half-holiday. After the Warrant committee had sustained this report, Mr. Wm. C. Newell moved that it be received and the recommendation adopted. The report was as follows:

Winchester, Mass., May 24, 1912.

To The Citizens of the Town of Winchester —

This committee appointed by the several town boards, has carefully considered the vote of the Town Meeting in regard to a proposed minimum wage and a Saturday half holiday for the town laborers; and is of the opinion that in case the said vote was effective it would be necessary to discharge all those employees who cannot measure up to the standard of able-bodied men, because the minimum wage of $2.25 per day should provide nothing less, and our departments are supposed by the citizens to obtain as near as possible a dollar's worth of work for each dollar expended. As a man's usefulness declines, it would seem to be a more just policy to keep him employed at a fair return for what he is able to do.

We recommend that a wage at the rate of $2.25 per day of eight hours be recognized by the town as the standard of pay to able bodied men, and that divergencies from said standard be left to the judgment of each department.

The committee considere that a working week of 48 hours is not excessive, and that the granting of Saturday half holidays during the summer would be justified only by the employees working the 48 hours between Monday morning and Saturday noon, and would recommend that this matter be left to each department to arrange through its superintendents and with its employees. Signed by Selectmen for Highway Dept., Skillings for Water and Sewer Board Winde for Cemetery board, Symmes for Tree Warden, Jones for Board of Health and Belcher for Chairman of Joint Boards.

The meeting having become somewhat tangled up, Mr. John H. Carter entered on the task of straightening matters out, by asking that the report be laid on the table pending the reading of the report of the Warrant Committee on the various articles in the warrant. This was done, and at the conclusion the report of the town departments on the minimum wage was taken from the table and the following substitute motion was offered by Mr. Kerr:

Voted, That all boards of the Town of Winchester pay a minimum wage of $2 25 per day of 8 hours, and a half holiday on Saturday without loss of pay.

On motion of Mr. W. L. Richards the following was added at the end of the vote:

"From the first Saturday in June until the last Saturday in August inclusive in each year."

There followed a long discussion pro and con, and when the question was finally threshed out, Mr. Kerr's motion was substituted and passed by the vote of —Yes 216, no 77. An attempt was made to use the check list, but this was voted down.

Consider Reports of Town Officers.

Mr. James W. Russell, jr., for the Warrant committee, presented the following vote which was carried:

That the town instruct the warrant committee to consider such reports of town officers or special committees as shall be submitted to it in writing and to report recommendations thereon.

GET-TOGETHER PICNIC.

The plans for the Get-Together Picnic of all the protestant Sunday schools and churches of Winchester by the joint committee, representing all the churches, are fast getting into shape. This is the right time of the year to get together and this is the way it can best be accomplished. If the fine weather continues we shall have a fine day of it, and every one should make an effort to go.

The committee consider Nantasket Beach the best place for a large picnic particularly for the children as the nature of the beach and the environment in general makes safety certain, thus making it much less care and worry for all concerned. There is ample shelter both from rain and the hot sun as there are many covered piazzas and pavilions. Also there are tables and benches for our use at lunch time. Everybody will be well entertained as there is such a big variety of amusements, some at 5c per, and many more as free as the sunlight and bracing air.

The Nantasket Beach line of steamers is most excellent and the convenience and safety in transportation is superior to a long tiresome trolley or train ride. The steamers are rated to carry from 1400 to 2200 passengers and hence there will be no danger of overcrowding and especially so, as we take an early boat (9.20 a. m) and the rush begins later (10.20 and 11.20 a. m.). Returning we will use the 4.40 boat, while the rush begins at 5.20 and 6 20. The sail down through the harbor will begin and close a day of wholesome pleasure. The special train facilities and the quick transfer via Elevated South Station Shuttle are all well planned—you will be on board the steamer ere you realize it.

The program of sports will be announced in all the churches on Sunday.

The committees in charge of the picnic are as follows:

The special will leave Winchester Highlands at 8.21, Winchester at 8.23, Wedgemere at 8.25. We will arrive in Boston at 8.38, leaving elevated station (using new entrance) by 8.45, arriving at Rowes Wharf by 8.55.

Tickets have been distributed among all the Sunday Schools, and all teachers and others who have taken tickets to sell should make their returns on Sunday. Tickets will be on sale at Parker and Lanes office, Main street, until Sunday. For the convenience of any who may want to join us, tickets may be secured of the treasurer of the joint committee, Mr. F. E. H. Heath, at the R. R. Station from 8 to 8.15 o'clock on Monday. For all 12 years and older the fare is 60c round trip. All under 12 and over 5 fare is 30c.

Should the 17th be a rainy day the "no school" signal will be given on the fire alarm at 7.30 a. m. and tickets will be good on the 22nd, Saturday, as picnic will take place on that day.

Chairman of Joint Committee.

All who wish to enter in the various sports at the Get-together Picnic June 17 should confer with Mr. Fred B. Jordan chairman of Committee on Athletics and entertainment. The committee have secured the exclusive use, for the day of the base ball grounds at Rockland House; there will be plenty of room for games, sports and spectators. There will be base ball games between boys of the churches, and a girls game. Various running races, three legged races, tug of war, girls races and fat-men races; also races and games for the smaller children.

Fred B. Jordan, Chairman of Committee on Athletics and Entertainment.

BRUNDAGE—WEBER.

Miss Margaret Patterson Weber, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Love-joy Weber, and Proffessor Harry LeRoy Brundage of Kalamazoo, Mich., were quietly married at the First Congregational Church on Tuesday evening at 7.30 o'clock by Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon. The church was decorated simply, daisies being used about the altar and pews. The couple were unattended. Mrs Irene Osborne Grant presided at the organ. The bride was gowned in a dress of white silk, trimmed with white lace, and her veil was caught with a spray of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of brides roses and lillies of the valley.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the residence, No. 8 Ridgeway, attended by about seventy-five. The couple were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Weber and Mr. and Mrs. Ozial W. Brundage of Kalamazoo, Mich., the parents of the groom. The decorations at the house carried out the idea of a daisy wedding, that flower being used exclusively. Aiding in presenting the guests to the newly married couple were Miss Frances Elder, Mr. David Witmer, Mr. Gordon Parker, Mr. Kenneth Pond and Mr. Harold Fultz.

Mr. and Mrs. Brundage will make their home for the present in Kalamazoo, Mich.

KIMBERLY—DUNN.

On Wednesday, June 5th, at the Chapel of St. Cornelius the Centurion, Governor's Island, New York Harbor, Lieutenant Allen Kimberly, Coast, Artillery Corps., Fort Monroe, Virginia, and Miss Stella Lucy Dunn, daughter of Lieut. Colonel and Mrs. Beverly W. Dunn of New York were united in marriage. Lieut Allen Kimberly is cousin of Mrs. Samuel S. Stevens of Pine street, Winchester, formerly of Virginia.

FETE AT AIGREMONT.

A Charming Spectacle by Winchester's Youth and Beauty.

Remembering the splendid success, both from an artistic and a social standpoint, of the production of "Pandora's Box," last June, on the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Oren Cheney Sanborn, all Winchester is eagerly looking forward to another "Fete at Aigremont," which will be presented on the evening of Thursday, June 20, under the direction of Miss Mary Kellogg.

The program this year will include three numbers. The first will be the "Dance of the Playmates" from "Pandora's Box," the second is entitled "Triptych," which will be presented in three pictures representing "Dawn," "Noon" and "Twilight." Miss Kellogg has a solo dance in this. The third number will be "The Blue Danube," danced by a company of 50 girls, with solos by Miss Chamberlain, Miss Caroline Baxter, Miss Lillian Harrington and Miss Kellogg.

Those who witnessed the production last year were surprise and delighted at the clever work of the young women and little children who participated in the dances, and were overjoyed to learn that the whole spectacle, the arrangement of the pantomime and the dances which interpreted the story of the various scenes, was the work of a Winchester young woman, Miss Mary Kellogg.

Those who will take part are as follows:—

Much interest is being shown in the out-door entertainment to be given at Mrs. O. C. Sanborn's on Thursday, June 20th, and she reports a large advance sale of tickets for reserved seats.

The management would be glad to have early application from those who wish admission tickets, as it will not be convenient to sell them at the entrance of the grounds on the evening of the performance.

The number of admisison tickets is strictly limited and no one will be admitted to the grounds without a ticket.

The dances will begin at 8.45 o'clock as it will not be sufficiently dark to get proper lighting effects earlier than that, but there will be a program of musical numbers during the earlier part of the evening by members of the Winchester Orchestral Association, conducted by Mr. Joshua Phippen.

In case of unpleasant weather on June 20th the performance will be given on the first pleasant evening thereafter. Autos and carriages may be called at 10 30 o'clock.

Owners of estates on High street, out of courtesy to Mrs. Sanborn and Miss Kellogg, request that no spectators occupy positions on their grounds during the performance. Tickets may be obtained of Mrs. O. C. Sanborn, tel. 120 Winchester; also at Herrick's Ticket Agency in Boston, where they may be obtained at the regular prices; thus the kindness of Mr. Herrick who offered to handle the sale of them without the usual premium for such services.

BASE BALL.

The Winchester Town Team will have the fast Northwesterns of Somerville for opponents next Saturday at 3 30 p. m. on Manchester field. The Northwesterns are playing a fast game, having won most all their games so far this season. They held the strong Reading team to a 2-1, ten inning game last Saturday. Monday, June 17th at 3.30 p.m. Winchester will have the strong Bay Views of South Boston for opponents. This team is playing a fast game and Winchester will have to play fast ball to win out. So far this season Winchester is playing faster ball than last season and looks good to beat 1911's record of games won. To date they have won six straight games against strong teams. This year the expense of putting on each game has increased considerable over last year and it is hoped that the people of Winchester will attend the games in large numbers and be liberal when the hat is passed around so that the management can at least pay expenses. If not the team will be forced to play away from home, where expenses will be assured.

Winchester 4—Winthrop 1.

The Winchester base ball club journeyed down to Winthrop last Saturday and defeated the strong Winthrop K. of C. by a score of 4 to 1. It was a fast and clean fielding game, not a score being made until the eighth inning, when a single and a double scored the first run for Winchester. In the first half of the ninth Winchester bunched four nice clean hits which produced 3 more runs. Winthrop scored one in the last inning on a couple of hits and an error. Morrissey for Winchester, and Anthony for Winthrop both pitched fine ball. Winchester got in 12 safe hits to Winthrop's eight.

The score:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

The Board Acts Upon Many Petitions and Orders.

June 11, 1912.

The board met at 7.45 p. m. Messrs. Pond, Belcher, Jewett and Pike present.

The records of meetings June 3rd and 7th, were read and approved.

The town engineer submitted a report recommending one incandescent light to be installed at the junction of Pickering street and North Sheridan circle, also one in North Sheridan circle, at a point between Pickering street and Main street. The locations suggested shown on a plan presented with the report; and the report was accepted so far as it related to the light on the corner of Pickering street and North Sheridan circle; a preference was expressed that the light be placed on the corner opposite to that shown on the plan, subject however to the judgment of the engineer and the clerk was instructed to order the light installed.

The town engineer reported favorably on the petition of the Edison Electric Illuminating Co., for permission to attach its wires and fixtures to a pole of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co., on Main street, about 100 ft. north of Lake street, and the usual location order was passed.

The town counsel reported on the petition of Fred B. Jordan that the town cover the dram on town's right of way across his property, presented May 20th, that money of the town cannot be spent for this improvement of Mr. Jordan's property any more than for any other private purpose. The clerk was instructed to notify Mr. Jordan that without prejudice to any request he may make that he be allowed to cover the brook upon his land without expense to the town, the board are of the opinion that the town may not properly incur any expense for covering the brook and that no action should be taken that will in any way diminish the right of the town to drain over his land.

The town counsel reported on the right of the board to regulate the service of the Street Railway Company, that they may be properly required to run cars with sufficient frequency to adequately serve the public; that the original locations were accepted on the express condition that the companies "shall run their cars once in each and every half hour each way over the whole route from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. daily, and as much oftener as the Selectmen may from time to time direct," and the counsel considered that a reasonable application of this condition was now enforceable; and the letter was referred to the committee on Public Service Corporations.

An application was received for license for an intelligence office from Hannah C. Reardon, residence Mt. Vernon street, rear of Christian Science Church, approved by the Chief of Police; and the same was granted subject to the payment of the usual fee of $2.

Divison of pay roll for week ending June 8, 1912, was received and filed from the Superintendent of Street:

Town stable	$74.09
Cleaning streets	55.80
Mason street trench	196.28
Sewer trench, Swanton street	22.67
Gas trench, Washington street	51.11
Water trench, Swanton street	2.25
Repairs, Swanton street	2.53
No. 3 oil sand	5.06
Placing school danger signs, automobile	12.62
Stevens street	117.81
Lake street bridge	.70
Tool boxes	4.55
	$545.55

A letter was received from Amelia H. Pond, corner of Cambridge and High streets, calling attention to a cable wire which had been recently stretched across the land and claiming that the result was unsightly and detrimental to her property, and asking that measures be taken to have the wire removed; also directing attention to a post of the Bay State Street Railway Company on the High street sidewalk which is decaying and will soon be dangerous to the public. The town engineer reported that he had investigated the complaint and found the conditions as described; that the Bay State Street Railway Co. had promised to remove the pole in question and that he would again take the matter up with them. Other possible arrangements of the cable were discussed with the Engineer and the matter was referred to him for further investigation and report.

A request was received from Mrs. Charles Sanborn, Church street, corner of Norwood, that the automobile sign in front of her residence be removed, and the clerk was instructed to reply that the automobile signs had been placed in various parts of the town for the protection of the school children in locations selected by the school board, and that the selectmen would be very glad to authorize any change in location which is recommended by the school board and suggesting that she take the matter up with that board.

SERIOUS AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT.

A serious automobile accident occurred on Sunday on Main street at the head of Mystic avenue. The occupants of the auto, which was of the light runabout type, were quite badly injured, the driver, William Gratz of Roxbury, receiving severe cuts about the head, and his companion, Miss Mary Kelley of Boston, being badly bruised.

According to stories of the accident the driver intended to turn down Mystic avenue, and as the touring car of Hon. Samuel J. Elder was approaching he attempted to turn ahead of it, mistaking the entrance drive to the Thomas W. Lawson estate for the street. Just as the car reached the sidewalk Gratz saw his mistake and turned sharply. The sudden turn caused the wheels to skid into the sidewalk curbing, overturning the car. When reached, Gratz was pinned beneath the wreck, Miss Kelley being thrown clear.

William Gonegan, the Elder chauffeur, immediately stopped and went to the assistance of Gratz, and Dr. Clarence E. Ordway was summoned from his home opposite. Fearing a fracture of the skull Dr. Ordway ordered Gratz removed to the Mass. Gen. Hospital in Kelley's auto ambulance. Miss Kelley was attended and taken to her home in the Elder car, which was occupied by Miss Frances Elder. The accident occurred shortly before five o'clock.

It was necessary to take twenty-six stitches in Gratz's scalp, but later reports were that he was expected to recover from the accident.

CHILDREN'S SUNDAY.

A very attractive program has been arranged for the Children's Sunday Concert at the Unitarian Church this coming Sunday. It will be found well worthy of a large attendance, and the order of service will be as follows:

GRADUATION WEEK.

On Sunday evening, June fifteenth, Rev. Joel Metcalf of the Unitarian Church will preach at a union service to be held in the High School Assembly Hall at 7 o'clock. The sermon will be addressed particularly to the High School class of 1912, but it will, doubtless, be of interest to many others. All who wish to come will be welcomed. Children must be accompanied by adults.

The graduating exercises will be held in the Town Hall as follows:

High School, Tuesday evening, June 18, 1912, at eight o'clock; Wadleigh School, Friday evening, June 21, 1912, at eight o'clock.

A cordial invitation is extended to all friends of the schools to attend on both evenings. A portion of the hall will be reserved for the immediate families of the graduating classes, otherwise seats will be open to those who wish to come, except that children must be accompanied by adults.

The program for each evening will be about one hour and a half in length and, it is believed, will be interesting to all who remember their school days as well as to those who know the young people who will then receive their diplomas.

The doors will be opened at seven-thirty. The seats reserved, as noted above, will be held till seven-fifty only, when they will be filled, and the exercises will begin promptly at eight.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

One of the smallest of the little girls in a family had often assisted her mother in preparing the meals. She observed that her mother, who was rather hasty, always talked to herself when she had any difficulty in opening cans of vegetables. The little girl thought that the hastiness was a part of the operation. One day she was visiting a neighbor and went into the kitchen to help prepare a meal. She watched the neighbor take a can of corn, apply the opener and remove the top. "That's not the way to open a can of corn," said the little girl. "Why, what other way is there?" asked the neighbor. "Well, you take the can of corn and then to open it, you bear down and the opener slips. Then you say 'Darn this can,' and finish it. That's the way my mother opens a can of corn."

It was the ambition of The Spectator to become a minister of the gospel before he took up the honorable profession of journalism. The poor pay of ministers was one of the reasons for The Spectator abandoning the idea of entering the ministry. Why, a professional ball player gets more money than a preacher and a ball player only has to work five months in the year! It strikes The Spectator as strange that railroad monopolies and "soulless corporations," as they are classed, making preparations for the future welfare of their old and faithful servants, and the church teaching the doctrine of Jesus Christ is disobeying its own teachings, and permitting their aged and faithful servants to end their existence in distresses. If there is any organization which should see to it that these old and faithful should be cared for, it is the Church of Christ.

The fresh air fad, if it be a fad, seems to be growing; more and more is there emphasis being placed upon having in the rooms in which we work plenty of fresh air, and also having our bedrooms furnished with many windows, all of which shall be wide open. The contrast between this and the olden time when the windows of the bedrooms were expected to be fast closed, or open just a crack is very marked. The old fashioned fear of the draft is also vanishing, for here comes a celebrated English physician who says that people do not catch cold in drafts any more than they do in a breeze which is blowing out doors. It is the stuffy room which produces the cold, he say. The Spectator is glad to see that the majority of the people here in Winchester are firm believers in the fresh air idea. In our climate the dreaded disease is tuberculosis. And there need never be tuberculosis, if people have good food, plenty of light and pure, fresh air, with especial emphasis upon the last.

A gentleman—a large employer of labor—gives The Spectator to understand that it is the desire of the young people who come out of our schools to secure some light employment, where they can have easy hours and where they may not be forced to soil their hands. The gentleman says young people have called upon him and asked for employment which is impossible. They want the high positions before they have served any apprenticeship in lower places and before they are competent to fill the places to which they aspire. The lesson the young people should learn is to begin at the bottom and work up. And there are just as many opportunities to do this now as there ever were when the right young man gets started towards the top of the ladder.

One Winchester lady of The Spectator's acquaintance cultivates peanut plants. She bought five cents worth of fresh peanuts and planted a few kernels in a box of loose mellow earth. They were kept in a rather warm place and watered moderately. The kernels soon sprouted, and the plants grew quickly. As the foliage spreads gracefully over the box the lady was suprised to find how very beautiful the plants are. Indeed, florists grow them for sale. They are well worth the small care they require, and the plant has more interesting habits that sharp eyed people will enjoy watching. The Spectator is going to let the youthful member of his household take up the experiment on a small scale.

Husbands are so different from other men. For instance, a Winchester wife said to her husband recently, "How the wind blows!" and he grunted and said, "Did you ever know the wind to do anything else?" That is just it. Before she was married to him, he probably would have had no end of nice things to say in reply.

The Spectator.

Newsy Paragraphs.

Mr. and Mrs. James Nowell are spending the summer at Rivermoor.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Snyder of Sheffield road are at their summer home at Marblehead Neck, where they will remain until September.

The city of Medford is planning a celebration on July 4th on a large scale, and it is reported that the events will include a competitive meet on the river at the rear of the Armory between the Medford, Winchester and Dedham canoe clubs. A handsome bronze trophy is offered the winning club in addition to three medals in all one man events and first medals only all other events. Each club is limited to three entries in each event. The list of events follows: Tail-end, tip-over, hurry scurry, rescue race, tandem gunwale, Medford special (tandem, standing club four, and paddle four, relay race (3 men), tilting.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Merrill have been spending the past ten days at Hawthorne Inn, East Gloucester.

Due to the cold, stormy spring, many men have kept putting off the buying of their summer clothing, and now hot weather is upon us great demands are made for something light and cool. There is little or no bother with the "Ready-to-wear" clothing and yet the spring and summer offerings of Messrs. A. Shuman & Co., Boston are quite as smart and well-fitting as the most particular man can wish. They were never in better readiness to supply every need and desire. Their large display adverisement in this issue is worth your careful consideration.

Mr. William Armstrong of Cambridge, formerly of this town has purchased land on Fells road and will erect a home on it.

The closing exercises of the year at Miss Josephine Wingate's Private Kindergarten were held at 8 Stratford road on Friday last. The exercises, games and songs by the little ones were very interesting. The children of the school were Lawrence Carhart, George Kramer, Robert Miller, Woodbury Saunder, Elizabeth Underwood, first-grade scholars; Frederick Alexander, Richard Barnard, Margaret Comins, Charlotte Healy, Ruth Hovey, Jack Lewis, Robert Putnam and Virginia Robinson of the Kindergarten Department. The exercises were led by Miss Josephine Wingate and her assistant, Miss Oriana Wingate.

When Israel Zangwill was an obscure youth teaching in a Jewish school in London he sent a short poem to a leading American monthly. It came back by an early post. He kept it, and after he had achieved fame as a writer he sent the same poem to the same magazine. This time he received a cable from the editor offering to buy the "world rights" for a large sum The poem was the same, word for word.

WINCHESTER BOY ORDAINED.

A meeting of the Permanent Advisory Council was held at the Melrose Baptist Church Monday at 3 p. m., at which Mr. Chester Underhill, a former well known Winchester boy, was ordained to the ministry. Mr. Underhill united with the local Baptist Church in early years. He is a graduate of William Jewell College, Liberty, Missouri, and is now a student of Newton Theological Institution. For some time he has been supplying the pulpit of the Weymouth Baptist Church, and now has accepted a call to the pastorate. During much of his college course he was preaching in and around Kansas City with great acceptability. For a time he was assistant pastor of the local Church, and later was instrumental in organizing a new church in the suburbs of the city. He is a young man of marked ability, and of whom the church has reason to be proud. The Rev. Arthur L. Winn and the Pastor represented the local church in the council.

TRYING TO FORM LEAGUE WITH WOBURN AND WINCHESTER.

"Billy" Marshall, a well known Woburn boy, now employed and living in Beverly, was in Woburn last week with a couple of representatives of the United Shoe Machinery company baseball team, trying to form a league to include both Woburn teams, Winchester, the United team and possibly one other, the games to commence immediately after July 4th.

A purse for the teams finishing first and second will be offered, and each team will play four games with each other team. Manager Murray of the All Woburns, expressed a willingness to play, if a satisfactory arrangement for the use of Library park can be made. The manager of the Winchester nine and Manager Rupp of North Woburn have not decided to enter as yet. "Cute" Higgins is now pitching for the United Shoe team, and a series of games with local nines and the Beverly team would be doubly interesting with "Cute" pitching against his old team mates. —[Woburn News.

A meeting of the People's League will be held Saturday evening in the High School Building to act on the report of the committee on new constitution and to make plans for next season.

IMPORTANT DOCUMENTS.

The Farmers' Bulletins issued by the Department of Agriculture are doubtless the most popular of all the publications of the government, and no doubt would prove of much interest and instruction to the readers of the STAR.

The great interest shown by many of Congressman McCall's constituents in the so called Farmer's Bulletins issued by the Department of Agriculture has led him to think that they would appeal still more widely to the people of the District, if the matter were brought to their attention. These Bulletins are intended not only for the farmer or gardener but for the citizens and householder in general. They are in fact a series of popular treatises, and are of equal value to the dweller in the city and in the suburbs. They cover a wide range of subjects, but the titles of a few will serve to illustrate their scope:

The Home Fruit Garden.
Fish as Food.
Economic Use of Meat in the Home.
Bread and Bread Making.
Beautifying the Home Grounds.
Habit-Forming Agents.
Harmfulness of Headache Mixtures.
The School Garden.
Some Common Birds.
Poultry Management.
House Flies.
How a City Family Managed a Farm.

Mr. McCall will take pleasure in sending to anyone who will apply to him a list of the Bulletins from which a selection may be made. Requests should be addressed to Hon. S. W. McCall, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

BASE BALL.

In an uninteresting game, a team representing the Winchester Highlands Athletic Club were defeated by the Stoneham A. A. at the Highlands, last Saturday afternoon, by a score of 14 to 1. For the visitors, B. McPartlan played a wonderful all-around game, getting six hits for nine total bases in six times at bat, and making two put outs and two assists. With proper support Murphy would have held the opponent to a few runs, Chapin caught a great game behind the bat.

The summary:

	ab	r	h	b	po	a	e
S. A. A.	46	14	15	20	27	9	5

SINGLE COPIES, FIVE CENTS.

A predicted $19 tax rate will not prove to be a good advertisement for Winchester.

The town employees were entitled to an increase of wages. The high cost of living bears as heavy on them as on all other people.

Today is Flag Day and the 135th anniversary of the adoption by Congress of the Betsy Ross flag as the national emblem of the United States. Old Glory is generously displayed.

According to the Town Warrant Committee, the new minimum wage scale and the Saturday half holiday for town employees means a yearly fixed charge on the town of about $5000.

This is the time of the year when cats live on robins or any birds that they can catch. Many persons are shocked at the spectacle of the slaughter of robins that is going on daily by the cats. If a man is caught shooting these birds he is arrested and heavily fined, but there is no law to punish a cat for killing them. A substantial license fee would put an end to many of these roving cats and thus preserve the lives of the beautiful songsters that contribute so much to the pleasures of suburban life.

It should be made known to the voters of the town who were not present at the last two sessions of the Town Meeting that positive danger confronts the town at this time through their absence and the activity of a meeting packed against its own selectmen who at the March meeting were positively instructed to do certain things and are now refused proper means to carry out those instructions. It may be a fair question whether the town's interests will suffer or gain, but matters important enough to bring before a Town Meeting are for the judgement of all the voters and not a part of them. The danger to the town lies in the uneven representation afforded by the membership present June 10 and 13. It has been said that votes were cast June 10 on the wage question by some not entitled to vote. If this is proven, the legality of that vote is clouded and reconsideration may be necessary to set it right. The check list was used Thursday night and the attendance in the west gallery was noticeably increased thereby. The Town Meeting now stands adjourned to Wednesday, June 19, at which and at any adjournment thereof many important matters are to be presented; and we hope those voters of the town who have not been in the habit of using that privilege, will be present at this one, even at some personal sacrifice, in order that the real sense of the town may be expressed in its votes. It is meeting night with many of our churches, but it does seem that where the interests of the town are at stake preference may be given to the Town Meeting, at least next week, and spiritual matters yield temporarily to the immediate, pressing needs of civic affairs.

HOUSE BURNED DOWN.

The Morton house on Holton street, just over the Woburn line off Cross street, was practically burned to the ground Monday noon. Considerable delay in giving the alarm to the Winchester fire department rendered any attempt to save the place practically useless, the firemen saving what interior fittings they could. The blaze started in an ell and practically the whole house was leveled.

According to report the cause of the fire was building a fire in the kitchen stove with pine boughs, the heat of the fire causing the partition where the stove pipe entered the wall to ignite. Mrs. Morton was in the garden, the fire being built by her mother. The women, aided by several men attempted first to put the blaze out themselves, using water from a well. As their efforts were unsuccessful an attempt was made to phone the Woburn department, but in some way this failed. The Winchester department was then called.

Owing to the driver being at dinner the Winchester steamer did not respond with the rest of the apparatus, and as the house was about 2100 feet from the nearest hydrant the firemen could do nothing until its arrival; while waiting they tried to hold the flames in check with hand chemicals. This proved futile, and later when the steamer did arrive the long distance necesasry to pump the water caused the hose to burst continuously, so that it was not of much use. The second alarm which was rung in was not to summon the steamer, as many supposed, but was rung by some one unknown from the box.

Much of the furnishings was saved by the firemen, and it is said that had the new auto chemical been in commission the house could have easily been saved. The place is well known to residents of the Highlands. The flames could be seen from all parts of the town and a large crowd was attracted to the scene.

SELECTMEN'S IMEETING.

vote of the town meeting, held June 10 1912, the minimum wage of employees in the highway department is hereby fixed at $2.25 per day from and after June 10, 1912, and that said employees be allowed a Saturday half holiday each week without loss of pay from the present time to the last Saturday in August inclusive.

In the matter of the Cambridge street alterations, a letter was received from Thomas J. Robinson, Town Clerk, relative to installation of proposed drainage opposite property of Mr. Stephen Langley, and stating that the matter was considered by the Joint Board of Selectmen, and the Board of Public Works of Arlington, and that Arlington is ready to furnish and lay the necessary pipe and connection within the limits of the Town of Arlington at their own expense; it being their judgment that the Town of Winchester should then construct and connect a sufficient number of catch basins therewith to take care of the storm water tributary to this point in the Town of Winchester, and that the details of the whole proposition be left to the discretion of Mr. Hinds and Mr. Pond. The clerk was directed to acknowledge reciept of the letter and reply that the plan met with the approval of this board, and that the town engineer has been instructed to act accordingly.

Voted:—That the town engineer be and he is hereby instructed to prepare specifications for the work outside of the highway, caused by the Cambridge street widening ordered by the County Commissioners.

Mr. Jewett of the Highway Committee reported that the Town Enigneer and himself had met Mr. Wentworth in regard to the discharge of the gutters from the Wentworth Building; that Mr. Wentworth had agreed to collect the water inside the building, the town to carry it across the street and connect it with the drain on the other side. Mr. Wentworth to deposit enough money with the town to cover the estimated cost of digging the trench and doing the street work. Mr. Wentworth will do the work on the inside of the building himself, leaving Mr. Edwards to represent him and Mr. Hinds to represent the town. The Town Engineer was instructed to carry the work through on that basis.

Mr. Jewett for the Fire Engineers reported that John J. Gorman was to be sent to Springfield to learn to operate the automobile chemical recently purchased by the town, and it would be necessary to provide for his expenses while away. It was voted that the Town Treasurer be requested to make an advance to the Board of Fire Engineers, to be accounted for later.

The clerk was requested to ask the Metropolitan Park Commission to allow the town the use of the bandstand on Manchester Field, July 4, 1912.

On the recommendation of the Committee on Police, who reported that James P. Donaghey, had passed the Civil Service examination, it was voted that James P. Donaghey of 5 Sheridan circle, Winchester, is hereby appointed patrolman for a probationary period of six months from July 1, 1912.

A petition was received from the Bay State Street Railway Co., for permission to extend, alter and relocate its tracks as follows:—

On Forest street in said Winchester, to alter and relocate from Highand avenue to Stoneham Line, and to extend westerly its turnout on said Forest street about one hundred feet; all substantially as shown on its road department's plan numbered L-3878.

Also to extend turnouts as follows:

On Church street, near Cambridge street, about 100 feet, westerly, on Main street between Glenwood avenue and Sheridan circle, northerly about 200 feet, on Main street between Church street, and Vine street, northerly about 300 ft. between Prospect and Mt. Pleasant streets, northerly not to exceed 400 feet, all substantially as shown on plans to be filed for the hearing to be held; together with such switches, curves and cross connections as may be necessary or convenient for the operation of the cars of said company.

And to erect, place, maintain and use such poles, wires and other appliances as are usual and necessary in the overhead trolley system of street car propulsion, and to propel cars by such system over the said tracks with electricity as the motive power, or to use such other motive power as the laws of this Commonwealth permit and the Board of Selectmen shall from time to time approve, and to make such underground and surface alterations in the ways through which these extensions, alterations and relocations are granted as may be necessary.

The petition was referred to the Town Engineer and hearings on same were ordered, as follows:

On the Forest and Church street locations, Saturday, June 29, 1912, at 9 o'clock a. m.

On the Main street locations, July 6, 1912, at 9 o'clock a. m., and the clerk was instructed to advertise the hearings by two publications of notice in the Winchester STAR.

George L. Locke, of Ridge street asked that the sign board near the Arlington Line be repaired and the matter was referred to the Committee on Highways.

A hearing was held on the petition of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company, presented May 20th, for a location for 38 poles on High street, easterly from Ridge street. The town engineer approved the location and recommended that the petition be granted subject to any changes which may be advisable to order made in the future when the street is thoroughly constructed. The clerk reported that all abutters have been notified.

Mr. James W. Dudley, representing Julia Dudley owning a frontage of about 3,000 feet appeared in opposition to the petition objecting to two lines of poles on said street, and claiming that the erection of an additional line would be a damage to the property.

Charles H. Herrick, appeared in opposition to the granting of the petition on the ground that it was not necessary to establish two lines of poles on the street, one line being already in existence, and it being practicable to run the lines of the Electric Light Company on the present poles.

The town engineer was present and explained the plans which accompained the petition.

E. P. Sellow, representing the Mills estate, appeared but made no objection to the granting of the petition. The hearing was then closed.

A hearing was held on the petition of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company, presented May 20th, for a location for 51 poles on Ridge street, beginning at a point about 520 feet from the Arlington line and running north-easterly. The town engineer approved the location and recommended that the petition be granted subject to any changes which may be advisable to order made in the future when the street is thoroughly constructed. The clerk reported that all abutters have been notified.

Thomas M. Hutchinson appeared in opposition to the petition on the ground that the poles would be unsightly and of no benefit to him or his neighbors, but stated that he had understood that the granting of the petition would entail expense on the abutters. It was explained to him that no expense of any sort would be chargeable to the abuttors, whereupon he said that his objection was lessened in some degree.

George L. Locke, appeared in support of the petition as an abutter, and the hearing was declared closed.

Warrants were drawn for $3280.19 and $1601.24.

Adjourned at 10.10 p. m.

Frank R. Miller
Clerk of the Board.

The next meeting of the board is appointed for June 18th.

The Board will open their session to the public each meeting night at 8 and 8.30 to hear any citizens who may desire to present matters in person.

Blank forms for petitions or other applications have been prepared by the Selectmen, and may be had at the Town Clerk's office; also at the STAR office, or will be mailed by the Clerk of the Selectmen on request.

MAKECHNIE RECITAL.

Many suburban families of the northern and western suburbs were represented at the tenth recital of the Makechnie violin school which was held in Huntington Chambers Hall, Boston, on Tuesday evening. The director, Ernst Makechnie, of 238 Elm street, West Somerville, formerly supervisor of music at Winchester and now president of the Massachusetts state teacher's federation, was assisted at the piano by Miss Adelaide Proctor and in the orchestra by W. H. W. Bicknell, conductor of the Winchester symphony orchestra. The string orchestra rendered Wurmb's Serenade while the full orchestra performed Lavallee's "Bridal Rose," Caryll's waltz "The Pink Lady" and Rollinson's march, "The Skirmish Line." The enthusiasm of the audience showed appreciation of Mr. Makechnie's system of instruction which is based on private lessons combined with class or orchestral lessons, its distinguishing features being the completeness and thoroughness with which the pupils' general musical culture is promoted. It was seen that under this system artistic violin playing, quickness in sight reading, and a definite knowledge of the essential facts of musical notation are developed simultaneously.

A Winchester pupil who had a part on the programme was Selena Coburn, who played Thomas' "Simple Aveu." After the performance a flashlight was taken of the whole orchestra.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

A large audience enjoyed the Children's Day Concert given last Sunday morning at the Methodist Episcopal Church. The church was trimmed with flags and flowers. It being the 135th anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes, the pastor, Rev. L. William Adams gave an address on the meaning of "Our Flag."

The annual memorial service of the I. O. O. F. was held in their rooms Sunday at 3 p. m., the address was given by the Rev. L. William Adams, who spoke on the "Middle Link of Oddfellowship."

Wednesday afternoon Rev. L William Adams officiated at the funeral service of his former parishioner, Mrs. U. B Campbell, at Malden.

CARD OF THANKS.

I desire to express my thanks to the friends of my mother, Mrs. Betsy Squires, for the many kindnesses shown during her sickness and for their sympathy and helpfulness at her death.

School Athletics.

On motion of Mr. Marcus B. May the following vote was passed:

Voted, It is the sense of the meeting that the School Committee be advised to employ a supervisor of athletics for the High School and to pay a salary not to exceed $600 therefore out of the school appropriation.

High School Pupils.

Mr. Tuck offered a motion, which was voted down, that a committee of three be appointed to inquire why so many children were not allowed to continued their studies in the High School. Mr. M. B. May, of the School committee, said that the board would welcome any investigation that the meeting might choose to make.

New Street.

Selectman Daly then called the attention of the meeting to a plan for the layout of a new street from Mt. Vernon street at the Christian Science Church along the shores of the pond over land of Mr. Skillings and Mr. Lynam to Nelson street to cost $3200. He believed that it was a wise undertaking and he hoped that the Selectman would be instructed to lay it out. This street, he said, would be independent of any other street that might be built across the pond.

Mr. Parkhurst, in this connection offered the following vote:

Voted, That it is the sense of this meeting that the Board of Selectmen should lay out a town way from Mt. Vernon street to Nelson street near the shore of the Aberjona River and the pond, substantially as shown by a plan drawn by D. W. Pratt, civil engineer, provided that this can be done by agreement with the land owners, or otherwise, so that the land damages, after deducting betterments, if any, shall not exceed the sum of thirty-two hundred dollars ($3200).

Mr. George T. Davidson claimed that this proposed street in no manner solved the long-mooted question of a street across the pond to the Plains. It was simply a street around a part of the shore of the pond and would benefit but few people. Also that it would deprive the town of $3000 of taxable property, and he favored laying the matter over until it could be looked into further.

Mr. John H. Carter, thought that the project had come before the town too suddenly and that time should be given for consideration.

Mr. Whitney also agreed with Mr. Davidson in that it in no way would answer the requirements of a street across the pond.

The Warrant Committee favored holding the question up until the Kelloway plan for improving the ponds and stream had been worked out.

The street was favored by Mr. Fred Joy, C. J. Allen and others. The hour becoming late the matter was laid on the table, when the meeting adjourned to Thursday evening.

Adjourned Meeting.

The second session of the special meeting was held last evening, there being a good attendance to met the increase in wages because of the minimum wage and the Saturday half holidays. $500 was voted for maintenance of town stable, $3200 for ways and bridges and $500 for cemetery maintenance. The Selectmen asked for $15,000 in addition to what was appropriated at the March meeting for ways and bridges but this was cut down to $5000, $2000 of which is to be used for granolithic sidewalk work.

The Selectmen also asked for $2000 for the purpose of securing an expert engineer and for the expenses of other work connected with the grade crossing abolition. This was rejected by the vote of 104 to 146. Thereupon $1000 was asked for and this was carried, 119 to 108. The discussion over this question consumed much time, opening up as it did the entire matter and when finished, the hour being late, the meeting adjourned to Wednesday evening, June 19.

A DELIGHTFUL SAIL FOR 1 CENT A MILE.
Rich in historic interest, famous for its fish industries, quaint old buildings, savory fish dinners, Provincetown, situated at the apex of Cape Cod, is ever a delightful place to visit. Situated by road 120 miles from Boston, the trip by boat is only 50 miles.

Commencing Saturday, June 15, and running daily at 9 a. m., Sundays and holidays at 9.30 a. m., the iron steamship "Dorothy Bradford" carries hundreds of passengers to the shrine of the first landing place of the Pilgrims. Staunch, speedy, cleanly, equipped with every modern device for the comfort, convenience and safety of its passengers, the trip across Massachusetts Bay is certainly exhilarating. Passing here a fort, there an island, skirting the coast of the Pilgrims on the right and viewing the broad expanse of the grand old Atlantic on the left, the invigorating sea breezes whistling a welcome from the city's noise and dust and confusion and heat and hard pavements and sultry streets, a trip on the "Dorothy Bradford" to Provincetown is one which should often be taken. It should be a family affair, the joy of the children, rest for the tired mother, the over-worked father, the clerks of sedentary habits; in fact for all who need the diversion of a pleasant sail on the usually placid waters of Massachusetts Bay; One dollar covers the round trip.

PHILATHEA CLASS ENTERTAINED.
'Lucia's Lover," a three act play was successfully given Friday evening under the auspices of the young ladies of the Christian Endeavor and the Philathea class at the 2nd Congregational Church to a large and appreciative audience.

Following was the cast of characters:—
Polly Chandle, who loves cats, Ethel McLean
Mildred Chase, Alberta Seagrave
Katherine Stanton, Gladys Dearborn
Edith Lee, a southern girl (and) Mrs. Goldthwaite, a widow with an only son, Florence Plummer
Marcia Summers, a little older than the others, Pearl McLean
Lucia Lovering, a lovelorn lass, Leah McIntosh
Miss McGregor, teacher, Jean McLellan
Chauncey, an adopted child, The Cat

Miss Anita Bagge rendered piano solos between the acts and Miss Mabel Swan had charge of the candy table, and ice cream was also on sale.

"IMPOSSIBLE IMP."
On Wednesday evening, June 19th' six small girls will present a playette in White's Hall, proceeds to go toward Cutters Village Table at St. Mary's Lawn Party on June 29th.

"Impossible Imp" is a bright sketch in two acts and the parts are very well taken.

Cast of characters:
"Imp" properly Victorine, Katherine Trainor
Lady Rose Dunning, Irene Coty
Aunt Martha, who is deaf, Elizabeth Noonan
Mrs. Fairfax, Louise White
Peggy, a favorite servant, Leona Noonan
Molly, Lady Rose's, Little girl, Molly Poland

These ambitious amateurs have been working hard under the direction of Miss Frances T. Noonan and a pleasant evening is assured all who will attend.

A CORRECTION.
EDITOR OF THE STAR:

In the last issue of the STAR, there was a letter to the Editor and this letter was called "A Contrast." It was a criticism of a cartoon that appeared in the Woman's Journal of April 27th. As the writer of this letter has failed to grasp the significance of this cartoon, and has failed to interpret it correctly, on behalf of the "Woman's Journal," I would like to make this correction.

The cartoon represents our government as a ship,—a ship called the "Ship of State,"—and this vessel is sailing through troubled and dangerous waters the waters being the dangers that our government must either face or steer clear of, dangers such as, disease, child-labor, saloons poverty, graft, white-slavery, sweat shops. In the distance is another ship—a ship coming to give its aid—and this ship is flying the "votes for Women" flag. And underneath the cartoon is written, "when women cannot vote, the ship of state is like the 'S.S. Titanic' with only half enough life-boats." The one and only significance being, that when women vote, when they help run the ship of state through the dangerous waters of our present day troubles, when they give their share of life-boats, the life-boats being their interest and co-operation in that half of the management of the ship of state that concerns women and their homes, and their children, then the ship will be equipped with the interest, the brain, the intelligence of the whole community and it is hoped, ready to fully meet the dangers of the voyage. And that is the only meaning of the cartoon. There is not the slightest suggestion in it, of the sinking of the "Titanic," that name was used, only to typify all ships that leave port without enough life-boats. And the assumption is preposterous that there is any contrast between the attitude of the "Woman's Journal" toward these men on the Titanic who nobly gave up their lives and that of the Massachusetts Association opposed to the further extension of Suffrage to Women.

People of every nation and color, of every sect and individual belief, have offered their tribute and reverence to the heroism of those men who gave their lives, that the women might be saved. And may women prove more worthy of this sacrifice by becoming nobler, broader-minded, and more helpful members of society.

TREMONT THEATRE.
There can be no doubt of the instant and enthusiastic success of the dainty English singing comedienne, Alice Lloyd, in "Little Miss Fix It" at the Tremont Theatre. The welcome extended this charming British visitor was indeed a warm one on Tuesday evening and has been duplicated at every performance since. Alice Lloyd's exquisite art as a singer of typical London music hall songs, together with her delightful good humor and clean comedy left no doubt as to the friendly place she immediately won in the hearts of Boston theatregoers. Her summer engagement here was started off with a flourish and the demands for seats for a fortnight or more ahead has been extremely brisk.

Grace Field, in some stunning frocks and with a personality that has made her role stand out as a pleasing feature, Almira Sessions, Grace Brown, Frederic Santley, James C. Lane, and Frank Shannon all work artistically together. There will be a special holiday matinee on Monday, June 17th, in addition to the regular matinee on Wednesday and Saturday.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.
The third week of "The Climax" begins at the Castle Square Monday afternoon with special holiday matinee. This original play with music has made an emphatic sensation ever since its first performance, and it promises to be a ruling summer attraction. Its heroine, a beautiful singer who finds her ambitions towards an operatic career interrupted by love, is astonishingly well played by Miss Florence Webber, who sings three solos, among them the famous "Song of the Soul," and there is expert pianoforte playing by Carney Christie.

Mr. Craig has gathered an excellent company for this production at the Castle Square. Donald Meek gives a fine character impersonation as old Golfantti, Mr. Christie acts the ardent younger Golfanti with youthful charm, and Thomas Fallon is the self satisfied physician to the life. There will be performances of "The Climax" every evening at the Castle Square, and matinees every day except Thursday.

SENATORSHIP POSSIBILITIES

Congressional Districts Also Afford Interesting Prospects

GOVERNOR AND LEGISLATURE

Sharp Criticism of Threats and Attempted Intimidation by Mr. Foss to Get His Bill Enacted

The United States senatorship is not unlikely to be complicated with the congressional situation in this state. At least two of the present Republican congressmen are likely to be candidates to succeed Senator Crane. These are Congressman John W. Weeks of the new Thirteenth district and Congressman Samuel W. McCall of the Eighth. While Congressman Weeks has not yet announced his candidacy his friends believe he intends to be in the field if the outlook seems favorable, they are inclined to think he will not be certain what his course of action is to be until after the national convention is held in Chicago. His course will not depend upon any other person's candidacy. Probably he will then announce his position. Mr. McCall is possibly in a similar frame of mind; he has not concealed his appreciation of the hope expressed by some of his friends that he would be a candidate for the senate. Congressman Gardner is also understood to be in the field for the senate if former Governor Guild is not. It is stated that he would be unwilling to run against Mr. Guild but that otherwise he would be in the field. 6-10

The position of Governor Guild at present is that he would be willing to stand as a candidate should there be a unanimous demand that he do so. So far as one may judge at the present time there is no probability of any unanimous call for anybody in this canvass. It has been thought to be within the possibilities that Mr. Guild might modify the statement of his position and not insist upon a unanimous demand.

Congressional Districts in the State

There are likely to be sharp contests for election in several of the congressional districts this fall. The redistricting of the state by the present legislature has formed many new alliances of cities and towns and districts and somewhat complicates the situation.

The Third district as now made up has lost the city of Worcester. Congressman Wilder, now serving in the Fourth district, is in the new Third. So far there is no probability of Republican opposition to Mr. Wilder, but Representative Frank H. Pope of Leominster is in the field for the Democratic nomination. The district is normally Republican by at least one or two thousand, and, while the Republicans will probably carry it, Representative Pope has been an unusual vote getter and the contest is likely to be extremely interesting.

The Worcester district is no longer the Third but the Fourth; some towns have been taken from it and others added to it, but it is still strongly Republican. Congressman John A. Thayer, the Democrat who now represents it, will be a candidate for re-election and there is no probability at present that he will be opposed at the primaries. Colonel Samuel E. Winslow and Representative Robert M. Washburn of Worcester are both mentioned as candidates. Either one of these should be able to hold the district in line for the Republican party. Congressman Thayer has not made a conspicuous record in Washington, however good his intentions may have been. He is not considered to be in the same class with former Congressman John R. Thayer who was popular with his party.

The new Seventh includes the two cities of Lynn and Lawrence. Senator Frank P. Bennett of Saugus is spoken of as a candidate for the Republican nomination in this district and Representative Cogswell of Lynn is also in the field. On the Democratic end W. H. Creamer of Lynn is willing to make a fight, and so far has no opposition for the nomination. It is believed that the district as made up is Republican by a small margin. The Democrats profess to believe they will be able to carry it this fall.

Of course the Boston districts are considered solidly Democratic. In the Tenth Congressman Murray is a candidate for renomination by the Democrats but he has an opponent in councilman Timothy J. Buckley, who has the support of Martin M. Lomasney, the Ward 8 Democrat.

In the new Thirteenth district Congressman Weeks will be a candidate for re-election. The Republican majority here is sufficient to insure his re-election.

In the Fourteenth district Congressman Harris will probably be renominated, although several men have been mentioned as candidates. He is serving his first term and it is almost unheard of to retire a man without giving him a renomination. The name of Richard Olney, 2nd, of Needham has been mentioned in connection with the Democratic nomination, as well as that of Thomas Thatcher of Yarmouth, who was a candidate against Mr. Harris two years ago.

Promoting Agriculture in Mass.

The legislature did not hesitate very long over Governor Foss' veto of the bill appropriating $250,000 for the Massachusetts agricultural college at Amherst. This bill appropriated annually for general college administration, $30,000; for teaching, equipment and general college maintenance, $80,000; for agricultural investigation and experiments, including maintenance of Massachusetts agricultural experiment station, $15,000; for providing theoretical and practical instruction required by the charter of the college and laws of the United States, $75,000; for short courses and extension work in agriculture, $50,000. The legislature by passing this bill annually appropriated $250,000 to the agricultural college. Last year the governor's objection to a similar appropriation for this college was that it was not a state institution; since then the trustees have met this objection by transferring to the commonwealth full control of the institution. The governor's real objection to it was undoubtedly that, with many other measures of a similar kind, it was likely to swell the state tax to a total of something like $6,000,000, when he wished to keep it down to last year's figure of $5,000,000. The money, however, is needed by the college to develop in this state a system of education which will turn out practical, scientific farmers. In these days of high cost of farm products the farmers seem to be very much interested in everything that will increase the productiveness of the soil and reduce the cost of producing crops. They seem to believe that this is one of the necessary steps in the reduction of the cost of living. The governor seems to think otherwise.

Condemning Attempted Intimidation

The governor called down upon his head the sharp criticism of nearly all the Boston newspapers, of Mayor Fitzgerald, and of many others by his threat to veto the Grand Trunk bill and the trolley merger bill and other big legislation, if he could not have his public utilities bill to which the legislature was opposed. The Boston Post declared that "If Governor Foss vetoes other legislation because he could not successfully intimidate the general court he will give himself a task of explanation that will employ his time for a year at least." The American, which has always been a Foss organ, declared that "If the governor should do aught to prevent the coming of the regulation and control of the present railroad monopoly by the competition of the Grand Trunk, he would make it clear that his whole fight for greater railroad legislation and control was a tremendous farce and his recent controversy with Vice President Byrnes a piece of vulgar horse-play." Mayor Fitzgerald said that "The governor should consider each bill before him on its merits and not hold up every other piece of legislation unless he gets his bill."

UREY WOODSON'S SUCCESSOR

J. C. C. Mayo Is New Democratic National Committeeman From Kentucky.

John C. Calhoun Mayo, the new member of the Democratic national committee from Kentucky, succeeds Urey Woodson, who has been on the committee for many years. Mayo is one of the powers behind Governor McCreary and is one of the most influential men in the state.

Twenty-five years ago Mayo, now forty-eight, was a schoolteacher in the Kentucky mountains. Today he is worth from $5,000,000 to $25,000,000.

Mayo now has a $250,000 home in Paintsville, Johnson county, Ky., his native town. He and his companies control hundreds of thousands of acres of coal land. They are pushing the railroads into the mountains and building towns of 5,000 and 10,000 population.

In politics Mayo has always been a Democrat, and for several years he has been active. Only in the past two years, however, has he become a factor. He is one of the delegates at large from the state to the Baltimore convention.

PENSION FOR MRS. SCHLEY.

Senate Votes $150 a Month to Hero of Santiago's Widow.

Mrs. Annie R. Schley, widow of Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley, will receive a pension of $150 a month if the house concurs in a bill passed by the senate. The committee on pensions opposed the naming of such a large amount, but was finally overruled.

The bill passed was introduced by Senator Rayner, who served as chief counsel for Admiral Schley before the court of inquiry that passed on his action at the battle of Santiago. He made an eloquent plea for the dead naval hero. It developed during the discussion that Mrs. Schley has an income of but $450 a year in addition to the pension of $12 per month allowed under existing laws.

A brief but rousing speech was made by Senator Rayner, who asserted that Admiral Schley was in command of the American naval forces at Santiago and entitled to all the credit for the destruction of the Spanish fleet.

Europe's First Railway.

The first railway in Europe ran its first train on May 5, 1833. It went from Brussels to Mechlin.

COOKING in paper bags is no longer a fad. It has become an everyday method of preparing food in the up to date kitchen—that is, for some part of the day's menu. The theory is so simple that it instantly appeals to the busy housewife as an economical labor saving device which has revolutionized the modern cuisine.

But the cooking of food in paper bags is not an altogether new process. The present idea grew out of the old familiar method of cooking en papillote (in paper). The difference between the old method and the latest development of cooking in bags is that most of the old dishes were prepared and sometimes half cooked before they were put in the paper and not entirely cooked, as they now are, in the bags. By this old process a certain flavor was attained by the chef rather than a labor saving device established.

Reduce the Meat Bill.

The advantages of the new bag cookery are many, and not the least of them is the reduction of the meat bill 10 per cent. Three pounds of roast, for instance, will come out of the bag weighing exactly three pounds, as there will be no shrinkage of the meat. It is possible, too, to use less expensive cuts of meat with appetizing results, and poultry away beyond the "spring chicken" stage comes out of the bag tender and delicious.

This bag cookery also reduces the gas or electric bill, as less heat is required for the process. Food, too, is greatly improved in flavor, all the food values, all the natural juices and savoriness being retained.

The housewife who loathes to do battle three times a day with greasy pots and pans will welcome the new cookery because such utensils are eliminated. In their place she uses fresh germproof paper cookery bags which she throws away after using.

Another advantage of paper bag cookery is to be found in the doing away with all cooking odors in the house, and the concentrated essence of a century of dinners will not pervade the home where the "bag method" is installed.

A question asked by persons not familiar with the new cookery is, "Can all kinds of cooking be done in the bags?" It is possible to bake, roast, boil and stew in them, but soups cannot be cooked in bags, as the expansion caused by the evaporation bursts the paper.

Simple Outfit Needed.

The outfit needed for paper bag cooking is extremely simple, consisting merely of a number of especially prepared bags of different sizes, which are sold in all shops boasting a household department and at nominal prices.

First.—It is absolutely necessary to select a bag amply large for the food to be prepared.

Second.—Before using the bag moisten it slightly with water to make it pliable and to avoid breaking.

Third.—Grease the bag inside with butter or olive oil, using a brush or cloth.

Fourth.—Lay the bag flat on the table, lift the upper edge of the mouth and carefully insert the food.

Fifth.—Fold the mouth of the bag two or three times, folding in the corners to insure hermetical sealing, and fasten with three or four clips such as are used in business offices, or even pins.

Sixth.—Place the filled sealed bag on the wire or perforated shelf of the oven, seam side up, being careful not to place the bag too near the flames. Should the bag become very brown shortly after being placed in the oven reduce heat.

Seventh.—When the food is done draw the shelf or grid from the oven, gently slip a plate under the bag and so remove it.

Eighth.—To save the juices cut a hole in the bottom of the bag and hold a dish under the opening.

Ninth.—Slit the bag with a sharp knife, remove it carefully from the food and throw it away.

How to Know When Food Is Cooked.—Follow the time table given on the bags. If heat declines or for any reason it is necessary to learn the progress of the cooking a long needle may be used to test the food. To insure perfect browning make a few holes in the top of the bag five or ten minutes before the cooking is completed.

Fine For the Novice.

Half a dozen different things requiring different temperatures under old methods can be cooked at the same time and by the same heat.

The bag cookery is fine for the novice, as long teaching and experience in general cooking are not necessary. All that is required is to simply follow directions furnished with the bags.

Hostesses noted for their clever entertaining are giving this spring "paper bag dinners," and when the toothsome viands are brought upon the table concealed in queer looking brown sacks exclamations of delight escape the guests when the novel puffed pouches are slit open and give forth volumes of piquant odors.

Again, if the busy housewife be delayed and reaches home only in time to prepare a "hurry up" dinner for her family the paper bag readily lends itself to hasty cooking. Fish, roast and most vegetables can be quickly prepared and made ready to serve in a surprisingly short period.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

With Wish Wynne, the famous English comedienne, and five other big novelties new to Boston audiences, included on the list, next week's bill at B. F. Keith's Theatre will be one of the best programmes offered at that popular playhouse this summer. Wish Wynne is the prettiest, daintiest, and most charming entertainer England ever sent to the shores of the United States. She is the pet of London, and her appearances in New York City have shown that American audiences quite agree with the verdict of their cousins across the seas. Miss Wynne's songs are all original with her, and include "The Wind Blew Another Apple Down;" "The Drudge;" "The School Girl;" and "I Were Afraid," The last named being a cute little kid song.

La Daodima, the Parisian art model, will introduce her beautiful "Visions d'Art." Cook and Lorenz, the merry musical tramps, will be on hand with their unique stunts; and other big features are the Six Brown Brothers, musical comedians; Rawson and Claire, just a couple of kids; Chapman and Berube, two wonderful equilibrists; The Zeraldas, head balancers, and others.

Different.

"Why, a year ago you told me this place was easily worth $15,000. Now you estimate its value at less than $10,000."

"You must remember that I was trying to sell it to you then. Now you want me to sell it for you."—Chicago Record-Herald.

DON'T LEAVE YOUR CAT TO STARVE.

Are you going away on a summer vacation, or to change your place of residence? Please do not leave your cat behind you. If you think she can take care of herself you are quite mistaken, for the cat is a domestic animal and needs to be cared for.

It is true a cat clings very strongly to life, and can live for a long time in a most wretched and starving condition, but this makes it the more important that she should not be left to suffer a slow and miserable death.

She cannot possibly make herself comfortable, and in her attempt to find food and shelter she will be a source of great trouble, and often of absolute pain to the occupants of the nearest houses.

Even if you have not humanity enough to care about the suffering of the cat, do you think it kind, or even just, to inflict this trial upon your neighbor? Is it a Christian act?

If you cannot take her with you, at least you can see that she is mercifully killed. In Boston, the Animal Rescue League, at 51 Carver street, will receive cats or dogs, or will send an agent for them if you cannot carry them to their Home. They either find homes for these animals or put them humanely to death.

If there is no such shelter or society within your reach, you can put your cat mercifully to death yourself with chloroform, which is much kinder than to leave her to suffer.

Directions. Put an old piece of carpet or some newspapers on the floor. Place on that a dish of milk or meat. When the cat is at the dish, place over her a tub or firkin or some other vessel as near the size of the cat as possible without the cat being crowded. Put under the tub immediately a saturated sponge or piece of old cloth, using from two to three ounces of chloroform. It is better to place the cloth or sponge as near the nose of the cat as possible. There must be a heavy weight on top of the box or tub, otherwise the cat will get out. A box or a tub with a cover can be used and the cat placed in it if this is easier, but in this case it is better to have a little air introduced. When the vessel is airtight the animal does not die as easily, as suffocation is apt to be the result. The cat should remain in or under the tub or box an hour or more. If she must be taken out in less time, she should be put in a pail of water about fifteen minutes. Every precaution should be taken to be sure that the cat will not come to life.

There is no suffering connected with death by chloroform, excepting the fright a cat may suffer from being caught and put in a box or tub. Those who have taken chloroform for surgical operations can testify that it is simply a going to sleep, whereas with the poisons that are sometimes used, there is always a risk of a great deal of suffering. Drowning is next best to using chloroform, but great care must be exercised to have the cat or kittens in a loosely woven bag so that the water will penetrate it at once, and they must be tied in so that they cannot scratch their way out and rise to the top of the water. Heavy weights should be put in the bag or fastened to it, or in the case of small kittens, they can be placed in a bag or tied up in some old cloth that is strong enough to hold them and held under water with a broom so that they will not rise to the surface

It is inhuman to give the cat to boys and ask them to drown her. When this is done she either escapes or suffers more than anyone could bear to think of. It is as inhuman to take a cat or kittens away and drop her in the street or field. Why should you suppose that anyone is more ready than you are to assume the burden you are shirking? Surely no one who stops to think seriously can do such a cruel deed as this. You are so tender-hearted you cannot kill the cat yourself, yet you are not too tender-hearted to inflict on her far greater suffering, which does not trouble you so long as you do not see it yourself. This shows that you are thinking about your own sensibilities and not of the real suffering of the cat.

Next to the horse there is no animal that suffers so much from habitual neglect and ill-usage as the cat, and there is scarcely any animal that is so sensitive to happiness or misery; yet many men and women who profess to be humane are guilty in this respect.

The presence of so many roving, homeless, half-starved cats in neighborhoods, besides being extremely painful to people of true humanity, is a constant menace to health. It is an accepted fact that these neglected creatures may contract diseases and carry them to the better cared for household pets, who, in their turn, may give the disease to children; thus, like many another sin, the innocent have to suffer for the guilty.

Will you not do all that you can to put a stop to this cruelty—cruelty which is little regarded, perhaps, by you, and yet which is the source of untold misery?

Mrs. Huntington Smith.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

REGULATIONS AND RATES RELATIVE TO WATER.

"Section 6. Upon the non-payment of the water rates for sixty days after they are payable, the Collector shall serve a summons upon the delinquent; and unless said rates are paid within ten days thereafter together with twenty cents for said summons, the Collector shall notify the Registrar, who shall shut off the water, and it shall not be turned on until the amount due, together with the twenty cents for the summons and one dollar for the shutting off and turning on is paid. The foregoing provisions shall apply it two or more parties take water from the same service pipes, although one or more of them may have paid the proportion due from him or them. Said summons may be served in any of the ways provided by law for the service of a summons for the non payment of a tax."

The minimum charge for metered water for all other purposes shall be $8 a year.
The charge for metered water shall be at the rate of two cents per hundred gallons. The Water Board may require a deposit in case of meter service.
The Water Board shall have the right to stop the use of large quantities of water for special purposes whenever, in its judgement, it is necessary to conserve the water for domestic uses.

Amended and adopted by the town March 25, 1912; approved by Attorney General June 6, 1912.

Attest, George H. Carter,
Town Clerk.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The suffrage question is so inextricably mingled with the temperance question that it is interesting to note how many women have been aroused to the importance of the one by their interest in the other. The Union Signal, mindful of the needs of the present is devoting considerable space each month to the suffrage movement one edition each month being the campaign edition which is being widely circulated.

The Frances E. Willard settlement needs a new heating plant and is appealing to its friends to pay for the same. Although it is hard to become enthusiastic over heating plants when one is trying to keep cool, it is hoped there may be many whose memory of last winter urges to generosity even in midsummer. The Settlement is doing such good work that it deserves the most cordial support.

In these days of political excitement and street car strikes matters of ordinary social progress may not be very thrilling but it may not be amiss to call attention to the excellent program of the section on Drunkenness at the charities and corrections conference at Cleveland this month. It is a comfort to those who have so long been listed as fanatics to find that the scientists are coming to much the same conclusions as the White Ribboners did years ago.

It is worthy of note that one of the first things done after the elevated strike began was to serve notice on the saloons to sell no liquor to the men in uniform or near uniform, a wise precaution at anytime. Yet if liquor is benefficent in its effects why this action?

LUCKY LAST LOOK

It Preserved the Declaration of Independence In 1814.

SAVED IT FROM THE BRITISH.

The Precious Document Would Have Been In the State Department When It Was Burned but For Pleasonton's Final Glance Around the Room.

Comparatively few of the present generation know how near to being lost was once the most precious of our national documents, the Declaration of Independence. It was during the war of 1812. The Declaration of Independence hung for many years in a frame in the state department in the room then occupied by Stephen Pleasonton. Mr. Beaseley, commissary of prisoners of war in London, forwarded to the state department some London newspapers, stating that the English fleets and transports were receiving troops at Bordeaux, France, with the intention of operating against Washington and Baltimore. Soon after it was learned that the British fleet was in Chesapeake bay and that it was ascending the Patuxent. The officials and citizens of the little capital city were hourly expecting an attack.

Upon receipt of this information, which was a few days before the enemy entered Washington, Mr. Monroe, then secretary of state, James Madison being president, mounted his horse, rode to Benedict, a small village on the Patuxent, where the British forces were being landed, and climbed an eminence within a quarter of a mile of the village, in order to ascertain the strength of the enemy. Being convinced, after his inspection, that we had no force available that could successfully resist them, he sent a note to Mr. Pleasonton by a vidette, advising him to see that the best care was taken of the books and papers of the state department.

Acting at once upon this authority, Mr. Pleasonton purchased some coarse linen and had it made into bags of suitable size, in which he, assisted by others in the office, placed the books and other papers.

While engaged in this work General Armstrong, then secretary of war, passing the state department on his way to his own office, remarked that he thought they were unnecessarily alarming themselves, as he did not think the British were serious in their intentions of coming to Washington. Fortunately Mr. Pleasonton was of a different opinion, and observed that it was the part of prudence to take measures to preserve these valuable papers of the revolutionary government. Had Mr. Pleasonton delayed but a few days, had he followed the advice of the secretary of war, an irreparable loss would have been sustained. For the papers which Mr. Pleasonton had placed in the coarse linen bags comprised the secret journals of congress, then not published; the correspondence of General Washington, his commission, resigned at the close of the war; the correspondence of General Greene and other officers of the Revolution, as well as laws, treaties and correspondence of the department of state from the adoption of the constitution down to that time.

Mr. Pleasonton had the bags carted to a grist mill, which he selected as a suitable depository. The mill, which was unoccupied, belonged to Edgar Patterson and was situated on the Virginia side of the Potomac, beyond the Chain bridge, two miles above Georgetown.

The last load had left, and Mr. Pleasonton was just quitting the vacant rooms when, glancing back suddenly to see whether anything had been left behind, to his consternation he saw the Declaration of Independence, which had been overlooked, hanging upon the wall. He hastily cut it out of the frame and carried it away with the other papers.

He then began to be uneasy about the place he had chosen, for if the British took Washington, which he firmly believed they would do, and very soon at that, they would in all probability detach a force for the purpose of destroying a foundry for the making of cannon and shot in the neighborhood and, of course, would consider a grist mill too valuable a thing to be left standing in a country they meant to subdue. Mr. Pleasonton therefore visited some of the Virginia farmhouses, whose owners were only too willing to loan him wagons in which to convey the documents to Leesburg, a distance of thirty-five miles. There they were deposited in an empty house, the keys of which were given to Rev. Mr. Littlejohn, who was one of the collectors of internal revenue.

Worn out with his labors, Mr. Pleasonton states in a letter, he retired early to bed that night and slept soundly. Next morning he was informed by the people of the little tavern where he had stayed that evening that they had seen during the night, the same being the 24th of August, a large fire in the direction of Washington, which proved to be the light from the public buildings, which the enemy had set on fire and burned to the ground.

When he returned to Washington on the 26th he found the public buildings still burning and learned that the British army had evacuated the city the preceding evening in the belief that the Americans were again assembling in the rear for the purpose of cutting off their retreat.—Kansas City Times.

'Tis well said that man has no greater enemy than himself.—Firenzuola.

An interesting incident is told regarding the Morton fire of Monday noon. It seems that early during the fire the telephone receiver became dislodged from the instrument, which was in one of the rooms on the table. When the central operator came in on the line she was able to hear many of the details connected with the fire. As the flames advanced the firemen could be heard in their endeavors to check them and later when they removed the furniture could be heard plainly, and the crackling of the flames was distinctly audible before the connection was broken.

CLASS SONG.

Tune: "Mary of Argyle"

Classmates, come with tributes
Of grateful love and praise,
For the lasting guidance and the truths,
By which we shall tread life's maze.

We must part, classmates, forever,
For 'tis here the road divides;
Then each heart yield the full measure
Of its love, here, side by side.

By thy maxims e'er abiding,
Though the road be dark and steep,
High school, in thy light confiding,
The goal, though high, we'll reach.

Apart, in life, we'll find curselves
Soon new friends our hearts shall claim,
But e'er true to nineteen twelve,
At the top we'll meet again.

CLASS WELCOME.

Harold Vincent Farnsworth.

Parents, Teachers, Friends, and Undergraduates.

In behalf of my classmates it gives me great pleasure to welcome you here this evening to the graduating exercises of the Class of 1912 of the Winchester High School. The exercises mark the end of our public school career and to some, the end of our school life. For ton years we have worked with a greater or less degree of earnestness under the unfailing vigilance of our teachers.

The foundation of the superstructure which is to be built has been laid and it rests with us to complete it in such a manner that it will be a credit to ourselves, our school, our community, and our nation. This is the only way in which we can show our appreciation of what the citizens of the Town of Winchester have done for us up to this time.

In the next few years many of us will seek a higher education in technical schools and colleges. Others will advance their education by actual work along practical lines. In either case the result of what we have gained in the Winchester High School in the knowledge of the principles of life, in the ability to grasp an opportunity and make the most of it, and in the general development of character will be evidenced by the way we meet what life has to offer us.

In the years to come we will never forget our motto "Ascende, etsi saxa sind aspera"—"Climb, though the rocks be rugged." Indeed, many of us have climbed and the rocks between our freshman and Senior years have been rugged. But it is with a sense of satisfaction that we look back over the effort put forth, even though many times it has met with failure most discouraging to those interested in us.

As we go out from the training of our High School it is the purpose of the members of the senior class in entering the broader life before us, to do whatever tasks may come to us with a spirit and perserverence that shall mean success.

And once more in behalf of the Class of 1912, I bid you welcome.

CHAMPIONS OF GREATER BOSTON1911-12.

Starting out at the first of the season with but one experienced player, the Winchester High Girl's Basket Ball team has again made a name for itself and has again won a championship. Out of a total of twelve games played, two were lost and one disputed. Reading, Melrose, Revere, Wellesley, and even Swampscott were defeated by W. H. S. In spite of two heavy losses to the Sargent School team, Winchester's total number of points is 442 to its opponent's 251.

There is much excellent material for next year's team and a strong probability that the Winchester team may again be the undisputed champions of Greater Boston.

GAME TO-MORROW.

Everybody over to Forest Field tomorrow afternoon. There will be another ball game between Winchester Highlands Athletic Club and the Old Timers at 3 p. m. The two teams will present practically the same line-up as last Monday when the club team was defeated 14 to 9. A reversal of the decision is looked for.

The batteries will be Richardson and Hanlon for the Old Timers, and McElhiney and Mathews for the Highlands. For the Ol Timers, Polley, Laughrin, McElhiney and Kenney will cover first, second, third, and short respectively, while Emerson, Dearborn and Regent will cavort in the outfield. For the club, Park, Cooper, Chapin or Obrygon, and Murphy will play first, second, third, and short. Bellville, Robinson or Burwell, and Claflin will play the outfield.

FORESMAN—STACEY.

One of the prettiest home weddings of the season took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Stacey, at 5 Chestnut street, this town, when their daughter, Miss Elinor Marie Stacey was united in marriage to Mr. John Foster Foresman of Ashby, on Wednesday evening.

The house was tastefully decorated with palms, ferns and cut flowers.

At 7.30 o'clock the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin by the orchestra heralded the approach of the bridal party. The bride was given in marriage by her father, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Joel H. Metcalf, pastor of the Unitarian church. She was attended by her sister, Miss Lillian Pauline Stacey. Fred A. Foresman, brother of the groom, was best man.

The ushers were Mr. Frederick Pope and Mr. Charles F. Philbook of Ashby, Mr. Harrison Rich of Fitchburg, and Mr. Percival Perry of Providence, R. I. The master of ceremonies was Mr. Franklin Horton Stacey of Andover, brother of the bride.

The bride's gown was of ivory white satin with Princess lace trimming. She wore a tulle veil, caught with lillies of the valley, and carried a shower bouquet of the same flowers. The maid of honor wore pink satin, veiled with pink chiffon and carried pink roses.

During the reception following the ceremony, the happy couple were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Stacey, parents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. William Foresman, parents of the groom.

As this occasion was also the thirty-fourth anniversary of the marriage of the bride's parents, Mrs. Stacey wore her own bridal gown of white satin with duchess lace, veiled with marquisette. Mrs. Foresman, mother of the groom, was gowned in lavender.

The wedding gifts were costly and very beautiful.

After a wedding journey, Mr. and Mrs. Foresman will make their home at 14 Royal street, Watertown.

STEVENSON—DAVIS.

The wedding of Miss Violet May Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Davis of Winchester Park street, and Mr. Walter Norman Stevenson of Somerville took place on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was witnessed by a large gathering of friends and relatives of the couple, and was performed by Rev. D. Augustine Newton of the Reading Congregational Church, a former pastor of the bride. The details of a daisy wedding were fully carred out in the decorations and the ceremony was performed before a bank of daisies with the bride and groom standing beneath an arch of these flowers and ferns. The bride wore a dress of white marquisette over silk. Her veil was caught with a spray of lilies of the valley and her bridal bouquet was of lillies of the valley and white roses.

Miss Gertrude L. Davis, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore light blue corded chiffon and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas. Mr. Clyde Clerke of Chelsea was best man.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony, the ushers being Mr. Earl Combre of Somerville, Mr. Ernest Richardson of Somerville and Mr. Frederick Stevenson of Roxbury. The reception was attended by guests from many of the surrounding towns and cities.

The couple left on an extended tour through Nova Scotia and New Brunswick and upon their return will reside in Somerville.

Miss Grace Kelley of Wilson street spent several days this week visiting elatives in Cohasset.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

June 18, 1912.

The Board met at 7.20 p. m., being called to order by Mr Belcher. Present Messrs. Belcher, Daly and Pike. Mr. Belcher was elected temporary chairman.

The records of the meeting of June 11, 1912, were read and approved.

A hearing was declared open on the petition of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company presented June 3rd, for a location for 11 poles on Ridge street, southerly from the Winchester-Woburn Line. The Town Engineer had approved the location and recommended the petition be granted. Clerk reported that all abutters have been notified. No remonstrants appeared; and on his petition as well as those of the same company presented May 20th, hearing held June 11th, for a location for 38 poles on High street, easterly from Ridge street, and for a location for 51 poles on Ridge street beginning at a point about 520 feet from the Arlington Line and running north-easterly, action was deferred for a further report from the Town Engineer and Highway Committee.

A letter was received and ordered filed from the Water and Sewer Board agreeing to notify Superintendent of Streets in writing of dates when street openings have been completed.

Monday, July 8, 1912, was appointed for making the annual revision of the list of Jurors.

A permit was received from the Metropolitan Park Commission to use the band stand on Manchester Field July 4, 1912, and the clerk was directed to acknowledge the same with the thanks of the Board.

A petition was received and referred to the Town Engineer from Edward L. Baldwin, Frederick N. Kerr, Chas. J. Ramsdell and eight others that Lakeview road be laid out and accepted as a public highway, and asking that the Board grant a hearing.

A petition was received signed by Edward L. Baldwin, Frederick N Kerr, Chas J. Ramsdell and 10 others that Lakeview and Ravenscroft roads be treated with oil at the earliest opportunity, and that the petitioners be informed as to the cost of the same: the petition was referred to the Town Engineer to have an estimate made and report at the next meeting.

A bond for $2,000 was received from Warren Bros. Co., executed by themselves as principals and the Massachusetts Bonding & Insurance Co., as sureties, to guarantee the performance of their contract and maintenance of their work for a period of five years after completion, and referred to the Committee on Highways.

The hearings appointed at the last meeting on the matter of extending turnouts and making alterations in the street railway tracks, were changed as follows:

On Forest and Church street locations, to Saturday, July 6, 1912, at 9 o'clock a. m.

On Main street locations to Saturday, July 13, 1912, at 9 o'clock a. m.

The committee on police reported that they were not satisfied with the signal service the town is getting from the Telephone Company, and were investigating another method by which the officer in charge at the station can reach his men at the signal boxes at any time.

A petition was received from H. C. Munroe for permission to operate a private detective agency; with report of the Chief of Police concerning same, and referred to Committee on Police.

A report from Chief of Police concerning the dumping of ashes at Bacon Street and Fenwick road, was received and ordered filed.

A letter was received from the Town Engineer reporting that the plans for enlarging turnouts of the Bay State Street Railway Co., in Main street had not been received and asking that a representative of the Bay State R. R.

TOWN MEETING

Comes to Dramatic Close Before Business is Finished.

The third session of the town meeting was held on Wednesday night, and this time the warrant was finished. The meeting was not called to order until almost eight o'clock owing to the small attendance at 7.45, but the hall gradually filled up until there was a good attendance considering the season of the year. Mr. F. Manly Ives was in the chair.

Article 7 was first taken up. This was regarding the acceptance of a bequest to the town from the late Robert C. Metcalf. Mr. J. W. Russell, jr., for the warrant committee, made a motion of acceptance which was carried.

Voted—That the Town Treasurer is hereby authorized in behalf of the town to accept the bequest to it contained in the will of the late Robert C. Metcalf, said bequest reading as follows:—

"If and provided the fair value of my estate at the time of my decease shall equal or exceed the sum of thirty thousand dollars, I give to the inhabitants of Winchester the sum of five hundred dollars, to be held in trust and safely invested and the net income thereof to be used for the support and maintenance of the Robert C. Metcalf School Library, so-called, in said Winchester."

Mr. Tuck then offered a rising vote of thanks to the sons of the late Robert C. Metcalf for this estimable gift to the town.

Article 3 was then taken up. Mr. Whitney making a report for the committee of three appointed to investigate the heating and ventilating plant of the Town Hall building. The substance of the report recommended repairing the present heating plant and adding a supplementary boiler for extremely cold weather. This would cost about $2,000. This report was signed by Messrs. Whitney and Badger, the third member of the committee, Mr. Robert Coit, taking exceptions in recommending the installation of a new heating plant at a cost of about $500 additional, using the present plant as an auxilliary. The report was accepted.

Under this article Mr. Carter offe[illegible] the following motion, which was c[illegible]

Voted—That the Auditor fur[illegible] the warrant committee a stateme[illegible] total amount which has been cr[illegible] Interest Account as interest on[illegible] posited to the credit of the A[illegible] Fund Income Account since [illegible] ment, and said committee[illegible] transfer from the former[illegible] account at the next annu[illegible] such amount.

Mr. Daly, for the select[illegible] that the matter of layin[illegible] across the pond from Mt.[illegible] son street, be allowed to[illegible] table. He stated it was[illegible] the board to hold hea[illegible] matter and bring it u[illegible] meeting.

Under this same arti[illegible] vote offered by Mr. R[illegible] this making provision[illegible] 15.

Voted—That the [illegible] meeting, the Town Cle[illegible] persons to be appointe[illegible] tor, be constituted a c[illegible] solidate and arrange th[illegible] town in force at the tim[illegible] port is made, together[illegible] all Legislative Acts ac[illegible] town and to consider and r[illegible] suggest any errors or imperfec[illegible] said by laws and the manner in which they may be corrected and what, if any, additional by-laws should be adopted, legislation requested, or Legislative Acts accepted by the Town.

Said committee to report at the next annual town meeting (or earlier) and to have its report printed and distributed with the warrant for the meeting at which it is to be presented. Said Committee to have the power to fill vacancies in its membership and to expend a sum not to exceed fifty dollars, the same to be charged to incidentals account.

Article 5 having been previously taken care of, was indefinitely postoned.

Article 6 was then reached. This provided for the new heating apparatus in the Town Hall building. Under this article Mr. Whitney offered a vote that the recommendations of this committee be carried out by the selectmen and that an appropriation of $2,000 be made for the purpose. Mr. Smith moved that in place of being in charge of the selectmen the work be under the committee of three appointed to investigate the matter, suggesting that the committee were more in touch with the work. This was favored by Mr. Carter. The motion as amended was carried.

Voted—That the sum of two thousand dollars be raised by taxation and appropriated for defraying the expense of improving the Town Hall heating and ventilating plant, the amount to be expended under the direction of the committee appointed previously to report on this matter, viz:—Arthur E. Whitney, Daniel B. Badger, and Robert Coit.

Article 8. This was thought to be the most important article left in the warrant, it providing for the new management of the fire department. The details of this action have become familiar to all of the citizens, the substance of the matter being the placing of the department under the control of a permanent head appointed by the board of selectmen. The act of the Legislature necessary to make this change was read by the moderator, following which Mr. Jewett read the reasons for making the change and their desirability, offering a motion of acceptance.

Mr. Boutwell moved to lay the matter

FORTNIGHTLY VACATION SCHOOL.

The time approaches for the vacation school to begin. Anyone having any articles that could be made use of in the work such as toys, pictures books, pieces of cloth, silk or velvet, silkateen or embroidery silks, old kid gloves, beads raffia, wall paper, ribbons, etc., would confer a favor on the committee, if they would leave them with Mrs. W. D. Eldredge, 7 Webster street, or notify Mrs. Eldredge Tel. 353-W and they will becalled for.

DAVIS—CLEWORTH.

Miss Mildred Winters Cleworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cleworth, and Mr. Elbridge Gerry Davis of Malden were married at the home of the bride's parents, 33 Dix street, last evening at seven-thirty by the Rev. Robert A. Colpits, pastor of the Bethany Methodist Church of Springfield, an intimate friend and classmate of the groom. Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon of the First Congregational Church assisted.

Mr. Harold B. Cleworth, brother of the bride, was best man, and Mrs. Lawrence Ripley Jordan, a cousin, of Lowell, was matron of honor.

The ushers were Mr. Walter Cleworth of Lowell, Mr. Lawrence Ripley Jordan of Lowell, Mr. Orvil W. Smith of West Medford and Mr. Horatio Alden of Hyde Park.

The residence was decorated for the ceremony with mountain laurel, the couple being married before a magnificent bank of this beautiful flower. The wedding march was played by a stringed orchestra.

Following the ceremony a reception was held until ten o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Davis being assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Cleworth and Mrs. Jordan.

The couple will make their home in [illegible]

The summer schedu[illegible] into effect on the steam road on Monday. The changes are numerous, especially those during the middle of the day. The number of trains remains the same counting two "Saturday only" trains, which really takes off two trains. These are an inward train at 2.41 p. m. and the outward 1.10 p. m. Although there are waits of an hour during the middle of the morning the service is a little bettered by several faster trains, and Winchester now has but few trains which stop at all the stations between Boston. The Sunday trains suffer the most, five trains being taken off. Wedgemere will lose two trains—one each way.

Persons using the steam trains should secure one of the new time tables and note the changes. The more important are:

Inward—9.53 a. m. now 10.04, 10.46 to 10.35, 1.05 p. m. to 1.02, 2 of to 2.11.

Outward—9.22 a. m. to 9.02, 10.45 to 11.00, 1.30 p. m. to 1.14, 7.15 to 7.00.

Wedgemere loses the 2.03 p. m. inward and the 8.34 a. m. outward.

MUSICALE.

The pupils of Miss Sewall gave an interesting pianoforte recital at her residence on Mt. Vernon street, on Wednesday evening, June 19th.

It is seldom that we hear young people give such keen interpretation of the composers. The program included selections from some of the old masters as well as those of recent date. Conspicuous among the numbers was the ensemble playing by four young boys, showing careful training on the part of the teacher.

POLL TAX BOOKS.

It is expected that the "List of Assessed Polls," commonly known to the residents as the "Poll Tax Book," will be ready for distribution by the time this issue of the STAR reaches its readers. The books may be obtained at the STAR office, Abare's, Knight's and O'Connor's drug store and at the Town Hall.

REGARDING A FORMER RESIDENT.

In an article on the Cape Cod Canal, a Boston paper has the following to say of Mr. Charles M. Thompson, one of the heads in charge of the work and a former resident and town engineer of Winchester :—

Turning to Charles M Thompson another character who occupies a very important place is found and one who possesses a greater knowledge of the details of this great project than any living man.

Mr. Thompson, who for years was an engineer of recognized ability shown in many of the important feats of this profession throughout the country, assumed charge of the engineering phase of the Cape Cod canal in 1883, when Quincy A. Shaw, F. A. Lockwood William Seward and Samuel Fessenden made the firs actual attempt to build the canal under authorization of the Legislature.

Right through the entire period from 1883 to the present day Mr. Thompson has been on the job always, retained and indispensable to the company or syndicate.

Thoroughly equipped with a knowledge of the route, the character of the country to be excavated, possessing an intricate fund of information concerning the property rights, land values, titles, etc., and recognized as a genius in dealing with the inhabitants in settling their d mage claims, "Charlie" has been of incalculable value to the promoters. He has filled every role during his 29 years' experience from engineer to real estate m nager and is now August Belmont's personal representative in all matters pertaining to this important department.

A few weeks ago Mr. Thompson completed a handsome new home on a picturesque spot of land purchased from the canal company, a plot which was one of the first secured by him for the company, overlooking the northern entrance of the canal, and today he is enjoying the cherished ambition of his life—that of viewing from his broad veranda vessels passing through the already completed portion of the canal within his vision.

BASE BALL.

Morning Game.

Last Monday morning the Winchester Highlands Athletic Club team played their best game of the season at Manchester Field, but were defeated by the Allstars 7 to 3. Only one of the Allstars runs was earned, the test being given by misjudgements and wild throws at critical moments. Obregon was in rare form, and deserved to win. In the second inning, a misjudged fly gave Donohue a home run, which was the longest hit of the day.

1st Afternoon Game.

The Old-Timers took advantage of the many wild throws of the Winchester Highlands Athletic Club team in the afternoon, and won handily 14 to 9. The game, scheduled to be a comedy, proved entirely successful. Runs were plentiful, mis-plays plentiful, and fun galore. To the battery, Richardson and Hanlon must the credit for the victory be given. However, they were ably assisted by every man in the field, and it put up the best game of their lives, all was one grand fight from start to finish. Murphy was wild and easily hit, and was succeeded by McElhiney in the 7th and held his opponents scoreless for the remainder of the game. Had he started, the result probably would have been different.

A feature of the game was the uniforms of the Old-Timers which consisted of khaki trousers and a unique cap. A lemonade and tonic booth, free to the players, but five cents to others, was presided over by several young ladies.

Another game between these two teams has been arranged for next Saturday afternoon.

In a short three inning game, the Winchester Highlands A. C. team returned victory against the Old-Timers by a score of 5 to 1. The two teams lined up, practically as before, the Highland team to retrieve their lost reputation, the Old-Timers to repeat, but they failed in their expectation As in the first game, Chapin caught well.

CHILD DROWNED.

Chlema Vozzella, a little girl five years old living at 36 Cedar street was drowned last Friday Forenoon in the Aberjona river. Cedar street runs off Swanton street, and the river runs right by the Vozzella home, directly in the rear of the house. Across the river is a single plank, over which the children frequently walk to get into the tan bed at the Beggs & Cobb factory to play. It is believed that the girl while crossing the plank, lost her footing and fell into the river. The water is very shallow and the child must have got caught in the mud as the body was head down when taken from the water. The water was 15 inches deep.

Mrs Vozzella missed the child at nine o'clock and hastened to the river and found the body. Dr. Ordway was hastily summoned but when he arrived life was extinct.

SELECTMEN'S NOTICE.

PETITION.

To the Honorable the Board of Selectmen of the Town of Winchester:

Respectfully represents your petitioner, the Bay State Street Railway Company, a corporation established and existing under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and operating in said town of Winchester, that it desires certain extensions of its locations and an alteration and relocation in said Winchester as hereinafter set forth, and that public convenience and necessity requires the same.

Wherefore your petitioner respectfully asks permission to extend and alter and relocate its tracks as follows :

In Forest street in said Winchester, to alter and relocate from Highland avenue to the Stoneham Line, and to extend westerly its turnout in said Forest street about one hundred feet ; all substantially as shown on its Road Department's plan numbered L-3878, dated June 10th, 1912, filed herewith.

Also to extend turnouts as follows :

In Church street, near Cambridge street, about 100 feet westerly,

In Main street between Glenwood avenue and Sheridan circle, northerly about 200 feet,

In Main street between Church and Vine streets, northerly about 300 feet,

Between Prospect and Mt. Pleasant streets, northerly not to exceed 400 feet; all substantially as shown on plans to be filed for the hearing to be held hereon ; together with such switches, curves and cross connections as may be necessary or convenient for the operation of the cars of said company.

And to erect, place, mantain and use such poles, wires and other appliances as are usual and necessary in the overhead trolley system of street car propulsion, and to propel cars by such system over the said tracks with electricity as the motive power, or to use such other motive power as the laws of this Commonwealth permit and the Board of Selectmen shall from time to time approve, and to make such underground and surface alterations in the ways through which these extensions, alterations and relocations are granted as many be necessary.

REPAIRING PUNCTURES IN INNER TUBES.

When a tube is punctured, the first thing to do is to find out if the puncture is in one wall of the tube only or in both walls are perforated. Next a careful examination should be made to determine that no part of the article which caused the puncture has lodged inside the tube.

"Then select a red para patch" says a recent Michelin instruction book, "considerably larger on all sides than the injury to be repaired and clean the patch carefully on its flat or unbeveled side with emery paper. Now lay the tube on a convenient flat surface, such as the dash or step, and with emery paper clean a space around the puncture slightly larger than the patch to be used. Coat both the cleaned surfaces with cement and after this has dried apply a second coat. In about ten minutes when the surfaces are still 'tacky' press the patch firmly in place taking care that the edges do not curl. If the patch is beveledged little difficulty will be experienced. Now tap the patch lightly all over its surface with some round, smooth object like the end of a tool handle. If done carefully this will exclude every particle of air and the cemented surfaces will adhere perfectly. Put a smooth flat-surfaced weight on the patch and leave the repair thus as long as practicable."

WINCHESTER 10, NORTHWESTERN 0.

Winchester had a batting fest last Saturday afternoon on Manchester Field, winning its seventh straight game this season and knocking Marden, the star twirler of the Northwesterns, out of the box. Fourteen hits for a total of 18 was the record. In addition the home team helded an errorless game. A. Morrissey held the visitors to eight scattered hits. The score :

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
Winchester	3	1	2	1	0	2	0	1	—10	14	0
Northwn	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0—	0	8	3

Batteries, A. Morrissey and Flaherty; Marden, Garland and McGown.

WINCHESTER'S FIRST LOSS.

The Bay Views of South Boston shut out the Winchester team to the tune of 9 to 0 on the afternoon of the 17th on Manchester Field. Errors in the first inning gave the visitors five runs and from then on they scored four more. The local boys were not in good form while the Bay Views played a faultless game, their pitcher being hard to find.

Have you considered where you will pass your vacation, where you will get the best returns in health and restfulness. Also have you considered where these may be obtained at the minimum of expense and rapid transit. We know of no better places than Halifax, N. S., or Prince Edward Island, where the change, the food and the climate are so different from what it is here. Then, too, is the invigorating sea trip. We have tried it several times and we know. The Plant line steamers that sail from Long Wharf, Boston, provide excellent accommodations at reasonable prices for the sea trip; the generous hospitality and climate of Halifax and Prince Edward Island do the rest. It you desire to get out of that part of the world called the United States and sojourn among people who are noted for their hospitality and entire difference in their mode of living than here, then take a trip to Prince Edward Island by the Plant line. It will pay big health dividends.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

Company be asked to present and explain just what the enlargements are for, so that all the facts may be ready for the hearings; and the Engineer was authorized to confer with the Bay State Street Railway Co., regarding the same.

A letter was received from the Town Engineer suggesting that before street construction work is begun on Heming way street, a hearing be advertised, and given on the grade to which the street is to be constructed; and that as an aid to the abutters and parties interested, stakes be set on which the grade proposed would be shown. Referred to the Committee on Highways.

A letter was received from the Town Engineer on the construction of Pond street, calling attention to the fact that the grade plan had not yet been passed upon by this board and suggesting that a hearing be given on the grade plan a sufficient time before beginning the construction work. Also that the Board authorize the placing of grade stakes with the grade plainly shown so that the abutters and interested parties might know the proposed grade. Referred to Committee on Highways.

Mr. Felix J. Carr appeared in regard to the poor condition of the sidewalk in front of his residence on Hancock street and Highland avenue, which had been previously brought to the attention of the Board. He reported that the walk was in a dangerous condition. Mr. Carr was asked to appear before the Board at its next meeting when Mr. Pond of the Hemingway Committee could be present.

A letter was received from Mrs. Elise A. McCawley asking that a watering trough be put up on Cambridge street, and the matter was referred to the Committee on Highways.

A letter was received from F. B. Jordan, relating to the Town's right of way across his land on Glen road and his application that the same be covered at the Town's expense. The Town Engineer was in attendance and explained the situation to the Board, and the Clerk was instructed to write Mr. Jordan that the town could not pursue any course which would in any way impair its present or future right of drainage through the land but that the board would be glad to agree with him if possible upon some plan which would accomplish what he desired and at the same time protect the interests of the town.

Committee on Highways reported that Mr. Max Hellman of 80 Essex street, Boston, owned the bank building on Main street, where a conductor on the south side discharges into an alleyway from which rain water runs over the sidewalk; and it was voted to ask Mr. Hellman to remedy these conditions.

Division of pay-roll for week ending June 15, 1912, $617.18 was received from Superintendent of Streets, and ordered transmitted to the Town Auditor.

Warrants drawn for $2017.78 and $7120.33.

Adjourned at 9.55.

Frank R. Miller
Clerk of the Board.

A DELIGHTFUL SUCCESS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The "Get together Picnic" of all the Protestant Churches and Sunday Schools, of the town, held at Nantasket Beach, Monday, June 17th, was a most delightful success. Much praise is due the committee. Everything they did succeeded. There were a score of reasons for praise on the part of the "picnicers." For fear the committee may be entirely forgotten in the remembrance of our good time, I want to add my word of hearty appreciation in this public way.

Our large company was very kindly treated on all of the trains, cars and boats. We had ample room at the beach. Our town people mingled with the thousands of happy souls who were there.

The sports were wholesome and much enjoyed. I found no reason for adverse criticism of anything I saw or heard. I say, "Three hearty cheers for the committee. Let's continue them in office without pay."

I am, One of the Happy Outers,

L. William Adams,
Pastor First Methodist Episcopal Church,

ARLINGTON VS WINCHESTER.

When Maguire threw to Prime completing a double play that closed the game with Arlington at Arlington last Saturday, Winchester High emerged a winner over this team for the first time since May 1905. On this date Winchester High defeated Arlington High in an exhibition game 11-5; but the last time Winchester won a regularly scheduled game was Friday May 6, 1904 when in a pitcher's duel, Frank Sullivan defeated Trafford Hicks 2-0. In 1906 another extra game was introduced as a benefit to the sufferers from the San Francisco earthquake.

Following are the scores:

	At Winchester	At Arlington
'04	5-0	2-14
'05	11-5	4-6
'06	1-7	1-8
'07	4-7	4-12
'08	5-11	7-10
'09	1-6	5-6
'10	0-5	2-6
'11	3-7 (10 innings)	0-10
'12	4-13	4-0

GILMAN—ROBERTS.

Mr. Harry K. Gilman and Miss Louise M. Roberts of Saco, Maine, were united in marriage Thursday afternoon, June 20th, at two thirty, at the residence of the Rev. Arthur L. Winn.

The bride was a young girl attending church and Sunday School in Alfred, Maine when Mr. Winn was pastor there fourteen years ago.

The groom is an ambitious and promising young man of Saco.

The bride was attired in a becoming gown of white batiste and lace, and carried a bouquet of June roses. After a few hours stay in Winchester they left for their wedding tour.

They will make their home in Saco, Maine.

A GORGEOUS SPECTACLE.

Fete at Aigremont Draws Record Attendance.

The much anticipated "Fete at Aigremont," the beautiful home of Mr and Mrs Oren C. Sanborn on High street, was held under ideal conditions last evening before an audience of over fifteen hundred persons. The spectacle was the most gorgeous of any of the previous pageants given on the Sanborn estate, the guests including prominent residents from all of the surrounding owns. The myriad electric lights twinkled through the foliage like the stars of fairyland, the beautiful gowns of the ladies carried the suggestion to realism, and the graceful dances of the young ladies, dressed in the flowing robes of ancient Greece, accompanied by the strains of elfin music, finished the illusion beyond the question of a doubt.

The dances were again arranged this year by Miss Mary Kellogg, whose ability in this direction has already won her enviable reputation in this field, not only in this vicinity, but throughout the country. The architecture of the Sanborn residence and its sightly location topping a sloping knoll, made an ideal setting for the pageant, which was held at the north portico.

The dances were divided into three numbers, entitled "The Dance of the Playmates," a story dance entitled "A Triptych," written by Miss Kellogg herself, and the famous Strauss waltz "The Beautiful Blue Danube."

The first number it will be remembered, is one of the Episodes of the Fete given by Miss Kellogg last year and it was repeated upon many requests. The leading characters were taken by Misses Margaret French, Pauline Chamberlain and Mrs. Edna Johnson.

The second number consisted of the three pictures "Dawn, Noon and Twilight." This was danced by Miss Kellogg, who had three solos, and several groups of chorus dancers. A special feature of "The Triptych" originated by Miss Kellogg was the Ballad Dance, the soloists being Miss Kellogg and Miss Amelia Wulkop, lyric soprano.

No less than forty-five dancers took part in the last number, the soloists being Miss Kellogg Miss Chamberlain and Miss Caroline Baxter of Brookline and Miss Lillian Harrington of Newton Center.

Those who took part were as follows:

"The Dance of the Playmates" from "Pandora's Box."

The dances opened at 8.45, by which time the sun had sunk beneath the western hill tops far enough to bring out the lighting effects to its full brilliancy. The colors were marvellously blended, the scheme being the result of the labors of Mr. Hermann Dudley Murphy.

During the evening refreshments were served the guests, the tables being in charge of the Winton Club, an organization of the younger girls. The music was especially effective. The orchestra was conducted by Mr. Joshua Phippen and was under the management of Mr. W. H. W. Bicknell, and with the well known ability of these two gentlemen combined to create one satisfactory end, little can be said except in general of its real excellence.

Mrs. Clarence C. Miller was manager of properties and Mr. Sylvester H. Taylor assisted Miss Kellogg as stage director.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

To the Citizens of the Town of Winchester:—

Through my desire to allow the advocates of the Fire Department Bill to present their case fully to the Town Meeting, I refrained from taking the floor in opposition until the motion "to lay on the table" was presented. On account of the rules of order adopted for the conduct of the meeting, it was impossible for me to present to the meeting certain facts not only in connection with the bill itself, but also with the management of the department, within the three minutes allowed to any one speaker when a motion to lay on the table is under consideration.

I hesitate somewhat about continuing the argument through the colums of the press, but as I believe the citizens should know some things which have come to my knowledge, I ask your indulgence to present the same while the subject is still fresh in the minds of all.

In the first place, when this subject was called to the attention of the Warrant Committee, a sub-committee was appointed to confer with the two self-appointed Selectmen Engineers to find out their reasons for urging this legislation at this time. The only reason advanced was that in their opinion the Fire Department needed reorganization and this was the only proper way to go about it. They concluded their remarks with the dignified (?) and manly (?) statement that they were sick and tired of the whole Fire Department question, and unless the town accepted the provisions of this bill at this meeting, they would resign their positions as Engineers at once, and appoint others to run the department in the old way.

It would seem as though this was the appointed time for them to carry out their threat, and give to the town a competent board of engineers, who will look into the needs of the department at once, and not allow the town to be again placed in the same predicament as at the time of the fire on June 10th, just across the line in Woburn.

On this occasion the alarm came in at about 12.45 p. m. After a run of one and one-half miles from the centre to the hydrant nearest the fire, a hydrant stream was put on the fire, but without much effect on account of low pressure. After the arrival of the steamer which was somewhat delayed from the fact that there was no one at the house to drive, connection was made with the hydrant and water was pumped through about 2000 feet of hose. On account of the increased pressure from the steamer, 600 feet of hose burst. One hose wagon was entirely stripped of hose, and the other wagon had only 200 or 300 feet left after the breaks were repaired. Added to the mishap of bursted hose, no effort was made for almost two hours to send one hose wagon home to load up with dry hose to be in readiness to respond to any other alarm which might come in. Only one line of hose was in use, and it certainly did not require the services of all the men who responded to the alarm to man it. Before the orders were given to makeup and go home, it was discovered that there was not enough hose in town to equip both wagons, and the engineers were forced to borrow 200 feet of hose from the Woburn Department, in order to protect the lives and homes of the citizens of Winchester.

Although the Boards of Engineers for the last four years, at least, have recommended the purchase of some new hose, none has been bought since 1910. The advocate of this new measure, in appearing before the Warrant Committee to ask for a transfer of $275 from the Automobile Chemical Account to the Fire Department Account, stated that no new hose was necessary. A sad commentary on the efficiency of our Fire Engineers.

No department is more essential to the welfare and safety of any community than its Fire Department, and it should be kept up to the highest point of efficiency and equipment, and should be managed by practical men, well equipped with knowledge necessary to give our citizens the best possible service.

With reference to the bill itself, I believe it is a step in the right direction, but there are certain sections in this particular bill which I think are not only unfair but are dangerous to the proper management of the department. Winchester may not be as large as Brookline, but it is certainly as important, and I think deserves to have its affairs conducted along the best lines. I do not profess to know any more about this question than the gentlemen who are in favor of this new measure, but I do think that the Brookline bill, in the long run, will prove better for the Town of Winchester than this proposed measure, and I hope that we shall have the opportunity of carefully considering step by step in an informal way, any new legislation looking to a reorganization of our Fire Department, before we pass the final vote to accept or reject any measure.

WINGATE CAPTAIN OF HARVARD NINE.

Dana J. P. Wingate, a Harvard sophomore, and shortstop on the Harvard base ball team for the past season, was elected to lead the team next season, immediately following the second defeat by Yale Wednesday.

Wingate has the distinction of being the first sophomore elected a captain at base ball for nearly a score of years and the lot is one that only seldom befalls a man on any of the teams at Cambridge.

Wingate entered college a year ago from Exeter, where he played for two years, captaining the team in his senior year there. He came to the front immediately at Harvard, and was elected captain of the 1911 freshman team. His work at short this season has marked him as one of the fastest college fielders on the diamond. His work on the bases is thorough and speedy. He knows base ball, and is a hard hitter, having led the Harvard batting list all the year.

A SUCCESSFUL PICNIC.

The get-together picnic of all Winchester Sunday Schools was a complete success in every way. While the early morning seemed disappointing, ideal weather prevailed all day. The committee finding that many who would have attended the picnic were unable to do so, concluded to dispense with the special train and extra cars were used on 8.17 and 8.26 trains to Boston. The sail down the harbor was appreciated and enjoyed by the 300 men, women and children; there was no crowding on the boat, every one had plenty of room. The party had the use of a large pavilion on the beach, where tables and settees were provided. The sports provided by Mr. Jordan's committee kept every one busy. First a base ball for men and then a girl's game. The tug of war between the men was immensely interesting as well as boys' and also girls' tug of war. Paragon Park and the other attractions served to keep every one amused and entertained. Not an accident of any kind happened. Every thing went smoothly and orderly. The 4.40 boat took a happy tired crowd back to Boston, just escaping a thunder storm. A quick transfer to North Station and the 6.29 train landed us again in Winchester. The transportation facilities were very satisfactory and Mr Ferguson of the B. & M. was very accommodating. The Elevated officials granted every convenience and supervision that could be desired and Nantasket Steamboat Company extended every courtesy. Mr. F. E. H. Heath, treasurer of joint committee, should be commended for his handling of the finances. Every member of the various committees did his work well and should be congratulated.

We hope it a similar picnic is held in 1913 that even a much larger number will attend and perhaps things can be conducted on a much larger scale. The committee would request that all unused tickets be returned on Sunday at the various Sunday Schools.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The week at the Castle Square beginning Monday will be given over to "Charley's Aunt," one of the most popular and merriest of modern farces. It has been seen in Boston for two seasons, and it is certain to be heartily welcomed. "Charley's Aunt" has had more performances and longer runs than any play of its kind, and it has made the fortunes of its authors and its producers.

The leading role of Lord Fancourt Babberley will be played by Donald Meek, and other characters will be taken by members of Mr. Craig's company fresh from their acting of "The End of the Bridge" in Chicago. This farce is sure to be one of the liveliest productions at the Castle Square Theatre that it has ever had in Boston.

Evarts W. Pond will use his high-powered Stevens Duryea car for touring parties by the day, hour or trip. Mr. Pond has camping outfits and would take trips through the White Mountains, Maine or western Massachusetts at very reasonable rates. Telephone Winchester 921-W.

TOWN MEETING.

upon the table, urging as a reason the small attendance. He believed the matter of sufficient importance to place it on the ballot at the annual meeting. A two-thirds vote of the meeting was necessary on this article.

Mr. Farnsworth favored the original motion in substance and hoped the matter would be settled. Messrs. Tuck and Carter favored laying on the table Without much discussion the meeting voted to lay on the table 93 to 76.

Article 9 was then reached. Town counsel Dutch presented the motion under this article, moving for acceptance. The agreement, although lengthy, was read by Moderator Ives. In substance the agreement provided for the restoration of the buildings in the center affected by the work of eliminating the railroad crossing to their original condition, allowing damages for loss of rents. In cases where this were not possible the question of damages was to be left to a board of arbitration.

Mr. Tuck arose first, in opposition to the acceptance of the agreement, stating that it would only delay the elimination of the crossing. Mr. Russell stated that the warrant committee favored the motion. Mr. Prime questioned the agreement, raising the contention that it was not valid and binding. Mr. Dutch replied that the agreement had been carefully drawn up and was the most important step in the crossing elimination matter before the town. Dr. Allen, Mr. Tuck and Mr. Carter all spoke. The motion to accept the agreement was carried.

Article 10, providing for the sale of a tract of 5000 feet of land in the hill district, owned by the town, originally bought for a school site, proved to be the longest under discussion. It appeared that when Senator Vincent purchased his large tract of land on High street this parcel was included in the deed, but upon looking up the title it was found to be the property of the town. The Senator desired to purchase this to clear his title.

Mr. Pike offered a motion to sell under supervision of the selectmen, stating that the lot had not been used for over twenty-five years, that it was not desired by the school committee, being too small to erect a building upon and such a school building would not be needed in that section for many years. Mr. P. E. Fitzgerald spoke on the motion. Mr. Russell moved an amendment providing for the sale of the land by "public sale" in place of private sale. Mr. Carter favored the amendment and motion. Messrs. Tuck and Whitney spoke in opposition and favored laying on the table.

Mr. Carter desired action on the matter. Mr. Tuck spoke again and Mr. Richards favored tabling Mr. Russell spoke, again giving the report of the school committee on the matter and urging the sale. Mr. Holland and Mr. Laraway made enjoyable speeches in opposition Mr. Daly explained the matter regarding Senator Vincent's desire to clear his title.

The motion of amendment was lost 87 to 59, and the vote was carried.

Voted—That Selectmen be and hereby are authorized and empowered to sell the Hill School Lot, so called, at public auction and in the name of and on behalf of the Town to sign, seal, acknowledge and deliver to the purchasers a proper deed or deeds. The money received from such sale shall be placed to the credit of Incidentals Account, to be expended under the direction of the Selectmen.

Article 12, providing for the revisal of the rental rates for the use of the Town Hall, proved another lengthy question. The selectmen stated that the rates at present were not sufficient to cover the cost of maintenance and were badly arranged in proportion, and that the board was not empowered to issue licenses for its use.

The meeting was divided. One faction desired rates lowered; the other desired the revision, with the exception that each speaker had some one organization which he desired concessions be made to. Mr. Tuck favored lowering the rates. Mr. Dwinell favored a retention of the present rates or lowering them. Mr. Whitney desired reduction made to the Ladies' Fortnightly, and upon this it was requested that all local organizations be allowed a reduction.

Mr. Russell then ammended with a reduction of 10 per cent. to local organizations. Mr. Carter and Mr. Kerr favored present rates or lower. Prof. Zueblin desired information regarding issuance of licenses for use of the hall, and Mr. Pike replied that such authority should be granted to some one. He spoke in favor of the proposed rates, stating that they did not cover expenses and were poorly arranged. Mr. Farnsworth desired to divide motion to allow selectmen to receive the vote to issue licenses and allow the question of rates to be settled separately. Mr. Holland spoke. The Russell ammendment was then put to vote and lost. Mr. Rowe then spoke in opposition to any one organization receiving special benefits.

Mr. Whitney then changed the motion offered favoring the Fortnightly to "any local organization." Mr. Daly did not favor this amendment; it left it wholly upon the selectmen to determine this question and would cause trouble; the meeting should be more specific. Mr. Woods made amendment to reduce rates proposed 20 per cent. which would

The Whitney amendment was put to bring them to their present prices and embody the needed revision. This amendment was withdrawn owing to the desire of the meeting to settle the matter, the meeting and lost. Mr. Farnsworth moved to strike out the revised rates in the motion. This brought up the free use of the hall for school graduations and for the Visiting Nurse Association, resulting in their being included under the free list. The motion was then passed.

Voted—That the selectmen are hereby authorized and empowered to grant and appoint an agent or agents to grant the use of the Town Hall and the rooms connected therewith for any lawful and proper purposes and to issue licenses therefor to suitable persons subject to such reasonable conditions (to be expressed in each license) as said Selectment may prescribe.

And the said selectmen are further authorized and empowered to permit the use of the halls at reasonable times without charge for the graduation exercises of the public schools on the request of the school committee, and also by the Visiting Nurse Association.

The monies received for the uses aforesaid shall be placed to the credit of the Town Hall Account to be expended under the direction of the Selectmen.

The following vote was then offered:—

Voted—That the license fees for the use of the Town Hall shall be the same sums as now charged for like purposes under present rates.

Article 13, providing for the yearly election of a moderator came next, a motion being offered by Mr. Rowe to that effect. Messrs. Tuck and Whitney opposed. It was voted to lay on the table.

Article 14. Referred to Committee on By-Laws under article 3.

Article 15. Referred to same committee.

As article 16 was reached the meeting voted to dissolve.

CHILD LABOR IN MASSACHUSETTS

Esther Parshley.

Ten years ago Massachusetts was the leader in the crusade against Child Labor. Today the charge is brought against her that, after generations of leadership in all humanitarian movements, she has of late distinctly retrogated. During the last three years New York, New Jersey and the Central West have far outstripped her. She fell back largely because of her fear of the textile competition in the South. Now that alarm is gone. Yet Massachusetts has not regained her supremacy.

ESTHER PARSHLEY

It was in the last half of the 19th century that laws were first passed regulating the employment of women in industries. Yet not until comparatively recent ago did the real war begin. Then there swept over the face of the entire country the realization that Child Labor existed in America; that conditions in glass and textile factories, and even public streets were a cross of changes and oppression to the tender minds and bodies of children. Thereupon the National Child Labor Committee was organized and began its attempt to remedy this evil. In this movement Massachusetts was prominent. And what dreadful conditions were discovered right here in our own state. One night messenger service for example! This was the school for vice and immorality of every sort. A boy in this service could come out nothing but a moral wreck. In the Massachusetts reform schools in 1909, 8 per cent. of the boys had been messengers or employed in street work. In 1911 the existing law in Massachusetts was amended to exclude boys under 21 from messenger service after 10 p. m. Then take another occupation where the children were entirely neglected—the stage. The little fat, happy and gay, dancing behind the footlights, is quite a different picture from the weary, sleepy child, leaving the stage at eleven or twelve o'clock, after hours of the evening's work, and having been in the midst of low, unprincipled men and women. How could it go on to perfect womanhood when her childhood was thus ruined? In 1903 a 14 year old law was passed, which prohibited children under that age from working during school hours or after 7 p. m. Behold as that law is, attempts are constantly made to secure amendments in favor of the stage. People were ever ready to say anything because of the prevalence of the practice, but no one could not have Maeterlinck's "Blue Bird." Yet now, with tears, we feel that we have had the "Blue Bird" and have fully appreciated its true happiness at home.

But to a place where the most dreadful conditions prevailed was the factory and the mill. All over Massachusetts were conditions which seem incredible to us, so pitiful were they. Can you imagine your own little boy or girl, employed in a rubber factory, creating under the "spreader," remaining ten minutes doubled up beneath planks which are asbestos covered to make the heat more endurable; or in dye houses, where the vapors from the dyes are injurious to youth, or worst of all in the thicker the textile factories, where the little ones worked often far into the night, weakening physically from lack of light and air, weakening mentally from monotonous toil and weakening morally from contact with impurity? According to one statement two baby hands were yearly lost in the textile industries alone. This may have been exaggerated, yet we cannot imagine how many mares were saddened by accidents to the little tots.

Since 1912 the legislation in Massachusetts limits the hours of labor for boys under 16 and girls under 18 to 54 hours a week. Three grades of schooling are required before children under 16 may work, and there is now before the legislature a proposition to extend the necessary schooling to the fifth grade. Moreover, before any child may work he must pass in a birth certificate and a certificate from the school which he has left.

Now the question naturally arises: How exactly are these laws obeyed? It goes without saying that there are constant attempts to evade the regulations. Children who are unable to meet these requirements either in age or education continually seek employment. The birth certificate, which is necessary before a minor may work, is frequently either a forgery or a lie. For example, take the Syrians who come over here. A little 11 year old boy passes in an 18 year old slip. It is signed by a Syrian priest and the employer is too eager for help to question it.

Unfortunately there is no single authority concerned with the enforcement of these laws. Inspectors of the child employing industries are in charge of the bureau of fire and detective inspectors. This is a branch of the state police service. Prosecutions, of course, are carried on through the regular offices of the commonwealth. The local police, health, and educational departments are also concerned in looking after the child labor problem. Such lack of unity must operate unfavorably. John Golden, president of the United States Textile Workers, says: "Go out among the textile workers of any New England state, and I will warrant that factory inspectors are a joke to them and that factory inspectors are a farce." Progress demands some kind consolidation for cheapness, thoroughness and rapidity of law enforcement. What we need is co-operation between the inspectors of the different branches. In fact there is now a bill before the legislature to establish a state board of labor and industries, which shall take over all the powers and duties of the factory inspectors and the state police.

Now, not only should we insist on more rigid enforcement of our present laws, but we should require more progressive legislation. Through the third grade one learns only to read and write simple English sentences. Unlike the boy, whose mother, when asked if her son took trigonometry in college, replied: "No, but he was exposed to it," these children are not even exposed to the schooling necessary before they can become efficient. Particularly inadequate are these requirements for the foreign born workers, who in the textile industries constitute 9.10 of the employees. Are we, as a state, doing our duty either to our own people or to our foreign population? Other states have better laws than we do. Nine, including New York, Ohio and Illinois, have the eight hour law for children under 16; fifteen states require more schooling than we do. Clearly our laws should be more strict.

Yet after all, state regulations only partially solve the problem. What we as a nation need is a uniform Child Labor Law. One has been proposed by the United States Commissioners on Uniform Laws. This demands an 8 hour day, 48 hour week law, night work prohibited after 7 p. m. for children under 16, and five grades required before children under 16 may work. Surely public opinion ought to demand the passage and enforcement of such a law. Should not every citizen of Massachusetts who profits at least in comfort and adornment by what the children make, feel a responsibility for their welfare? Should he not contend against the sacrifice of the children in health, education and morals, and with all his might strive for their final happiness?

PREVENTION OF COAL MINE DISASTERS

Wesley H. Blank.

In its single year of existence, the recently organized Bureau of Mines has worked wonders. The two great purposes for which this Bureau was created, were to prevent mine explosions, and to lessen the great waste of mineral resources. The latter task is just being commenced, but the campaign to prevent mine accidents is well under way.

In the coal mines of the United States in 1906, 2061 men were killed and 4800 injured; more than in the coal mines of France, Belgium, and Great Britain combined. No wonder the terrible mortality in our country aroused workers and inspectors to form an organization to try to prevent accidents in the mines. This body found that the two chief dangers to contend with were electrical accidents and coal dust explosions.

WESLEY HOWARD BLANK

Electricity by virtue of its many advantages has generally been adopted in mines. When it is properly installed, maintained, and operated, there need be little fear from it. However, accidents often occur on account of the ignorance and indifference of miners. Therefore simple reviewed bulletins on electricity and its dangers have been published and placed in the hands of the mine foremen so that the miners will understand the necessary precautions. Care in handling and transporting explosives near electricity is especially emphasized. Furthermore necessary safety devices for the protection of the trolley wire and a research to find an insulator that will withstand the action of the acid mineral water are the present problems of the Bureau.

Gas and coal dust explosions present a most complicated difficulty. In general they are brought about by ignition and combustion. Tests at the Pittsburg Station have proved that dry coal dust will explode whether any inflammable gas is present or not. However, the presence of a very small portion of methane, less than 1 per cent., greatly increases the danger. The dry pure dust has such power to spread an explosion that it is more threatening and deadly to the miner than fire damp. Explosions thus spread may extend through miles of rooms and entries and even wreck structures at the entrance of the mine.

Explosions of fire damp although violent do not extend all through the mines, and is supported by burning coal dust. Moreover, in well ventilated mines there is little danger of a large body of fire damp collecting.

Explosions are started in various ways. The tamping of blasts with fine coal, miners lamps, electrical apparatus and arcs are common causes. Blow-outs and long flames from black powder often cause explosions by heating the dust that might be jarred down from the roof by the shock of the blast.

Now it is impossible to prevent dust in mines, for most coal falls to pieces easily. Dust is made at the face when the coal is undercut either by hand or with machines, and if coal is "shot off the solid" it is badly broken and still more fine dust is produced. Yet in spite of the fact that a great deal of dust is unavoidable, there are several ways of lessening the amount. Coal should always be undercut or sheared. When blasting is necessary a charge only large enough to do the work should be used. In Germany the method of mining coal by forcing water under high pressure into the face through drill holes has been recently tried and found [illegible] greatly the amount of dry dust made at the face.

Furthermore there are various methods of rendering the dust harmless. The stone dust treatment is one of these ways. Finely crushed shale is thrown on the ribs and roofs of the passageways and also scattered along the floor. This heavier rock dust holds the coal dust down and completely covers it. The method promises to be of great value in mines where the roof may be injured by wetting, and in the Rocky Mountain coal fields where water is scarce and air is dry. This precaution has been adopted at the Cretonts Colliery in England.

The method of wetting coal dust, already used in Wales, has been proved thoroughly successful by tests at the Pittsburg stations and in many mines in the United States. There are a number of ways of wetting down the dust; by means of water carts, hose and nozzle, and by moistening the air currents. The water carts have been found of little avail, because of the difficulty experienced in wetting dry coal dust by merely throwing water on it. However, systematic washing down by hose and nozzle is an excellent way. To make fine coal dust so damp that it can be molded in the hand, 33 per cent. of water must be added. This method is particularly advantageous for watering a place before firing a shot, and is required in European Countries.

The simplest method of keeping a mine damp is to moisten the ventilating currents. There are two ways; by placing fixed sprays at intervals throughout the mine, and by moistening the intake air at the mouth. The latter is perhaps the better, as it is more convenient and exhaust steam may be used.

Another device for keeping down coal dust is using a deliquescent salt; that is, one which slowly dissolves by absorbing moisture from the air. Calcium chloride is such a salt. When applied to the ribs and roof five to six pounds are dissolved in one hundred pounds of water, and the solution is sprinkled on the timbers. On roads where the coal dust is thick it is best to sow the granulated form broadcast. The little granules of salt by absorbing moisture from the air dampen the dust particles. After the surface of the dust in the road is thus moistened any new dust that falls upon it will be moist in turn. This plan has been used for two years at the coal mines near Welch, West Virginia.

From experiments which engineers of the Bureau of Mines have made, and facts they have gathered from hundreds of mines it is sincerely believed that by proper care a large proportion of both electrical and coal dust disasters can be prevented.

THE SCIENCE OF ADVERTISING

Almena Cogswell.

The present age is an era of big enterprise. We have big buildings, big warships, big railroads, big canals, big trusts, big business. And this big business both develops and is developed by big advertising. Indeed the amount of advertising today is enormous. People sometimes wonder how a publisher can sell his magazines or newspapers so cheap. They forget that he receives far more from his advertisers than from subscriptions. Some publishers receive $4,000 for a page in one issue of a magazine. And we all know what countless pages of advertising there are. Yet with all the printed matter, not to mention other methods of attracting public attention, the schools of advertising say that this business is just in its infancy. Surely it is constantly increasing. The most conservative business men are coming to realize it as practically a necessity. Even churches recognize its advantages. For many years they have had short notices in the paper or bulletins at the church door. Now they have cards in the hotels or street cars. Nevertheless when we compare the number of advertisements with the number of possible advertisers, we cannot fail to note the enormous opportunities for further progress.

Now, that advertising has assumed such importance, there has developed a psychology of advertising; that is, the scientific study of effective methods of reaching the public. Some men have thought that psychology and business could not work together, but that has been proved false. During recent years the psychologist has been working to find out how ideas can be conveyed with a suggestive force from one mind to another. Even so small a thing as the kind of type used may be important. Much depends on the characters of the illustration. If unwisely chosen it is sure to suggest wrong ideas to the mind of the prospective customer. The psychologist calls our attention also to the effects of repetition. A person may see an advertisement once, twice, or a dozen times without its having any effect on him, but if he sees it a hundred times it will probably make an impression. Treating this subject of psychological advertising Mr. Deland says, "I believe that imagination is as valuable in the management of trade as in any of the arts." And indeed it is clear that the skilful use of the imagination is at the basis of the whole problem.

In this first place one must realize the effect that the advertisements will have on other people. For one thing, a command is very effective. The reader's natural impulse is to obey. A manager of a cereal firm wrote in his advertisement: "Sit right down and write for a sample." He received an amazing response and that too, although the public was already overloaded with free samples of cereals. Another trait of human nature is the inability to throw away anything of value. A firm dealing in oriental rugs found itself overloaded with goods.

Accordingly it had place in several papers a certificate which would be taken as one dollar on a purchase. This experiment proved such a success that 1600 rugs were sold. The following is a similar instance; A publisher prepared a series of pictures of the Civil War. They were offered at five dollars, but proved unsalable.

Thereupon a receipt for four dollars was sent to every G. A. R. man as part payment for the series. Probably many did not want to pay even one dollar for the pictures, but no man could throw the four dollars away. Thus these pictures were sold.

One must be imaginative also in devising advertisments that catch the attention. Some illustrations are very successful. A familiar example is that of the unkempt tramp signing a soap certification which was written: "Two years ago I used your soap; I have used no other since." The picture of the talking machine with the little dog listening to "his master's voice" is an excellent catch-sign. Some humorous advertisements are successful. This was seen in a tailor shop. "We dye for others, why not let us dye for you?" A silversmith next door to a resturant having put up a placard, "Jewelry of all kinds plated," the restaurant keeper followed with this: Oysters and little neck clams plated." Others unintentionally humorous may not be so successful.

This card appeared in a restaurant: "Small steak, 20 cents, extra small steak, 25 cents."

ALMENA COGSWELL

Advertisements which form a series have a much longer life than any other kind. Not only does the reader stop to wonder at the business that can afford such an outlay, but if he sees one advertisement he is anxious to see others also.

There are, however, more ways of advertising than by printed notices. Many ingenious schemes may be worked out. The use of mechanical signs is very common. For the display of precious stones the following combination of a butterfly and flower has been used. By means of a clock work mechanism the petals of the flower alternately open and close, and at the same time the wings of the butterfly move. Such signs are very attractive. People passing by try to find out the secret of the mechanism, and therefore the advertisement remains in their minds.

Some department stores advertise by maintaining free tea-rooms or sometimes by giving phonograph concerts. Of course to reach these amusements one must pass through such an attractive department that he can scarcely come away without making some unintended purchase. Some dealers have guessing contests with a prize for the winner. In order to have the privilege of guessing one must first purchase goods. At christmas time one firm offered to give five hundred dollars to any charity which received the most votes. Each person buying ten cents' worth of goods was entitled to a vote. In this way their business was greatly increased, for everyone interested in a certain charity not only bought all his Christmas presents there, but induced his friends to do likewise.

Especially important is it to remember that appeals to the imagination of the public are very successful. Many dyspeptics come to grief when they see a steaming dish of corned beef and cabbage displayed in a window. Poor men, their imaginations are too strong for them! The most elementary business may furnish examples of this appeal. One Saturday night two bootblacks were on opposite sides of the same street. The cry of the first was, "Shine your boots here," but the cry of the second was, "Get your Sunday shine." No punctilious church-goer could resist that call. Accordingly this boy received more trade. It must always be remembered that the price does not count for so much as the reason for the price. A high price with a good reason will sell more goods than a low price with a poor reason. What are fire sales, removal sales, and such, but reasons for the price; that is, appeals to the imagination? Reduce your one hundred dollar overcoats to sixty dollars without a reason and you may not sell any; but on account of the expiration of your lease and the necessity of vacating your store reduce your one hundred dollar overcoats to eighty dollars and they will go quickly.

A word or two will sum up the essential points. Use your imagination in appealing to the weaknesses of human nature in contriving ingenious methods of attracting attention, and in awakening the imagination of the public." Imagination, said Napoleon, "rules the world." Therefore let imagination rule your advertising and your advertising must rule the world.

THE GREEK IN MASSACHUSETTS

Edward S. Murphy.

The Greek in Massachusetts today, presents a great social civic and economical problem to all the mill towns of the state. His coming has brought to a climax the great battle for cheaper labor, which has been fought for the last forty years.

When Dickens made his tour of New England in 1867, he chanced to spend a Sunday in Lowell, where he was much impressed by the appearance of the bright-faced Yankee mill girls. They were a happy, contented lot and represented the general class of mill employees of that time. But what a change has been brought about in the last forty years; The Irish immigrants, pouring into the mill towns were soon able by their economical means of living to work for a little less than the Yankee girls.

The French next came on the scene, and after living here awhile, found that they could work for lower wages than the Irish and were soon firmly established. The French were not without rivals, however, for the thrifty Polander came to make his living in this state, and his scales of wages being still lower than that of the French mill employee, he took his place in the mill and soon forced the French to seek other employments. It hardly seemed possible that the Polander would be obliged to leave the mills by one who could work cheaper than he, but the Greek was the man who did it.

In every mill town of New England may be found the Greek quarters. Here they live in small, unkept tenements, amid dirt and disease. The majority of them are men and boys. For example, in Lowell, of the 9,000, 6,500 of them are men and boys over 14 years of age. This means that over two-thirds of them are able to work in the mills.

The usual manner of living is for one man to hire a tenement and take ten or twelve more men and boys to board with him. This man who is called the "Boss" takes charge of the affairs of the house and each of his boarders pay him a small sum of money every week. In this manner of living the whole secret of cheap labor is founded. They live very economically, and although their average pay is but six dollars per week, they manage to save something in that. They buy the cheapest of food and clothing, and furnish their houses in the barest possible manner. They rise together in the morning, prepare their own breakfast, and go to work. As a general rule, there are no loafers, but if one man does happen to be out of employment he takes the position of housekeeper. Otherwise, the others must, when they come back at night, see to their own supper. This is an especially hard life in winter as the houses are not weatherproof, and the only heat is from the kitchen stove, the fire in which is allowed to go out during the day, and must be rebuilt at night. In the few houses where there are women, the manner of living is somewhat changed as they can do a great deal of the household work and make things more homelike and comfortable.

Sunday is a busy day in the Greek quarters, for on this day the men must attend to their household duties, such as washing, mending, and shoe repairing, to which no attention could be given during the week. They all assemble in the grimy, unkept kitchen, while one is playing on a banjo or guitar, the rest are singing as they busy themselves about their work, and a more happy and contented lot would be hard to find. On Sunday also, the "Boss" settles his bills with the various tradesmen, as this is the only day he can be found at home. As a rule he pays for his goods without any trouble and is always considered a good customer.

The Greeks are, perhaps, the most peaceable foreigners to come to this state, and although the police are sometimes called to quell a disturbance, there are seldom any arrests made for robbery or crimes of that nature. They have a fondness for liquor and keep a supply in every house, but they never go to the public drinking places. Drunkenness is not very prevalent, as the small number of arrests made on that charge can testify. As a colony they keep to themselves and seem to have no inclination to mix in with the other people of the town or city. They neither care to vote nor to improve themselves, nor do they take any part in management of community affairs. In Lowell, out of the 6,000 who might qualify for citizenship, there are but 13 registered voters. This goes to show that their idea is to stay here only long enough to save a little money and then go back to Greece.

But now the question arises: Is the Greek in any way a benefit to the city or town in which he lives? Is he a valuable asset to progress and prosperity of this state. He is naturally a good man for the mill owners as he is a steady worker, and will work for almost starvation wages. His value to the mill owner, however, is greatly overbalanced by his detriment to the community. He calls for a cheaper grade of houses, and an inferior grade of food and clothing; he pays no taxes, and takes no interest in the affairs about him. He makes no demand for education, neither does he vote, and in short he tends to lower the general standard of living in the community where he settles. Thus he presents, not only to the people of Massachusetts, but to the people of the whole nation as well, an unsolvable, social, civic and economic problem.

AS HIS FATHER MIGHT HAVE DONE.

(An Historical Story.)

Anna V. Cullen.

It was in the early morning of April 19, 1775. In the old Lexington belfrey the bell kept up a steady clang. The sound of the galloping hoots of Paul Revere's horse had died away an hour before. Through the closed shutters of the old Harrington farm-house, the flickering lights of the candles showed that the widow and her son were awake. Stealthfully the boy crept down the long, creeking stairs and paused for a moment at his mother's door. He heard a sound within, "Mother," he whispered, "Mother they're coming, they're coming!"

Without answering, the widow opened the door, and followed her son to the kitchen. There, by the light of the candle, held high above her head, the boy but nineteen years old, drew down the old musket and seized the powder-horn from above the fireplace.

As he paused in the doorway, his mother's arm rested upon his shoulder, and he heard those oft repeated words: "James, do only as your father would have done." He kissed her and was gone.

ANNA VENCENTIA CULLEN

Through the blackberry briers along the garden fence, over a number of ditches, under the shadow of some of the very houses that today are marked with tablets, he hurried along. From all directions men were hastening, with the same weapons, the same spirit, and the same purpose.

When James Harrington reached the green, a group of perhaps fifty men were gathered about their leader, Captain Parker, all thrilling with the resistance that springs to the heart when those, born with the spirit of freedom, suffer injustice and oppression. "There are yet no signs of the British, we'll not stay here, but we'll be ready at a moments notice."

"We'll be ready at a moment's notice," Captain Parker's words thrilled the boy.

In excited groups, the men made their way into the Buckman Tavern

James was in the last group, and when he entered the Tavern, all the seats and benches were filled. He leaned against the wall an eager but silent listener to all that was going on about him.

"I wonder where Hancock is now?" said Ebenezer Monroe, in low tones, as he turned around in order that all might hear his inquiry.

Just as he spoke Asabel Porter of Woburn entered, his jacket torn and his knee breeches hanging over his long, muddy boots. "I saw him as I came through the woods, about a mile and a half north of the Concord River. Adams was with him, and some young woman. Hancock wanted to come back and face the British, but the young woman pleaded so hard that he stayed with her."

"Who is this young woman any way, and what is Hancock hiding in the woods for?" interrupted Caleb Richardson.

"The young woman is Dorothy Quincy, who has been staying at the Hancock's since her father's house was put under the ban. Don't you know that the British are after Hancock and mean to capture him for hiding powder," answered Porter, quite disturbed to think of any one in the country side around that did not know.

"What, hiding powder? Then open resistance to the King is really intended," said a sharp voice from the farthest corner of the room.

They looked first at one another in amazement and then to the speaker. He was a small, thin man evidently a stranger, as no one seemed to recognize him.

"We do not mean to resist the King, but we will never allow our rights to be encroached upon. If King George means to have war we are ready to begin," returned Captain Parker.

"War, a parcel of rebels, against King George," and the stranger sneered. "Foul treason, base folly," and again he sneered.

No one answered, all feared that more had been said than was good for this loyal subject of his majesty to have heard. Although there were many things they would have been glad to have asked about—, the strength of King George's army, and aid Massachusetts would receive from their sister colonies, or even Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; yet good judgment told them that they were not even then without the presence of the enemy. The thin, spare stranger heard little more that would give rise to a sneer from any Britisher.

Suddenly, the sound of a drum was heard. It was a call to arms. The men seized their muskets and hurried out to the green. As James Harrington passed the stranger, he heard him mutter in deep, low tones, "A parcel of rebels, a handful of dogs, against King George. Insult, treason!"

The boy, on the mad impulse of the moment, raised his hand to strike but was prevented by Porter. "Tut, tut boy," he said, as he laid a kindly restraining hand on the boy's arm, "the time has'nt come yet."

Out on the village green, Captain Parker drew his men to the right of that huge granite bowlder that today marks the spot where one of the greatest wars of history had its birth. Slowly and steadily the British approached. In clear, deep tones among the silent ranks of America's sturdy farmer soldiers, were heard those famous words of Captain Parker, "Don't fire unless fired upon; but if they mean to have a war let it begin here."

Face to face stood the "embattled farmers" and the long trained royal redcoats. Major Pitcairn rode forward and commanded in angry tones, "Disperse, ye villains, ye rebels, disperse!"

The Americans stood silent, immovable. A flash of Pitcairn's sword, "Lay down your arms, I say, why don't you lay down your arms and disperse!"

James Harrington, forgetful of his Captains command, saw only the hated British before him, heard only the stinging words of their red-coated leader. Quick as a flash, he raised his musket and snapped the old flint-lock. The powder only flashed in the pan, but it was answered by a shot from the redcoats. This was the beginning.

When the smoke had cleared away the British were marching toward the Concord road. Seven men lay dead upon Lexington green.

The homes on all sides gave up the wives and mothers who that day for the cause of right, had sent forth their best

Among them was the widow Harrington. She ran toward her boy, who stood with bowed head against a tree. For a moment he hardly noticed her, and then he drew her slowly aside, and told her the whole story. His shame at having disobeyed, his self reproach at his own hot-headedness, his remorse as he saw the dead and wounded carried off the field. Gently, she drew him nearer, "But my boy you did only as your father might have done."

REGULATIONS AND RATES RELATIVE TO WATER.

"Section 6. Upon the non-payment of the water rates for sixty days after they are payable, the Collector shall serve a summons upon the delinquent; and unless said rates are paid within ten days thereafter together with twenty cents for said summons, the Collector shall notify the Registrar, who shall shut off the water, and it shall not be turned on until the amount due, together with the twenty cents for the summons and one dollar for the shutting off and turning on is paid. The foregoing provisions shall apply it two or more parties take water from the same service pipes, although one or more of them may have paid the proportion due from him or them. Said summons may be served in any of the ways provided by law for the service of a summons for the non payment of a tax."

G. Molasso's latest and most sensational French pantomime, "La Somnambule," with Mlle. Nina Payne and a splendid company of fifteen Parisian dancers and comes to B. F. Keiths' Theatre next week for an engagement of one week only. Mons. Molasso is the greatest producer of pantomime that this country has ever seen, and some of his productions, notably "The Rose of Mexico" and "Paris by Night," have been unsurpassed for beauty and novelty. One of the big features is "La Danse du Nuit," performed by Mlle. Nina Payne, which ends with a sensational fall down a flight of steps. P. O'Malley Jennings and Katherine Nelson will introduce their new specialty, "A Bit o' English;" the Primrose Four, a splendid quartette known as "1000 pounds of harmony." Other features are Morris and Kramer, novelty entertainers on their first visit here; Clara Ballerini is a wonderful Spanish dancer and aerialist; and others yet to be announced.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

There seems to be considerable cause for the complaints of residents on Mt. Vernon and Main streets and Highland avenue of the unnecessary and incessant noise caused by passing automobiles with their mufflers cut out. It seems to be the practice of many autoists to take any and every grade with the engine wide open and the muffler cut out, although there appear to be a few cars with enough power to negotiate a hill under ordinary conditions. A number of complaints have been received at this office and persons living on these thoroughfares appear to be ready to have the nuisance stopped if it is in their power. It certainly seems as though the limit of this nuisance had been reached and that these residents could find redress for this continuous noise at all hours of the day and night.

The total sum realized from the recent June Breakfast was $775 29, all bills being paid.

Among the many attractions of the "Cardinal Table" at St. Mary's Home Party Winchester, Saturday, June 29, will be a lite size bust of his Eminence Cardinal O'Connell by Hugh Cairns the noted Boston Sculptor.

The interscholastic race of High School fours for the Lawson trophy will be paddled on Mystic Lake Saturday afternoon. Following the race a regatta will be held by the Winchester Boat Club. There will be several novelty events. In the evening there will be a dance at the clubhouse to which the members of the Medford Boat Club have been invited.

Edwards and Poor Co. are installing the plumbing in Mr. Scudder Klyce's residence, Highland terrace.

The grading of Wedgemere avenue, from Foxcroft road through to Wildwood street by George B. Whitehorne is being rapidly pushed to completion. This avenue which is being laid out to correspond to that part of the avenue already completed is 80 feet in width, having grass-plots on either side of 16 feet in width from curbing to sidewalk. This together with the fact that this property is carefully restricted should be eventually the most beautiful street in Winchester. Interest is already manifested in this new tract, the lot corner of Wedgemere avenue, and Foxcroft road having been sold and upon which a costly new residence is to be immediately erected.

Mrs. Frank Bader, formerly Miss Katherine Lynn of this town came from Perth Amboy, N. J., accompanied by Mrs. John McGonigle of Orange, N. J., to attend the graduation of Henry L. Blackham from the High School. They are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Blackham of Salem street.

The Winchester base ball team will play the Winthrop K. of C. team on Manchester Field tomorrow afternoon at 3.30.

PROGRAM FOR THE 4TH.

Best Celebration Yet Planned for Day and Evening.

The town of Winchester will hold its usual safe and sane celebration on the 4th, and a program has been arranged to cover the entire day.

The morning will be given over to the sports for the boys and girls on Manchester Field. These will be under the direction of Mr. MacLaren, supervisor of the playground, and will be as follows:

Part 1--Track

1 50 yd dash—boys under 14.
2 100 yd dash—boys over 14.
3 Relay—boys over 14. 4 men teams.
4 50 yd dash—girls over 10.

Part 2—Field Events.

5 Obstacle race—boys under 14.
6 Potato race—girls under 10.
7 Running bases—boys over 14.
8 Running bases—boys 8-14—90 foot diamond
9 Shoe race - boys under 14. Boys to run 20 yds in stocking feet, put on boots, lace them up and tie laces in bow knot.
10 Back and forth relay—girls over 10. 5 girls to a team.
11 Throwing base ball for accuracy. Ball thrown at 16in disc, pitching distance (60 1-2 feet,) each contestant having ten throws.
12 Potatoe race -girls under 10.
13 Potatoe race—boys under 14.
14 Sack race—boys under 14.
15 Hobble skirt race -girls 8-14.

In each event except the relay races, first, second and third prizes will be awarded. In the relays each member of the winning team will be given a prize.

First prize will be cups, second prizes fobs with leather attachment, third prize fobs with ribbon attachment.

Each boy and girl wishing to enter these races must give their name and age, with the event they wish to enter, to Miss Comerford or Mr. McLaren at Manchester Field, before 5.00 p. m., Tuesday, July 2.

This is necessary in order to avoid confusion and enable the committee to prepare for the different events.

The base ball game for July 4th, at 3.30 p. m., will be with the strong Bay Views of South Boston. This is the only team that has beaten Winchester so far this season. Winchester intends to turn the tables on them this game, and (can) the holiday jinxs.

The batteries:

Bay Views—Stockwell and McCarthy.
Winchester—Whittaker and Flaherty.

At 8 the fireworks will be shot off, and the display this year has promised to excell anything in this line yet given in town. This is made possible by the additional expenditure of $100 over the former appropriations for fireworks, and in addition the committee in charge has eliminated the expensive set pieces, using the money thus saved for the increase of the beautiful floating bombs and rockets which created so much admiration last year.

Sajas Italian band has been engaged for the entire day and is reputed to furnish the best music available. Concerts will be given on Manchester Field during the morning, afternoon and evening, the program for the latter concert to be made up of classical music entirely.

MULHERN—FLAHERTY.

Miss Mary Flaherty, daughter of Mrs. Coleman Flaherty, Cedar street, this town, and Mr. John Mulhern of Woburn were married at the parochial residence in Winchester last Sunday evening. The couple were attended by Mr. Patrick Connolly and Miss Julia Flaherty, as best man and bridesmaid. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. The ushers were Messrs. James Gorman, John Feeney, Joseph Manning, John Fitzgerald and John Hennessey. Mr. and Mrs. Mulhern will reside on Holland street, Winchester.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

At a special meeting of the Sunday School Board held Wednesday evening, June 19, it was voted to close the Sunday School during the months of July and August.

The Sunday School has appointed as delegates Mrs. Rev. L. William Adams and Miss Hattie E. Snow, to the Asbury Grove Sunday School Institute, to be held from August 5 to September 2. Special instruction will be given in the latest Sunday School methods.

REV. SIDNEY B. SNOW CALLED TO KING'S CHAPEL.

It is reported that Rev. Sidney Bruce Snow, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Snow of Ridgeway, now pastor of the Second Congregational Society, Unitarian, of Concord, N. H., has received a call to King's Chapel, Boston. If this call is accepted by Mr. Snow, he will go to Boston next October.

WORCESTER—SANDS.

A largely attended wedding was that of Tuesday evening when Miss Alice Lydia Sands, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Sands, was married to Mr. George Leon Worcester of Keene, N. H., at the Sands residence on Lake street. Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon, pastor of the First Congregational Church, was the officiating clergyman, performing the ceremony at seven-thirty.

Decorations of roses, peonies and ferns carried the idea of the month of roses and weddings through the house, and the ceremony was performed beneath an arch of flowers and green. The couple were attended by Miss Jennie Sands, sister of the bride, and Mr. Willis Thompson of Beverly. The wedding march was played by Miss Florence Worcester, sister of the groom, and Mr. Fred W. Sands of this town and Mr. Adiu Thompson of Beverly were the ushers.

A reception followed the ceremony, the newly married couple being assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. George H. Sands and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Worcester, the groom's parents. After a wedding trip through the White Mountains, Mr. and Mrs. Worcester will make their residence in Beverly.

EDISON'S OWN FLAG.

Thomas A. Edison never had a coat of arms, but he has a flag, and this is its birthday. The occasion was marked at noon last Monday at West Orange, N. J., with a presentation and flag raising at the laboratory.

Edison chose the colors at the request of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston, where the idea of an Edison flag was conceived. W. H. Atkins had the bunting made and the second specimen will float from the building where the electrical show of Boston is to be housed. Other Edison companies are expected to adopt the emblem and fly it from their buildings. Mr. Edison preferred yellow and green, and accordingly the field of the flag is yellow, with the name Edison worked on it in green.

Miller Reese Hutchinson accepted the flag on behalf of Mr. Edison. The presentation was made by W. H. Atkins, general superintendent of the Boston company. H. W. Moses, manager of the electrical show, and John Campbell, superintendent of the special service department of the Boston company, hauled the flag to the top of the staff.

Mr. Campbell resides on Euclid avenue, Winchester, and the friends who saw the flag while it was here pronounced it to be unique and pretty.

REAL ESTATE NEWS.

Through the office of Edward T. Harrington Co., George B. Whitehorne of Winchester, Mass., has taken title to about 70,000 square feet of land lying north of Foxcroft road and extending from Wedgemere avenue to the easterly side of Oxford street; the grantors being Nash and Boynton, trustees, of Boston, Mass. This purchase of Mr. Whitehorne's, together with a former purchase of his through the same brokers, gives Mr. Whitehorne a holding in this section of over one-half a million square feet of land.

Agreements have been signed through the same office for the lot of land situated on the northeasterly corner of Foxcroft road and Cambridge street, known as lot No. 94 and having an area of about 14,200 square feet of land. The grantors are Nash and Boynton trustees; the name of the purchaser being withheld for the present.

PIANOFORTE RECITAL.

The Dorchester pupils of Miss Sadie F. Bowser of Winchester gave an interesting and entertaining recital last Saturday afternoon assisted by Mr. William Lawrence Bowser, tenor, and Mrs. Eleanora Denker, reader.

Several of the advanced class made an excellent showing of the years' work, as did many of the second and third grade pupils, the entire program being rendered without notes. Mrs. Denker's selections were humorous and well chosen for the occasion, as was evidenced by all present. Mr. Bowser's solos "Greeting" by Hawley and the "Mission Of A Rose," by Cowen, were well received, as also was the vocal duet "In My Swift Boat," by Mr. and Miss Bowser.

The spacious parlors were profusely decorated with beautiful flowers.

RALPH E. DORSEY.

The news of the sudden death of Mr. Ralph Earle Dorsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Dorsey, was a great shock to his friends in this town. The young man was but thirty years of age. He died at Memphis, Tenn., Friday, June 21st.

Mr. Dorsey was an artist of considerable ability, having served as illustrator for New York papers previously to going to Memphis about four years ago. In that city he was engaged in pictorial advertising. The burial will be private.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

Town Fathers Have a Busy Session Monday Evening.

June 24, 1912.

The board met at 7.30 p. m., all present.

The records of the meeting of June 18th were read and approved.

The highway committee reported that the Edison Company strongly objected to putting out long arm fixtures for incandescent lights; a list of locations for which is under preparation by the town engineer.

A quotation was received from the Puritan Iron Works for 36--20x20 square grates and frames and the highway committee reported that the grates had been ordered.

A petition of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co., for wire attachments to 4 poles on Salem street westerly from Main street, was reported on favorably by the town engineer, and the usual location order was passed.

A letter was received and ordered filed from Geo. H. Carter, Town Clerk, transmiting the text of votes passed at the town meeting of June 10, 1912.

The matter of advertising and selling at public auction the hill school lot was referred to Mr. Pike to provide forms and methods of procedure and to the town engineer to locate the bounds of the lot.

Mr. John W. Hanily of 87 Albion street, Medford, was introduced by Mr. J. A. Laraway and applied for a license to conduct six bowling alleys and six billiard and pool tables in the new building, being erected by Mr. Laraway on Main street adjoining the Niles block, and the matter was referred to the Chief of Police for investigation and report.

Mr. Howard of the Edison Electric Illuminating Co., and Superintendent Ryan of the Postal Telegraph Co., were in attendance and spoke on the petitions of the Edison Electric Illuminating Co. for locations for 11 poles and 38 poles on Ridge street and 51 poles on High street, on which hearings have been held and which were referred to the highway committee and the town engineer June 18th.

The town engineer reported that he had seen Mr. Chas. T. Mosman, electrical engineer, of 5 Wolcott terrace in regard to the advisability of running the electric light wires on the postal poles and he said he was willing to be quoted that such occupation of the poles would be inadvisable.

Mr. Ryan objected to the joint occupation of the poles by high and low tension wires on account of the danger to life; the trunk lines on these poles being operated from Boston to Canada a distance of some 900 miles and not being insulated; and that it was not a practical thing to insulate such wires on account of the expense and on account of their size and weight; that in many places city and town authorities would not allow such occupation of the poles unless good reasons were shown why no other course was possible; that the National Board of Underwriters also insist that the wires be separated to avoid danger of fire. His company also objected to it on account of the induction, which while not serious for a short distance would be serious on so long a distance as that under consideration; that where their wires were used for four circuits each, the proximity of electric wires interfered with the operation of the system under which his quadruplicating is done. He also stated that it was frequently the case that the electric light companies increased their voltage without notice which of course made the interference much more serious and the danger to life greater.

Mr. Howard of the Electric Light Co. stated that the opposition of the Postal Company was not unexpected; that there were ten to fifteen citizens in the High and Ridge street section of the town who wished electric light service and the only question was, how to get the wires located to furnish that service. He considered it fortunate for the people wishing the service that the company was willing to run the line of poles so great a distance to give it to them.

The matter was discussed by all the Selectmen with Messrs. Ryan and Howard in detail and a conference on the ground was arranged for by Messrs. Ryan, Howard, the highway committee and the town engineer for further investigation.

Mr. Robert Coit presented a petition for permission to move the frame building now located at the corner of Highland avenue and Prospect street to a point between Mt. Pleasant street and Mason street on the westerly side of Highland avenue and was referred to the town engineer for investigation and report.

Mr. Felix J. Carr appeared and called attention to the dangerous condition of sidewalk at the corner of Hancock street and Highland avenue adjoining his premises. The matter was referred to the committee on highways who agreed to meet Mr. Carr on the premises.

Mr. F. B. Jordan of Glen road appeared and a conference was held with him in regard to the town's right on way across his land at 34 Glen road for drainage purposes.

Mr. Lorenzo P. Whitney appeared with a letter from J. E. Gilman, Soldier's Relief Commissioner, City of Boston, dated May 28, 1912, stating that he served in Company F, 45th Massachusetts Infantry during the War of the Rebellion and had been paid state aid, by that department up to June 1, 1912 and that as he was a resident of Winchester he was entitled to state aid from that town, and the commisioner had dropped him from his pay-roll. Mr. Whitney stated that he had removed to Winchester May 29, 1912, and the matter was referred to the committee on state aid.

The town engineer was directed to take steps to remove the electric light pole on Mt. Vernon street near the Brown Stanton block, permission having been given by Mr. Brown to attach the guy wires to his building. It was also suggested that at the same time the street sign be removed and attached to the building.

The division of pay-roll for the week ending June 22, 1912, amounting to $570.75 was received from the Superintendent of Streets and ordered transmitted to the town auditor.

The highway committee reported that the doors on the roller house now opened onto Lake street while the others opened into the yard, and that with the new street it would be hard to get the roller out and make the turn and recommended that the doors be changed on the yard side and it was so voted.

The highway committee also recommended that that part of Ridge street which has been built should be oiled and estimated the cost to be about $100; that the surface was becoming dusty and would likely peel before long.

A petition was received from Geo. R. Nugent that the old stone drinking trough be removed from the sidewalk in front of his premises on Washington street, opposite Cross street and that the automobile sign also be removed and it was voted to move and dispose of the trough. The highway committee reported that the school committee had indicated a relocation of the sign, and the Town Engineer was authorized to have it changed in accordance with their instructions.

Tuesday, July 2, 1912 at 5 p.m., was appointed for a hearing on the grade of Hemingway street and the town engineer was instructed to locate grade stakes for such hearing and the clerk instructed to notify the abutters.

The communication of Mrs. Elise McCawley recommending the installation of a watering trough on Cambridge street was considered and the clerk instructed to write Mrs. McCawley, that the Massachusetts Highway Commission were in control of that street, suggesting that she take the matter up with them.

The highway committee brought up the matter of resurfacing trenches or other openings in streets that had been oiled and recommended a method of treating the same. This was approved by the board to be taken up with the superintendent of streets and put into operation if possible.

An estimate was received from the Morss & Whyte Co., for two wrought iron cashier's guards for the treasurer's office and the treasurer was authorized to have the guards installed and charge the cost to town hall account.

The highway committee submitted the proposal of T. A. Mulroney of Stoneham, Mass., for tar-concrete sidewalks,

COURT PRIDE ELECT OFFICERS

Court Pride F. of A. held a semi-annual election of officers at their hall on Main street, on Wednesday evening. The following officers were elected: A. McKenzie, chief ranger; P. Foley, sub. chief ranger; Wm. Carleton, recording secretary; William Conway, senior woodward; Henry Bond, junior woodward; Allie Mullen, senior beadle; Kempton Singer, junior beadle; Thomas Keane, lecturer. A rising vote of thanks was extended to the retiring Chief Ranger, Daniel Lydon, for his faithful work, also to Thomas Keane who has been appointed a district deputy by the Grand Court of Mass. Refreshments were served and a very enjoyable evening was spent.

MRS. SANFORD F. PETTS.

Mrs. Katherine Lane Petts, wife of Mr. Sanford F. Petts of Myopia Hill, passed away at her home on Monday. She is survived by her husband and one son, Santord F. Petts, jr.

The funeral services were held yesterday morning from St. Mary's Church, high mass of requiem being celebrated at ten o'clock. The burial was private.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

The teacher in charge of the girls at Manchester Field Playground would like to have the ladies of Winchester contribute pieces of cloth for patch work and other sewing.

All scraps of cloth will be used to good advantage.

THE CHICAGO CONVENTION.

Robbery, Theft and Steam Roller Were Pure Inventions.

Hon. Samuel J. Elder who represented President Taft, probably knows as much about the inside workings of the Republican Convention at Chicago and the evidence presented by the contesting delegations as any man present. Knowing this the editor asked Mr. Elder for his views on the convention. He said:

"One of the most gratifying things about the Chicago Convention was the character of the Southern Delegates.

"I have always had the idea, as so many have, and as was doubtless correct in the years following the Civil War, that the Southern Delegates were composed of carpet-baggers, federal office holders, —mercenary and purchasable. The exact contrary was the fact. I was for three weeks thrown constantly with the Tennessee, Florida, Kentucky and Arizona Delegations. No better set of men can be selected from any of the New England States. Very few were office-holders; nearly all were business men of standing and repute and to be compared favorably with the best men in any community. Many of them like the Tennessee men, have been life-long Republicans, descendants of the men who were loyal to the Union throughout, and from districts which have constantly sent Republican members to Congress. It is said that the First District of Tennessee sent more men into the Union Army than any other congressional district in the country, and they made the very best of soldiers.

"The Florida Delegation was to a considerable extent composed of men of Northern birth or descent who have been fighting the battles of the Republican Party at their own expense for many years, even in times when it was dangerous to do so. One of the Delegates-at Large was President of the Southern Bankers Association and president of one of the largest National Banks in Florida. One was the Treasurer of the Florida State Trust Company; one the leading wholesale merchant in the State, and one a man of large property and interests and income from St. Augustine.

"Judge Lee, who made the argument for this Delegation against the absurd contest which was set up against it, was a negro, I should think seventy years of age, and made as clear-cut and convincing an argument as was presented to any one of the Committees.

"I shall look forward with great pleasure to a visit to the South when I shall have a chance to renew these acquaintances.

"The charges of robbery, theft and steam roller make one who has been throught the three weeks of hearings before the National Committee and the Committee on Credentials thoroughly indignant. Men who have not read one of the two hundred briefs that were presented in these cases, or examined a single one of the affidavits, of which there were many hundreds, or the files for the different districts, or heard any of the arguments before either of the committees, have allowed themselves to form judgments from the headlines and cursory reports in the newspapers. Charges of robbery and the like have much greater news value, and are given very much more prominence than a plain statement of fair-dealing.

"I am very glad to see the statement made by Nicholas Murray Butler, the President of Columbia, with regard to these cases, which has appeared in the morning papers.

"At all events, it is a satisfaction to know that the American people will not, in the end, be misled by clamor and vociteration, but will form its judgment upon a full knowledge of the facts."

BASE BALL.

Saturday afternoon at 3 30 on Manchester Field, the Winchester base ball club will have the first Reading team for opponents. Reading is considered one of the strongest teams in the state. It will be the first appearance of a Reading team in Winchester and this will be the first of a series of games between the two teams. Winchester will be greatly strengthened with Walter Whittaker in the pitcher's box. He has returned to stay for the season. All the (fans) remember the wonderful ball he pitched last year for Winchester, and he looks stronger and speedier and able to make as good a record as last year or better if possible.

The batteries:

For Reading,--Flynn, pitcher; Stark, catcher.

For Winchester—Whittaker, pitcher; Flaherty, catcher.

GARDNERS EMPLOYEES MEETING.

At a meeting of the Gardner's Employees association held on June 20, 1912 it was decided to ask their employers for an increase of 25 cents per day on account of high cost of living, the same to take effect on and after July 1st, 1912.

Signed:

David Meskell, Chairman
James W. Haggerty, Secretary
Denis McKeering, Treasurer.

The First Quarterly Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church was held last week Thursday evening at the parsonage, Rev. Dr. Sharp presiding. The written reports of the different departments of the church work showed the church to be in the best condition. The annual report of the treasurer showed all bills paid in full and a balance on hand. The pastor's report was full of encouragement and hope for a successful year. The affair took the nature of a welcome to Dr. Sharp the new district superintendent, the wives of the officials being present. At the close of the business, refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed. Rev. L. William Adams, the pastor, begins the year under most favorable circumstances.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

The Spectator frequently wonders how many women in Winchester are posted on the laws of hygiene. According to Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, late of the U. S. Agricultural Department, "every ice box is a charnel house which not only holds death, but spreads it." Dr. Wiley further claims that many housewives allow disorder and uncleanliness to prevail in their kitchens and larders through "ignorance or indifference." In giving his opinion Dr. Wiley said: "They would rather pick out a Beethoven Sonata, read an Ibsen play or memorize a bridge rule than trace a ptomaine to its lair and eradicate it in the interest of the family safey." The statement of Dr. Wiley is pretty strong, but there is no doubt in the mind of The Spectator that common laws of hygiene should be known by every housewife in Winchester and elsewhere. The Spectator would urge that the primary object in keeping a house clean is not, however, as some housekeepers are of the opinion, the mere pleasing of the eye, for paradoxical as it may sound, it is quite possible for a house to be to all outward appearances perfectly immaculate and still not clean. In this connection The Spectator is going to produce herewith an article from a hygienic journal. The Spectator feels confident that the housewives who read the STAR will be interested and profited. Here is an extract from the article:—

Dust is one of the most favorable places for the breeding of bacteria, and for this reason it must be removed and not merely replaced. This is not accomplished when an unintelligent method of sweeping and dusting is employed. Fortunately, the bacteria-laden dust, being heavier than that which contains no germs, settles upon the lowest surfaces in the room and is easily accessible.

No carpeted floor can be perfectly sanitary, for the reason that it is impossible to remove all the dust readily, and where there is dust danger lurks. Where carpets are used it is wise to give the broom a wide berth, save for removing large particles of dirt, and use a carpet sweeper, following it with a damp cloth wrung out of water to which a little kerosene or ammonia has been added.

A broom not only scatters the dust, much of it to find lodgment in another part of the room, but also, unless the material is impervious, drives it into and through the meshes of the carpet to the floor, where it will in time work its way again to the surface.

The bare floor, if kept clean, is the ideally sanitary one. Bare floors should be dusted rather than swept. This should be accomplished with a slightly dampened, but not wet, or oiled cloth. The cloth can be washed and dried after each using. Squares of cheesecloth are excellent for this purpose, as they leave no lint in their trail and are quite easy to wash.

Rugs so essential in giving a room a note of cheer, should never be swept on the floor. They should be taken into the fresh air and well shaken, but in the case of oriental rugs never beaten on the back, which breaks the warp and ruins the wearing qualities. Orientals never beat their rugs and carpets with the vehemence that we do in this country. When slightly soiled they carry them out to the lawn or on the flat roof, shake them lightly, then sweep with a damp broom. They never sweep against the pile, but with it. When much soiled they wash the rugs, scrubbing them with a bunch of soft twigs, then spread them in the sun to dry.

In the spring it is an excellent plan to lay them on the porch floor and sweep them off with a clean broom. At other seasons, after brushing, go over the surface with a damp cloth wrung out of ammonia water. Highly polished floors require an occasional cleansing in addition to the daily dusting. Water, of course, is out of the question, but an excellent substitute is found in kerosene or crude oil. Go over the floor quickly with a clean cloth dampened, but not saturated, with the oil, changing the cloth as often as it becomes soiled. With this treatment the accumulation of grime and dust will disappear as if by magic.

The dressing and oiling of a hardwood floor should be done in the evening. Three things are necessary if this is done as it should be. First, the floor should be absolutely clean, with no floating dust. Second, the oil must be of the proper kind and consistency. Third, the oil must be well rubbed into the boards, leaving a perfectly smooth surface. Boiled linseed oil dries more quickly than raw. A little turpentine makes it less sticky. A good proportion is two-thirds of the oil to one third turpentine. Hard rubbing with a soft flannel cloth is imperative. Wet a flannel cloth with the mixture, take two or three boards at a time, polishing hard with the grain of the wood. Hard wood takes much less oil than soft wood. Hard oak oiled is the ideal floor for a home.

Always keep the cloths used for oiling in some metal or stone receptacle, because all vegetable oils are liable to spontaneous combustion. Many mysterious fires could be traced to cleaning cloths thrown aside without proper protection.

In this connection it is well to say that the more simply a house is furnished, the fewer the hangings and bric-a-brac, those friendly harbors for dust and disease germs, the more sanitary and, from the aesthetic viewpoint, the more beautiful, harmonious and restful it is. A good rule to apply to the furnishing of a house is to buy nothing for which there is not an exacting demand. Special care should be taken in the hygiene rules of the kitchen. The ice box always needs watching, no matter what the weather, for there is where, according to late investigations, many of the disease germs lurk.

A gentleman thinks that the American flag is now cluttered up with stars. He suggests return to the original 13 stars and stripes. "The original flag had significance more piercing, and the addition of the extra stars upon stars have added neither to its beauty as a standard nor to its meaning," he points out. The Spectator thinks that in its present form it is more artistic and that it inspires more patriotism in the several states to feel that one of the several stars represents it in the galaxy.

The Spectator quite agees that the cross-eyed chap has an advantage over the fellow with straight blinkes—he can see to blow his nose better.

There are parts of speech heard on Winchester street corners that cannot be found in a book of grammar—if they were the book would be supressed by Chief McIntosh in no time.

A dramatist friend of The Spectator's gives him to understand that the purpose of a "questionable" play is to so hold vice up in its most hideous forms that it will repel people and educate them to ways of virtue. In the opinion of many intelligent Winchesterites nothing more sophistical could be conceived. Many a year ago, Pope wrote:

"Vice is a monster of so frightful mien,
As, to be hated, needs but to be seen;
Yet, seen too oft, familiar with her face,
We first endure, then pity, then embrace."

And Whittier, prophasing an old-time proverb, wrote: "Who touches pitch, defiled must be." Is there any escape from this philosophy? Whatever repulsive passes before us without our volition may have the effect of making us abhor the bad and look for the good; but The Spectator is forced to doubt very seriously whether anticipated depictions of vice, which, one goes out of his or her way to see voluntarily, ever yet accomplished any inward moral reform in the individual.

The Spectator.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ACTS.

Copies of the Acts for Brookline and Watertown.

Mr. Vincent Farnsworth in his communication in last week's STAR made reference to the Acts under which the fire departments of Brookline and Watertown are managed. They are as follows:

Acts of 1899. Chapter 135.

An Act to provide for the Establishment of a Fire Department and the Appointment of a Fire Commissioner in the Town of Brookline.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

Section 1. The town of Brookline is hereby authorized to establish a fire department, to be under the control and direction of one fire commissioner, who shall be appointed by the selectmen for a term of three years. He shall signify his acceptance in writing and shall receive such salary as the town may determine. He shall serve until his successor is appointed and may be removed for cause by the selectmen at any time after a hearing. The fire commissioner shall have the charge of extinguishing fires in said town and the protection of life and property in case of fire, and he shall purchase and keep in repair all apparatus used by the fire department. He shall have and exercise all the powers and discharge all the duties conferred or imposed by statute upon boards of engineers for towns, and he shall appoint a chief of department and such other officers and firemen as he may think necessary, and may remove the same at any time. He shall have full and absolute authority in the administration of the department, shall make all rules and regulations for its control, shall report to the selectmen from time to time as they may require, and shall annually report to the town the condition of the department, with his recommendations thereon. In the expenditure of money the fire commissioner shall be subject to such limitations as the town may prescribe.

Section 2. This act shall take effect upon its passage so far as to allow the town to vote upon the acceptance of the same, but shall not take full effect until it has been accepted by a majority of the voters of said town present and voting thereon at a town meeting duly called for the purpose.

Approved March 9, 1899.

(Chapter 526.)

An Act Relative to the Fire Department of the Town of Watertown.

Be it enacted, et ., as follows:

Section 1. The selectmen of the town of Watertown shall appoint annually in the month of April a chief engineer of the fire department who shall exercise the powers and perform the duties now provided by law for the board of fire engineers, excepting the power of appointment to membership in and removal from the permanent and call fire force of said town, which said power of appointment and removal shall be vested in the board of selectmen. The provisions of law providing for the appointment of fire engineers in towns shall not apply to the town of Watertown.

Section 2. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Approved April 25, 1912.

VACATION RESORTS.

The many attractive places for vacation visits in New England are beautifully described in the booklet issued by the Boston & Maine Railroad for the season of 1912. It is called "New England Vacation Resorts," and sets forth with letterpress, pictures and maps the summer resorts of the coast, lake and mountain region reached by this extensive railroad system in six states.

The seashore resorts, of which there are many, include the north shore—Nahant, Swampscott, Marblehead, Beverly (where President Taft lives during the summer), Magnolia, Gloucester, and Annisquam—in Massachusetts; Hampton, Rye, New Castle, Portsmouth and the Isles of Shoals in New Hampshire; Kittery, York, Kennebunkport, Wells, Ogunquit, Old Orchard, Scarboro, Cape Elizabeth, Portland and Casco Bay in Maine.

Of the mountain regions of New England the booklet says, "In the rugged beauty of their scenic aspect the White Mountains of New Hampshire are without a rival in eastern America. This region ought to be visited by every American who is proud of his country. You will not find any place in the whole of America that offers the vacationist more restful excursions than the White Mountains. The star attraction in New Hampshire's mountain parks is Mount Washington, which stands sentinel over the Presidential Range.

"The third great division of the New England Vacation country, the lake and inland section, includes the mountain lakes of New Hampshire—Winnipesaukee, Asquam, Sunapee, Dublin and others with their innumerable colonies of summer boarders, campers and cottagers; the delightful farming sections of the Merrimac and Connecticut valleys; the undulating region around Mount Monadnock, central and western Massachusetts and the famous Deerfield Valley.

A copy of New England Vacation Resorts will be mailed free by the Vacation Bureau, Room 954 South Station, Boston, Mass.

DEDHAM WON FOR SEVENTH TIME.

For the seventh time the Dedham High School four won the Lawson Trophy Race on Mystic lake last Saturday afternoon. The Winchester crew was a close second, and in fact gave the winning crew a hard fight right to the finish line, the race being won by a scant canoe-length.

The race was run in connection with a regatta held by the Winchester Boat Club and was the first event of the program. A large crowd lined the shores and occupied canoes on the lake, and the race was one of the largest attended in the history of the trophy. Four crews competed—Dedham, Winchester, Medford and Woburn, and finished in the order named.

Following were the crews:

Dedham High—William Herbst, stroke; Charles Clough, 2; Proctor, 3; Fred Bailey (captain), 4.

Winchester High—Marshall Symmes, (captain), stroke; Howard Proctor, 2; Carlisle Elliott, 3; Dexter Tutein 4.

Medford High—V. A. Grant, stroke, E. W. Dinsmore, 2; R. L. Tryon (captain), 3; M. W. Valentine, 4.

Woburn High—Albert Ring, stroke; John Murray, 2; Dale Morton, 3; H. Kenney (captain) 4.

The race was between Dedham and Winchester from the start. Dedham made a pretty spurt near the finish and pulled a boat length ahead as they crossed the line. The time was 4m. 18s.

The regatta was held in front of the Winchester Boat Club and was participated in by members of the Winchester and Medford Clubs.

Following was the summary:

Single Blade Race—Won by John Sheridan of Winchester, Frank H. Gerlach of Winchester second.

H. and S. Special Race—Won by Williams of Medford, Proctor of Winchester second.

Tail End Race—Fred Bates of Winchester first, Ernest Evans of Winchester second.

Tandem Race—Won by Walkling and Daly of Medford, Rogers and Elliott of Winchester second.

Tip Over Race—Won by Hyde of Medford, Perrin of Medford second.

Jinx Race—Won by Hyde of Medford, Walkling of Medford second.

Relay Race—Won by Gerlach and Sheridan of Winchester.

Hurry-Scurry Race—Won by Proctor of Winchester, Woods of Winchester second.

Dances were held in both the Winchester and Medford Clubs which were largely attended.

START THE BOY RIGHT.

During the next few weeks an army of good, healthy, ambitious boys will be looking for jobs. We once made a business man mad by telling him it was of vastly more importance what kind of a man the boy we were interested in went to work for than what kind of a boy we were advancing. Parents watch the schools with the greatest care, censure the teachers upon the least lapse and then let their boy answer any advertisement and go to work where he can get the best pay at the start. If ever a boy needs steering and counsel it is when he first goes to work. If ever a parent ought to exert himself it is to find out something of the character of his boy's employer, the integrity of the concern and the quality of those with whom he is to be associated. It's a great thing to get a boy started right and under a good employer.—[Melrose News.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

No more school till September, unless it is the vacation school.

Three and four deckers do not add much to the prosperity of a city or town. Winchester did well to pass building laws.

We print elsewhere in this issue the acts governing the fire departments of Brookline and Watertown, referred to at the late town meeting.

The Fourth of July coming on next Thursday, correspondents and advertisers will confer a favor by sending in copy as early in the week as possible.

Many persons are fighting to save the birds, while many other well-intentioned persons are fighting to protect the cats. It is needless to state that the birds have the greatest grievance.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Winchester STAR, does not go far wrong when it suggests Representative S. W. McCall for U. S. Senator Crane's successor, says the Woburn Journal. Mr. McCall is amply qualified to fill Senator Crane's shoes, and his election to the upper branch would honor the State.

Reading and Winchester ball teams will play on Manchester Field at 3.15, Saturday afternoon. For several years efforts have been made to bring the two teams together, and at last negotiations have succeeded. As there is considerable rivalry between them, and as they are said to be about evenly matched, the outcome will be watched with a great deal of interest.

The Athol Chronicle, R. Wm. Waterman, editor, has just issued one of the neatest and most artistic anniversary numbers that has come under our observation in many years. The occasion was the 150th anniversary of the incorporation of the prosperous town of Athol. The souvenir, for it may justly be called such, contains many half tone pictures and historical matter.

Lieut. Gov. Luce, father of the primary laws, declares that they are a great advance over the old caucuses. "Which plan," he says, "gets the better candidates no man can positively aver. The one clear thing is that a larger number of people are induced to take a share in government. They have grasped the opportunity. If the result is not in the long run to the public gain, then the fault is that of democracy itself."

Theodore Roosevelt's policy for a long time past has been to rule or ruin the Republican party. The outcome of the convention in Chicago clearly shows that he will never again rule; the question now is will he ruin the Republican party. His present action might perhaps be taken as an indication of what he might do if he was once again entrenched in the office of President of the United States, and he made up his mind to hold that office indefinitely, as so many deep-thinking men believe he would try to do. As President Taft says, this country has just passed through a crisis that would have turned the entire governmental machinery upside down, including the courts, if Roosevelt had been nominated. The country knows what President Taft will do if reelected, but no one knows what Mr. Roosevelt might do.

RELIGIOUS WEEKLIES.

We have observed with some surprise that one of the laments of the Methodist General Conference was that the loss on the great Methodist weeklies during the past four years was $200,000. The editor of Zion's Herald of Boston, the Methodist weekly, nearest home, says frankly that the advertising revenue is only about a third of what it was ten years ago and if it were not for outside help the paper would have to go under. Zion's Herald is a very able and readable paper and probably has a large clientele and an intelligent one, too. There is no use bewailing the fact that the day of the religious press is fading. The fact is it is just dawning. It all depends upon the business management. Most of these papers are ably edited, but they need a business man instead of superannuated minister in the counting room. While these papers are lamenting their poor financial condition along comes the Christian Scientists and make a daily pay. If Zion's Herald or any other bright religious paper doesn't pay it means that its business manager ought to be hired. Religious people were never more wealthy and there never was a better field for advertisers to appeal to, but the business must be hustled for as in any other line.

TO STUDY OUR PARKS.

Mr. Allen Chamberlain, the journalist, of the Chamber's Committee on Forestry expects to start this week to visit and study some of the national parks of the United States and Canada, including Glacier Park in Montana, Mollympus National Monument Park in Washington, and Rocky Mountain Park, Glacier Park and Yoko Park in Canada. Mr. Chamberlain will also journey up the Columbia River to its headquarters and go back through unmapped country into the mountains for two week in real virgin forests. He does not expect to be back in Boston before October.

Mr. Chamberlain was a former resident of Winchester and its efficient Tree Warden for several years.

NEW GAS MAIN FROM CENTER TO SYMMES CORNER.

A new eight inch gas main is being laid from the center to Symmes corner by the Arlington Gas Light Co. as a continuance of the ten inch main laid last year for the central part of Winchester.

The construction of the main is in charge of F. E. Learned of the Light, Heat and Power Corporation of Boston who is pushing the work with all possible speed. When completed the new main, together with the ten inch main laid last year, will form a complete feeder circuit for the central part of the town. This will mean a definite improvement in service and facilitate the handling of much additional increase in demand within the next few years.

Newsy Paragraphs.

The Ladies' Friendly of the Unitarian Church has arranged for a meeting in October at which Mrs. Helen Weil of Cambridge, will read Charles Rann Kennedy's drama, entitled "The Terrible Meek." Mrs. Weil who has the exclusive reading rights for the play has been most successful in its representation. Mrs. Oren Sanborn has kindly offered her home for the presentation of the drama. Mr. Edwin Ginn to whom Mrs. Weil gave a special reading of the play speaks in most cordial approval of it from an artistic point of view and as an expression of international peace ideas.

Mr. Edward L. Baldwin, who has been in the provision business at 34 Charles street, Boston, for 47 years, has retired, the business passing to W. H. Kellenberger, who has been with Mr. Baldwin for 25 years. Forty-seven years is a long time to be in business at one place, and the changes noted by him in that locality must have been great. Mr. Baldwin's many friends wish for him the pleasures of a well spent life and that he may long live to enjoy the fruits of his labor.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Spaulding will leave tomorrow for South Harpswell.

Mr. Charles A. Lane had a peculiar incident occur to his automobile yesterday. A cat was chased by a dog and took refuge in the engine of the auto, entering by way of the pan beneath the car. Mr. Lane came from his office to start his car and found the animal under the hood. After trying to induce it to leave the way it got in, he took up his floor and pulled it out. An interesting throng of on-lookers offered advice and inspected the work of rescue.

A scotch collie dog owned by Daniel Callanan of Winn's store was killed on the railroad tracks last Saturday.

Yesterday afternoon a man had a narrow escape from death when crossing the railroad tracks. He was deaf and did not hear the warning shouts of Policeman McCauley or other observers. As he was not close enough for anyone to reach him, he continued his way across, just escaping being struck.

SECRET SOCIETIES

The Earliest Ones Had Strenuous Initiation Rites.

SEVERE TESTS OF COURAGE.

The Egyptians Subjected Candidates to a Threefold Trial by Fire, by Water and by Air—The Order of Assassins and Their Sham Paradise.

Among primitive communities in which might is right and the tyranny of superstition is absolute minorities have always been treated with scant consideration, and overt dissent from the opinions of the majority had a tendency to militate against the survival of the dissenter. Liberty of thought and action, qualified only by the rights of others, is a comparatively late growth. But thought dies hard and when denied open expression lives in secret imparted to a few chosen associates until the times are ripe for it to be divulged. Thus a few thinkers and their disciples would band themselves together into a secret society, and the instinct of self preservation would cause them to guard against their secret being revealed to the uninitiated.

The earliest secret societies were religious rather than political. In the mysteries of Persia, India and Egypt an inner ring of priests formed an exclusive association whose members gradually became the repositories of the bulk of the learning of the community. Severe tests of courage and nerve were imposed upon all aspirants for admission to the order. Among the Egyptians the neophyte was taken down a deep shaft in one of the pyramids and subjected to a threefold trial by fire, by water and by air.

He had to walk across a grating of redhot iron bars, with narrow interstices whereon he might tread in safety, to swim a wide and dark channel communicating with the Nile and to hang suspended by two iron rings over an abyss in the blast of two swiftly revolving wheels. Even then he had to undergo prolonged fasting and silence and to take an oath of secrecy ere his initiation was complete. A secret brotherhood of nobles, partly religious and partly political, which aimed at the concentration of knowledge and power in the hands of its members, was established by Pythagoras at Crotona, in the south of Italy. For a time it succeeded in gaining the supreme direction of affairs, but after the Sybarites had succumbed to the Spartan discipline of the order it was suppressed by a rising of the discontented.

During the middle ages the unsettled and lawless condition of many countries engendered by the weakness or the absence of their nominal rulers was especially favorable to the growth of secret societies. Toward the close of the eleventh century Hasan-ben-Sabah, a Mohammedan fanatic who had been a fellow student with Omar Khayyam at Naishapur, seized the castle of Alamut and founded the sect of the assassins. It is still a moot point whether the word which their evil deeds have given a permanent place in the languages of Europe as a synonym for murderers be derived from the founder's name or from the hemp opiate hashish wherewith they were wont to fuddle their brains to a pitch of sudden frenzy. The Venetian traveler Marco Polo tells of an ingenious plan adopted by their chieftain to insure the unquestioning devotion of his dupes. This was no less than the creation of a sham paradise with luxurious gardens, rivers of honey and wine and houris, all complete. Thither the man selected for any dangerous exploit was transported in a state of intoxication and on his return was told that he had been given a foretaste of his life after death.

The terror of their name soon spread through Europe. No potentate was safe from the vengeance of a sect which regarded death in the execution of their lord's decrees as the gate of paradise. King Philip Augustus of France, contemporary and foe of Richard Coeur de Lion, having incurred their enmity, was so afraid of them that he dared not stir abroad without his guards around him, and perhaps his fear appeased the ruthless sheik, for their plans rarely miscarried. The order was ultimately crushed in 1256 by an irruption of Mongols under Hulaku Khan.

In Germany the violence and anarchy that prevailed after the outlawry of Henry the Lion, when every petty baron tyrannized without let or hindrance over all whom his power could reach, led to the institution of a very different secret society, whose functions were purely judicial. The "vehmgericht" was an attempt to check the license of the feudal lords and to secure the due chastisement of crime. It was the proud boast of this court that it judged in secret and punished in secret. Every member was sworn to reveal all crimes that came to his notice, even if committed by those nearest and dearest to him; hence it became a maxim of the jurists of the time, "Non frater a fratre, non hospes ab hospite, tutus." The sentence of the court involved outlawry, degradation and death; the condemned was declared "vehmbar" and was relentlessly pursued by at least 100,000 daggers.—London Globe.

Soured.

"I'm just crazy to play golf," said the enthusiastic summer girl.

"Most people are," muttered the mere man who had no ambition even partly to fill the presidential chair.—Chicago News.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The new Warrant Committee gives evidence of being a good one and it should be able to work out a lower tax rate for next year, and at the same time give all the departments all the money they really need.

Mr. Parkhurst's suggestion regarding bond issues should have careful consideration, as our debt to valuation is only half of what it was eight years ago.

The Assessors must bear in mind that the town meeting voted they should send out a thousand blank forms for sworn returns when it accepted and adopted the recommendations of the special committee.

Our fire department has not been satisfactory for a good while, and certainly needs attention; but if the vote to accept the special act had been taken it would have been defeated, as it had to get a two thirds vote and it was good policy to table it pending further consideration.

Why don't the Selectmen put up street signs where they are needed now, and not wait till next fall and then forget it again. Those unpainted poles should also receive attention. All of these small things count. Brother Tuck got his all right, and although it came late it was full measure. Nobody can continue to indulge in personal remarks in town meeting right along without getting the meeting against him, and then he can accomplish nothing.

Winchester's State tax is twenty-one thousand dollars this year, and on the new apportionment to be made next year it's rate will be considerably increased. But ten towns have a larger valuation now and three cities have a lower.

Why should the town hang onto land it has no use for any more than an individual should? There is the Eaton street lot which we have been holding for years and losing interest and taxes on about ten thousand dollars annually. What sense is there in that? If we have a town meeting next fall an article should be put into the warrant and let the committee look into it.

The auto warning signs the Selectmen have erected are good things, but they would be very much more efficient if they were turned at right angles to the street instead of being parallel to it for then the auto drivers would see them which they do not do now.

We have probably held our tax rate to not exceeding nineteen dollars and we ought and might have held it to eighteen if the Ap. Com. who reported the annual meeting had been onto its job. Eighteen dollars and seventy cents is the highest tax rate I can remember of, here.

President Taft deserved a re-nomination, but unless the Democrats blunder worse than seems possible he will carry very few states. Roosevelt made the same mistake Bryan did in 1908 by not waiting four years longer. He certainly has blundered badly. If the Republicans nominate Frothingham again instead of Joe Walker, we will again elect a Democratic governor. The "machine" men will have a mighty poor show this fall.

The Democrats have been so prompt in paying their town hall bills that the town clerk received two checks for the same bill last fall.

In connection with the large appropriation for streets this year, listen to this report of the Ap. Com. of 1902: "We recommend $18,000.00 for highways. While this amount seems very large, yet we believe it economy for the town to continue the policy adopted a few years ago until all the principal streets are in as good condition as most of them now are, and then a smaller amount will suffice to keep them in repair provided that each year the roadways already completed are smoothed over, ruts filled up, and the macadam surface kept in as near perfect condition as possible. An unusually large amount was expended for this purpose the past year because, during the previous two years, this work was sadly neglected. It is very poor economy to spend large sums of money to build streets and then allow them to rapidly become worn out for lack of proper care." This was good advice then and has been ever since, and it has been repeated time and again and yet it is not followed as it should be any year. We should pass a vote that no new street work shall be begun any year until all repairs have first been attended to.

ARNOLD—WALKER.

Announcements were received this week of the marriage of Mr. Ralph Freeman Arnold, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Arnold, to Miss Evelyn Grace Walker of Malden. The ceremony took place on Wednesday.

The fire department was called to the house on Cross street at Parker & Lane's coal yard this morning for a roof fire. The fire was caused by the chimney catching, sparks from this igniting the roof. The damage was slight.

Alderman and Mrs. Thomas Callahan of Eastern avenue, Woburn, are being congratulated on the birth of a son, born Wednesday. Mrs. Callahan was formerly Miss Bessie Reid of Winchester.

Mr. A. A. Kidder is at Hyannisport for the summer.

AN EASY VICTORY.

Winchester put it all over Winthrop K. of C. on Manchester Field last Saturday afternoon by the score of 14 to 5. Winthrop had but one look in and that was in the third inning where they scored their five runs because of a series of wild throws to bases. The summary:

MORRISON—GROVER.

Announcements were received in Winchester on Wednesday of the marriage of Mrs. Jane Grover, daughter of Mrs. John Milton Thompson, to Mr. Edwin George Morrison. The ceremony took place at Hudson, N. H. Mr. and Mrs. Morrison will be at home after October first at 16 Belrose avenue, Lowell.

Rev. Mr. J. Bruce Gilman performed the marriage ceremony. After a wedding breakfast they left on their honeymoon, which will be spent in the Adirondacks.

Mrs. Morrison was better known to her Winchester friends as Mrs. Arthur B. Grover.

TREMONT THEATRE.

Beginning Monday night July first Alice Lloyd pre-eminently recognized as England's most gifted singing comedienne will enter her fourth week as the star of that joyous musical gaiety, "Little Miss Fix-It."

This merry entertainment is a classic as regards to "Novelty." It is so entirely different from anything you have ever seen.

The play not only tells a most charming, intensely interesting and highly amusing story, but it fairly revels in Alladin-like series of musical surprises and is being presented at the Tremont Theatre with all its original excellence of cast and wealth of scenic embellishment that stamps it as the "Something New" in "Mirth and Melody" in New York City, where it was presented for ten weeks at the Globe Theatre and later in Chicago where it ran for twenty-one weeks at the Chicago Opera House.

"The Turkey Trott" as danced by Miss Grace Field and Frederic Santley is another and most seductive feature and is a terpsichorean novelty that has been sensationalized from the Atlantic to the Pacific everywhere.

A case of cerebro-spinal meningitis, or more commonly known "spotted fever" occurred on Swanton street this week. The victim was an Italian child of seven or eight years, a nephew of the Ficociello's. He was taken sick on Wednesday night and died yesterday morning at eleven.

The KITCHEN CABINET

THE beautiful is just as useful as the useful and sometimes more so. —Victor Hugo.

Life without hope draws nectar in a sieve,
And hope without an object cannot live.

CHOICE DISHES FOR OCCASIONS.

Pudding Glace.—Scald two-thirds of a cup of raisins in two cups of milk, cook fifteen minutes and strain; add a tablespoonful of flour to a cup of sugar. Mix well, add to the milk with a beaten egg, pinch of salt; strain and cool. Add half a cup of candied pineapple, a third of a cup of Canton ginger cut fine, a half cup of almonds chopped, three tablespoonfuls of grape juice and a quart of cream. Freeze. Save the raisins for some other dish.

Rose Bisque.—Whip a quart of cream, three-fourths of a cup of sugar and a cup of macaroons crushed, a teaspoonful of rose extract. Color with damask rose and freeze.

Beet Salad.—Cook four large or eight small beets, cut in cubes; mix with a cupful of pecans. Serve with mayonnaise dressing tinted rose color.

Chicken Salad.—Chop or cut in small pieces the breast of a chicken; add a cup of blanched walnuts and twice as much celery as chicken. Serve with any dressing preferred.

Spanish Bunn.—Cream two-thirds of a cup of butter, add two cups of sugar, sift together two cups of flour with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder; add the flour alternately with the cup of sour milk; add four eggs well beaten, a cup of raisins and a teaspoonful of cloves and two of cinnamon. Bake in square tins. Ice while warm.

Icing for Cakes.—A cup of sugar and a fourth of a cup of water are put on to boil. Beat the white of an egg, and when the sirup is like honey add three tablespoonfuls, beating all the while; return the dish to the fire and cook until the sirup threads from the spoon, then add slowly to the egg. Beat until cool. This frosting will, if the directions are carefully followed, be shiny and smooth on top and creamy underneath.

Their Extent.

"I understand the laws against expectoration are very strict in this town."

"Strict? I should say so! They won't even allow you to keep a Spitz dog."

As to the Fireplace.

The sides of a fireplace should be well splayed or beveled in order to reflect the heat, says Arts and Decoration. The back should lean forward at the top for the same purpose, and the fireplace should not be too deep. A projecting chimney produces an effect of pushing the guest away, whereas a receding one beckons him nearer to enjoy the hospitality of the open fire. For this reason the inglenook—that is, the fireplace built into the wall of the room—is especially cozy and attractive.

BASE BALL.

The Old-Timers defeated the Winchester Highlands Athletic Club last Saturday afternoon, in the second of a series of three games, by a score of 23 to 1. But six innings were played, that being sufficient to satisfy all. Richardson pitched a wonderful game, allowing but two hits, and giving but two passes. Hanlon and Emerson played their usual great game for the Old-Timers, while Nate Chapin excelled for the Highlands.

The summary:

2nd Game.

The second game proved to be more of a ball game, although many errors of judgment by the Highlands outheld threatened to make it as farcial as the preceding one. The score was, Saugus 15, Highlands 5.

Neal White, the new pitcher for the Highlands pitched well but was poorly supported.

THE TARIFF IN THE CAMPAIGN

Early Tariff Acts Designed to Build Up Home Manufactures

WORKERS FOR PROTECTION

Many Democrats Believe in Protection—Wilson Bill Helped British Industries While in Force

The attitude of the Democrats makes it clear that one of the chief issues of the coming campaign will be the tariff. The Democrats in congress have refused to continue the appropriation for the support of the tariff board and have all along seemed to indicate that a scientific revision of the tariff did not interest them.

The question of the tariff in the United States has been a disputed point from the very foundation of the union. The question of raising a sufficient national revenue for government needs was one of the most important points discussed by the congress of 1789. The first tariff, passed in that year, was nominally protective. It was largely the work of Madison. The early years of the republic made it apparent to the leading spirits of those days that it was necessary for the United States, which up to that time had been largely dependent upon foreign manufacturers, to build up manufactures of her own, in order that she might be independent of other nations in time of war and, in fact, in times of peace.

The Early Tariff Acts

The tariff of 1816 increased the duties on manufactured goods and, in the case of cotton was 25 percent. The movement toward a higher protective tariff continued steadily with now and then a reactionary measure. In 1842 a tariff act was passed which averaged about 33 percent. In 1846 the Democrats passed the Walker tariff act which cut the rate to about 25 percent, which was in 1857 reduced to something like 20 percent. The Morrill tariff, enacted in 1861, had a protective character. During the Civil war the tariff was increased very heavily and it was not lowered until 1870 and 1872. In recent years the tariff has become a political issue, the Republicans standing for a protective tariff and the Democrats oscillating from a revenue tariff and tariff reform to free trade. Some Democrats have favored a revenue tariff with incidental protection.

Tariff Revision Hazardous to Parties

Political parties have in recent years hesitated to make a revision of the tariff. The political party entering upon such a revision has usually been overthrown at the next election. In 1883 the Republicans passed an act revising the tariff, and almost immediately the Democrats gained control of the house and in 1884 elected their candidate for president. In 1888 the Democratic house passed the Mills bill and the Democrats were defeated in the fall of that year. In 1890 the Republicans passed the McKinley tariff and at the congressional election that fall that party met a Waterloo throughout the country, and in 1892 the Democrats elected both the executive and the two houses of congress. The Wilson bill was passed by the Democrats in 1894 and the Republicans were successful in the congressional elections that year and in the presidential election of 1896. The Republicans passed the Dingley bill in 1897 and in this case party defeat did not follow. In 1909 the Republicans passed the Paine tariff act, in which there were 656 decreases of duties, 220 increases and 1150 items of the dutiable list were unchanged. In the congressional election of 1910 the country elected a Democratic house; the result being due, perhaps, more largely to the increased cost of living than to the tariff.

Many Democrats Are Protectionists

Undoubtedly a large element in the Democratic party believes in the principle of protection. This is due to a considerable extent to the fact that many of the wage earners are convinced that protection does increase their wages over what they would be under a revenue tariff or a free trade system. The wage earner is probably convinced of this by reason of the fact that the wages paid in this country are practically double the wages paid in the same lines of labor abroad. The report of the tariff board, recently submitted to congress, shows that American workers in the comparatively unskilled work in the textile factories earn more than many skilled workers in the same industries in Great Britain. Also that the skilled American workers earn practically double the average wage of skilled employees in the same lines in British mills.

The tariff has been so generally discussed in the newspapers and upon the stump that the workers are thoroughly familiar with the history of such countries as Germany, where protection has increased wages paid, and also extended and built up native manufactures. They have also become familiar with the history of free trade in Great Britain and its disastrous effects upon agriculture and upon the working classes of people. Those who have come here from foreign shores know for themselves that wages paid in this country are practically double, and in many cases treble, those paid in any country in Europe. Working men born in this country have not such intimate knowledge of the low wages paid in England, but they have become thoroughly familiar with them through their reading and through the campaigns which have been waged in this country in which the tariff was a leading issue.

American and Foreign Wages

Some of the figures show for themselves the difference in wages paid. In the woolen industry for instance, in this country wool washers get $8:21 per week, while for the same work in England they are paid $4.93; comb tenders here receive $7.85, in England $4.26; gill minders are paid $5.84 here, in England $2.83; drawing frame tenders, $6.21 in the United States, $2.68 in England; female spinners $6.40 here, $2.25 in England; weavers $10.54 in this country, $3.85 in England. Of course these are average weekly wages and some make a great deal more than the average in each of these various occupations.

The very fact that such large numbers of foreigners come to this country seems to the native working man proof positive that conditions here are much better than abroad, otherwise there would be no sense in these people leaving their native land, their friends and relatives to come to a strange country among strangers.

When this country adopts a low tariff the effect is not confined to the United States. A Democratic congress in 1894 enacted the Wilson bill on a tariff-for-revenue basis. The people of this country well remember the wide-spread shutting down of mills, factories and workshops which followed the passage of that act, and the 3,000,000 workmen who were thrown out of employment at the time. It was, however, a great thing for England, as may readily be seen from the following article published in 1896 in the London Times:

Low Tariff Helped English Factories

"The year 1895 witnessed a revival in the worsted industry of such magnitude as to be a matter not only for local but national congratulation. After long years of depression, the great manufacturing district, of which Bradford is the centre, was visited last year by the full sunshine of prosperity. Roughly speaking the Wilson tariff, which came into effective operation in the last month of 1894, in place of the strangling system of duties associated with the name of McKinley, reduced the custom house charges upon the principal products of the Bradford district imported into the United States from 100 percent of their value to 50 percent. Thus it came about that the value of worsted coatings imported from the Bradford district into the United States in the first five months of 1895 was more than double that of the like imports during the whole year, December, 1893, to November, 1894, and the value in dollars for the whole of 1895, as compared with the whole of 1894 (years ending Sept. 30) was $7,575,052 against $1,275,626, being an increase of fully 600 percent."

This reprint shows plainly that the money formerly paid to American operatives for their labor in the worsted and woolen mills in this country went to operatives in England during the life of the Wilson bill by reason of the provisions of that Democratic tariff act.

HE FOUND NO CANCER CURE.

L. M. Early, Who Offered $1,000,000, Dies a Victim of X Ray.

Dr. L. M. Early of Columbus, O., died recently from cancer. He had vainly offered $1,000,000 for a cure.

When Roentgen discovered the X ray Dr. Early began experiments with it. He used it in the treatment of cancer. But X ray machines at that time did not afford the operator sufficient protection. The X ray which he was using to treat cancer caused him to have cancer, which it could not cure.

While still experimenting with the X ray Dr. Early discovered how to make a new photographic paper and sold the formula for a sum said to be $3,000,000.

The cancer first manifested itself on Dr. Early's hand. His fingers, then his hand, and finally his arm were removed. The disease was arrested, but not eradicated.

NO FLAG ABOVE OLD GLORY.

Mr. Heyburn Offers Two Resolutions in the Senate.

That no flag, banner or emblem should be officially permitted to wave above the stars and stripes is the contention of Senator Heyburn. He understands that on forts and battleships other ensigns are often elevated above the national colors.

To ascertain the actual facts Mr. Heyburn offered two resolutions, which were adopted by the senate. One is addressed to the secretary of the navy and the other to the secretary of war. Each calls for the real situation concerning this matter in the army and navy.

In the opinion of Mr. Heyburn, there should be legislation, if necessary, to prevent any official of the government from displaying any emblem flag or banner above Old Glory.

Work to be done in accordance to specifications; Mr. Mulroney to furnish bond for $1000 to guarantee the maintenance of his work for a period of five years after completion.

The highway committee reported that the superintendent of streets had been instructed to submit a list of parties for whom he had done work this season together with bills for the same.

The town hall committee called attention to the fact that it was becoming a practice of automobilists having business at the Town Hall to use the lawn at the side of the hall for a turning and parking space and the committee was requested to ask such automobile owners to discontinue the practice.

The committee on public service corporations reported progress on the matter of more frequent car service and through cars to the Harvard Square Terminal.

The Independence Day committee reported that a satisfactory program was practically arranged and would be announced in the "STAR."

The application of Charles B. Carter, 578 Main street, for transfer of common victuallers' license to himself from Harry W. Dotten, and approved by Chief of Police, was granted.

The application of Edward F. Maguire for license to buy and sell second hand articles at store 620 Main street, was referred to Mr. Pike for report.

A letter was received from Bay State Street Railway agreeing to confer with town engineer first part of this week in regard to petitions to be heard July 6 and 13th; and a meeting was appointed for that purpose on Thursday, June 27th at 9.30 a. m.

Application to have Railroad avenue oiled as far as the limits of the Kelley & Hawes property, from Kelley & Hawes Co., and to oil the private way from Highland avenue to Stevens street, from D. W. Hawes, were referred to the committee on highways.

A letter of Charles F. Maxwell, 5 Bacon street, calling attention to poison ivy along the wall adjoining the walk at corner of Main and Bacon streets, on property of Wellington estate, and asking that it be destroyed, was referred to the board of health.

A petition of the Bay State Street Railway and the Commercial Union Telegraph Company of Massachusetts for authority to attach wires to a pole of said Telegraphy Company on the westerly side of Cambridge street, first southerly from High street, was referred to town engineer.

A letter was received from W. H. Lott, Superintendent Right of Way and Street Lighting of the Edison Illuminating Co., stating that the executive officers deemed it not advisable to undertake the proposition to put their wires underground on Cambridge street at the present time; that ultimately they expect all their transmission lines will be underground but that the poles of course would have to remain not only for the use of the railway company but also for their own local service and for that reason it was deemed advisable to allow matters to remain as they are.

On the petition of Edward L. Baldwin and others for the laying out and acceptance of Lakeview road as a public way, the town engineer reported that the petition should be granted, that the street has been opened since 1895 and nearly all the lots occupied by houses excepting those nearest to the Mystic Valley Parkway; that the matter of acceptance was considered by the Selectmen of 1909 and certain requirements from abutters were judged necessary before acceptance by the town; that the board instructed him to formulate such requirements and present them to L. V. Niles, which was done as follows:

"The following specifications will cover what the board of Selectmen will require you to do in the matter of constructing Lakeview road before they will recommend this street for acceptance at the annual town meeting in March, 1910.

"First—Stone bounds, four feet long, six inches square at the top and with a small drill hole in the center of the top, must be set at the ends of all curves and tangents the entire length of the street and at the intersection of the side lines of Lakeview road with Ravenscroft road.

"Second—A deed of a right of way for surface water drainage purposes must be given through land adjoining Mt. Redding's land, the right to extend from Lakeview road to the lake, and this deed must be placed on record in the Registry of Deeds in Cambridge. A plan of this right of way must accompany the deed.

"Third—A twelve inch drain pipe must be laid in this right of way as described in the second specification, said drain to be carefully laid and graded. The engineer of the town of Winchester is to have general supervision of the manner and method of the construction of the drain.

"Fourth—Three catch-basins must be constructed of a depth and size required by the town Engineer at the low point in Lakeview road and near Ravenscroft road. The catch-basins are to be provided with proper grates and inlet stones and are to be connected with the twelve inch drain described in the third specification by means of eight inch lateral drains carefully laid and graded.

"Fifth—The Roadway of Lakeview road must be constructed its entire length and twenty four feet in width of clean, coarse gravel, and the center or crown of the roadway must be nine inches higher than the gutter in either side.

"The grade for the roadway shall be set in accordance with a grade plan furnished by Mr. L. V. Niles. A covering of one-half inch or whatever may be necessary of blue gravel shall be spread over the roadway after it has been shaped and rolled, and the whole roadway shall be sprinkled and rolled with a steam road roller until the surface is hard and smooth.

"Sixth—The gutters in each side of the roadway shall be paved with cobble paving for such length and in such parts of the roadway as the town engineer shall consider necessary. The paved gutters are to be three feet in width.

"Seventh—The sidewalks shall be five feet wide and shall be bordered with loam spaces three feet wide the entire length of the street.

"The sidewalks shall be graded to slope toward the street, the incline from property line to gutter to be not less than three inches, and all sidewalks fronting lots on which there are houses shall be covered with one inch of stone dust.

"Eighth—In general, all work shall be done in a careful and thorough manner and to the satisfaction of the town engineer or superintendent of streets, as the board of selectmen may order.

"You may hire, or your agent may hire, such part of the equipment necessary for street work of this kind as the town uses by paying for it at such rates per day as the town has charged other parties doing similar work.

"The probable expense of doing the work in the manner above specified will be, in my opinion, about $800."

Mr. Niles ordered his engineer to file with the town a plan and profile of the street. The town Engineer recommends accepting the plan but not the profile for he believes one can be prepared which will fit present conditions better, and lower the cost of construction. The engineer also believes that the drainage right over land owned by Mr. Niles and referred to in his letter to him should be acquired before any construction work is done and that it should come to the town without cost; that the estimated cost of construction in 1909 was $800 and it was understood by that Board of Selectmen that this amount would be deposited with the town treasurer before any work was done. The town engineer recommends the betterment act be followed in such cases, this being practiced in the neighboring town of Arlington. It was voted to give a hearing to the petitioners at a date to be fixed later.

The town engineer reported on the petition of Edward L. Baldwin and others for oiling Lakeview and Ravenscroft roads that Lakeview road from Bacon street to and including the property of Wallace S. Flanders covers a distance of 800 feet, and an average width of 20.5 feet, making an area of 1822 sq. yds. and costing .012 per square yard, $21.86. Ravenscroft road from Lakeview road to Bacon street is 840 feet long by 19 feet wide, area 929 square yards and costing at .012 square yard, $11.15, and the clerk was instructed to so notify the petitioners.

A petition was received from T. Quigley for permission to store 50 lbs. dynamite subject to the laws of the State governing the same and the clerk was instructed to notify Mr. Quigley that if his building was put up in accordance with the laws of the State governing such matters, permission would be given by the board to store that quantity of dynamite.

A letter was received from Henry J. Lyons in regard to appointment to fire department and referred to the board of fire engineers.

A letter was received from Fred R. Charnock, City Engineer of Medford, transmitting an order to the Medford Board of Aldermen that the city engineer and the street commissioner of that city are appointed a committee for the purpose of perambulating the boundary lines lying between that city and Everett, Malden, Somerville, Stoneham and Winchester; and that said committee is instructed to arrange for such perambulation. Messrs. Pond and Jewett were appointed a committee in behalf of the town of Winchester to perambulate the boundary lines with the Medford officials.

The election of Wm. R. McIntosh as Chief of Police was confirmed to March 31, 1913.

Warrants were drawn for $1764.36 and $473.35.

Adjourned at 11.15 p. m.

Frank R. Miller
Clerk of the Board.

The Board will open their session to the public each meeting night at 8 and 8.30 to hear any citizens who may desire to present matters in person.

Blank forms for petitions or other applications have been prepared by the Selectmen, and may be had at the Town Clerk's office; also at the STAR office, or will be mailed by the Clerk of the Selectmen on request.

SELECTMEN'S NOTICE.

PETITION.

To the Honorable the Board of Selectmen of the Town of Winchester:

Respectfully represents your petitioner, the Bay State Street Railway Company, a corporation established and existing under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and operating in said town of Winchester, that it desires certain extensions of its locations and an alteration and relocation in said Winchester as hereinafter set forth, and that public convenience and necessity requires the same.

Wherefore your petitioner respectfully asks permission to extend and alter and relocate its tracks as follows:

In Forest street in said Winchester, to alter and relocate from Highland avenue to the Stoneham Line, and to extend westerly its turnout in said Forest street about one hundred feet; all substantially as shown on its Road Department's plan numbered L-3878, dated June 10th, 1912, filed herewith.

Also to extend turnouts as follows:

In Church street, near Cambridge street, about 100 feet westerly,

In Main street between Glenwood avenue and Sheridan circle, northerly about 200 feet,

In Main street between Church and Vine streets, northerly about 300 feet,

Between Prospect and Mt. Pleasant streets, northerly not to exceed 400 feet; all substantially as shown on plans to be filed for the hearing to be held hereon; together with such switches, curves and cross connections as may be necessary or convenient for the operation of the cars of said company.

And to erect, place, mantain and use such poles, wires and other appliances as are usual and necessary in the overhead trolley system of street car propulsion, and to propel cars by such system over the said tracks with electricity as the motive power, or to use such other motive power as the laws of this Commonwealth permit and the Board of Selectmen shall from time to time approve, and to make such underground and surface alterations in the ways through which these extensions, alterations and relocations are granted as many be necessary.

Bay State Street Railway Company.
By O. F. Sullivan, President.
Winchester, Mass., June 10, 1912.

On the above petition, notice is hereby given that Hearings will be held by the Selectmen of the Town of Winchester, in the Selectmen's Room, Town Hall, as follows:

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

The most notable event of the season is promised for B. F. Keith's Theatre next week, when the "Meistersingers" composed of Harvard, Schubert, and Weber Male Quartettes of Boston will begin their second annual summer engagement. This famed collection of voices is without question the largest and finest singing organization the vaudeville stage has ever known.

In a picturesque stage setting representing a bungalow on the shore of the Rangley Lakes in Maine, that modern Paradise of the out of doors sportsman, "Meistersingers" will be seen. This superb feature will be but one act in a great summer show. McDonald and Donovan have a most delightful delineation of the most delectable type of real Irishman, just as he is met in real life. Others are Mosher, Hayes and Mosher, a great troupe of bicycle comedians from the London Hippodrome. Barnes and Robinson in songs and platoisms; Lica McMillan and Company in a comedy sketch; the Ramsdell Trio of acrobatic funsters; and others yet to be announced

REGULATIONS AND RATES RELATIVE TO WATER.

Special rates to be made by the Water Board.

"Section 6. Upon the non-payment of the water rates for sixty days after they are payable, the Collector shall serve a summons upon the delinquent; and unless said rates are paid within ten days thereafter together with twenty cents for said summons, the Collector shall notify the Registrar, who shall shut off the water, and it shall not be turned on until the amount due, together with the twenty cents for the summons and one dollar for the shutting off and turning on is paid. The foregoing provisions shall apply if two or more parties take water from the same service pipes, although one or more of them may have paid the proportion due from him or them. Said summons may be served in any of the ways provided by law for the service of a summons for the non payment of a tax."

Section 13. The owners of premises shall be charged on the first day of January and July for the use of water for the succeeding six months when the rate is by fixture, and for the preceding six months when a meter is used, at the following rates per annum:

Dwelling Houses.
Dwelling houses occupied by one family, for 1st faucet	$4 00
For each additional faucet, to be used by same family	1 00
When a house is occupied by more than one family one faucet only being used by all, for each family	4 00
When a house is occupied by more than one family the highest rate will be charged for each family having the water carried into their part of the house.
For each bath tub	2 50
For each water closet	2 50
When bath tubs or water closets are used by more than one family, for each family,	2 50
When two faucets are used, one for hot and one for cold water, both emptying into one basin, but one charge will be made for both.
Hose.
For hose not over three-eighths of an inch orifice, used for washing windows, sprinkling streets, or watering gardens (and the use of the same may be limited to one hour per day,) not less than	$3 00
Fountains.
For not more than three hours in any one day, and for not more than four months in the year:—
1-16th of an inch jet	$3 00

OUR SONGSTERS.

The Effect of the Season on Song Birds and Game Birds.

After the hard winter of 1911 12 came a cold and backward spring. A severe winter with much snow and ice exposes birds to great hardships, and, if it is followed by a late, cold, stormy spring the eggs sometimes lack fertility and in many cases few young birds are raised. During the winter of 1911, large numbers of robbins and some bluebirds remained in the north, notwithstanding the severe weather of January and February. Cold waves and snow storms extended far to the south and must have destroyed many birds which winter in the northern, middle and southern states. These conditions did not affect those species which do not winter in the United States but mainly pass on to Mexico, the Antilles and South America.

The spring flight of robbins was late and they were not so numerous as usual and bluebirds were rather uncommon in comparision with last year; but when, in May, the migration of warblers came along, they appeared in goodly numbers. Some species, however, continued their flights later than usual. Most of the warblers fly to Central and South America and thus escape the rigors of winter in the Northern continent. The shore birds which go far south in winter also came back in numbers.

The scarcity of bluebirds has been reported as far as Michigan and south to Pennsylvania. Over a wide area quail did not winter well, and if bluebirds and robbins were destroyed in numbers by severe weather in the south, we may expect some reduction in the numbers of woodcock which winter in the same regions.

Many small birds are killed by the southern people. Last winter many persons took advantage of the necessities of the birds to kill great numbers of robbins, blackbirds and bluebirds. The City Council of Pittsboro, N. C., rescinded an ordinance forbidding shooting within the city limits, that the people might shoot the birds that were driven by stress of weather to that town to feed on berries, and about four thousand robins were killed there in a short time. Quantities of blackbirds and bobolinks have been killed in the Carolinas by negroes and these birds are sold in southern markets.

It is a remarkable coincidence, now that robbins and bluebirds are reduced in numbers, that farmers are complaining loudly of the inroads of cut worms of which robbins and bluebirds eat great quantities.

A scarcity of cuckoos in some localities in eastern Massachusetts is accompanied by a great increase in tent caterpillars on which cuckoos feed.

The ice which locked ponds and rivers in January and February and extended over the flats, bays and harbors and in some cases out to sea, cut off the food supply of the wild ducks which now winter along our coasts in large numbers, since they are protected by law at that season. Some of them were starved and many were facing death by starvation when the ice embargo was lifted by the coming of spring. As spring opened, reports came from many parts of Massachusetts as well as from the other New England States that unusually large numbers of wild fowl were returning to our shores and inland waters. Even in Boston Harbor where ferryboats ply to and fro, and on the Charles river where trains are constantly crossing the bridges, flocks of wild ducks appeared, exhibiting a confidence and tameness never before observed in these localities. The numbers of these birds seen later on inland waterways and ponds, as well as along the coast, were such as to give color to the general view that they were not seriously reduced in numbers by the winter, and that the increase and tameness of the birds was due largely to the cessation of winter and spring shooting. Many wild fowl are now reported to be breeding in New England marshes, and near the larger water courses—another enouraging result of the present laws.

CLINGING TO ROOSEVELT'S SKIRTS.

The arbitrary attitude of the Roosevelt men against Senator Crane has been a grave mistake. In adopting their unreasonable stand toward him they show their shallow inconsistence by doing just what they condemn the Taft bosses for doing—the punishing of all who do not agree with them. Senator Crane has never been an offensive partisan. The Roosevelt rank and file of this state are disgusted with the treatment of him by the delegates. He belongs on the national committee and ought to stay there. The fact is a lot of little petty men pulled themselves into notoriety by getting into Roosevelt's pockets. They had about as much to do with the colonel's securing delegates in this state as though they had all been down the barber. Who ever heard of Baxter and Hale and this Professor Somebody or other until they reflected the light of Roosevelt. Think of Murray Crane going off the national committee to give way to one of that crowd.—Melrose News.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The June meeting of the local union, the last before the summer vacation, was held last Friday at the home of Mrs. George H. Hamilton, the president. It was Flower Mission Day and Mrs. J. C. Adams, who is local superintendent of that work, presented its claims. This year the Boston mission is making an especial effort to get rooted slips and seedlings for window boxes and asks the Winchester Union to assist. Contributions may be sent to Mrs. Adams in time to send them June 28 and she hopes there may be a very generous response to this appeal. Possibly some who are going away for the summer may be glad to give some of the plants that might otherwise waste their sweetness on the "deserted" air of Winchester.

The plans for the entertainment of a group from the Willard Settlement has been reluctantly abandoned owing to the prevalence of the tree pests that make the available grounds undesirable. It was therefore voted to send the money it might cost to be used for an outing elsewhere, where the browntails are not. The children will doubtless be much disappointed as they have always enjoyed their Winchester outing, but it seemed unvoidable this year. The plans for the entertainment of the County convention in September were discussed and committees were appointed to carry out the plans, as there will be no later meetings.

Do not forget to send flowers, or plants to Mrs. J. C. Adams, 22 Dix street, on or before June 28, to enable her to start the Flower Mission work in good style befitting the reputation of Winchester.

Mrs. J. C. Adams, who has charge of the Flower Mission work for the Winchester Union, set the ball rolling for the season by sending in last week a goodly consignment to the headquarters at 15a Beacon street, Boston, where every Saturday during the summer the baskets of flowers and delicacies are prepared for distribution. This week Mrs. Adams hopes to have a lot of plants for window gardens and will be glad to receive them at her home 24 Dix street any time Friday.

In these days of conventions it is interesting to notice that the Prohibitionists are also having trouble with their committees and delegates and there has even been talk of a split. In the re-alignment of parties this year the Prohibition party will be unable to retain its old distinction as the Third Party, since there are so many other claimants. Perhaps there may be new strength for the party that stands for organized opposition to the liquor traffic.

Now that summer has really arrived, it is hoped that every member of the W. C. T. U. will make it a point to spread the temperance gospel in many ways, especially in the matter of food and drinks. The scientists accuse temperance people of intemperance in other ways and it behooves every mother's daughter of us to see that her example is in line with her precept in this matter. In this way too, each can prove to outsiders that W. C. T. U. stands for Wise Cook's Temperance Union, and that no wrong appetite is whetted by the poor cooking of a Christian home-maker.

Martin Connors of Glenwood avenue was taken by the police from a field at the rear of Oak Knoll last Sunday suffering from insanity. He had been employed at the Russell farm, his strange behaviour being noticed by fellow laborers. He was cared for by these men for a time, it being expected that his condition would become normal after a period of rest. As he grew worse the police were notified. On Monday he was committed to Danvers.

A child of about two and a half years wandered from its home on Fowle street, Woburn, Tuesday and was taken in at Mr. J. W. Russell's house near the Medford line. How the little tot was able to take this long walk without being detected is a marvel. The police were notified and it was taken to its home.

The game on Manchester Field tomorrow afternoon at 3.30 will be with Reading.

Miss Mildred Cummings and Miss Clara Macdonald gave a lawn party Saturday evening to about seventy-five of their friends. The lawn at the residence of Mr. Hollis L. Riddle on Highland avenue, the home of Miss Cummings, was elaborately decorated with Japanese lanterns, and with the tables for the collation, hammocks, etc., and the large number of young gentlemen and ladies was a very pretty picture. The evening was spent in witnessing a mock marriage in which nearly every one played an important part, and made lots of fun. Great quantities of confetti petals were used when the bride and groom entered a waiting automobile on Highland avenue. Music, dancing and refreshments amused the guests until twelve o'clock. It was a beautiful night and the party a great success.

Fireworks at Wilson's. Open on the 4th.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Cora Mabel Kenty and Dr. Frank Edgar Travis at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. Frederick W. Kenty, Woburn. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles H. Washburn of Dorchester. Dr. and Mrs. Travis will reside in South Framingham.
